Tim Matchen says that Peter Reinberg has disposed of nearly all his field grown carnation plants with the exception of a few Rose Pink Enchantress. If the surplus is as good as the plants are that were shipped out from the store this week it is deserving of immediate sale.

D. E. Freres is now ably assisted at his wholesale store by Nicholas Potchen who graduated a short time ago from George Muno's flower college. Mr. Freres is now showing a fine grade of all kinds of seasonable stock, particularly choice Richmond roses grown by Adam Zender.

Chas. Wakeling, foreman at the Kemble Floral Co.'s greenhouses, Oskaloosa, Ia., and family visited friends in this city and Des Plaines this week. Mr. Wakeling was formerly in the employ of Hoerber Bros., who speak well of his ability as a grower of Killarney roses.

Chas. L. Washburn reports an unusually busy week at Bassett & Washburn's store and says that on Monday, October 14 his firm received a continual stream of telegraph orders which commenced early in the morning and kept up until the store was closed at night.

The Bohannon Floral Co. has made some changes in its store and the magnificent establishment now presents a most inviting appearance. The proprietor says that the retail trade is improving and that his firm has just received its new 35 h. p. Hudson delivery car.

The George Wittbold Co. received an importation of palms and boxwood trees at its Buckingham Place establishment this week and is awaiting the arrival of still another shipment of palms for the decorating department.

John Scheiden who is using Winandy's new bench and heating system in his last carnation range has given it a thorough test and says that it is all and more than the manufacturers claim it to be.

E. Eisner, formerly in the florist business on South Halsted street and also in the employ of Chas. Samuelson is now with the Bohannon Floral Co.

Ed. Topel, with Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, has returned from Iron Ridge, Wis., where he attended his sister's wedding.

The Cook County Florists' Association will hold a meeting at the Union Restaurant, West Washington street, October 17.

E. C. Amling has moved into his new residence in Oak Park adjoining his old home which he sold recently.

George Reinberg has returned from an enjoyable visit with friends and relatives in Iowa.

Earl Green, recently with Chas. W. McKellar, has accepted a position with Erne & Klingel.

Wietor Bros. have just started to cut chrysanthemums and a fine grade of Monrovia and October Frost are now seen at the store. N. J. Wietor got a shipment of fish from his old pal H. E. Griffin one day this week that attracted a great deal of attention on the market for many of the florists had never seen a sturgeon, especially the kind that are caught at Lake Pippin, Minn. The four fish weighed 90 pounds and arrived in fine shape for "Griff" packed them a little better than he did those that the "Pikers' Club" sent down to the market from White Sand Lake, Wis., last summer.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. cut its first Virginia Poehlmann chrysanthemums this week and some large showy blooms are now on sale. John Poehlmann, in speaking of the present market conditions, says that he has never known a time at this season of the year when stock was as scarce as it is now. Otto W. Frese has been helping out in the cut flower department since John Enders has been ill and was seen the other day giving dictation while he was filling shipping orders. Some hustler!

George Mount and son Percy of Canterbury, England, are visiting here this week. Mr. Mount is one of the foremost growers and exhibitors of roses in his country, having won the great international prize for the finest and most expensive exhibit at the royal international exhibition at London last May. The visitors were the guests of C. L. Washburn and wife at Hinsdale on October 14.

John Kruchten's store was baseball headquarters this week and some of his many friends good naturedly cut out a cartoon of Ed. Walsh, the crack White Sox pitcher, and placed it on a standard with a wreath around it and placed it on a conspicuous place over the counter. Never mind, Sox fans, the Cub fellows have not forgotten the awful drubbing their team got last season.

E. F. Winterson, Jr., celebrated his twenty-first birthday with a party at his parents' magnificent new home at 422 S. Hamlin avenue. Twenty young people were present and it is needless to say that everyone had a delightful time, for the Winterson family is well known for its hospitality.

H. C. Wendland is back from a successful hunting trip in the big woods of New Brunswick. He shot a large bull moose and brought back a magnificent head to be mounted for Colonel Roosevelt, whom he expects to be the next president of the United States.

J. F. Kidwell says that trade is very good at the Chicago Flower Growers' Association's store and that his firm is now receiving some fine roses from the Wellworth Farm Greenhouses and the Riverbank Greenhouses.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are receiving regular shipments of New York violets and a large assortment of choice chrysanthemums. W. E. Lynch says that so far he has been able to fill his firm's regular customer's orders in fine shape without much trouble.

The Boynton Furnace Co. is well pleased with this season's business and Mr. Mann, western sales manager, says that a great many of Boynton's greenhouse boilers are now being used in this territory.

Miss Olga Tonner is showing a good grade of chrysanthemums in many varieties at the store formerly managed by her sister.

Chas. Balliff left this week for Indianapolis, Ind., to enter the employ of the Hill-Heller Co., retail florists.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg is away for a few days on business this week.

Clifford Pruner has severed his connections with E. H. Hunt.

E. E. Pieser has been sick in bed several days this week.

J. A. Budlong is having a good call for a fancy grade of Clementine Tousey chrysanthemums of which he is now cutting quite heavily. The stock in the Budlong houses is in grand shape from the carnations to the American Beauty roses and a large crop of Early Snow and Robert Halliday chrysanthemums are about ready to cut.

Hunt Bros. of Park Ridge have had a good supply of Golden Glow chrysanthemums the past few weeks that have been bringing good prices. Mr. Hunt says "our Golden Glow chrysanthemums are fine but you ought to see the magnificent stock that Sol. Garland of Des Plaines is cutting."

The Des Plaines Floral Co.'s carnations are looking fine and the proprietors can expect a great deal from their crops this fall. More miscellaneous stock is being grown here than formerly, including violets, chrysanthemums and greens.

Bernard J. Schmierer, of 6566 Sheridan road, says he is the sole owner of the business of the North Shore Floral Co. and does not represent downtown interests as has been reported.

The J. B. Deamud Co. is still supplying their customers with Mrs. Francis King and Augusta gladioli and the proprietors state that they will have a good supply for several days to come.

A meeting of the committee investigating the sale of flowers at elevated stations will be held at the Union restaurant October 17 at 2 p. m.

Zech & Mann are having their share of both the local and out-of-town trade and manage to hold it by supplying their customers with fresh stock at all times.

Cook County Florists' Association.

The banquet and musical given by the Cook County Florists' Association at the Tavern, West Washington street, on October 10 was a pleasant affair and attended by about 70 people. The following took part in the musical program which was well rendered: Miss Edith Scott, Mrs. H. J. Liestner, Miss Krutian, W. A. Loomis, A. Ward, Raymond Miller and P. J. Miller. A. C. Kohlbrand, president of the association, says that the dinner was such a success that a dance will be given in the near future.

Chicago Florists' Club.

The regular meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club was held at the Union Restaurant October 10, President Foley in the chair. The great attraction on this occasion was the fine paper by E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., on "New Roses to Date," which is reproduced elsewhere in this issue. Letters were received from the New York, Pittsburg, Detroit and Tri-City florists' clubs thanking the members of the club for their courtesies during the recent convention of the Society of American Florists. Chairman French of the good of the club committee announced that the next regular meeting, November 7, would be ladies' night. Chairman Farley of the bowling club stated that some progress had been made in organizing a tournament but desired better attendance of members on bowling nights, which are every Tuesday night, at Bensinger's alleys, 29 West Randolph street. L. Hrudka, 2619 Herndon street, was elected to membership.

RAINS HELP GROWERS.

The rains have certainly been good to the growers of outdoor flowers, as thousands of dahlias and cosmos in good quality arrived Saturday. Chrysanthemums too are arriving in larger quantities, all colors, but large flowers are in the minority. Violets, both single and double, can now be had in the local market, and the quality, both in size and color, is good for this time of the year. Lily of the valley has been more plentiful. Orchids are moving nicely. Pansies have arrived. Swainsonia cleans up daily. Carna-

STOCK VERY SCARCE.

Stock is very scarce, especially carnations. Roses are cleaning out readily at good prices. Chrysanthemums are coming in a little more plentiful, and with the bright weather prevailing there ought to be more stock coming in. Dahlias and gladioli are also gradually going out of the market. Lily of the valley and lilies are very scarce. There are plenty of greens to fill all orders.

NOTES.

Gust. Baerman is hard at work putting up his range of greenhouses. The benches are complete and the posts up ready for the roof. He expects to have them completed before the cold weather sets in. He intends growing carnations and bulb stock for the local market.

Manke Bros.' houses are all planted and the stock looking very fine, but as yet they are not cutting any as they pinched back in order to get a better growth on their plants.

Gust. Rusch & Co. are operating a new auto truck for delivery and are well pleased with the results. This firm reports business very good but stock very scarce.

The Edlefsen & Leidiger Co. are well pleased with their new auto and they have practically done away with two of their delivery wagons.

The Schroeder Floral Co. says that their stock is in the best of condition and they are cutting some nice carnations.

Fred Guttermuth is beginning to cut mums daily and he expects to cut quite heavily in the near future.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. is selling some fine yellow mums which are going at very good prices.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. is cutting a few roses from its Brown Deer plant which is right on crop.

Fred Schmeling is sending some very good carnations to the local market.

W. C. Zimmermann says that he is busy all of the time.

The Currie Bros. Co. reports business very good.

G. R.

CINCINNATI, O.—John Kilgour has been granted a permit to erect a greenhouse on Read street at a cost of $2,700.

WEATHER AND TRADE BOTH FINE.

Ideal fall weather with flowers that are adaptable to any kind of work is what we are getting now. Chrysanthemums in yellow, white, pink and some of the small varieties, mostly white, are coming in. Cosmos, dahlias and calendulas are very acceptable for all work. Carnations are getting better daily but with the coming of chrysanthemums their call will be much lessened. Killarney, Maryland, Taft and Carnot roses are unusually good and plentiful.

NOTES.

The Fashion Show which was held the first part of the month was one of the events of the season. The latest in everything was to be seen. S. A. Anderson had a booth which for attractiveness in wedding decorations, bride's bouquets, maid's bunches, corsages and table decorations were innovations. It drew much favorable comment.

Weddings have been numerous the past week and gave the florists plenty of work. For October the trade as a whole has been good. Several conventions have called forth many decorations.

BUSINESS LAGS.

Trade the past week seems to have lagged a little. There has been an enormous quantity of stock shipped in. The warm weather, in which the temperature has been considerably above the normal, (last Saturday being the warmest twelfth of October in the history of the weather bureau), has brought the dahlias out in full flower everywhere, and all growers are shipping to the limit. Cosmos is also coming by the wagon load. The chrysanthemums are also coming fast, all the early varieties being almost at their height. They have sold very well, considering the quantity on the market. Polly Rose, Early Snow, Pacific Supreme, Monrovia, Cremo and Chrysolora are leaders. Roses are also plentiful and of much better grade. American Beauties are more than sufficient for all demands and the quality is all that can be asked for the season. The Taft rose looks likely to become a standard sort provided it flowers well through the winter. Its light pink shade is a decided addition to the list. The Killarneys are fast getting into winter form and the newer sorts among the shades of yellow are meeting with favor with the public. Carnations are ahead of the demand, having to meet so much competition. Gardenias are plentiful and valley about cleans up. Violets are much improved. The first local doubles were offered last week. EVERYTHING IN OVERSUPPLY.

Conditions in the wholesale market could not be much worse than they are at the present time. There is an oversupply of everything, and the quality of all the stock coming in is very good. But with it all the situation is no different than it has been for years at the same time. There have always been weeks where the shipments have been very heavy and have accumulated. When the supply of chrysanthemums is so great it is a natural course of events that prices on roses and carnations must be lower. But each year chrysanthemums of the better varieties seem to come in earlier and the prices have a downward tendency. The situation this week appears worse because for days previous the demand had been so much better, and prices obtained were much more satisfactory. Roses are plentiful, and while a few of the choicest blooms sell at good figures, the majority of the shipments are disposed of at very low prices. This applies to all varieties. American Beauties are doing well if not better than any others. Carnations are very plentiful, and while the quality of the flowers is very good, they are as a general rule very short stemmed. Lilies are now in oversupply and are moving slowly. Lily of the valley is plentiful and of exceptionally good quality. Orchids are over stocked and also of exceptionally good quality. The quantity is so great that the flower departments of the different large stores are offering them at prices usually quoted at wholesale. There is still a deluge of hydrangeas, cosmos, dahlias and other outdoor-grown flowers. Gardenias are of very fine quality, but even the best of these do not meet with ready sale. Violets have improved very much, and the call for these is more regular. Heavier shipments of asparagus plumosus are arriving from the south and meet with good demand.

NOTES.

The death of Henry Hession, the well-known carnation grower of Flatbush, N. Y., has cast a gloom over the entire wholesale market. Mr. Hession was one of the old-time florists, being connected with the business all his life, and while he was only fifty-three years old when he died, his knowledge and experience covered a period of thirty-five years. The flowers sent in from his establishment were second to none in quality. He died suddenly as the result of an operation. The funeral was held October 12.

Charles H. Totty, in addition to his arduous duties as chairman of the National Flower Show committee, is also chairman of the local republican committee of Morris county, N. J., and when not making addresses himself each night has to provide a program of other speakers.

The New York & New Jersey Plant Growers' Association recently made one of their inspection trips among the nearby New Jersey plant growers. It is reported that all had an enjoyable time and found all of the establishments in splendid shape for the coming busy season.

The case of Henry Weston of Hempstead, L. I., against the Nassau and Suffolk Lighting Co. was decided in favor of Mr. Weston, who was awarded a verdict to the amount of $1,000. Mr. Weston sued for damages sustained through a leak in one of the gas mains.

The officers and directors of the Growers Cut Flower Co. held an important meeting Saturday, October 12. They were all satisfied with the business being done, and acted upon several suggestions to still further increase their large wholesale business.

William Zimmerman, son of Franz Zimmerman, who died of blood poisoning Wednesday, October 9, was a well-known salesman in the New York Cut Flower Exchange, where for years he sold the flowers from his father's extensive place at College Point, L. I.

Philip F. Kessler, John Meisem, John Donaldson and John Birnie visited the extensive carnation range of Schneider & Noe at Congers, N. Y., Thursday and were very favorably impressed with the general good condition of this establishment.

Herbert A. Joslin, who with his wife conducted a retail flower store for years on upper Broadway, died at Allston, Mass., October 3 and was buried Sunday, October 6, with Masonic services.

Anton Schultheis, the well-known grower, is making elaborate preparations for an extensive exhibition of ericas and blooming plants at the coming great International Flower Show.

Harry A. Bunyard, secretary of the National Sweet Pea Society, has been in Boston during the past week with W. Atlee Burpee on business of the society.

New York Florists' Club.

A very successful meeting was held Monday night, October 14, one hundred and fifty being present. Resolutions were read on the death of William R. Smith and Mrs. Alexander Burns. Chairman Hendrickson reported great headway for the publicity committee. Posters will be sent retailers for Halloween night to advertise flowers for that occasion. Five new members were elected, six were proposed and two resignations received.

Harry Bunyard's lecture on the International Show in London was a great success. Mr. Bunyard used seventy slides to illustrate his talk. There were exhibits of chrysanthemums, dahlias, roses and carnations. Five new roses were shown. Mrs. George Shawyer, exhibited by Chas. H. Totty, scored eighty-nine points. The display of outdoor chrysanthemums by the same exhibitor was highly commended. The carnation Salmon Beauty by Traendly & Schenck received a preliminary certificate. Dahlias by John Lewis Childs, Floral Park, and an Ipomea by W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., received honorable mention. W. A. Manda also won honorable mention for double dahlias, as did R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md.; the Bergenfield Nurseries, Bergenfield, N. J., and J. Murray Bassett, Hammonton, N. J. The carnation William Eccles, exhibited by Scott Bros., received a preliminary certificate. Dahlias exhibited by Alexander Hogg and cosmos by A. T. Boddington, New York, received honorable mention.

Westchester and Fairfield Hort. Society.

The monthly meeting of the society was held in Greenwich Friday, October 11, with a large attendance and with President Stuart in the chair. Two applications for membership were received and four members elected. The next meeting will be held November 15, the week following the fall show. There was a fine display of flowers on the exhibition table. P. W. Popp won first prize for the best collection of dahlias, with Harry Wilde a good second with a well-selected collection. James Stuart was awarded a certificate of culture for a splendid vase of hybrid Neriums; vote of thanks to R. Barton for dahlias; H. Wilde for apples and A. Petersen for grapes. Hybrid Cattleya by the Geo. E. Baldwin Co. was highly commended. The schedule for our fall show was distributed to the members. Any one wishing tickets for the show can secure them from — Sealey, Port Chester, N. Y. Schedule and entry blanks may be had of Oscar E. Addor, Larchmont, N. Y.

OSCAR E. ADDOR, Sec'y.

Southampton Horticultural Society.

The regular meeting of the society was held in the Odd Fellows hall October 3, President U. G. Ager in the chair. It was voted to offer $25 in gold as an award at the National Flower Show to be held in New York next April, the class to be decided on by the management. It was voted unanimously to have this society incorporated, the necessary steps to be taken at the next meeting. The essay committee was instructed to ask Mr. Fullerton of Wading River to lecture before this society at some date in the near future. The regular meetings of the society for the winter are the first and third Thursdays of each month.

TRADE ACTIVE.

October has opened with prospects exceptionally bright. There has been an improvement in the market owing to a scarcity of stock. Retailers have been forced to pick up stock wherever and whenever possible. There has been a big increase in demand for carnations. The local cuts are much heavier, but not large enough to meet the demand. Stems are of fair length and the quality is good. More orders have been received and larger ones filled than for the corresponding time last year. Roses are being cut in large quantities and of good quality. The demand and supply are about equal. Chrysanthemums now are the favorite. Although a little slow in coming, they will soon be had in great quantities.

NOTES.

The Cottage Rose Gardens have a fine lot of roses which show excellent care. They are busy propagating geraniums, having about 10,000 in sand.

A look around the establishment of the Riverside Floral Co., shows the stock in good growing condition. This firm reports business brisk, the receipts being larger than at any time since starting in business.

Mrs. E. M. Krauss, formerly with the Riverside Floral Co., has been engaged to take charge of the floral department of the Charles R. Holt Co., 610 W. Broad street.

Miss Margaret Evans, 1179 E. Main street, is erecting a modern dwelling house. She reports heavy funeral work, and many weddings on for future dates.

The force at the Livingston Seed Co.'s greenhouses is very busy potting azaleas, planting spring bulbs and digging roses from the field.

Jacob Reichert, formerly with the Franklin Park Floral Co., has been employed as an assistant by Sherman Stephens.

Since the cold snap all hands have been busy gathering miscellaneous stock and filling the sand with cuttings.

The Munk Floral Co. is cutting a large number of exceptionally fine roses which meet with a ready demand.

A visit to the John R. Hellenthal establishment found everyone busy. They report many weddings.

Edward Berno of the Berno Floral Co., Mansfield, O., called on the local trade last week.

ANNUAL DAHLIA EXHIBITION.

The annual dahlia exhibition of this society was held October 9 at Pembroke Hall, Glen Cove, L. I., and was a great success in every way. Not only were dahlias shown but many other seasonable flowers and vegetables as well. A large table was taken up with school children's exhibits, in which visitors took a great interest. In the class for the Dreer cup, 50 varieties of dahlias, Mrs. E. M. Townsend, Oyster Bay (James Duthie, gardener), was first; H. W. Bucknall (G. Barton, gardener), second. Other successful exhibitors in the dahlia classes were James Kirby, H. Boettcher and J. O'Brian. The Townsend cup for collection of outdoor roses was won by Miss E. Laden (J. Adler, gardener); J. T. Pratt (J. W. Everett, gardener), second. Thorburn's cup for 12 kinds of vegetables was keenly contested for, there being eight entries. Mrs. H. L. Pratt (H. Gant, gardener), was first; A. G. Hodenpyl (F. Patroccia, gardener), second. Hodenpyl prize, 6 kinds of vegetables, Mrs. H. L. Pratt, first; J. H. Ortle, second. In the fruit classes the winners were James Holloway, J. T. Pratt, Mrs. H. L. Pratt and W. V. Hester. The special awards were: J. Kirby, for seedling dahlia, C. C.; Mrs. C. D. Smithers, vase dahlias, C. C.; A. G. Hodenpyl, vase of dahlias, C. C.; James Holloway, vase dahlias, honorable mention. In the evening the regular monthly meeting of the society was held with a good attendance. The programme for the chrysanthemum show was gone over and everyone looks for the most successful exhibition this society ever held. Robert Jones and H. Goodband, Glen Cove, were elected to active membership. JAMES MACDONALD, Sec'y.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, and painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established, and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia Be Sure to Look Us Up

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your convenience, both going and coming. Then you will see our Palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place), and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to our Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition

Next annual convention, June, 1913.

W. ATLEE BURPEE, Philadelphia, Pa., says the outlook for the coming winter and spring is very good indeed.

VISITED CHICAGO: Henry Nungesser, of the Nungesser-Dickinson Co., New York; J. B. Agnew, Visalia, Calif.

CHICAGO.—Prices on the Board of Trade October 16 for grass seed were noted as follows: Timothy, $3.50 to $4.50 per 100 pounds.—At Vaughan's Seed Store they say fall bulb trade continues good although the bulb dealer is about ready for cooler and better weather for planting.

ALLING WOODRUFF, of S. D. Woodruff & Sons, will be married at Woodmont, Conn., October 17, to Miss Dorothy Blackhall. Mr. Woodruff is located at the New York warehouse of S. D. Woodruff & Sons. Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff sail for Europe on the Majestic for a six-week honeymoon trip.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Fall trade, according to Wood, Stubbs & Co., has been good. They have had nice trade on seed wheat, rye, timothy and other grass seed, though trade on orchard grass has been slow. They anticipate, however, good demand for this in the spring but do not think the crop will be unusually large, but most of it will be used.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Chris. Reuter says that the demand for such short items as beets, carrots, parsley and other biennials has been remarkable, considering the high prices prevailing. Judging from the present conditions, he thinks that the demand for alfalfa, millet, clover, grass seeds and all vegetable seeds will be greater than ever in the south.

NEW YORK.—J. M. Thorburn & Co. report that their fall business this year has been most satisfactory. The demand for bulbs seems to be more marked than usual, so much so that, early in the season as it is, they are completely sold out of many of the leading articles. They have had about the usual demand for seeds that they always have at this season.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—A. Currie & Co. state the seed business here is normal with no great activity in any line. Fall bulbs are in good supply and the quality is generally very good. Sales in a retail way are quite equal to former years and only a killing frost is needed to make outdoor planting general. Florists are planting about the usual quantity of the forcing sorts.

DENVER, COLO.—The Barteldes Seed Co. claims that owing to the warm and open weather the retail trade in bulbs has not been very brisk until the past week, but they have done an excellent business with the florists, their bulb stock moving very rapidly, in fact more than heretofore, and they are entirely sold out of a great many varieties. Along the line of bulbs, they say that the outlook is very promising for fall and winter trade.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—James Vick's Sons are now quite at home in the well appointed new store, though some work is still done at the old stand. Work on the new catalogue is making satisfactory progress.

European Seed Crops.

The reports from the seed growing sections of France and Germany continue unfavorable. The rain has done a great deal of damage. The seed already is practically in such condition that it cannot be threshed. In a general way beets are a failure in France and Germany. Carrots are fairly good. In lettuce the late varieties are a failure while the early kinds are fair. Onions fair; leek still doubtful; cabbage very poor. This applies both to German and French sections.

Marigolds, scabiosa zinnias and asters will be very poor in yield. This is particularly the case in late asters. Snapdragons, mignonette and ten-week stocks promise fair yields. Pansies on the whole have yielded poorly, although many flowers were produced.

It will be advisable for dealers to cover early on most items, there being no stock carried over to speak of and there will be hardly enough of the new crop to go around.

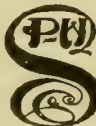

Iowa Seedsmen.

Seed legislation, truck gardening and the development of farms were the principal topics discussed at the annual convention of the Iowa Seed Dealers' association, which was held at the Chamberlain hotel, Des Moines, last week. The officers elected at the conclusion of the session were: M. L. Webster, Independence, president; Henry Field, Shenandoah, vice-president; B. H. Adams, Decora, secretary; John P. Hamilton, Cedar Rapids, treasurer. During the meeting addresses were made by Professors H. D. Hughes, L. C. Burnett and A. T. Erwin of the Iowa State college, Henry Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer; W. P. Barney, state dairy commissioner, and Geo. H. Dicks, of Cooper, Taber & Co., London, England.

Free Seeds Confiscated.

Richmond, Va., October 7.—Postmaster S. M. Mealy of Latana, Goochland County, was indicted by the grand jury in the United States District court today. He is charged with confiscating packages of free seed sent through the mails by Senator Thos. S. Martin and Representative John Lamb to their constituents. It was charged by the government that the postmaster, who also conducts a store, believed the free distribution would injure his own seed business.

Chicago, October 14.—Mushrooms, 50 cents to 75 cents per pound; lettuce, 25 cents small cases; cucumbers, $1.50 to $1.75 per case of two and one-half dozen.

Potato Yield Lowers Price.

A report of the Bureau of Statistics of the United States Agricultural Department shows that the season's big yield of potatoes has resulted in lower prices to the consumer. The average price on October 1, according to the bureau, was 51 cents and one mill a bushel, a drop from 65 cents on September 1. The price is much lower than a year ago, when a bushel sold for 88 cents and 3 mills. A year before that, October 1, 1910, the price was 67 cents and 8 mills and on October 1, 1909, it was 4 cents and 3 mills.

A Novelty Which Is to Create a Remarkable Sensation
Is the New Variety of

TOMATO DAVY'S MILLIONAIRE

This new variety will take its place amongst the earliest sorts. The fruits are enormous, very fleshy, nearly free of seeds, almost smooth, of a deep scarlet color, and borne in clusters of three or four.

The giant size, earliness and the quality of the fruit will render this variety one of the very best introductions of the year.

GILROY, CALIF.—Max Crow has established a nursery near this place.

PLAINS, MONT.—The Rocky Mountain Nurseries and Orchard development Co. has been organized here. A. P. Marsh is manager.

THE United States Department of Agriculture has issued notice of public hearings in the proposed quarantine of certain parts of New England to prevent the spread of the gypsy moth and the brown tail moth. The hearings will be held at Washington, D. C., October 30, 1912, beginning at 10 a. m.

COLLEGE STATION, TEX.—The executive committee of the State Horticultural Society is making an effort to gain new members and to encourage the work, the following nurseries have offered prizes to those securing a certain number of additions: Griffing Brothers Co., Port Arthur, Tex.; Stark Bros., Louisiana, Mo.; Texas Nursery Co., Sherman, Tex., the Austin Nursery, Austin, Tex.; W. A. Stockwell, Alvin, Tex. Others may be added later.

Forestry in British India.

The development of forest conservation in southern India during the past 25 years has been marvelous. From 10,000 acres the area of reserved lands under control of the Forest Department had increased to 20,030 square miles in 1910-11, of which 18,769 square miles constituted actual reserved forests. During the same period revenues from the forests have grown from $389,200 to $1,223,366 and expenditures on conservation and development from $291,900 to $1,043,884. In 1910-11 the net profits from the working of the forests in the entire presidency amounted to $179,482. The department devotes practically its total receipts to the improvement of the forests.

Among the products of the Madras forests are such commercial woods as teak, rosewood, ebony, mahogany, sandalwood, cedar, pine, bamboo, erool, muthu, jambee, and orupoo. The timber removed from the forests in 1910-11 amounted to 3,041,426 cubic feet and of fuel extracted 22,157,061 cubic feet. There were also extracted 39,216,767 bamboos. In addition, the forests yielded minor produce, including grass, to the value of $431,238.—Daily Consular and Trade Reports.

Creation of Forests.

In 1898 the directors of the Utrecht Life Insurance Co., having decided to invest a part of their funds in forest cultivation and land improvement, obtained a tract of heath of about 1,700 acres, for reclamation of which the Netherlands Heath Co. proposed a scheme which the insurance company adopted. Reclamation was successfully prosecuted on that tract, to which the insurance company has added other waste tracts from time to time till it now holds more than 5,000 acres. A large part has been brought to a cultivable state or covered with forest and fruit trees, the latter now yielding pears, apples, peaches, plums, etc. Strawberries, raspberries, currants, etc., are also extensively grown on some of these former waste lands. All varieties of vegetables and other farm products are also produced. Generally speaking, however, it has been found more desirable to reclaim the land for grass. This requires less work and expense, and grass land is always in demand for hay and for dairy purposes. Therefore land which can be reclaimed for grass is kept in that state.—Daily Consular and Trade Reports.

Apple Breeding.

Bulletin No. 350 of the New York Experiment Station contains much interesting data on the breeding of apples. "There have been few efforts," it says, "to improve apples, nearly all varieties having come from chance seedlings. Under the knowledge and inspiration of recent discoveries in plant breeding we ought to breed this fruit more advantageously than in the past. Apples are improved only by the introduction of new varieties. These originate chiefly from cross-fertilized seeds. Possibly a few have arisen from self-fertilized seed and it is known that a few sorts have come from sports or bud-mutations. It is very doubtful if apples can be improved by bud selection and the so-called 'pedigreed' stock is probably worth no more than trees grown under general nursery practices."

New Varieties of Hardy Phlox.

- Asia (Tall.) One of the most valuable recent introductions, a delicate shade of mauve, with crimson carmine eye. $2.00 per dozen; $15.00 per 100.
- Braga (Dwarf.) Mauve-rose, more or less suffused with salmon; large white eye, a distinct and pleasing color combination. $1.50 per dozen; $10.00 per 100.
- Europa (Tall.) A white variety, with very decided crimson-carmine eye; the individual flowers as well as the trusses are very large, entirely distinct, a valuable acquisition.
- Elizabeth Campbell (Dwarf.) Very bright salmon-pink, with lighter shadings and dark crimson eye, an entirely new and much wanted shade in Phlox.
- Frau Anton Buchner (Dwarf.) The finest white variety yet introduced, having a large truss and individual flower of dwarf habit.
- Goliath (Tall.) A giant in growth, in rich soil over 5 feet high, the flowers of good size in bold massive panicles of a rich crimson-carmine, with deeper eye.
- Hervor (Dwarf.) This is the finest variety of its color; a bright but soft rose-pink, with a large white eye.
- Rynstrom (Tall.) An improved form of the popular variety Pantheon, fine for massing; of a Paul Neyron rose-color.
- Rosenberg (Medium.) Bright reddish violet, with blood-red eye, large truss and individual flowers as large as a silver dollar.
- Widar (Medium.) A splendid improvement on Edmond Rostand; in color a light reddish-violet, with very large white center which intensifies and illuminates the color.

Price, (except where noted), $1.25 per dozen;
$8 00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

General Collection of Best Standard Varieties.

- Albion, medium. One of our own introductions; producing very large panicles of pure white flowers with a faint aniline-red eye.
- Aglæ Adanson, medium. Immense flowers, snow-white, with red-eye.
- Antonin Mercie, medium. Light ground color, upper half of petal deeply suffused bluish-lilac; large, white halo.
- Bacchante, tall. Tyrian rose with crimson-carmine eye.
- Beranger, dwarf. Ground color white, delicately suffused with rosy pink, distinct amaranth-red eye.
- Bridesmaid, tall. White, with large crimson-carmine center.
- Colibri, tall. White, with crimson-carmine center; very late.
- Consul H. Trost, medium. Pure red, with bright French-purple eye.
- Champs Elyses, medium. A very bright rosy magenta of an effective shade.
- Coquelicot, dwarf. A fine pure scarlet, with crimson-red eye. $6.00 per 100.
- Caran D'Ache, medium. Geranium-red, with old rose shadings and white eye; very effective.
- Diadem, dwarf. A fine dwarf, pure white.
- De Miribel, medium. White, suffused with bright rosy-scarlet, red eye.
- Danton, medium. Scarlet, pure red eye.
- Edmond Rostand, medium. Reddish-violet, shading brighter towards the center with an exceptionally large, white center.
- Eugene Danzanvillier, tall. Lilac, shading white towards the edges; large white center.
- Eclairer, medium. Brilliant rosy-magenta, with large lighter halo; an excellent variety.
- Fruhlicht, dwarf. Bright salmon-pink, with white shadings.
- George A. Strohlein, medium. Bright scarlet, with crimson-red eye; does not bleach. $7.00 per 100.
- General Giovaninelli, dwarf. Bright Tyrian rose, with light shadings at the base of each petal, a pure red eye, very effective.
- Hermine, dwarf. The dwarfiest variety in our collection, never exceeding ten inches in height; pure white flowers of good size; early; unequalled for bordering; a perfect little gem.
- Helena Vacaresco, dwarf. Very large flowering dwarf, white.
- H. O. Wijers, tall. Glistening white, with bright crimson-carmine eye.
- Henry Murger, tall. Beautiful variety; white, crimson-carmine center.
- Henry Royer, medium. Tyrian rose, with lighter shadings.
- Jeanne D'Arc, tall. A good standard late white.
- Kucken, tall. Delicate pale rose-mauve, with claret-red eye.
- La Vague, medium. Pure mauve, with aniline-red eye.
- Le Prophete, dwarf. Bright violet-rose, large light halo and bright rose eye, fine.
- Louise Abbema, dwarf. Very large, dwarf pure white, fine form.
- Mme. Paul Dutrie, tall. A delicate lilac rose, reminding one of some of the beautiful soft pink orchids. The flowers are very large and borne in panicles of immense size.
- Mozart, tall. Ground color white, suffused salmon; aniline-red eye.
- Mrs. Jenkins, tall. The best tall early white for massing.
- Nana Coerulea, dwarf. Very free flowering light reddish-violet.
- Obergartner Wittig, medium. Bright magenta, with crimson-carmine eye; large flower and truss, one of the best.
- Professor Virchow, medium. Bright carmine, overlaid with orange-scarlet.
- Pantheon, tall. Bright carmine-rose.
- Prosper Henri, dwarf. Pure white, with large decided eye of rosy-magenta.
- Pacha, dwarf. Deep rose-pink, suffused with solferino-red and carmine-purple eye.
- R. P. Struthers, tall. Rosy-carmine, with claret-red eye, fine.
- Sarabande, medium. Reddish-violet, with lighter shadings.
- Sunshine, dwarf. Large, aniline-red, with crimson-red eye and light halo.
- Selma, tall. Large flower, pale rose-mauve, with claret-red eye.
- Siebold, tall. Bright vermilion-red overlaid with orange-scarlet; crimson-red eye. $6.00 per 100.
- Vesuvius, medium. One of our new seedlings; pure red, with bright purple eye, a dazzling color.
- F. G. Von Lasburg, medium. The purest white in cultivation, individual flowers larger than any other white.

Price of any of the above (except where otherwise noted) $4.00 per 100, $30.00 per 1000.

More Half Iron Frame Facts.

Take that side post for instance—it's neither cast iron nor rolled steel—it's old fashioned wrought iron, the kind that will stand in the ground for years.

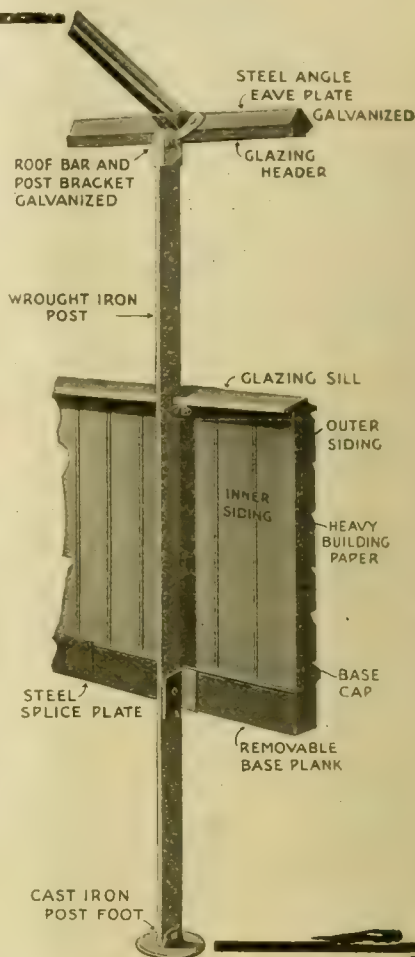

Either a pipe post or one of regular rolled steel will quickly rust out at the ground line.

Of course, our Wrought Iron Post costs more—but it's worth many times the difference.

Then, there's the Patented Angle Eave which we are licensed to use—every grower and greenhouse building concern will tell you there is nothing to equal it for strength, lightness, endurance and freedom from ice.

The roof bar clasp gives a strong joint, and a dry joint, and that is about all you can expect from a perfect eave joint.

This then is the story of the Half Iron Frame, but it's only half the story of the Iron Frame. The other half is told and shown in the New Commercial Catalog. Send for one.

Hammond's Thrip Juice No. 2

For the Destruction of Sucking Insects and Caterpillars, Slugs, Aphides, Red Spider and Mealy Bug.

In 1883, twenty-nine years ago, we made this preparation for the use of a grape grower, Mr. Floyd Quick, of Fishkill, N. Y.

The Thrip is one of the most bothersome of insect pests, because the moment the plant is touched, off goes the Thrip.

Thrip Juice No. 2 is diluted for general use thirty to forty times with water. The late Isaac Wood, Florist, of Fishkill, N. Y., used it for Mealy Bug and Red Spider. This article was purchased by a druggist in Jacksonville, Florida, the late Dr. James A. Farley, who was Secretary of the Board of Trade. He found it effective against the Orange Scale. Upon trial in Florida we changed the formula, making another grade, which is Thrip Juice No. 1, and is arsenicated. This was tried out in Lake County, Florida, twenty-five years ago, and has been in use there yearly ever since. This Thrip Juice No. 1, by the growers, is used with a very great dilution. It is exported to the West Indies.

No. 2 Thrip Juice has been in use for twenty-nine years. The past two years there has been a steadily increasing demand, as it is becoming better known. If any Florist wishes to test Thrip Juice No. 2, and will pay the expressage, we will send him a sample for trial, because we know there is "No Magic in Killing Bugs," and it is the general average of success that proves the practical lasting value of any article.

Double-Glass Double Profits

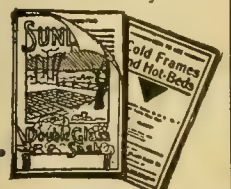

The old single layer hot-bed sash are far better than none; but they must be covered with mats, boards or shutters every evening and uncovered every morning. They are wasteful.

The new SUNLIGHT DOUBLE GLASS SASH, with two layers of glass enclosing an air space, are COMPLETE IN THEMSELVES. They eliminate all extra covers; they wipe out half the labor cost; they admit all the light by day to store warmth in the bed and then save the warmth at night.

They make plants earlier and stronger. They double final profits.

Every practical gardener or florist will see the value of this.

And it is good business for you to get our free catalog for full information. Write your address plainly and send it today; the hot-bed season is not far off. Prof. Massey's booklet on Hot-beds and Cold Frames sent for 4c in stamps.

WHAT THE USERS SAY

Better than All Others

I have fired boilers for the last forty years. The Kroeschell is the best I have ever used. I have two cast iron boilers, also a locomotive boiler coupled with yours, but did not need to use the cast iron boilers this winter. Your No. 7 boiler is rated at 15,000 sq. ft. of glass and carries 25,000 sq. ft. of glass until the outside temperature goes down to 10° of frost. We have no trouble to keep temperatures in our houses with easy firing since we installed your boiler. From the boiler to the farthest end of our violet houses and return is 800 feet, and circulates very quickly.

Wm. Nicholson of So. Framingham, Mass., Recommends Our Iron Frame Houses After Testing Them Fourteen Years.

"In reply to your favor, will say that I cannot speak too highly of the two Iron Frame houses that you built for me, both in quality of material furnished, and also the good work in their erection.

The first one has been up fourteen years.

We have not put one square foot in a bench, and they all seem good for five or six years more.

The material used was No. 1 cypress.

The second house has been up nine years, and the benches are just as good as new.

The two houses together have taken less than two boxes of glass for repairs in fourteen years.

We think so well of the L. & B. firm and their style of greenhouses that my son, W. R. Nicholson, who has succeeded me in business, has just placed an order for an Iron Frame house 200x52 feet, to be erected this spring."

Very truly yours,

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Outdoor Roses.

The hybrid perpetual roses should now be made ready for the winter. Many growers lay the canes down and cover them with earth. While this may be necessary in extremely cold sections yet in the majority of places in the country it will not be required. Under no circumstances cut the canes back, but leave all the wood that has been made on the plant, for it will winter kill to some extent, and it is but six or eight inches at the base that is wanted for next year's growth. This six or eight inches should be well protected from the freezing weather. If the bushes are planted in rows, the earth should be spaded out between them and thrown around the bushes, making ridges about 10 inches above the level of the soil. This will make a trench between the rows about 18 inches deep, which should be filled with manure. The manure should be barnyard manure with more or less straw in it, and will make a fine covering for the ground. Where the bushes are planted individually the soil should be banked around them in a similar manner and the trench around the bush filled with manure, allowing some of the manure to come up around the bush. In the spring the manure will have almost all disappeared and the soil can be spaded back into the trenches and the remaining manure spaded in. This will carry the rose bushes through almost any winter and give them a good manuring for the next season's growth.

Violets.

The temperatures of both night and day have now become settled enough to keep the violet houses in the best growing conditions, and the plants should have made a strong healthy growth, and be producing blooms of good quality. The first sign of disease will sometimes make its appearance as early as the first of November, yet it ordinarily does not show up until later in the year during the dark, dull weather. All leaves which show disease should be picked off at once, and if there appear to be any great amount making its appearance, run the plant a little dry, and under no circumstances allow moisture to remain on the foliage over night. Water only on bright days and then early in the morning. Give all the air possible during the day, and if the disease continues raise the temperature a little at night and do not open the houses quite as much or as early in the morning. A little warmer temperature will induce a new root action, and if this takes place the plant will begin to make a new growth and the disease will disappear. The disease only makes any great headway while the plants are not growing, for when "the elegant spring," as one grower always used to express it, comes, the plants take on new vigor and the disease is no more. As soon as the plants begin to grow the temperature can be dropped to normal for the culture of these plants, which should be about 40° at night. Be careful in removing the leaves not to disturb the plants any more than necessary. Do not pull them off carelessly but pinch them off with the thumb and forefinger.

Ferns.

A good stock of small ferns is a necessity at this season of the year to the florist having a retail trade, for the fern dishes will now be coming in to be refilled and this has become quite a feature of the business. While this branch of the trade is in many cases very unsatisfactory, yet it is greatly the fault of the dealer that it is so, and with a little care and method can be made very remunerative and satisfactory to himself and his customers. In the first place a book should be kept giving the date when such customer's dish was filled, and above all things do not endeavor to buoy the customer up with any false hopes as to how long the dish will keep in good condition. In many cases the dish is placed on the center of the table 15 to 20 feet away from any light, the care left to domestics, and it may never be watered from the time it reaches the house until it is returned to be filled, and oftentimes the customers will say it was only a week or two since it was filled, when by reference to the book it will be found to have been two months. When the dish is returned make a note as to what varieties seem to have succeeded the best and use these in refilling. It is wonderful to note the effect on the different varieties in different houses. What will live and thrive in one house will often be the first to die in another. Have a few dishes put up ready for sale. It is often possible to make a sale when the customer sees them all ready, though he might not wait to have one made up or would never think of it unless his attention was drawn to it. Beside the ferns, have a good stock of Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri in small pots; these will often grow where ferns will not live at all. And also a fine lot of small palms, cocos and kentias, and small dracaenas for the centers of the fern dishes.

Azaleas.

The imported plants of azaleas will soon be received, and preparations should be made to pot and care for them upon their arrival. The plants have been out of the soil now for four or more weeks, and although all the attention possible is given in the packing and shipping, yet the plants suffer considerably and should be handled at once upon their receipt. Have a stock of azalea pots on hand of the different sizes to meet all requirements. The full-sized pot is no longer used to grow azaleas, the plant making a much better appearance in the azalea or half-size pot. Any kind of soil will do, but if the plant is to grow on after blooming a fibrous peat is to be preferred. When the plants are unpacked they should be immediately carried to the potting shed. Some will probably have too large a ball for pots that will look best with the size plant. The roots can be cut off with a sharp hatchet to fit the pot. Have a tub of water in which the ball of earth can be stood until thoroughly soaked. Many growers neglect this, deeming it unnecessary, but in our experience if not done the water runs down the outside of the pot in the new soil and it takes many waterings and considerable time to soak up the old ball, and the plants are meantime suffering for moisture. Pot very firmly, ramming the soil down hard and after potting the soil should be thoroughly watered until all the soil in the pot has become saturated. The inclination is to place the early varieties immediately into the heat, but six weeks in a house at 65° or 70° will bring them into bloom for Christmas and if the plants are received by November 1 ten days in a cool house will enable them to recover from the effects of the long shipment and become re-established and they will force much more readily and successfully. The dropping off of buds is often attributed to this placing them in the very hot houses before they have become settled in the new soil. Frequent syringings will be required after being placed in the warm house. The later varieties should be placed in cool houses or pits until the time to bring them in to the warmer temperature.

SPOKANE, WASH.—W. E. Peters of Wellesley avenue will build a greenhouse at a cost of $2,000.

Halloween Suggestions.

Make a large pannel and cover with yellow goldenrod. Arrange around it a frame of autumn foliage. Use this in the background of the window as a center piece. On either side drape a curtain made of autumn foliage. In front of the curtain on either side place a tall golden tinted vase filled with yellow chrysanthemums. In front of these vases arrange ferns in groups.

In the center of the window on a mat of autumn leaves place four large pumpkins. Span across them thin pieces of board covered with moss on which place another pumpkin which has been bored out at the top. In this top pumpkin arrange a bunch of the large red, shaggy chrysanthemums. In the lower pumpkins make openings and place in them lights. Surround the lower pumpkins with a graceful garland of autumn foliage.

In either corner of the front part of the window arrange a mound of corn ears of the yellow and red varieties, on top of which place a maidenhair fern. Extend garlands of autumn foliage across the ceiling, allowing a number of strands to fall below each garland. In using autumn foliage it is well to use a good deal of the greener variety with the brilliant hues. Arrange palms where necessary. In the foreground as a sale tempter place souvenirs of the occasion, viz.: the small fancy pumpkins used as favors can be filled with tiny red berry sprigs—or a tiny fern can be placed in them. Even lily of the valley with a little sprig of maidenhair will look pretty in them. Then, the large artificial apple can be utilized, filling them with a small bunch of violets and their foliage, making a Colonial bouquet of it to give it height.

There are a great many different designs in these favor novelties that can be used to advantage. A pretty window display can be arranged with tall wheat grasses as a background in front of which a hedge of autumn foliage is well placed. Group in the center a huge sheaf of wheat surrounded with a hedge of potted chrysanthemums of the different hues and varieties. Around the pots arrange some low ferns. Fill a number of small baskets with berries and boxwood. These can fill up the vacant places. A few small ferneries can be grouped in the front part of the window completing the general effect.

Winter Care of French Tree Roses.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:—

Will you kindly advise me how to take care of French tree roses during the winter—what protection they need, etc.? These roses were brought from France a year ago and are used as ornamental shrubbery in a garden. Michigan. W. F.

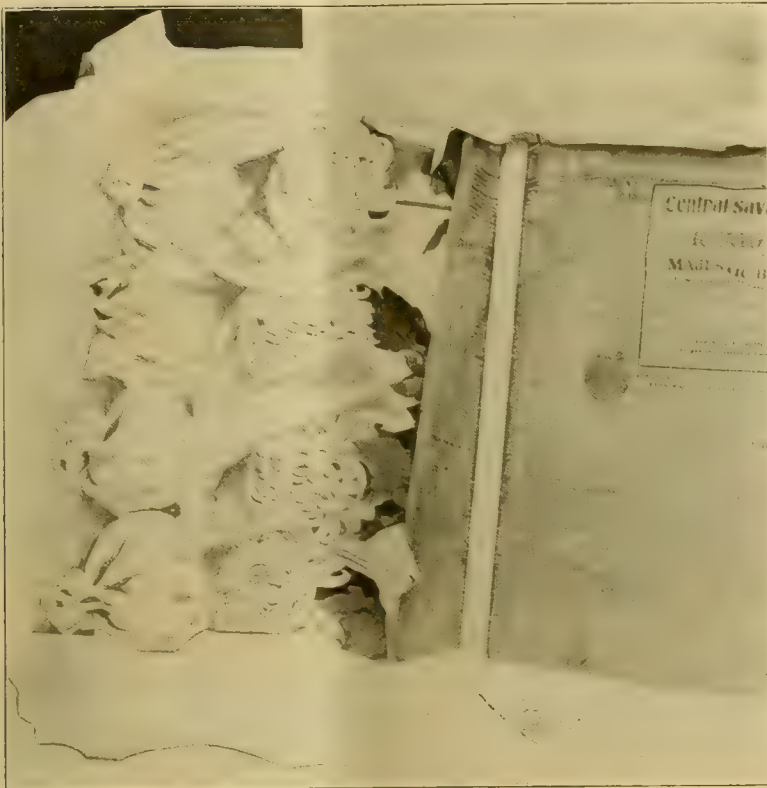

In the colder states tree roses must be protected in some way in winter, preferably by lifting them and storing in a good cold cellar where potatoes can be kept dormant. This is the easiest method, and if the trees are lifted so as to save all the roots and carefully replanted in the spring, they will go ahead with renewed vigor, as this gives opportunity to enrich the soil each year.

Packing Chrysanthemums.
The Bloom Wrapped.

Protection is sometimes afforded by half lifting the trees and laying them down, covering all over with soil. Never use straw or similar material as the mice will ruin all. The better way, however, is to lift and store where the buds will keep dormant, and set out as soon as the weather permits in the spring. All this means trouble, but the possessor will find that tree roses always mean trouble.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS PROPERLY PACKED.

Blooms in First Tier Are Rolled and Tissue Paper Is Placed Underneath Those in the Next Tier, with the Ends Brought Up Between the Blooms.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Preparing for Exhibitions.

The time is now near at hand when intending exhibitors should have all material necessary for packing their blooms in readiness. When the exhibit has to be transported by express, suitable shipping cases should be made and ready before hand. The size usually preferred is 1x2x6 feet. These cases should be lined with newspapers to exclude the air and in cold weather enough paper should be used to exclude frost. If no one accompanies them to attend to the staging each class should be separated with a sheet of paper and plainly marked, with the class number so that those in charge will know each entry at a glance. The varietal names should be plainly written and attached.

Excelsior wrapped with paper into rolls three to four inches in diameter and as long as the box is wide is necessary to support the blooms from the bottom of the box. Sheets of tissue paper large enough to cover the blooms should be cut to the center for wrapping them. Two persons are required to pack advantageously, one placing the blooms in the box and attending to cleating and the other tying on labels and holding the blooms while being wrapped. Beginning at one end of the box, place a roll of excelsior 6 or 8 inches from the end. The helper takes a bloom, holding the head down while the packer slides the cut tissue around the stem and draws the edges downward, giving the corners a few turns with the thumb and finger to keep it in position. It is then placed in the box, allowing the neck or stem of the flower to rest on the roll of excelsior, the object being to prevent the outer petals being bruised. The largest and those having the longest stems should be the first placed in the box and so continue until the first row across the box is complete.

One or more wet newspapers that have been previously soaked are laid over the foliage. Over this a wooden cleat is placed, pressing the stem down firmly and nailing securely from the outside of the box into the end of the cleat, so they can not shift. Successive rows are continued until about one third of the box is covered, then begin at the other end and proceed in the same manner. Blooms of varieties that are developing too fast, and are likely to be gone before the shows, should be cut before they are fully open and put in water in a cool place. By changing the water every few days and cutting off a little from the stem they may be kept in good condition for two or three weeks. All blooms intended for this purpose should be cut and allowed to stand in water at least twelve hours before packing.

ELMER D. SMITH.

Climatic Influences.

The effect of climate upon the time of flowering as well as upon the quality of the blooms is not as fully understood and appreciated by the average grower as it should be. We all know that after the plants have become well established the buds appear, and the time of this change is influenced by the weather conditions. Cool nights mean early development, while excessive heat retards. We are in receipt of an interesting letter from Mr. Ellings under date of September 26, who for a time was at Lenox, Mass., two years with us in the middle west, and now at Menlo Park near San Francisco. He says in part: "Sunshine every day and nice cool nights, just mum weather all the time. The buds set earlier and the flowers develop quicker than in the east. Monrovia has all been cut for more than a week. Crocus is ready now, the best I have ever seen. With us Crocus does not finish until October 25 or a month later."

Mme. R. O'Berthur and Maud Jeffries are among the best commercial kinds with them, while here they are of little use. The majority of the plants of California are grown outside and are covered with cheese cloth to protect them from the dew. The northern half of California has more humidity than the southern portion and should be a splendid climate for the production of high-class blooms. Localities nearest the coast produce the earliest, and those near the mountains the later ones.

Every one who purchased Chrysolora last spring seems to be more than pleased with this variety. We have not heard a dissenting voice. It is certainly the best yellow for October use. Some say it is the best commercial variety ever sent out.

ELMER D. SMITH.

Exhibition Blooms and Seedlings.

The place of greatest interest to the chrysanthemum enthusiast at the present time is among his exhibition blooms or where he can watch his seedlings on novelties unfolding their petals. It is there he will find many surprises and more disappointments, though he will be able to enjoy the results of a close application to his season's work. Every grower should have a note book to record the characteristics of each variety, which will be of great assistance to refer to when mapping out his plans for another season. Not only should this apply to the grower of exhibition blooms, but also to the commercial grower. A record of the time of blooming, keeping qualities and the receipts of sales of each variety is the only way to find out whether the variety is paying for the space it occupies.

The large exhibition varieties are developing fast which means that to get perfect, well formed blooms they must be encouraged in every way. Extreme dampness of whatever form must be avoided. The soil should be held to a moderate condition, neither wet nor dry. This will allow the roots to continue to keep healthy and work steadily. When the condition of the soil is favorable you can plainly see the new white hairy roots appearing through the dirt, and this is a good indication that the blooms are expanding properly and the petalage growing. Next to keeping the soil right is the importance of maintaining an even, cool temperature to add texture and substance to the petalage.

The grower who has only a few exhibition varieties at his command and yet wishes to do his part at the exhibitions is confronted with the problem of keeping some of his blooms in good condition until the time of the show. Some of the largest and best of the imported exhibition varieties are at their highest state of perfection the latter part of October; these will have to be cut and held in water to have them for the shows early in November. In a dry cellar with a temperature of 50 degrees and only enough light to be able to discern the blooms faintly at a distance of twenty feet they will keep for two weeks or more. The blooms should be allowed to remain on the plants until nearly matured, then they should be cut and placed in jars of fresh water deep enough to hold the stems erect. Every other day change the water, cutting off about half an inch of the stem at the same time.

Do not under any consideration allow either a cold draught or warm air to play upon the blooms or the keeping process will be a failure. Also avoid overcrowding of the blooms both in the jars and in the cellar. Every bloom should stand free and not touch the one standing next to it. These large exhibition blooms require large shipping boxes to carry them to the shows. These should be arranged for in plenty of time. The size of the box which we have found best suited for this purpose is five feet long, 22 inches wide and 12 inches deep, made of light strong material that will stand a lot of knocking around.

The large specimen plants need close attention at the present time.

They are fast budding up and need to be disbudded to obtain good sized blooms with some character to them. These large plants will carry a large number of blooms, but if they are overcrowded the plant has a ragged appearance and lacks finish. However, the disbudding should not be carried to the extreme. The buds are formed at the ends of the stems the same as the terminal buds on single stem grown stock. That is, a main center bud with a cluster of smaller ones around it. Remove the small buds, allowing the center one to remain to form the flower. By following this up over the plant an even lot of good blooms will be the result. If the plants have been mulched with manure they should now be given a top dressing of fresh soil for the root to work in and improve the looks of the plants. Avoid any cold draughts blowing through the plants to guard against mildew attacking the foliage.

St. Paul Flower Show.

NOVEMBER 8-12, 1912.

The Minnesota State Florists' Association has arranged for its second fall show to be held in the St. Paul Auditorium November 8 to 12. The newly elected officers of the state association are: Hugo Will, Minneapolis, president; O. J. Olson, St. Paul, vice president; E. P. Holm, St. Paul, treasurer; S. D. Dysinger, St. Paul, secretary. Theo. Wirth and C. N. Ruedlinger of Minneapolis, L. R. Cady and L. L. May of St. Paul comprise the executive committee.

The show is to be held under the auspices of the state association, but is financed and managed by the St. Paul florists under the following organization: L. L. May, president; O. J. Olson, vice president; C. F. Vogt, treasurer; S. D. Dysinger, secretary. O. R. Eckhardt is chairman of the finance committee, Max Kaiser of the show committee, O. J. Olson of the publicity committee and E. W. Reid of the decorative committee. August S. Swanson, well and favorably known to the trade throughout the country, has been appointed general superintendent of the show.

An ample guarantee fund, pledged by the St. Paul florists, has been subscribed and a large portion of it already paid in with the understanding that all premiums awarded to outside exhibitors shall be paid first. The show committee has enlisted the services of a number of ladies of both St. Paul and Minneapolis who will act as patronesses of the show and attend the opening evening in colonial costume. The debutantes of the season will sell flowers at a finely decorated booth in the center of the hall. The Guild of Catholic Women—an organization with 1,200 members—will serve light refreshments in another well arranged and commodious booth.

On the second day the school children will be admitted during certain hours at a reduced rate. Professor Finney, superintendent of the city's school gardens, will exhibit model gardens in the hall, and will distribute prizes awarded the past season for the best kept gardens to the winners, who will be the guests of the show for the occasion. On Sunday the Symphony Orchestra will give a popular concert in the hall—which has a seating ca-capacity of about 10,000. It is expected that this will prove a very profitable drawing card. On Monday and Tuesday evenings J. K. M. L. Farquhar of Boston, Mass., president-elect of the Society of American Florists, will give lectures in the hall illustrated with lantern slides of views taken on his world-wide trips in Europe, Japan and many other parts of the globe. On other evenings the Scandinavian and German singing societies with choruses of several hundred voices will entertain the crowds. An orchestra of twenty pieces will discourse music every afternoon and evening and prominent vocal soloists will also lend their assistance.

The show has been strongly endorsed by the Association of Commerce in a letter mailed to each of its 1,200 members, and a delegation of its members will solicit the sale of season tickets among the merchants of the city. The local newspapers have had a daily news item regarding the show for several weeks and the public interest is aroused. Other and various forms of publicity have been or will be announced by posters in store windows, street car signs, newspaper advertisements, etc., etc., so that if wide publicity means anything the show should be well attended.

A large and attractive premium list has been arranged with prizes aggregating $6,000 or more in value. A class for amateurs has been provided for as well as a special class for photographs of lawns and gardens. A large number of cash prizes and trophies are offered by members of the trade and its allied industries throughout the country. The St. Paul Dispatch, the St. Paul Pioneer Press and the St. Paul Daily News all offer valuable silver cups, while a number of cups and other trophies will be offered by the St. Paul merchants. The Chrysanthemum Society of America offers an affiliation cup. The Minnesota Rose Society has sent out a letter to all of its members urging attendance at the show and competition in the photographic contest.

The following well-known members of the trade will serve as judges: W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park, Ill.; J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.; W. L. Rock, Kansas City, Mo.; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb. Exhibits are promised from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and Minnesota. It is expected there will be keen competition in all classes, and with weather as favorable as other conditions the show should be a record breaker.

Fall Planting.

Paper read by Thomas Beattie before the Detroit Florists' Club, October 21.

The time allowed for the preparation of this paper on "Fall Planting" was almost as limited as these remarks will necessarily be, but I hope to touch on a few essential points that will provoke discussion which will be to our mutual benefit.

Fall planting of shrubs and hardy perennials might be divided into two classes: early and late, with the preference strongly in favor of the former. While the majority of the stock planted late in the season may pull through the winter and start into growth in spring, it is a decided advantage to have the roots established before severe weather sets in. More especially is this the case with herbaceous stock, many varieties of which are sure to winter poorly if left until the end of the season. September and early October are the ideal months for almost all of this class.

The grounds surrounding Scripps' Library, Trumbull and Grand River Aves., are an example of very early planting, where most of the stock, both shrubs and perennials, was put in place during August and September with great success. The perennials grew luxuriantly and flowered profusely during the first season, and the shrubs made much more than an average growth. This was very noticeable in the case of the lilacs, which usually stand still during the first year following transplanting. Where such early planting as this is practiced, it is necessary to strip all of the stock and thoroughly water it.

The Hudson Motor Car Co.'s grounds, in front of the factory and office buildings might be cited as an example of late planting where the work was completed in November of last year, and the loss, during the winter which was an unusually severe one, was less than a dozen pieces out of some 1,700. No protection was given in this case, but only the hardiest of deciduous shrubs were used, and the beds were unusually well prepared, the soil being of a sandy nature.

Right here a word might be said in regard to the preparation of the ground, which is really the foundation of all planting. One of the commonest mistakes of the average home owner is the placing of shrubs in the complicated mixture of clay, bricks, laths, shingles, etc., which the excavator and builder have so considerably left him for this purpose. A little foresight in this matter, where filling is necessary, would prompt the home builder to scrape his good soil into piles that could later be graded on top of whatever under-filling is required, and thus escape the aggravation that many experience, through the knowledge that some 4 or 5 feet beneath the surface of clay is a depth of good soil that would suit all planting purposes could it only claim its rightful position on top. Where such conditions as these exist, it will pay, in every instance, to remove the clay and re-fill with good sandy soil and manure, to a depth of 18 inches. While most shrubs will grow in hard clay when once established, the working of the ground around them is an incentive to profanity, and the loss of the time spent in trying to pulverize the soil annually will more than offset the amount spent in proper preparation.

In relation to spring planting the fall has many advantages, except in the case of a few of the less hardy subjects, such as the altheas, for instance, which are not entirely hardy in Detroit. Fall planted stock will always show a much better growth during the first year than that put in during the spring season, due to its being in position to start with the first warm days in April without suffering any check. The gardener, too, has always more time to give attention to details at this season, when his energies are not directed in many different channels, as is the case early in the year.

In the spring the ground is not in condition to work when planting ought to be begun, but by the time the stock has been dug in the nursery, reposed in a box car from one to two weeks, become heated and made a growth of several inches, much valuable growing time has been lost and a severe shock administered to the plants. Where it is absolutely necessary to delay planting until spring, the stock should be procured in fall and heeled in over winter, ready to be placed in its permanent position just as soon as the condition of the ground will permit.

Third National Flower Show.

C. H. Totty, chairman of the National Flower Show committee, announces the following special premiums in addition to the number already published:

The Nassau County (N. Y.) Horticultural Society will donate a silver cup, value $50, to be used as the committee thinks best, but for competition by private gardeners only.

The Westchester (N. Y.) and Fairfield (Conn.) Horticultural Society will donate a silver cup, value $50 and will leave the disposition of same to the committee.

The Morris County (N. J.) Gardeners & Florists' Society offers a prize of $50 in cash, to be awarded as the committee sees fit.

Henshaw & Fenrich, New York, offer a silver cup, value $25, class to be announced by the committee.

John Waterer & Sons, Bagshot, England, offer $100 for a group of rhododendrons covering 100 feet.

The American Institute of the City of New York offers the following medals to be awarded as the committee sees fit: the special medal of silver; the bronze medal of superiority; the bronze medal of excellence; the bronze medal of merit.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., 121 Seventh street, Pittsburg, Pa., offers a $25 silver cup, to be awarded for twenty-five blooms of the best pink forcing rose, not yet disseminated, either of domestic or foreign origin.

The Yokohama Nursery Co., New York, offers a prize of $20 to be used in the discretion of the committee.

John I. Pratt offers a prize of $25 in the class for gardenias.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society offers one gold medal and three of its silver medals for award in classes to be announced later.

The New Jersey Floricultural Society offers a silver cup, value $25, for competition in any class the committee desires.

The Lenox Horticultural society offers a silver cup, value $25, for a vase of twenty-five cut roses, any one variety except American Beauty, the competition to be open to private gardeners only.

DEPARTMENT OF PLANT REGISTRATION.

Public notice is hereby given that the Waban Rose Conservatories, 3A Somerset Street, Boston, Mass., offers for registration the following rose. Any person objecting to the registration of this rose or to the use of the proposed name, is requested to communicate with the undersigned at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date.

RAISER'S DESCRIPTION.

Mrs. Charles Russell, seedling raised in 1907 by Alexander Montgomery, Jr., at the Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass. Parents, unnamed seedling and General McArthur. Growth free and vigorous, foliage heavy and rather coarse, after the style of General McArthur. Flower large and full as American Beauty. Color a clear rose pink.

October 10, 1912.

REGISTRATION OF CANNAS.

Public notice is hereby given that the Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Chester County, Pa., offers for registration the following new cannas. Any person objecting to the registration of these plants or to the use of the proposed names is requested to communicate with the undersigned at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date.

RAISER'S DESCRIPTIONS.

Blanche Wintzer, height 3½ feet; one step nearer the perfect white canna; whiter and larger than Mont Blanc, which for ten years has been the best. Antoine Wintzer looks upon "Blanche Wintzer" as one of his greatest triumphs, so exquisitely white and pure are its glistening petals. A rather dwarf grower, on a green foliage, fine for bordering beds, for individual specimens, and for indoor bloom. Florists' Exchange, of September 28, 1912, says, "This is the finest white canna, undoubtedly the world has ever seen."

Loveliness, height 3 feet; the color of this exquisite canna is most difficult to describe, but we think that "bright, ruby carmine" will convey to our customers the entrancing loveliness of this most charming variety. The blooms are formed on large heads which are borne erect, and the individual flowers, with firm, well made petals, are of the new "gladioflora" type introduced by us. The foliage is delicate green, which harmonizes perfectly with the beautiful flowers. The plant is very vigorous and will produce numerous stalks in a season.

Jennie Walls Fahnlne, height 4½ feet. This glorious combination of pink and primrose arouses enthusiasm always on account of its dainty coloring and unique markings. The lips of the petals are flashing carmine pink, which shades toward a throat of soft primrose, delicately dappled pink. Each petal is faintly edged with gold. The effect is dainty, artistic and fascinating.

Panama, height 3 feet. The color of this charming canna is unusual, being an attractive rich orange red with a well defined wavy edge of bright golden yellow. The flowers are very large, the petals being almost round and as broad as they are long, and having great durability. The gigantic blooms command attention and admiration.

Lorraine, (improved) height 5 feet. Delicate rose pink, distinctly bordered with cream. Lower petal is cream splashed with pink. A marked advance over our old Lorraine of a dozen years back.

Maid of Orleans, height 4½ feet. Ground color is rich cream, over which is shaded and mottled in beautiful fashion an attractive pink. The flowers are very large, and the foliage is probably the richest of any of the green leaved kinds, being a soft olive green with the edges tastefully crimped and distinctly marked with bronze.

Sam Trelease (improved), height 3 feet. The general habit of this canna cannot be surpassed, as the blooms are formed on strong straight stems which shoot up well above the perfectly formed soft green foliage. The flower is most exquisite in color, an intense poppy red with a thread of brilliant yellow around the edge of each petal. Tips of petals are solid poppy red, which gradually shade to yellow, mottled and striped with red on the throat and tongue. An exquisitely beautiful variety.

Wonderful, the greatest novelty yet produced in cannas. The flower is of good size and is produced well above the soft green foliage on tall straight stems, well furnished with blooms. The flowers are an exceptionally attractive shade of rich gamboge yellow with a faint tinge of carmine on the throat and tongue. The great value of this "wonderful" canna lies in the fact that the usual four petals of the ordinary canna have been just doubled to eight well formed petals, which overlap each other most gracefully.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

A bowling tournament has been arranged for in connection with the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners, which will be held in Newark, N. J., on November 19. The tournament will be rolled on the Tuxedo Academy alleys, Halsey Street, Newark, on Monday evening, November 18, and Tuesday forenoon, November 19.

Teams of three men, members of the local societies, or clubs they represent, and members in good standing of the N. A. G., will roll on Monday, the tournament beginning promptly at 8 o'clock in the evening. A silver challenge cup, to be known as the "Aphine" cup will be contested for in the team tournament. Entries will close for teams on Saturday, November 16 and should be sent to M. C. Ebel, secretary, National Association of Gardeners, Madison, N. J., before that time.

The individual tournament will begin at nine o'clock sharp on Tuesday morning. To be eligible in this tournament bowlers must be members of good standing in the N. A. G. The president's cup, offered by President Thomas W. Logan, will go to the bowler making the greatest number of strikes during the tournament. There will be many other prizes offered, both for teams and individuals. For any further particulars address the secretary of the association.

JOSEPH MANDA,

Chairman Committee on Bowling.

OBITUARY.

Gustavus Schoenfield.

Gustavus Schoenfield of Westfield, N. Y., a native of Germany, died in a Buffalo hospital, October 10. He was 65 years old and came to this country in 1855. He engaged in floriculture and grape growing and became known as an authority on grape culture. Mr. Schoenfield is survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters. He was a member of the board of education and prominent in his home town.

Leopold Paul Walz.

The death of Leopold Paul Walz, at one time prominent in the Chicago retail trade but for the last nine years proprietor of a cut flower store in Seattle, Wash., occurred at 3 a. m., October 16, at his home in West Seattle. Heart failure was the cause of his demise and the end came suddenly, deeply shocking his wide circle of friends throughout the country. Mr. Walz left Chicago for Seattle when the flower trade in the latter place was in its infancy and saw it grow by leaps and bounds, more than holding its own with the other industries of the booming northwestern metropolis. He took a prominent part in the trade of his adopted city and according to another florist of the same place he "did perhaps more for the welfare of the trade than any other man in the extreme Northwest." At the time of his death Mr. Walz owned a thriving establishment on Second avenue and did both a wholesale and retail business.

WHEELING, W. VA.—Albert Lasch has made extensive improvements to his greenhouses.

PADUCAH, KY.—C. L. Brunson has sold his flower business to John Van Hart of Philadelphia.

GREENVILLE, O.—James Frost had a greenhouse damaged by a fire that destroyed his barn and machinery October 3.

ROCKVILLE, MD.—Mrs. Elizabeth S. Iddings, for 44 years secretary of the Horticultural Society of Sandy Spring, was recently presented with a handsome silver vase, the gift of her fellow members.

Rose Sunburst.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

I notice in your issue of October 12, page 690, that "Mac" in the Boston notes remarks that I would have to come to Boston and give a few pointers on growing the Rose Sunburst, from which I assume that the Sunbursts he saw in the florist's window were poor. This is a pity and is no fault of the rose. Sunburst in any market where it can be obtained in quantity has already established itself as the premier yellow. In the same edition, page 704, in the New York notes, I note that top grade Sunburst has touched 20 cents in the market. Magnificent flowers are coming into the New York market every day from a dozen different growers, showing that it is not any particular man's culture or conditions that make this such a fine rose. Some growers have found that in their section and soil it does not come well grafted. Personally, it is just as good with us either grafted or own root. I predict it will be a long time before we have a yellow rose that will take the place of Sunburst.

C. H. Totty.

Chrysanthemum Society of America.

Special prizes to be awarded by this society at its exhibition at the American Institute, New York, November 6-8, 1912, are as follows:

Class D—Elmer D. Smith & Co.'s prize for 12 blooms of Manhattan, first, $15; second, $10. Open to private gardeners only.

Class K—Harry E. Converse's prize, silver cup for 6 blooms Harry E. Converse. Open to private gardeners only.

The complete schedule of prizes may be had by applying to W. A. Eagleson, secretary board of managers, American Institute, 19 West Forty-fourth street, New York, to whom all entries are to be made.

EXAMINING COMMITTEES.

President Chas. H. Totty announces the committees to examine new chrysanthemums for the ensuing year as follows:

Boston—Wm. Nicholson (chairman), James Wheeler, Alex. Montgomery. Ship flowers to Boston Flower Exchange, C., Park street, care of chairman.

New York—Eugene Dailedouze (chairman), Wm. H. Duckham, A. Herrington. Ship flowers to New York Cut Flower Co., 55 Twenty-second street, care of chairman.

Philadelphia—A. B. Cartledge (chairman), John Westcott, S. S. Pennock. Ship flowers to A. B. Cartledge, 1514 Chestnut street.

Cincinnati—R. Witterstaetter (chairman), James Allen, Henry Schwartz. Ship flowers to chairman, Jabez Elliott Flower Market, care janitor.

Chicago—J. B. Deamud (chairman), D. A. Robertson, Peter Schilt. Ship flowers to J. B. Deamud, 160 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Shipment should be made to arrive by 2 p. m. on examination days to receive attention from the committees. Must be prepaid to destination and an entry fee of $2 should be forwarded to the secretary not later than Tuesday of the week they are to be examined, or it may accompany the blooms.

Seedlings and sports are both eligible to be shown before these committees, provided the raiser has given them two years' trial to determine their true character. Special attention is called to the rule that sports to receive a certificate must pass at least three of the five committees.

The committees will be in session to examine such exhibits as may be submitted on each Saturday during October and November, the dates of which will be October 26 and November 2, 9, 16, 23, 30.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS MORE PLENTIFUL.

The market was very firm the opening of last week, but began to ease up about Wednesday. Chrysanthemums are improving in quality and are received in larger quantities. There are more small flowers on the market but they can be had in all sizes, grades and quality, from the pompon to the large blooms fit for the exhibition table. Some exceptionally fine Virginia Poehlmann are arriving and are having a good call. The following varieties are now arriving: Chrysolora, Donatello, Robert Halliday, Crocus, Kalb, white and yellow Mlle. Clementine Touset, White Gem, Geo. S. Kalb, Early Snow, Glory of the Pacific, October Frost, Smith's Advance, Polly Rose, Unaka, Pacific Supreme, Viviani Morel, Roseire and Monogram. American Beauty roses of good quality are arriving, with the supply of long-stemmed stock about equal to the demand. Short and medium grades are scarce. Roses are more plentiful and some magnificent Richmond, equal to winter grown stock, are to be had. My Maryland of fine quality is also obtainable and Radiance is showing a great improvement. Mrs. Aaron Ward and Mrs. Taft are having a good call and are well liked by the public. Killarney and White Killarney are in good supply and the demand for roses in general this week is a trifle smaller. Orchids are in fair supply and lilies are about equal to the demand. Violets are much improved, but the call for them is as yet not large. Carnations are about equal to the demand and are selling at about the same figures as last week. Lily of the valley can be obtained in excellent quality and some very fine snapdragons are now arriving. Dahlias, cosmos and gladioli are still to be had in quantity.

NOTES.

A. L. Vaughan of A. L. Vaughan & Co. was operated upon last week for blood poisoning but is on the job now and jokingly says that the trade paper representatives had a narrow escape from writing his obituary for this week's issue. His right hand was badly swollen before the operation and his condition for a time was considered very serious. W. E. Lynch had charge of the store during his absence and filled the bill in fine shape. Wm. Johnson will succeed Max Ringier as buyer.

George Reinberg says that his trip to Iowa last week was a delightful one and did him so much good that he feels like a new man. He adds that the crops out there have been good and that the country is in a very prosperous condition. Mr. Reinberg was unable to take a vacation last year because a cyclone wrecked a portion of his range just as he was making preparations to leave.

At Zech & Mann's store the chrysanthemum season is just beginning and large showy white, pink and yellow blooms are now arriving. The supply of other seasonable stock is of the usual good quality and finds ready buyers.

A. L. Randall is back at the A. L. Randall Co.'s store after spending a few months on his farm in Michigan. C. F. McCormick started out on his first trip for this house this week. Frank Johnson expects Carl Thomas back soon.

J. C. Craig, one of the oldest florists in this city, is still doing a fine business at his store on South Wabash avenue. His four sons, Joseph, Arthur, Herbert and Raymond, assist him with the work.

The Cook County Florists' Association held a meeting at the Tavern, West Washington street, last Thursday, October 17, with President Kohlbrand in the chair. Several applications for membership were read and three new members were elected. H. N. Bruns gave a lengthy and interesting talk on his European trip and the growing industry in Germany. Allie Zech, chairman of the sports and pastime committee, reported that a dance will be given in November but that a suitable hall has not yet been obtained. The committee in charge of securing permanent headquarters for the association reported that nothing definite had yet been done, but that several places were under consideration. A straw vote for the presidency of the United States resulted as follows: Roosevelt an easy first, Wilson next, and Taft third.

Wilder S. Deamud, of the J. B. Deamud Co., who has been a master mason for only eight weeks conferred the first degree on a life long friend of his at Landmark Lodge last Friday, October 18. The J. B. Deamud Co. is still supplying its customers with Mrs. Francis King and Augusta gladioli and the well known wholesaler says that he does not remember the time when his firm has received these flowers so late in the season as it did this year.

J. A. Budlong is in crop with white and yellow Mlle. Clementine Touset chrysanthemums which will be followed shortly by Early Snow and Robt. Halliday. This firm is also cutting a good supply of blooms from a sport of the yellow Touset which originated with them that is similar to the Mrs. Aaron Ward rose in color. Phil Schupp says that it takes well and that no trouble is experienced in disposing of the flowers.

chrysanthemums are arriving in grand style and contain some fine large white, pink and yellow blooms. T. E. Waters, manager of the supply department, is back from a business trip to Memphis, Tenn., and St. Louis, Mo.

Weiland & Risch report that Mrs. Aaron Ward and Taft roses are having the call at their establishment and that it is impossible to fill all the orders for these flowers.

Percy Jones is throwing out all his old office equipment and replacing it with new. The stock that is now arriving here is of fine quality and the proprietor says that some of his growers' flowers won first prizes at the state fair at Springfield.

Canger & Gormley's new store in the Fine Arts Building is completed now. The first floor makes a beautiful show room with the office in the balcony. The basement is being arranged very artistically for a sales room and work room.

Clifford Pruner, formerly with E. H. Hunt, has accepted a position as traveling salesman with the Poehlmann Bros. Co. Mr. Pruner needs no introduction to the trade, for he has called on the florists for a great many years.

The E. F. Winterson Co. is the recipient of a fine grade of chrysanthemums from the Mt. Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Winterson was in Springfield on business this week.

Christ Pedersen is back in the city and has again taken up the management of the Central Florist store for his sister, Mrs. Theo. Kallos, widow of the late Theo. Kallos.

August Jurgens is back from Calumet, Mich., where he directed the planting of two carloads of peonies on the new Jurgens-Pleser plantation.

The E. C. Amling Co.'s growers are shipping in some fine chrysanthemums, in white, pink and yellow, which are having a good call.

Oscar Wiegand writes that he is having a delightful visit in California.

George Perdikas' store on South Wabash avenue is a beauty since it has been remodeled. A balcony was built in the rear and the interior is finished in white and green tile. The large show window was very attractive on the evening of October 19, when it was artistically arranged with orchids, roses and other seasonal stock. A large vase of fancy American Beauty roses, grown by George Reinberg, occupied the most prominent place in the display and was greatly admired by the public.

R. A. McKeand, head gardener at the National Military Home, Marion, Ind., was called to this city this week by the serious illness of his brother. Mr. McKeand visited the local parks during his stay here and was very favorably impressed with his inspection. He has been a regular subscriber to THE AMERICAN FLORIST since 1892 and has read every issue since then.

Bassett & Washburn are having an unusually heavy demand for their Sunburst roses, but this is not at all surprising after one sees the stock, for this rose is certainly sold at its best at this store and commands the highest prices. American Beauty roses are in good supply here and the quality is nearly equal to that of the Sunburst.

J. F. Kidwell says that the attendance at the last meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association on October 16 was the largest since the society was organized. The first quarterly report for the second year was read and showed a great increase in the volume of business done.

Erne & Klingel have added another rose grower to their list and are now receiving regular shipments of choice American Beauty roses. The proprietors are building up a fine business and are now handling a complete line of seasonable cut flowers and greens.

Peter Reinberg's cuts of Richmond roses are large and the quality of the stock is of the first grade. Tim Mat-chen has never seen such fine stock grown at the Reinberg establishment before and points with pride to the perfect buds, luxuriant foliage and fine stems.

A. T. Pyfer says that the Chicago Carnation Co. is booking some large orders for their new carnation "The Herald" for delivery next January. The Herald is a scarlet carnation, a free and continuous bloomer and it is said that the calyx never bursts.

A. Chronis, of Johnson & Chronis, says that his partner will leave next week for Greece to assist his country in its war with Turkey. According to Mr. Chronis, Greece will have Turkey before Thanksgiving day.

Dwight L. Harris says that the Pulverized Manure Co. is doing a splendid business and has 3,000 tons of prepared manure ready to ship.

Chas. W. McKellar says that orchids are moving well, especially Cattleya labiata and that his supply is about equal to the demand.

A. M. Pekarek, proprietor of the California Floral Co., 3402 West Twenty-sixth street, is enlarging his store.

Kyle & Foerster had some good shipments of fine American Beauty roses this week.

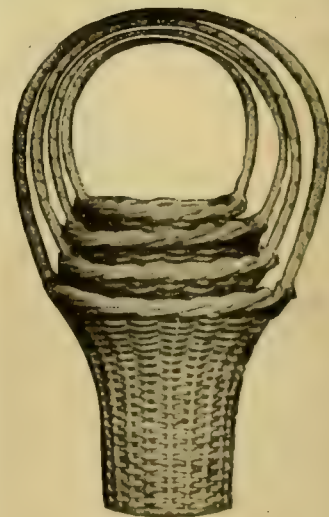

Max Ringer, recently with A. L. Vaughan & Co., is now with the Ken-nicott Bros. Co.

Frank Kral is the proud owner of a new 30 horsepower Overland delivery car.

F. J. Olsan of Ames, Ia., was in the city on business October 22.

August Poehlmann scored 43 Oc-tober 21.

N. J. Wietor says that the stock in Wietor Bros.' greenhouses was never in better condition and that everything is looking fine for Thanksgiving and Christmas. His firm is now cutting some fine My Maryland roses and a good supply of chrysanthemums.

John Kruchten is having trouble in filling his gardenia orders for the demand is very brisk and his growers' crops are off at present. John's father is sending in some fine chrysanthemums daily.

H. L. Keun, the Wentworth avenue florist, is shipping a fine grade of dahlias of the cactus variety to Erne & Klingel.

Guy Reyburn and A. Miller, with A. Henderson & Co., are in the city and will remain until after the holidays.

Peter Weiler says that the Superior Machine & Boiler Works is winding up a very successful season.

Nicholas Kruchten, Jr., celebrated his second wedding anniversary last Sunday, October 20.

Some of the wholesale florists held a meeting last week for the purpose of regulating credits.

An eastern supply house is seriously thinking of opening up a branch store in this city.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS AFFECT MARKET.

While chrysanthemums are not as plentiful as in other years, yet their influence is easily seen with the other flowers, especially so with carnations and American Beauties. Both of these flowers have been in great demand until last week, but now they are to be had at very low figures. Violets arrive daily and the quality is good. Eastern dahlias still arrive in quantity but move slowly.

NOTES.

H. D. Rohrer, the well-known carnation grower of Lancaster, Pa., was a caller Friday, looking over some of the territory in which his output is sold. Mr. Rohrer is pretty well up in age, but looks as spry as the best of us.

A. T. Lorch, the carnation specialist of Allison Park, has made arrangements with the McCallum Co. to handle his cut of carnations this season, which he expects to run close to a million blooms.

Edward and George McCallum are back at work, and although both feel a little stiff are none the worse after their experience of being bumped around and run over by an automobile.

Mrs. E. A. Williams, who always uses dahlias with good effect in her window displays, makes good use of them this year, using only the selected varieties that grow in New Jersey.

R. J. Daschbach has secured several weddings for November, which he expects to keep him busy. Noal Allridge is now in charge of the greenhouses of this firm.

Blind Bros. are cutting a big crop of lilies and pink roses and make such large and effective store displays with them that they keep the lights turned on all night.

Michael Blaha has been cutting some fine chrysanthemums at his place in Aspinwall, disposing of the most of them at his stand in the Diamond market.

Peter Harris expects to leave for Greece during the week to take his place at the front. Several more of the Greek boys expect to follow soon.

Sunburst roses are received daily by the McCallum Co. but are quickly picked up, as this is the most satisfactory yellow rose on the market.

Karl Klinke, who formerly conducted a flower store in the Jenkins Arcade, is now connected with the E. C. Ludwig Floral Co.

The Zieger Co. has opened a branch store on Penn avenue near Highland. M.

Cleveland.

BUSINESS VERY GOOD.

Business the last week has been all that could be desired. Stock of all kinds was quite plentiful and of good quality and the demand exceptionally good. Dahlias are about done for, but are coming in less plentifully, but cosmos in all colors is still in its glory. Chrysanthemums are beginning to crowd other favorites, some very fine Virginia Poehlmann and Halliday arriving daily but in limited quantities. Smaller varieties are quite plentiful and sell at very low prices. Roses of all grades and varieties are in good supply and condition. Aaron Wards and American Beauties are most in demand. Orchids and valley were in very good demand the past week and not enough good stock was obtainable to fill orders. Carnations clean up daily, some very good long stemmed stock arriving, but the largest number are short and medium stemmed. Swainsonia is in good demand but scarce. Easter and calla lilies fall short of a good demand.

NOTES.

The Jones & Russell Co. entertained about fifty fellow florists in their spacious basement, which was very artistically decorated with southern smilax and pink rambler roses. There was plenty to eat and drink and smoke, besides lots of chewing gum, which is manufactured by a company of which Mr. Jones is president. The after dinner speeches by florists from this city and out of town kept the guests in a happy frame of mind. Cards followed the banquet. On Monday the Jones & Russell Co. entertained the Rotary Club of 125 members.

The charity ball on Friday at the new Hotel Statler was by far the greatest society event of the year and large quantities of flowers and plants were used in the decorations. Incidentally $5,000.00 was cleared for the babies' dispensary.

C. F. E.

Cincinnati.

MARKET OVERSUPPLIED.

Business the past week was, at the best, only fair. The demand was far below the supply, which is far too large in every line for the needs of the market. Chrysanthemums are coming in stronger each day and are only adding to the crowded condition. A killing frost seems to be about the only thing that will offer immediate relief. The rose and carnation lines are complete in every way. Large quantities of each are coming in and most all is of good quality. In roses only the longest stemmed sell well. The short stock has a hard time finding a market. This condition is reversed in American Beauties, where the shorter are selling better than the longer ones. The chrysanthemums are good and include practically all sizes in white, pink and yellow. Easter lilies find a fairly good market. Other offerings include lily of the valley, violets, orchids and sweet peas. The cosmos and dahlia markets are still glutted.

NOTES.

Arthur Becker of the Avondale Floral Co. had a mishap recently. A machine in which he was riding was disabled by the breaking of the rear axle on the road near Batavia, Ohio.

C. E. Critchell continues to ship large quantities of fern. The demand for this stock at his place has kept up steadily.

Fred Rupp of Lawrenceburg was in town on Monday on one of his purchasing trips.

H.

Nichols Goes to War.

Peter Nichols, well-to-do proprietor of a number of flower stands and other businesses in Cleveland, O., is reported to be doing service for his country in the ranks of the Greek army. Mr. Nichols went to Greece several weeks ago to bring his family back to this country, but war was declared while he was in his native land.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Acting on the recommendation of Park Commissioner Wm. F. Kasting and City Florist Harry B. Filer, the local park board has bought a farm to be used as a tree nursery.

TRADE HAS SLIGHT INCREASE.

The weather has cooled off some and trade has slightly picked up. The horse show this week is expected to boost the sale of American Beauty roses and large, fancy chrysanthemums. The weather has been entirely too warm to further the sale of violets, which are still small and of poor keeping qualities. Carnations are bringing a fair price. Chrysanthemums are increasing, good varieties bringing good prices. Roses are very plentiful and are suffering from the entry of chrysanthemums. Greens of all kinds are selling well. Quite a supply of dahlias and cosmos are in. Cosmos sales especially are limited, many going to the dump.

NOTES.

Mrs. Diemer of the Diemer Floral Co. has remodeled her store and it presents a beautiful appearance. It is well supplied with the choicest of cut flowers and plants and a fine supply of metal. Miss A. B. Falkenhamer, Mrs. Diemer's sister, acts as her secretary. They have an immense trade in funeral work.

Foster, the florist, held his fall opening last Friday and Saturday. The reception lasted from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Miss Matilda Naldman is building up a good business in her locality. She has an immense trade in plants.

W. J. and M. S. Vesey are shipping some very choice chrysanthemums to G. H. Angermueller.

E. G. Hill of Richmond, Ind., is shipping some very choice chrysanthemums to H. G. Berning.

C. A. Kuehn is getting some fine lily of the valley, chrysanthemums and dahlias.

The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. is receiving some good carnations. The Oakland Floral Co. is bringing some choice stock to C. A. Kuehn.

James Morton of the Florists' Exchange was a visitor.

H. Young & Son are doing a nice trade.

FLORISTS ALL BUSY.

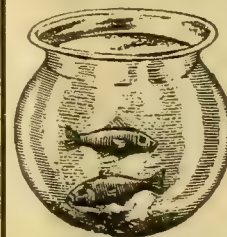

All the florists say they are very busy and it certainly is the case, judging by the amount of chrysanthemums alone. There are more grown locally than ever before and also more imported. The quality is at least as good as at other times, and there are no culls. Some of the growers are already sold out of ferns and filling their houses with shamrock, of which there ought to be an abundance for next St. Patrick's day. Roses have to struggle hard these dark days to produce good flowers and we still hope for the rain to stop long enough to allow the sun to brighten our houses.

CLUB MEETING.

The Montreal Gardeners & Florists' Club last Monday night at the monthly meeting decided to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary on November 29. This is the exact date of the founding of the club. It was thought most appropriate to celebrate with a grand banquet in one of the best hotels of the city and invite all the members and ex-members to be present. The details are left in the hands of the executive committee. The secretary read a letter from the New York florists' club asking the local organization to join in the publicity campaign, and appointing a committee to take up the matter. This was also left in the hands of the executive committee.

We expect to hear shortly of the good work these committees do and hope that the trade derives the benefit of their labors. Hall & Robinson exhibited a vase of Golden Glow chrysanthemums and J. Luck two pots of Achemenis. Both were awarded a cultural certificate. Joseph Gordon was elected a member. F. Harris was proposed.

NOTES.

The Davy Tree Expert Co. is working on the shade trees around the private estates here. Five men under foreman McClenahan are busy saving the lives of the trees on the large grounds of C. B. Gordon. They are doing some wonderful work.

Hall & Robinson found it necessary to deliver on Sunday, having to turn out to finish up some large orders. Wm. C. Hall has bought an acre of land at Montreal, West.

Maurice Wolf has opened a store in St. Catherine street.

Harris and Hopton's new houses are all completed.

MARKET UNSTABLE.

There is a see-saw movement this week, although Saturday was good compared with the conditions we have passed through. Chrysanthemums are in full sway and roses are not doing well. Madame Russell still holds herself in the limelight, and the brighter the light the more dazzling she appears. Everything else is plentiful.

NOTES.

The stockholders of the Co-operative Flower Market will hold their annual meeting at the American House Saturday, October 26. On the same date the stockholders of the Boston Flower Exchange will hold their annual meeting at the Quincy House at 8 o'clock p. m. Reception, 6 p. m.; dinner, 6:30.

John McFarland had the first yellow Bonnaffon chrysanthemums on the market and they were good ones.

Visitor: A. Currie, Wilwaukee, Wis.

Philadelphia Notes.

The October meeting of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society on Tuesday, October 6, was fairly well attended. Generally in connection with this meeting there has been a fine display of cosmos for the Michell prizes, but this season not a vase was seen. The only exhibits were several vases of very fine chrysanthemum blooms. Chrysolora, staged by Countess Eulalia, were magnificent flowers, as were Beatrice May, from Mrs. Elleson, Morton F. Plant, David Simes, Beatrice May and Kate Broodhead were varieties exhibited by Thos. Hunter.

Frank P. Gaul will open about November 1 a retail cut flower store at 17 South Thirteenth street which will be known as Gaul's Flower Room. This location is in the heart of the shopping district, across Thirteenth street from Wanamaker's and one of the best in the city for transient trade. Mr. Gaul is well known to the trade as a former manager of the Century Shop and also Thorn Hedge Nurseries. He has the best wishes of the trade in his new venture.

A special meeting of the committees appointed by the Florists' Club and the Horticultural Society reported considerable success in getting financial support for the purpose of decorating the hall on the occasion of the fall exhibition early in November. A well-decorated hall to provide an artistic setting for the exhibits adds very much to the appearance and success of the exhibition. Let everybody help in this good cause.

Godfrey Aschmann is a believer in poetry and writes some stuff that is not half bad. He is a progressive, too, by the way, always on the job, looking for others who are pushing, hustling fellows who, like himself, want to keep things running and help their trade by handling his stock.

M. Rice & Co. are having a great run on their iridescent or vari-colored baskets. Everything about this work is original—modeled, made and colored in their own workshops. A very large shipment of Italian wheat was received the past week.

Choice valley and American Beauties are features at Edward Reid's busy Ranstead street establishment. Business he reports is very good for the season. Stewart Miller has returned from his trip and is hustling as usual.

The Jos. Heacock Co. is cutting from both their larger houses at Roelofs. With twice the quantity of roses of last season they are in a position to fill very large orders at any time.

John Ruppert, the well-known salesman of the H. A. Dreer Co., reports a great demand for the new glory fern, the hardy Farleyense. He predicts a great future for this novelty.

The Ferncroft Nurseries of Moorestown, N. J., are cutting from 30,000 to 40,000 valley each week. Their importation for this season's forcing was over 2,500,000 pips.

Henry Penn of Boston and Ferdinand Fleischman of New York visited Bayersdorfer's supply house last week and were surprised at the large and varied stock.

The Leo Niessen Co. is very strong on chrysanthemums, handling immense quantities of the seasonable varieties. American Beauties are also a feature.

Berger Bros.' central market finds a good sale for their Richmond roses. Quantities of chrysanthemums are turned over every day. K.

Urbana-Champaign, Ill.

BUSINESS INCREASES.

Since the opening of the university, business in the two towns has increased fifty per cent. This is especially true of cutflower sales, as large quantities are used at dances and banquets given by the various student organizations. Although there is more competition than ever before, our florists report an increase rather than a decrease in the amount of business done. This sounds encouraging as the social season is by no means at its height at this time.

NOTES.

Gus. Johnson has announced to the public that he will do business at his old stand for five years to come, as he has renewed his lease for that length of time. He has made a number of improvements in his store building which will no doubt be of great assistance in handling orders. Mr. Johnson's stock is in excellent condition. At present he is cutting a number of early chrysanthemums for which a ready market is found. He has placed an attractive chrysanthemum advertisement in all the street cars operating in the two towns.

The sons of a number of florists from different parts of the country are registered in Floriculture and Land-

OUTSIDE STOCK STILL PLENTIFUL.

After a cool spell with frost, which trimmed the dahlias in some of the low places, the weather moderated and the market is still full of all sorts of outside stock. Dahlias are not quite so plentiful but they are quite sufficient for the demand. Cosmos is everywhere. Outside chrysanthemums are seen in large quantities and meet with ready sale, particularly the good pompons. The newer roses, Taft, Ward, Hillingdon and Sunburst, are growing better as the season advances, and are looking up as strong rivals to the Killarneys. The light pink of the Taft and the orange shades of the others are worked up into great combinations in the baskets and bunches parties are now creating quite a demand for the best to be found in the market. Snapdragon is to be one of the standard flowers, some very good stock being seen. The new orange shades are especially fetching. Violets are seen in quantity; the singles are getting quite presentable. New York is sending Marie Louise of splendid quality. Chrysanthemums are now having their innings; all the early sorts, Polly Rose, Pacific Supreme, Halliday, Crema, Kalb and Early Snow, are to be had in quantity and appear to sell up very well. In fact, last Saturday all kinds of yellow were scarce and before night none of this color were to be had. Cattleyas are about equal to the demand, as are gardenias.

Easter lilies are a bit draggy, coming in competition with so much else.
Carnations are waiting, not being pushed and there being more than enough for the demand.

WHOLESALE GROWERS

121 Seventh Street, PITTSBURGH, PA.

New York.

ALL STOCK OVER ABUNDANT.

It would hardly be possible to have conditions much worse than they are at present in the wholesale market. Stock of all kinds is over abundant. Chrysanthemums, which are about a week or ten days earlier than usual, are accumulating. The quality of most of these is very good, but the prices obtained are much lower than at previous seasons. Carnations, too, of very fine quality are now in over-supply. The same condition exists with orchids and gardenias. Violets, while plentiful, are not of good quality and meet with only a very irregular demand. Prices on roses are much lower and even the best of these move slowly. Beauties are selling as well as any of them. Some of the top specials of Sunburst are doing well, but as a general thing the rose market is extremely unsatisfactory. Lilies have dropped to a little more than one-half of former quotations, and are not being cleared out even at these low prices. Lily of the valley is doing as well as anything. In greens the asparagus fronds tied in bunches is much called for, but there is very little sale for smilax and ferns. Outdoor grown flowers are still overstocking the market. The quality of cosmos and dahlias has never been better than at present.

New York, Monday noon, October 21.—Weather clear and fine. While there is some of the usual Monday activity the business as a whole is disappointing.

NOTES.

Speaking of the keeping qualities of the new sensational pink rose Mrs. George Sawyer, which will be sent out by Charles H. Totty, part of the exhibit made at the club meeting Monday night were displayed in the window of Henshaw & Fenwick all the week and on the Saturday following were still in splendid condition.

The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club will be held on Monday evening, November 11, and will be known as "chrysanthemum night." Growers are invited to send any novelties or seedlings that they may have in condition at that time, and they will be passed upon by the award committee.

Charles R. Felton, son of R. F. Felton, the King's Florist, London, England, made a very interesting address at the last meeting of the Florists' Club October 4. Mr. Felton was on his way to New Orleans, where he will join the forces of Harry Papworth.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., Saturday, October 12, the following officers were elected: President, Henry Weston; Vice President, Jacob Bracker; Secretary, C. F. Bertanzel; Treasurer, J. H. Rogers; Manager, J. J. Coan.

At the northwest corner of Madison avenue and Forty-seventh street the Briarcliff Flower Shop will be opened on November 1. The announcement reads: "New York headquarters for the famous Briarcliff roses. Walter T. Kennedy, manager."

Hitchings & Co. have on exhibition in the electrical show at the Grand Central Palace a greenhouse heated by electricity. It does not look as if this method of heating will be very quickly adopted by the large growers.

"Ollie" Coomes, Jr., of Jamaica, L. I., has taken over the eight greenhouses of John Lewis Childs at Floral Park, L. I., and will use them for growing plants to supply his retail stores.

There are no better roses on the market than those received by Moore, Hentz & Nash from the Bedford Flower Co. All of the varieties grown at this place are in magnificent condition.

The New York and New Jersey Plant Growers' Association made their usual Long Island inspection trip Thursday, October 17. It is impossible to get particulars of the trip at this date.

J. B. Nugent, Jr., is well pleased with the work his committee is doing towards correcting the difficulty of getting receipts for flowers sent to the outgoing steamships.

"Ramapo," the magnificent yellow chrysanthemum which is being sent in by Charles A. Totty, is much sought after. It is a much improved early Col. Appleton.

The asparagus plumosus which E. Smith of Woodside is sending to Philip F. Kessler is very fine and sells at sight.

The sales of plants by the Plant & Flower Auction Co. has fallen off in sympathy with the rest of the market.

The "Rosary" now has a new White motor delivery car. It is one of the most attractive in the "Street."

Paul Meconi is receiving very fine cattleyas and gardenias from Thomas Young, Jr., Bound Brook, N. J.

Rochester, N. Y.

BUSINESS SLACK.

The weather has been ideal for this last two weeks with an occasional frost or two, which just about killed most of the outdoor blossoming flowers. Business is very slack. The indoor stock is very good indeed. The cut of roses is good. My Maryland, Pink and White Killarney, Madame Taft, Brides and Bridesmaids are all good and of good color. Richmonds do not sell very fast, but there is a steady demand for American Beauties. Violets are larger and better and retail at $1 a 100. Lily of the valley is none too plentiful. Easter lilies are getting scarce. Chrysanthemums are fine. Their prices retail anywhere from $2 to $6 a dozen. Carnations are getting better each week and the price is moving up steadily. Orchids are moving somewhat faster. About the only blossoming plants now selling are Lorraine begonias and primulas. The trade in asparagus and adiantum is quite good.

NOTES.

Dr. Charles S. Sargent has returned to Boston after a few days well spent among the trees and shrubs in and about this city. Dr. Sargent devoted much of his time to the hickories and hawthorns and has made several valuable finds. The most important of these he considers is a new hybrid-hickory. This tree is a cross between the bitter-nut hickory and the shagbark. The nut is of unusual size, being nearly 1½ inches in length, and has the thin shell of the bitter-nut with a meat that is exceptionally rich and sweet in flavor. Dr. Sargent has taken back with him to the Arnold Arboretum a supply of the nuts, and grafts from the tree will be made.

The monthly meeting of the Rochester Florists' Association was held Monday, October 14. Vice President T. Ogston acted as chairman in the absence of President Dunbar. Professor Stockton of the University of Rochester spoke on "The American National Banking Association and the National Reserve Association." Joseph T. Murray explained the workings of the two money systems. The committees reported that the flower show would be November 5-9.

The ladies of the Florists' Association met at the home of Mrs. Chas. Suhr on Avenue D last week for a business meeting. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Crossman of Crossman terrace.

Visitors for the week are: G. Reising of L. Baumann and Co., Chicago; T. T. Fryer of New York; J. L. Lawrence of the W. B. Smith Cut Glass Works, Franklin Forks, Pa.

George T. Boucher's delivery auto caught fire recently on Main street. Fortunately the flames were extinguished very quickly, little damage being done.

The flower show committee has awarded the contract for the carpenter work.

Miss Rose Ella Brown is back again and expects to begin work in a few days.

Miss Holcombe of Victor, N. Y., is in the employ of the Rochester Florists' Co. H. J. H.

KANDALVILLE, IND.—The quarterly meeting of the Northern Indiana Florists' Association was held here October 16.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—W. J. Palmer & Son, well known florists, were among the victims of a crook who reaped a harvest here by passing bogus money orders. The orders were stolen from the Detroit, Mich., post office and the perpetrator realized a handsome sum by tendering a larger amount in payment for small purchases and pocketing the change.

Theo. Diedrich has started cutting single violets and says he will have some of the finest chrysanthemums he has ever had. Mrs. Diedrich and son have arrived home after spending the summer in Germany.

Business has not improved any since the last meeting but stock is a little more plentiful. Chrysanthemums, roses and carnations coming into the local market are very good.

O. A. C. Oehlmer says he is more than satisfied with business, having had plenty of funeral work since he opened. He has a number of wedding decorations booked.

J. A. Phillips, the Mt. Pleasant florist, says business is very good both in his store and at the stand in the Arcade.

Archie Magruder, the foreman of the carnation range at the Monumental Garden, is laid up with the grip.

Samuel Everett, formerly with Gude Bros., is now with Oehlmer, the G street florist.

TRADE FLOURISHING.

The weather is very fine and the season has been very favorable for the production of fine flowers. There is an abundant supply of very fine quality and a correspondingly good demand. Funeral work the past week was very large. The social world is awakening with many entertainments that create a constant demand. Chrysanthemums are beginning to be very plentiful and very beautiful and sell well. Violets too are coming in nicely. Carnations and roses are getting better and more plentiful every day.

NOTES.

The Joy Floral Co. is bringing in as fine a lot of flowers as were ever put on any market. This firm has plenty of chrysanthemums and other flowers to suit every taste. Funeral work has been plentiful and they have had all they could do. The chrysanthemum plants are coming in in all colors and varieties.

Geny Bros. came in on the rush for funeral work very handsomely and made three palls in one day besides numerous other floral pieces. They have an abundance of violets, carnations, chrysanthemums and roses. They are cutting a fine lot of American Beauties with handsome long stems and fine blossoms.

McIntyre Bros. are pushing forward the work on their West End store, but have not moved into it yet though they expect to very soon. In the meantime they are doing a good business from the greenhouses.

L. Haury & Sons have kept up with the pace and have had their share in the call of the week.

There has been no frost as yet, to amount to anything in this locality.
M. C. D.

DES MOINES, IA.—Curtis W. Davidson, who for the past five years has been superintendent of the Iowa Seed Co.'s greenhouse establishment at this place, has resigned and has purchased with William Western the greenhouses of W. C. Walters, Denver, Colo. The new firm will do business under the name of the Davidson-Western Floral Co.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, and painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established, and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia Be Sure to Look Us Up

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your convenience, both going and coming. Then you will see our Palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place), and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to our Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition

Next annual convention, June, 1913.

THERE is considerable decay in potatoes, due to blight-rot.

BAY CITY, MICH.—The Gregory Farm & Seed Co., organized in 1911, has recently increased its capital stock to $30,000.

CHICAGO.—Prices on the Board of Trade October 23 for grass seed were noted as follows: Timothy, $3.50 to $4.50 per 100 pounds.

OTTO BERTRAM, Stendal, Germany, proprietor of the well known seed business of Chr. Bertram, died October 4 in his sixty-fourth year.

NORTHROP, KING & Co., Minneapolis, Minn., report the country dealers in that section well sold out and that they have been good buyers for future shipment.

NEW YORK.—The bulb trade, according to Weeber & Don, has been exceptionally good thus far this season and is much ahead of the season this time last year.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE, Chicago, reports September conditions slower than usual and that although weather conditions continue mild, October prospects are making up the deficit.

VISITED CHICAGO: A. Emerich, representing Vilmorin-Andrieux & Co., Paris, France; Frank Emerson, enroute to Texas; W. H. Small, Evansville, Ind.; A. E. McKenzie, Brandon, Man.; M. Colvin, Mobile, Ala.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Our fall business, say Currie Bros. Co., so far has been very satisfactory. We expect to do considerably more, however, as summer has not yet left us; at least we have not yet had our first frost, and most people do not think of their fall bulbs until their summer bedding plants have been killed. The business so far has been very satisfactory, however, especially the trade with the florists.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—“We are inclined to believe we will have good fall and winter weather,” say the Alfred J. Brown Seed Co., “that will compare very favorably with last year. Everything seems to point that way as far as our observation goes. With abundant crops of produce and good prices ruling, we look for a prosperous season. We are very well satisfied with present conditions and the outlook for the future.”

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The late summer and early fall trade has not come up to expectations, says the Harndon Seed Co., although it was somewhat better than last year. A very severe drouth in this part of the country was partly responsible as that curtails business to a great extent. The bulb trade has opened up in fine shape. Dutch and French bulbs are going well. Business at the present is good and trade from now on is expected to be much better than it was this time last year.

RICHMOND, VA.—T. W. Wood & Sons report that the dry weather up to the middle of September curtailed the sales of seeds very considerably. Since that time they have had seasonable rains, and have had a very busy fall season. The general trade conditions are very good through this territory and the outlook for spring trade is favorable.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—James Vick's Sons report a much larger fall business than ever before. Although their importation of bulbs was considerably larger than a year ago, they are sold out of some kinds, and the prospects are that their entire stock will be cleaned out much earlier in the season than usual. They say they are having a good all round trade, both wholesale and retail, locally and by mail. This firm is situated in new quarters in the Woodworth Building and has considerable more space to devote to the business than heretofore.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—“We find that as a rule the business done in our line this year in Louisiana has been considerably better than for several years in pretty much everything and especially in field seeds. It would have been considerably better, perhaps, if it had not been for the floods. Louisiana lost and suffered a great deal through them; in fact, the water has not yet receded from some parts of the state. We feel that this country is on the verge of opening up generally in everything pertaining to the soil. Truck farms are more numerous than before, in fact, some of the large plantations have been subdivided into smaller farms and are being planted into truck. Fruit trees are planted more than ever before, and a general interest is taken in everything that pertains to curtailing living expenses. Hogs, poultry, beef, etc., are being more extensively raised.”—Joseph Steckler.

European Seed Crops.

Every mail brings more discouraging reports of the European seed crops on account of the continuous rains ever since the beginning of August. There were a few sunny days about the middle of September, creating hopes for a fair crop of late maturing articles, but rain has since set in again and has caused many asters, marigolds and other composites to rot on the stalks. The crop of many articles will therefore be very light and the germinating qualities not up to the usual standard.

NEW CULINARY PEAS

SHARPE'S MARCHIONESS

This is a very early, green wrinkled variety, height $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet, heavy cropper, very hardy, pods large, straight, dark green and well filled. We consider it the finest and most valuable Pea we have ever put on the Market. It requires a good Pea to beat Gradus on all points, and this one does it. When tested alongside Gradus it proved to be several days earlier, with larger pods, and a much heavier cropper.

SHARPE'S VANGUARD.

May be briefly described as a blue-seeded Pilot. Height 3 or $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet, large, dark-green pointed pods, each containing 7 to 9 large Peas of fine quality and flavor. There is no Pea in commerce at the present time so valuable for Market purposes, as it is very early, very hardy, very prolific; the pods are handsome in appearance and well filled; there are no small pods to spoil the sample when pulled, and no later ones to necessitate the crop being gone over a second time. For sowing in November, in localities where it is safe to sow Peas at that time, there is nothing better.

SHARPE'S TALISMAN.

Sharpe's Talisman is not a selection from Pilot, although it bears in its chief features a great resemblance to that popular variety. It, however, differs considerably from Pilot, as it is a much heavier cropper, far more robust, earlier, and there is a complete absence of the small-podded type to which Pilot is so liable to revert. The pods, mostly pairs, are borne in luxuriant profusion, and are of a fine dark color, large size, and well filled.

To Importers of Nursery Stock.

The Federal Horticultural Board of the United States Department of Agriculture has issued the following circular of information to importers of nursery stock:—

Under the plant Quarantine Act, approved August 20, 1912, the importer of nursery stock must attend to the following conditions of entry:

(1) He must take out a permit therefor in advance. This permit should preferably be taken out by the person who is to receive the goods at final destination. A broker or commission merchant may take out a permit in his own name, if he imports for his own account, or he can act as agent for and take out the permit in the name of the actual purchaser.

(2) He must see that each package on arrival bears the proper certificate of foreign inspection. (See regulation 6.)

(3) He must see that each package is marked in accordance with section 3 of the act. As a matter of convenience, this marking should also contain the additional information called for in section 4, to avoid the trouble of remarking before the goods can be delivered for interstate shipment. The certificate and marking should preferably be on the goods before they leave the foreign port.

(4) After December 1, 1912, each shipment must be accompanied with the consular declaration called for in regulation 9. This declaration must accompany the consular invoice and is not to be attached to the individual container.

What the importer or broker must do before the goods can be shipped or removed from a port of entry:

(1) He must (immediately before shipping or removal) advise the Secretary of Agriculture and state inspectors in accordance with section 2 and regulation 8.

(2) He must see that each container is marked in accordance with section 4; that is in addition to the information in the label of entry, each container must bear the name and address of the consignee at destination, where the stock is to be inspected by the state, territorial or district official. (See section 2 and regulation 8.)

Importers are warned that failure to meet the requirements of the law as outlined above subjects them to the penalties fixed in section 10 of the act.

We are Headquarters for Hardy Perennial Phlox.

The Plants Supplied are all Strong One Year Old Field Grown Stock.

New Varieties of Hardy Phlox.

Asia (Tall.) One of the most valuable recent introductions, a delicate shade of mauve, with crimson carmine eye. $2.00 per dozen; $15.00 per 100.

Braga (Dwarf.) Mauve-rose, more or less suffused with salmon; large white eye, a distinct and pleasing color combination. $1.50 per dozen; $10.00 per 100.

Europa (Tall.) A white variety, with very decided crimson-carmine eye; the individual flowers as well as the trusses are very large, entirely distinct, a valuable acquisition.

Elizabeth Campbell (Dwarf.) Very bright salmon-pink, with lighter shadings and dark crimson eye, an entirely new and much wanted shade in Phlox.

Frau Anton Buchner (Dwarf.) The finest white variety yet introduced, having a large truss and individual flower of dwarf habit.

Goliath (Tall.) A giant in growth, in rich soil over 5 feet high, the flowers of good size in bold massive panicles of a rich crimson-carmine, with deeper eye.

Hervor (Dwarf.) This is the finest variety of its color; a bright but soft rose-pink, with a large white eye.

Rynstrom (Tall.) An improved form of the popular variety Pantheon, fine for massing; of a Paul Neyron rose-color.

Rosenberg (Medium.) Bright reddish violet, with blood-red eye, large truss and individual flowers as large as a silver dollar.

Widar (Medium.) A splendid improvement on Edmond Rostand; in color a light reddish-violet, with very large white center which intensifies and illuminates the color.

Price, (except where noted), $1.25 per dozen; $8.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

General Collection of Best Standard Varieties.

Albion, medium. One of our own introductions; producing very large panicles of pure white flowers with a faint aniline-red eye.

Aglæ Adanson, medium. Immense flowers, snow-white, with red-eye.

Antonin Mercie, medium. Light ground color, upper half of petal deeply suffused bluish-lilac; large; white halo.

Bacchante, tall. Tyrian rose with crimson-carmine eye.

Beranger, dwarf. Ground color white, delicately suffused with rosy pink, distinct amaranth-red eye.

Bridesmaid, tall. White, with large crimson-carmine center.

Colibri, tall. White, with crimson-carmine center; very late.

Consul H. Trost, medium. Pure red, with bright French-purple eye.

Champs Elyses, medium. A very bright rosy magenta of an effective shade.

Coquelicot, dwarf. A fine pure scarlet, with crimson-red eye. $6.00 per 100.

Caran D'Ache, medium. Geranium-red, with old rose shadings and white eye; very effective.

Diadem, dwarf. A fine dwarf, pure white.

De Miribel, medium. White, suffused with bright rosy-scarlet, red eye.

Danton, medium. Scarlet, pure red eye.

Edmond Rostand, medium. Reddish-violet, shading brighter towards the center with an exceptionally large, white center.

Eugene Danzanvillier, tall. Lilac, shading white towards the edges; large white center.

Eclairer, medium. Brilliant rosy-magenta, with large lighter halo; an excellent variety.

Fruhlicht, dwarf. Bright salmon-pink, with white shadings.

George A. Strohlein, medium. Bright scarlet, with crimson-red eye; does not bleach. $7.00 per 100.

General Giovannelli, dwarf. Bright Tyrian rose, with light shadings at the base of each petal, a pure red eye, very effective.

Hermine, dwarf. The dwarfiest variety in our collection, never exceeding ten inches in height; pure white flowers of good size; early; unequalled for bordering; a perfect little gem.

Helena Vacaresco, dwarf. Very large flowering dwarf, white.

H. O. Wijers, tall. Glistening white, with bright crimson-carmine eye.

Henry Murger, tall. Beautiful variety; white, crimson-carmine center.

Henry Royer, medium. Tyrian rose, with lighter shadings.

Jeanne D'Arc, tall. A good standard late white.

Kucken, tall. Delicate pale rose-mauve, with claret-red eye.

La Vague, medium. Pure mauve, with aniline-red eye.

Le Prophete, dwarf. Bright violet-rose, large light halo and bright rose eye, fine.

Louise Abbema, dwarf. Very large, dwarf pure white, fine form.

Mme. Paul Dutrie, tall. A delicate lilac rose, reminding one of some of the beautiful soft pink orchids. The flowers are very large and borne in panicles of immense size.

Mozart, tall. Ground color white, suffused salmon; aniline-red eye.

Mrs. Jenkins, tall. The best tall early white for massing.

Nana Coerulea, dwarf. Very free flowering light reddish-violet.

Obergartner Wittig, medium. Bright magenta, with crimson-carmine eye; large flower and truss, one of the best.

Professor Virchow, medium. Bright carmine, overlaid with orange-scarlet.

Pantheon, tall. Bright carmine-rose.

Pacha, dwarf. Deep rose-pink, suffused with solferino-red and carmine-purple eye.

R. P. Struthers, tall. Rosy-carmine, with claret-red eye, fine.

Sarabande, medium. Reddish-violet, with lighter shadings.

Sunshine, dwarf. Large, aniline-red, with crimson-red eye and light halo.

Siebold, tall. Bright vermilion-red overlaid with orange-scarlet; crimson-red eye. $6.00 per 100.

Vesuvius, medium. One of our new seedlings; pure red, with bright purple eye, a dazzling color.

F. G. Von Lasburg, medium. The purest white in cultivation, individual flowers larger than any other white.

Price of any of the above (except where otherwise noted) $4.00 per 100, $30.00 per 1000.

the trade,

I've filled the bill and satisfied the many friends
I've made.

Just arrived, per steamer Manitou, from Ant werpen, four consignments of Azalea Indica in fine condition for Christmas forcing. We have Deutsche Perle, white; Simon Mardner, pink; Mme. Petrick, new, pink; Pharilda Mathilda, variegated; Vervaneana, variegated rose, 50c, 75, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. For Easter blooming and for Easter we have the well-known American varieties, such as Mme Van der Cruys sen, best pink; Paul Weber, De Schryveriana, John Llewellyn, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), and a few more good sorts. P. S.—The Christmas varieties can be kept for Easter forcing without trouble. Price: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. We sell our Azaleas for cost only, because there is no profit to be made in Azaleas.

Azalea Indica for early forcing, Deutsche Perle, Simon Mardner, Mme. Petrick, Vervaneana and others, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

Ferns.

The growing of Nephrolepis for the past five years has been one of our leading specialties. We have three houses, which were rebuilt this summer, especially adapted for the growing of first-class stock. Ferns do not do well in old houses.
They need houses with plenty of sun and good, fresh, sweet air. Old, dark houses bring fungus and make spindly plants.

Neph. Ciatrasili. This is a new fern, very graceful, of weeping habit, short and bushy, very much admired by every one who has bought it.
4-5 5½-6 in. pots, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c.

When You Buy, It Pays to Buy Good Stock.

Binghampton, N. Y., Sept. 3rd, 1912.

Mr. Godfrey Aschmann, Philadelphia:

Dear Sir:—Your shipment of Palms, Plants and Ferns arrived in fine shape. I certainly am well pleased with all stock you send me, and I will send you another order.

S. W. BACKER, Billy the Florist.

93 Front St., Binghampton, N. Y.

Look and see what Mr. Fred J. Michell, of that so well-known firm of Henry F. Michell Company, of Philadelphia, has got to say about our plants:

"Sept. 14th, 1912.

"I have just visited the greenhouses of Mr.
Godfrey Aschmann, and must say that it was indeed a great surprise to me. I have never seen a better lot of Araucarias, Ferns of all sizes, varieties and prices, Rubbers, Palms, Azaleas, and other plants in season, ready for shipment, as are at present at Mr. Godfrey Aschmann's."

NEW SCARLET CARNATION

"THE HERALD"

We ask you to kindly take into consideration the many strong points of this new Scarlet Carnation which we offer for January 1913 delivery. Three strong, perfect points of "The Herald." Large 3½-inch perfectly formed flowers on long, strong stems. Perfect calyx; never bursts. Free and continuous bloomer, giving a heavy, continuous crop of perfect flowers the entire season. No waiting until the end of the season to get flowers with long stems, but have plenty of them all the time. The plants are strong and vigorous; free from disease; easy to propagate. Cuttings struck in March make large plants for benching in July. Habit somewhat on the order of Enchantress, more vigorous and productive.

"The Herald" is one of our own originations. Have grown it the past four years, and have not only convinced ourselves of its sterling worth, but have booked orders the past two years from conservative carnation growers, who have watched the variety and wanted their order placed for early delivery no matter when disseminated.

Stock will be ready January 1, 1913.

Wilks Hot Water Boilers

MADE ENTIRELY OF STEEL.

Marietta, Pa., January 27, 1910.

S. WILKS MFG. CO.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Dear Sirs:—I am so well pleased with the self-feeding boiler I bought of you last Fall, that I feel it is my duty to tell you so. It is heating 400 ft. of 2-inch pipe O. K. I have had the time, also the zero weather, to give it a good test and it proved all you claim for it. I did not lose a minute's sleep this Winter so far. I fill up the magazine about 9 o'clock in the evening and never look after it till 5 or 6 o'clock next morning and always find the fire in good shape.

Yours truly,

EDWIN F. CAMPBELL.

Hammond's Thrip Juice No. 2

For the Destruction of Sucking Insects and Caterpillars, Slugs, Aphides, Red Spider and Mealy Bug.

In 1883, twenty-nine years ago, we made this preparation for the use of a grape grower, Mr. Floyd Quick, of Fishkill, N. Y.

The Thrip is one of the most bothersome of insect pests, because the moment the plant is touched, off goes the Thrip.

Thrip Juice No. 2 is diluted for general use thirty to forty times with water. The late Isaac Wood, Florist, of Fishkill, N. Y., used it for Mealy Bug and Red Spider. This article was purchased by a druggist in Jacksonville, Florida, the late Dr. James A. Farley, who was Secretary of the Board of Trade. He found it effective against the Orange Scale. Upon trial in Florida we changed the formula, making another grade, which is Thrip Juice No. 1, and is arsenicated. This was tried out in Lake County, Florida, twenty-five years ago, and has been in use there yearly ever since. This Thrip Juice No. 1, by the growers, is used with a very great dilution. It is exported to the West Indies.

No. 2 Thrip Juice has been in use for twenty-nine years. The past two years there has been a steadily increasing demand, as it is becoming better known. If any Florist wishes to test Thrip Juice No. 2, and will pay the expressage, we will send him a sample for trial, because we know there is "No Magic in Killing Bugs," and it is the general average of success that proves the practical lasting value of any article.

No Greenhouse Equals The U-Bar

This is the U-Bar, the bar that makes U-Bar Greenhouses the Famous Greenhouses They Are.

At a glance that's apparent. The reason is, the U-Bar. To put it another way; you can put a gold plated harness on a heavy draft horse and hitch him to a swell little runabout—but with all his trappings he ambles along draft horse fashion just the same. So by the same token, putting a curved eave on a greenhouse does not make it a U-Bar curved eave house. It only looks something like it from the outside. A U-Bar house is distinctly different and it's the U-Bar that makes it so. Send for a catalogue and find out just why.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Rambler Roses.

The wood of the several rambler roses that are to be forced should be well ripened up. Those that have been grown in the open ground should be lifted and potted. The pot grown stock should be subjected to some freezing weather, but they should not be left out until the weather becomes severe enough to freeze the ground so that the pots become broken. A covering of leaves may be placed over the pots if the wood has not been thoroughly ripened, but they are better stored in deep pits or sheds, where the temperature may be kept just above the freezing point. The small twiggy wood should be cut out, leaving the strong canes and these should be tied to a stake and kept erect. This will greatly reduce the labor when moving them and allow for closer packing when they are packed away and besides prevent the branches from lying on the ground and becoming soft or perhaps causing rot, if too damp. The stock that is lifted and potted should be given a rich rose soil and potted firmly, ramming the soil down hard with a wooden stick. All roses require a firm soil to get the best results. The Baby Ramblers can be carried into the houses and brought into bloom for Christmas. A temperature of 60 degrees to 65 degrees should produce plants with bloom if started at once.

Outside Tulips.

The tulips should be planted in the beds as soon as possible from now on. It will do them no good to remain out of the soil, for they will lose some of their vitality. While we do not like to plant them out when the soil and weather are warm, yet October and early November is the proper time to get them in. There is danger now of the ground becoming frozen at any time and they should all be planted while the ground can be worked, for it is very difficult to set them even after a thin crust has formed on the soil. The covering can, however, be left until freezing weather sets in, and, in fact, is better, for if the ground becomes frozen the bulbs will not make any top growth, which is likely to occur if covered now and kept too warm. Do not cover too deeply. The object of the covering is not to prevent the soil from freezing, but to prevent the alternate thawing and freezing that often occurs and which will in some cases throw the bulbs out of the soil altogether. Leaves three or four inches thick make the best covering, with boughs or boards laid across to prevent the winter winds from blowing them away.

Gladiolus Colvillei.

The winter blooming gladioli make a valuable addition to the late winter and spring flowers and are very useful as a cut flower or in all kinds of floral work. The blooms are much smaller than the Gladiolus Gandavensis and kindred kinds and can be artistically employed. The varieties grown are The Bride, white; Blushing Bride, white, tinged with pink, and Peach Blossom, light pink. The culture of these is very easy and by a succession of plantings the flowers may be had all through early spring up to June. The bulbs can be procured all at once and kept dry and cool, but do not leave them standing around in the room over the boilers or they will rapidly lose their vitality. They can be planted in deep flats and placed in an out-of-the-way place until they begin to grow, when they should be given a light location in a house with a temperature similar to that in which carnations are grown. The flowers will be larger and have more substance if grown cool, but it will take considerably longer to get them into bloom. Some growers plant these bulbs between the rows of the carnations or the violets, but our experience has been that it is far better to grow them in boxes by themselves, for the carnations will need all the nourishment in the soil if growing well, and if not, they as well as the violets when through blooming better be cleaned out and some other crop planted and not have a crop mixed in which would delay the planting or occupying of the space. These gladioli will be found very useful and well appreciated by the best trade.

Otaheite Oranges.

The fruits of the Otaheite oranges are now fully formed and of good size, but to be at their best stage at Christmas, when the plant is most desired, they should be well colored. They should be given a light location, having plenty of sun, but not too warm. If grown too warm, the fruit colors up slowly: a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees at night, with good ventilation during the day from this time on will bring good results. Keep the plants free from scale, which rapidly covers them if once fully established and not kept off. Where they are seen constant washing will be required, and a weak kerosene emulsion is efficacious in keeping them down. When well fruited and the fruits nicely colored, these small orange trees make one of the finest Christmas plants.

Spiraea Japonica.

When the roots of spiraea arrive, do not leave them lying around in a dry state. This plant never does well if allowed to get too dry, even in a dormant stage, and every grower knows that one of the principal things in growing them is to keep them well supplied with water. Those that are to be grown for Easter are better potted at once and kept cool until the first of the year, but before potting soak the clumps well in a tub of water; then after potting water thoroughly and place in a cool, dark place. Those that are to be bloomed for Memorial day or late in spring can be left in the case, but turn the hose on them and give them a good soaking and then put them in a cool, damp cellar until late in winter, when they can be benched or potted as desired.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Boston Flower Exchange has leased the store and basement at 1 and 3 Winthrop square and 18 to 32 Otis street for a long term. The lease begins January 1, 1913. Extensive alterations will be made.

BROOKLINE, MASS.—Albert H. Wood, who shot and killed Thomas Goldrop while the latter was trying to steal flowers from Wood's greenhouse, was found criminally liable in a report of Justice Thomas F. Perkins, filed October 15.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—Mrs. Edward D. Ellsworth has purchased 74 shares of stock of the Rosery, a local flower business, which makes Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth sole owners of the business and property. Extensive improvements are planned and in future the business will be directed from the Armour boulevard establishment.

PITTSBURG, PA.—The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is preparing to build a clubhouse and dormitory for its employees at the firm's Bakerstown plant. The building will be of two stories, with sleeping quarters for about thirty-five men on the second floor and reading and writing rooms, shower bath, etc., on the first. About ninety men are employed at Bakerstown by this company and the new building is the result of poor boarding and rooming facilities in the neighborhood.

Some Matthews Designs.

At the funeral of the late Wilbur Wright, the brilliant young aviator and co-inventor with his brother of the Wright biplane, the floral tributes were many and some of them of beautiful design. From all over the country friends and business associates paid their last respects with gifts of flowers.

In a recent number and elsewhere in this issue are shown four designs by W. G. Matthews of Dayton, O., where Mr. Wright lived and where the funeral was held, which testify to the florist's talent for design work. All of the pieces are excellently done, the work of one who knew how to conform his artistic taste appropriately to the occasion.

In the issue of September 28, pages 574 and 575, there appear two of his designs worthy of note. The first represents the wheel of progress and the wing of aviation and is composed of carnations, White Killarney roses and sweet peas. The other is a wreath ordered by the School of Aviation, Washington, D. C., in token of its respect.

One of the designs shown in this issue is a wonderfully beautiful wreath of galax leaves, orchids and lily of the valley. It is from the New York directors of the Wright factory. The other design is the first floral aeroplane ever made. It is an attempt by Mr. Matthews to meet the common desire for bizarre floral work and at the same time to make the piece as artistic as possible. It succeeds as well as any such attempt ever does and such faults as it has are due to the nature of the design ordered. It is composed of white carnations and Kaiserin roses with the ground of the design covered with asparagus plumosus. It is inscribed, "Our President," and on the small wreath are the words: "From the Factory." The piece measured 6x10 feet and Mr. Matthews is said to have received a good price for it.

The Bull Frog Centerpiece.

The bull frog centerpiece will make a striking decoration if care is taken in the size and quantity of material used. Starting with the bull frogs—the wire frame should be graceful and about eight to ten inches in height. Make the frogs of clover leaves, the large kind found in the pink clovers; arrange the under body of the white clover. Place the frogs around a bed of green moss, in the center of which is a miniature pond of pond lilies. The pond should not be overcrowded with the lilies. A place in the center could be filled with gold fish. Around the edge, bank a large full garland of pink clovers, combining it with maidenhair ferns, placing the ferns on the table as a flat finish. There should be about five frogs in all, and where they are, bunches of the very small pond lily leaf can be advantageously placed. The pond lilies should not tower above the frogs, and will look best if arranged in circle garland effect on the inner circle of the pond, thus allowing sufficient space for a gold fish effect in the center. The decoration when finished should be in the nature of a mound—a gradual slope. Full frog ornaments can be used as favors and green electric candlesticks where most effective. In place of the pink clover garland small trees can be made of the clovers and placed at the intervals between the frogs on the outer edge and finished at base with the small pond lily leaves or even the clover foliage would be more effective. The trees should be made solid of the pink clover blossoms only and should be placed in small green basket tubs. A. E. K.

ANACONDA, MONT.—The Butte Floral Co. of this place suffered a loss by water as a result of fire in adjoining buildings October 18.

PEORIA, ILL.—The will of the late James C. Murray has been probated. The entire estate is left to the widow who is also named executrix.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—The Merriam Park Floral Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $25,000 by Max Kaiser, St. Paul, and Peter P. Quist and Nels O. Welander, Minneapolis.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—The following officers were re-elected at the October meeting of the Springfield Florists' Club: Christian Benning, president; C. A. Schaefer, vice-president; Arthur C. Leedle, secretary; Charles W. Unglaub, treasurer.

Sesame Culture in the South.

Sesame or benne plant (Sesamum orientale Linn.) is a native of India, and is now being cultivated in nearly all tropical and semi-tropical regions of the world. The plant is a hairy, sticky annual, about three feet high, and produces an abundance of small, flat, pear-shaped seeds. It was first introduced into the United States before the middle of the seventeenth century, says the Scientific American, and was cultivated successfully as far north as Burlington, New Jersey. It ripens its seed in most of the Middle States. Sesame is admirably adapted to the dry soil in the southern part of the United States, Mexico, Central America, Colombia, British Guiana, and other parts of South America. Within a comparatively few years its culture has been undertaken in Germany, France, and England. In Mexico it flourishes in soils scarcely suitable for any other crop, and it is quite probable that the center of the sesame industry in the western hemisphere will soon develop in that country and the southwestern United States, where a good deal of land is allowed to lie idle because it is unfit for most of the other farm crops. The negroes near Charleston, South Carolina, are said to have grown sesame in a small way for over two hundred years.

The United States Department of Agriculture is now conducting experiments in the southwest, and the results thus far attained show conclusively that in many parts this crop will richly repay for planting. The next step on the part of the department officials is to find a market for the crop, and they are now endeavoring to interest confectioners to use the oil, which is at present obtained from Marseilles in France, where the greater proportion of the commercial oil is expressed.

The chief merit of this crop is that it requires very little cultivation of the soil. It is sown in shallow drills usually from three to four feet apart and about twelve inches apart in the rows. Sowing takes place as early in the spring as possible. In the southern States it requires from the first of April to June for the crop to ripen, but the plants are left in the field until autumn, when the leaves fall off. The stems are then cut, bound in sheaves and stacked in the field to dry. When the oblong pods or capsules which contain numerous small seeds are thoroughly dry, they burst open. A piece of cloth is then spread out on the ground and the sheaves are shaken over it so as to gather the seeds.

An abundance of yellow, mild and bland oil called "gingelly," resembling olive oil, is obtained from the seed. If the oil is of a very good quality, it is employed as an adulterant of oil of almonds, and is of great economic value, only second to cocoanut oil in the variety of its uses. It is employed for culinary purposes, food, medicine, cosmetics, illumination, lubrication, soap-making, etc. The oil is also used in making a very attractive confection, being used like peanut in making a "brittle." The cakes left after the oil has been pressed from the seeds are used as food by the poorer classes and also serve as good food for cattle. The negroes of Mexico are in the habit of crushing or grinding the seeds into a meal for the purpose of making a drink like coffee. The narcotic properties are very pronounced.

The demand in the United States for gingelly oil is constantly increasing, and although the price of the seed is rather low there is undoubtedly a favorable opportunity for developing sesame culture in the Southern States. In case of its production on a scale larger than it is at present it would soon become an economical question, and the price of both seed and oil would increase in value.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Novelties in 1912.

In commenting on the present year's novelties it is but fair to state that all with the exception of our own should have been planted earlier to insure the maximum quality. Mme. Corday is described as an early October pink, but with us it is just finished on the nineteenth. It is of a very pretty shade of silvery pink and has the appearance of making very large blooms when grown under the best conditions. It is decidedly reflexed and will not ship as well as some of the incurved sorts. Fleuve Dore, also described as an early yellow, with us is not quite finished. It is an amber or orange yellow, but we can not see a place for it in either the exhibition or commercial list. August Dasse at present is only half developed, but it is very promising, both in growth and bud development, having the appearance of a good commercial orange yellow, reverse of petals slightly hairy. Souv. de Maurice Dalle is not sufficiently developed for us to form a just opinion. The incurved pink buds look promising. Hirondele is still in a half-finished condition, presenting a beautiful shade of rose pink, and apparently of the best incurved form. We are anxious to see this one mature.

The foregoing varieties were from the E. G. Hill Co. and the following from Chas. H. Totty, and without question the best from this source is Ramapo. With us it is in its height of glory from the twentieth to twenty-fifth, immediately following Chrysolora and preceding Col. D. Appleton. It is not as closely incurved as Appleton, as will be seen by the accompanying illustration, which is from a bud of September. It is a very fine shade of bright yellow, free and easy to grow, having ample foliage with short neck and strong stem. Notwithstanding the many forerunners which have been strongly recommended for commercial use emanating from Madison, N. J., we believe we are not mistaken in stating this one possesses more points of excellence for the grower than any variety heretofore offered by this firm.

We are unable to pass justly upon most of the Wells-Pockett collection for various reasons. Mrs. Gilbert Drabble was received so late we did not attempt to flower it. We lost all the buds on Wm. Kleinheinz. Mrs. Geo. Burke is rather early but we doubt if it can compete on the exhibition tables with some of the older varieties. Mrs. Peter Duff in color is much like Mrs. J. E. Dunne, although not as smooth a bloom, but considerably earlier, and may be of some service in localities where the shows occur the last of October. Mrs. A. M. Henshaw is an incurved white, said to be way ahead of Merza, but the few plants flowering with us do not so indicate at present. We will wait until both are finished before making further comments. We either have our labels interchanged on Mrs. Robt. Foote and Mrs. Harry Turner or the cuts representing them are transposed. The former is now a half developed bud, rather rough looking, while the latter is very smooth and promising and should it continue as it now appears it will outrank the others we have tested of this collection. Of our novelties, Pink Gem will be cut within a few days. Although undersized it has splendid stem, fine incurved form and is a most durable flower. Aesthetic is nicely in color and ready the last of October. It looks very promising. Nontero will not be ready before November 15. All the buds indicate splendid blooms. Harvard has been recently disbudded but the plants show a good healthy condition, which indicates satisfactory results later. Of the exhibition section, Christy Mathewson is now finishing nicely and Artistic Queen will be seen in its best form soon. Manhattan and Smith's Sensation are only in a semi-developed state, but judging from the size of the buds will finish well.

Recent Introductions.

The very interesting notes from the pen of Miss S. A. Hill in a recent issue of a contemporary have been read with appreciation and there is no better time than the present to make a low bow to this eminent writer in acknowledgment of the compliments extended. Without a desire on our part to place our judgment in such matters at a premium, still it verifies our opinion, expressed some six years ago when we first entered a protest against the indiscriminate dissemination of foreign novelties for the use of the American grower. There is an occasional kind that may stand the critical scrutiny exercised among the American trade, but if we look back over these six years we find very few of foreign origin among the many recommended for this purpose that have been grown more than a few years, and almost invariably they have been supplemented by American products. The kinds now grown so fully establish this fact, that those who protested our assertions very willingly concede the progressive stand taken was well founded. What would be the result if the carnation growers were deprived of those grown in this country? If the American rose does not occupy so eminent a place today, it surely will tomorrow. If the reader will pardon this extended detour we will return to the subject.

Chrysolora needs no further comment as all who have grown it agree as to its excellence. Smith's Advance has been more in evidence this season and where well grown and allowed to develop has sold well. Unaka is really the best at present in an early pink. Its weak points are the poor color from the earliest buds and its inclination to give thin flowers from the late ones. An intermediate bud about August 10 seems to be most satisfactory. Dick Witterstaetter is the best red for late October. December Gem and Roman Gold are still in the bud state, but will take care of themselves. Mlle. Arlette Dubois is much easier to grow than Virginia Poehlmann, and they resemble each other very much, although we believe when well done Poehlmann would be a trifle superior. With us Dubois has a few tubular petals which protrude beyond the incurved ones giving a slightly rough appearance. Those who do not succeed in propagating Poehlmann should give this one a trial. We are cutting ours today, October 21.

ELMER D. SMITH.

The St. Paul Show.

All the committees are hard at work arranging for the big show which begins next week. At the last meeting the following additional committees were appointed: Committee to handle passes, E. L. May, S. D. Dysinger and O. R. Eckhardt; committee to take charge of ticket office and doors, O. R. Eckhardt and P. N. Hermes; committee to take charge of the flower booth, F. N. Bingham, M. C. Hansen and E. P. Holm; music committee, E. W. Reid, A. Lauritsen and M. G. Hansen. An information committee of ten was also authorized with C. E. Schaffer of La Crosse as chairman. The members of the committee will be named later. It is the intention to have this committee on the floor at all times to answer questions pertaining to the flowers. A great deal of information is always asked from the florists at the show by the general public regarding the variety, care, cultivation, etc., of flowers, and it was thought best to have this committee to look after and answer these questions.

Mrs. Ruff was appointed to look after the photographic contest. One novel feature of this is to be a set of pictures illustrating tree surgery. The mayor will be present on the opening evening, and it is also hoped to have the governor and his staff present on that occasion.

Season tickets in lots of ten will be distributed this week by a committee from the Association of Commerce, who will solicit merchants and others. The program will carry no advertising, and it is thought that this feature will commend itself to our merchants, as they are being constantly solicited for advertising in various programs which of itself is of very little benefit to them. In place of this advertising they will be asked to buy tickets to distribute to their employees, friends and customers, and it is hoped in this manner to sell several thousand tickets in advance of the opening of the show. Season tickets will be sold for $2, good for the four days of the show and the symphony concert on Sunday.

The premium committee has received a trophy from J. F. Wilcox & Sons of Council Bluffs, Ia., suitably engraved, which will be awarded in place of one of the cash premiums, this being necessary on account of the trophy coming too late to announce in the regular premium list.

Saturday evening, November 9, has been designated as Elks and U. C. T. night, and all members of these orders in the city have been invited to attend with their friends, and in honor of the orange, with a reddish tinge towards the edges) and Exquisite (deep pink, with the edges of the petals darker, and a shading of orange, especially towards the center). All three were obtained by the inter-crossing of Begonia socotrana and a yellow flowered variety of the tuberous-rooted section, and the whole of them were given awards of merit by the floral and in other particulars, but especially in the season of flowering, these varieties show markedly the influence of Begonia socotrana. The cultural requirements of this class of begonias are not at all exacting, provided a few important particulars are borne in mind. After the flowering season is over they should not be kept quite dry, as in the case of the tuberous-rooted varieties, for the socotrana hybrids do not form as solid a tuber as the others. Throughout the winter they should be placed in a structure where a temperature of 50° to 60° is maintained, and be kept fairly dry; that is to say, in a condition which the gardener would indicate by the expression, "on the dry side." With the return of spring the plants will soon begin to grow, and when the young shoots are long enough, they may be taken and inserted as cuttings. In a close propagating-case they will soon root, and when sufficiently hardened off they may be potted singly or shifted into larger pots. Throughout the summer no fire-heat will be required, but a genial atmosphere must be maintained, and the structure in which the plants are growing be shaded from the rays of the sun. As the nights grow cold, of course, heat must be given in the pipes. The young plants, according to their vigor, will flower in pots from 4 inches to 5 inches in diameter, while a few of the strongest may be given even larger pots. If it is intended to grow the old plants on instead of propagating from them, they may, when the young shoots are from 1 inch to 2 inches in length, be shaken almost clear of the old soil and repotted. A suitable compost for these begonias can be formed of two-thirds fibrous loam, pulled to pieces by the hand, and one-third leaf-mould, with a liberal sprinkling of silver sand. It may be noted that the exceedingly popular socotrana hybrid, Gloire de Lorraine, was obtained by crossing the species just named and the fibrous-rooted B. Dregei.—London Garden.

New Winter-Flowering Begonias.

A species that has played a very important part towards the production of the many winter-flowering begonias of today is Begonia socotrana, which, valuable itself for its high ornamental qualities, is rendered ten times more so by reason of the importance of its numerous progeny. From the first it promised to be of considerable value to the hybridist, and was employed in various crosses.

The first result of this was the variety John Heal, named in honor of the raiser. It flowered in 1883, and was distributed two years later, when it was given a first-class certificate by the Royal Horticultural Society. This was obtained from Begonia socotrana fertilized with the pollen of a red-flowered tuberous-rooted variety, Viscountess Doneraile. Working more or less on the same lines, a great number of beautiful varieties were raised, and many of them are now extensively grown wherever flowering plants are in demand. Of the several kinds, the brilliant rose carmine colored Mrs. Heal remained for a long time the best of the section. So matters stood until the autumn of last year, when at the meeting of the Royal Horticultural Society on November 7, the veteran raiser, with a quiet confidence which betokened success, brought forward three new varieties, namely, Acquisition (bright pink, with a slight yellowish suffusion), Her Majesty (warm committee. A fortnight later—that was, on November 21—the variety Fascination was shown, and received a similar honor to the three already mentioned. The parents of this were B. socotrana and a copper-colored tuberous-rooted variety. Another hybrid shown at the same time as Fascination was Rose Queen, whose large flowers are of a deep bright rose color. It was obtained from B. socotrana and a white-flowered tuberous-rooted kind.

The main characteristics of these newer varieties of winter-flowering begonias, compared with the older kinds, are a sturdier and more freely branching habit of growth, and larger and better-shaped flowers, which in general appearance suggest those of the tuberous-rooted forms. In foliage

Philadelphia Notes.

Robert Craig picked that grand yellow chrysanthemum, Bonnafon, as a winner from a lot of Dornier's seedlings at an exhibition some twenty years ago. He introduced Major Bonnafon to Mr. Dornier, who, finding him a genial gentleman very fond of flowers, named this yellow seedling in his honor.

The Robert Craig Co. has sold the Forty-ninth and Chestnut corner of its property for a very good price. None of the greenhouses are erected on this part of the ground. An immense shipping business is going on. Ferns, dracenas and ficus pandurata are moving out in large quantities.

B. Eschner, of M. Rice & Co., is a busy man these days, although his business is systematized to almost run itself. He is always on the job. The firm's iridescent colored baskets are having a great run.

Frank Gaul is receiving words of commendation and the best wishes of the trade for success in his new Thirtieth street store. He expects to open about November 1.

Scott's Irish Fire Flame, Dixon's new flame-colored single rose, is now being offered for sale. Its wonderful coloring in the bud compels attention from all who see it.

J. W. Colflesh's Sons have reduced fern culture to a fine point. The six-inch to eight-inch Scottii, Giatrasii and Scholzelii are extra fine commercial stock.

Berger Bros.' Central market is alive with chrysanthemums. Paul Kling-sporn reports that the demand for them keeps up very well.

American Beauties are leaders at Ed. Reid's Ranstead street establishment. Extra sized chrysanthemums are also seen here.

Splendid chrysanthemums are the feature at the Niessen market. Nothing better has ever been offered commercially.

Potted chrysanthemums are now much in evidence. James Cole at Fifty-fifth and Walnut is sending in fine stock.

MARKET PRICES STEADY.

The flower shops are radiant with a profusion of midseason chrysanthemums. With the cooler weather prevailing last month there has been a further improvement in florist stock. American Beauty and Pink Killarney roses are noticeably improved and carnations show more substance every day. Stock of all kinds is moving well, the supply keeping good pace with the demand, excepting Liberty and Wards, which are scarce. There is also a shortening of valley. So far there has been no slump on chrysanthemums. The E. W. McLellan Co. is making large shipments daily of select blooms to Portland, Seattle, Salt Lake and Los Angeles and has been an important factor in maintaining the equilibrium of the market. Market prices continue steady. Cattleya labiata are coming more freely at $50 to $60 a hundred; Phalenopsis amabilis may be had on call; American Beauties are fairly plentiful, the best at $2 a dozen. Killarney, Richmond, Liberty, Maryland and Kaiserin are steady at 35 cents to 50 cents and 75 cents a dozen. Cecil Bruner sells at 8 bunches for $1. Carnations are quite good at 20 cents and 25 cents a dozen. Gladioli are gone and dahlias are getting smaller and are displaced by the chrysanthemums. Valley are 50 cents a dozen and getting scarce. Chrysanthemums average $1 a dozen, some inferior stock selling as low as 50 cents. Select blooms of Jeffreys bring $1.50 a dozen and Columbia and Bonnafon a little less. Violets move well at 75 cents a dozen bunches.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY MEETING.

The meeting of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society was a lively and interesting session. The large attendance present extended a hearty welcome to the returning delegation to the late S. A. F. convention. The popularity of President Angelo J. Rossi was attested by the hearty three cheers and a tiger tendered him as he resumed the gavel. The evening was largely given over to the delegation relating their experiences and observations at the convention and in the various cities visited by them. At the conclusion of his address D. MacRorie created much merriment by recounting a number of humorous situations in which some one of his fellow travelers always figured as the "goat." President Rossi, H. Plath and Julius Epstein each addressed the members at length and all expressed their sincere appreciation for the cordial reception and courtesies paid them by the fraternity in general while they were away. In view of the fact that many florists are opposed to presenting certain customers or friends with tickets to the flower shows, the society will sell a form of complimentary ticket in lots of not less than $5 at half rates to such florists as may desire them. The feature of the monthly exhibition was a splendid lot of dahlia seedlings shown by Thos. A. Munro. There were no freaks, each one of the 25 shown giving evidence of intelligent crossing and selection. The judges awarded them 95 points. "The Ferneries" were awarded 80 points for specimen Nephrolepis Harrisii, Wm. Kettlewell 60 points for Scabiosa Caucasus and the MacRorie & McLaren Co. 90 points for early flowered Phalenopsis amabilis and large spiked Oncidium splendendum. J. W. Bagge, T. W. Lee and W. Krabbenhaft acted as judges. The following were elected to membership: William H. Hutchings, A. W. Shurragar, Alex. Rose, William Young, A. McDonald Grant, B. Meyer, G. Bricejn, Frank Webster and Herbert E. Drew.

NOTES.

The California Nurserymen's Association will hold a meeting on November 8 to which all members of the local Horticultural Society are invited.

Fred Jaeger of the Fairmont Floral Co. expects to finish in about ten days the extensive alterations he is making in the store.

John C. Carbone reports a lively demand for cattleyas. One day recently a cut of 200 labiata would not fill the orders.

Emil Serveau has been in the hospital for two weeks, but is recovering.

Alex. Massey of Elmhurst is finishing a new rose house.

Rott's Church Decorations.

The decorations by Albert C. Rott, Joliet, Ill., for the church wedding of Dr. Frank D. Rich and Ethel Louise Folk, October 23, created much favorable comment. Wild smilax and autumn foliage were twined against the gold and green walls, creating a remarkably happy effect. The railing of the choir loft was festooned heavily with foliage and the altar was banked with palms flanked by huge bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

CONDITIONS UNCHANGED.

"About the same," may stand for the state of trade. There are no medals to be handed out as to the call of any particular flower. We are waiting for something to turn up. There are some elegant chrysanthemums on the market.

TWO STOCKHOLDERS' MEETINGS.

Stockholders of the Boston Flower Exchange sat down at the Quincy Hotel Saturday, October 26, to their annual banquet, with an orchestra which rendered popular music. President Stickel was in the chair. Ten per cent dividends were paid and a surplus of $6,000 for the year, which showed business to be on the right side. The same board of directors was elected with the exception of Thos. Peglar, who has gone in business in Maine. A. S. Parker, Stoneham, was elected in his place. Mr. Parker made a very witty speech which created much laughter. We should call Mr. Parker Mark Twain II. A straw vote was taken on the coming national election which resulted as follows: Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson. The last named received two votes. A communication was sent to the Co-operative Market stockholders at their annual banquet in the American House by special messenger stating that it was the sense of the meeting that the latter consolidate with them in their new place of business in Winthrop Square, which is to be ready about January 1, 1913. The meeting adjourned at about 10 o'clock. At the American House 50 stockholders of the Co-operative Market, two being ladies, sat down to a banquet of good things with an orchestra which kept things lively. President McFarland was toastmaster. Speeches were made by Wm. Elliot, — Leach, J. J. Zinn and others. Mr. Zinn took for his topic, "In Times of Overproduction of Flowers," and contrasted the way in which the flowers are bought by the better class of trade in Europe to that here. He handled the subject in his usual masterly style and gave his hearers much food for thought. A dividend of 20 per cent was paid and a surplus for the year of over $1,300. This is a good showing for the size of the market and the uphill struggle it had in getting started, and the men in the directorate ought to receive praise. The communication from the Flower Exchange was received with favor and cordiality, and was voted to be put in the hands of the directors for action. With the addition of L. E. Small, the same board of directors were elected. The meeting was a most enjoyable one and was adjourned at 9:30.

NOTES.

We are glad to be able to give an opinion from a reliable source on the Workman's Compensation Act. Dudley M. Holman of the Industrial Accident Board, after a long conference and looking at it from every point of view, said that in his opinion the florist is in the same general line as the farmer and will be exempt from the terms of the act in this state under the broad term of farm labor. He is to put it up to the other members of the board in that light. The florists of the state have been in a quandary and some have already insured their help. We have no club that seems to take up such matters, so we have ourselves taken up the matter and got the above decision.

We met our friend George Watson from Sleepy Hollow. George informed us he was in Boston interviewing the seedsmen on something he has to sell.

SHORTAGE OF STOCK.

This week finds us in a severe shortage of stock of all kinds, especially chrysanthemums, as the later varieties have not started yet. We expect quite a scarcity of this flower for at least a week or two, when our later stock arrives. Roses and carnations are cleaning up daily, as do also American Beauties. A few callas are seen, but do not amount to much. It looks as though the dahlias are about over. Good valley is hard to get, as most of the stock is coming in small. Violets are coming in a little heavier and clean up very nicely. Greens are very plentiful and are being thrown away in quantities. Ward and Sunburst roses are arriving in greater quantities than usual, but the wholesaler manages to get rid of all that are received.

NOTES.

Foreman Jones, of Phipps Conservatories, Schenley Park, had quite a crowd of visitors at the chrysanthemum show Sunday. The weather was ideal and brought the people out in numbers.

Koval, who conducts a flower stand in the East Liberty Market, expects to open another at Frankstown and Homewood avenues next week.

M. C. King, of Washington, was a caller recently. He reports business very good and says he had a number of weddings this month.

Geo. Stratokos, the fern man of Butler, has left to join the Greek army in the battle against the Turks.

Mrs. J. Elicker of Homestead was in town this week. She reports a good run of funeral work.

W. J. Farney, representing M. Rice & Co., Philadelphia, is in town with a line of supplies.

The Duquesne Flower Co. has opened its old stand in Market street.

HOLIDAYS HELP TRADE.

Last week business started poorly but became better each day as the week progressed. At the close fair clearances were effected in almost all lines. Sunday was the first day that All Saints and All Souls day was celebrated at some of the large local cemeteries. This, in the main, accounts for the excellent business at the close of the week. The balance was just a steady development, or rather expansion. The first day of this week showed up to noon limited offerings and a good but not overly active call. The supply of roses continues large and all are of a very good quality. The list includes American Beauties, pink and white Killarney, Bridesmaids, My Maryland, Richmond, Taft, Ivory, Golden Gate, Sunburst and Mrs. Aaron Ward. Carnations are selling very nicely but are not as yet bringing the highest prices. The call in chrysanthemums is strongest for the medium size. Small ones come next in the point of popularity with the choicest and largest a good third. Very many of the short and medium-sized should be used for decorative purposes at the various cemeteries about the city. Other offerings include excellent giganteum lilies, lily of the valley, double and single violets, snapdragons, sweet peas and orchids. The first callas have made their appearance. Business the entire week in all lines of greens was good. The strongest call was for cut ferns and leucothoe.

NOTES.

The Hill-Heller Co. held a chrysanthemum show at its store on Race street the last three days of this week.

The show consisted of many novelties as well as a large supply of choice seasonable flowers which was shown to the large number of people who visited the place in response to well-worded daily paper advertisements. E. G. Hill's many cups won in competition were also displayed. The whole presented an attractive appearance. E. G. Hill, Myer Heller, Earl Mann, Fred Lemon and Henry Shephard were down for the occasion.

C. E. Critchell has been receiving large shipments of double violets for the past fortnight. He has been getting callas also for the same length of time.

E. G. Gillett suffered a very painful injury to his ankle last Saturday on the way home from the office. He slipped and turned his foot.

P. J. Olinger, Chas. Jones and Geo. Tromey went to Mr. Olinger's greenhouses at New Castle, Ind., last Thursday.

Dan Carmichael, of the J. M. McCullough Sons Co., has returned from his trip to the East.

Albert McCullough has returned from his annual trip to Florida.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS PLENTIFUL.

The chrysanthemum season is now in full swing, and enough of all colors and grades are on the market to fill all orders. Carnations have been short of demand. Roses remain plentiful and stock is fine. Calla lilies are beginning to arrive. Valley and orchids are in good supply with a fair demand. Boxwood is having a good call and stock is exceptionally fine this season. All outdoor stock is now past the stage of usefulness. Greens of all kinds are plentiful. Violets are fine and in good demand.

NOTES.

Smith & Fetter's decoration at the new Statler hotel for the iron and steel men's convention was one of the finest seen here for some time. What with the richness of the paintings, fixtures and the grand floral display, the hotel furnished a wonderfully beautiful picture.

Pete Nichols, this city's wealthy florist who is in the Greek army, has sent his friends a picture showing him in the uniform of the king's bodyguard.

The Westman & Getz Co. executed one of their usual novel table decorations the past week for a dinner in honor of a local leader of woman suffrage.

Northern Indiana Florists' Association.

The Northern Indiana Florists' Association met at Kendallville in regular quarterly meeting Oct. 16. The most of the time was spent inspecting places of interest, among which were the houses of the Johnson Floral Co., which certainly were in the pink of condition. The firm has only recently installed two new boilers and is all ready for winter.

The Kendallville Celery Gardens was another place of much interest. Here they do things with system and from a scientific standpoint. The Flint & Walling pump and windmill factories were of much interest. As we went through we could see on every hand men and machines working together like the wheels in a clock. These works are the largest of the kind in the world and are known all over the globe.

The association also visited the McCray Refrigerator Co. The florists' refrigerators of this company are among the best. To say the workmen here take pride in their work is putting it mildly. It is indeed a wonderful sight.

The meeting itself though brief, was very interesting, for in it we annexed northern Ohio and Chicago to our territory when we added to our membership the names of the following: Christ Winterich, the "Cyclamen King" of Defiance, O.; Theodore Haserodt of the Mt. Gilead Pottery Co., Mt. Gilead, O.; A. W. Hesse of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago; C. O. Wilcox of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago. There were also three new names from our own state, S. H. Ten Eyck, Auburn; Otto O. Shrock, Ligonier; Arthur E. Sumner, Garrett.

The banquet was held in the dining room of the First M. E. Church, and was served by the church ladies. Our exhibit was arranged in the Sunday school room of the church, which proved an ideal place. The exhibits were the largest and best we have ever had, consisting of entries by the following:

Frank & Sons, Portland—White and Pink Killarney, Maryland. Kaiserin and W. R. Smith roses.

W. W. Cole, Kokomo—Kaiserin, W. R. Smith and Killarney roses.

Johnson Floral Co., Kendallville—Rose Pink and Enchantress carnations and ferns, cyclamens and Glory of Cincinnati begonias.

L. A. Cole, Kokomo—Bonfire, Enchantress and White Enchantress carnations.

W. W. Dederick, Warsaw—Dorothy Gordon, W. Perfection, Enchantress and White Wonder carnations.

Ten Eyck & Son, Auburn—chrysanthemums in variety.

South Bend Floral Co.—chrysanthemums.

Christ Winterich, Defiance, O.—specimen plants of cyclamens in 6 and 8-inch pots that were wonderful.

Simon Humfeld, Muncie—samples of plants and florists' supplies.

Mt. Gilead Pottery Co., Mt. Gilead, O.—flower pots.

A. A. Arnold, Chicago—cut flower boxes.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago—ruscus and florists' supplies.

W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago—supplies and bulbs.

The next regular meeting will be held in Columbus City, Ind., January 15, 1913. A. J. WAGONER, Sec'y.

Washington.

Gude Bros. had a very pretty house decoration for the wedding of Miss Laura Byrne to Lieut. B. Wood Simpson. The decoration consisted of autumn foliage, palms and white chrysanthemums. The bride carried a bouquet of valley and orchids and the bridesmaid a large bunch of yellow chrysanthemums.

A. Lanscher, who has been with Z. D. Blackstone for a number of years, will leave Washington November 1 to start in business for himself at Lynchburg, Va.

The florists of this city report that Lady Hillingdon is one of the best selling roses they have had for some time.

Theo. Diedrich is cutting some very fine Chrysolora chrysanthemums; also a new seedling which is very fine.

Gude Bros. had the decoration for the nineteenth anniversary of the Hann department store.

Visitors: J. J. Goudy, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. Heacock, Philadelphia, Pa.

AN English edition of the Japanese tariff of 1911 has just been published by the Department of Commerce and Labor. To facilitate the use of the work the rates of duty are given both in Japanese and American currency, weights and measures. Copies may be obtained on application to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C.

Telegraph Delivery.

The importance and convenience of telegraph delivery in the cut flower trade is emphasized in a circular sent out by the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, an organization of some sixty members who do an interchange business. This society is endeavoring to educate the public to the advantages of its system and the knowledge that flowers may be sent in this way is gradually taking hold.

At a recent meeting of the F. T. D. one of the members said: "During the year 1909, which was the year previous to the birth of this organization, if I remember right, we sent out 360 orders from our place of business, amounting to $2,950. In the year 1910 we sent out 405, aggregating $3,150. In 1911 the business aggregated $3,430, with 435 orders sent out."

According to the circular, a reasonable estimate, judging by the foregoing statement, of the business done by the sixty members would be $420,000 annually. With 200 members this would amount to $1,400,000 each year. In soliciting members the organization points to the many benefits to be derived for a small fee—such as the advertising, the general upbuilding of the trade, etc.

Chrysanthemum Society of America.

EXAMINING COMMITTEES.

President Chas. H. Totty announces the committees to examine new chrysanthemums for the ensuing year as follows:

Boston—Wm. Nicholson (chairman), James Wheeler, Alex. Montgomery. Ship flowers to Boston Flower Exchange, C., Park street, care of chairman.

New York — Eugene Dailedouze (chairman), Wm. H. Duckham, A. Herrington. Ship flowers to New York Cut Flower Co., 55 Twenty-second street, care of chairman.

Philadelphia—A. B. Cartledge (chairman), John Westcott, S. S. Pennock. Ship flowers to A. B. Cartledge, 1514 Chestnut street.

Cincinnati—R. Witterstaetter (chairman), James Allen, Henry Schwartz. Ship flowers to chairman, Jabez Elliott Flower Market, care janitor.

Chicago—J. B. Deamud (chairman), D. A. Robertson, Peter Schilt. Ship flowers to J. B. Deamud, 160 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Shipments should be made to arrive by 2 p. m. on examination days to receive attention from the committees. Must be prepaid to destination and an entry fee of $2 should be forwarded to the secretary not later than Tuesday of the week they are to be examined, or it may accompany the blooms.

Seedlings and sports are both eligible to be shown before these committees, provided the raiser has given them two years' trial to determine their true character. Special attention is called to the rule that sports to receive a certificate must pass at least three of the five committees.

The committees will be in session to examine such exhibits as may be submitted on each Saturday during November, the dates of which will be November 2, 9, 16, 23, 30.

'MUM SEASON NEAR HEIGHTH.

The chrysanthemum season is now approaching its height and magnificent stock of all grades and of all colors, from the smallest pompons to the immense exhibition blooms, are now obtainable. Yellow chrysanthemums are scarce at times but white and pink are nearly always in good supply. Roses are more plentiful and in certain lines the market is weak. American Beauty roses of fine quality are arriving with plenty of long and medium stemmed flowers to go around. The shorter grades are scarce. Killarney and White Killarney are in good supply but in many instances the first named are off color. Good Richmond are still arriving in large quantities and move freely. Prince De Bulgarie, Mrs. Aaron Ward and Sunburst are exceptionally fine and are having a good call. The receipts of orchids are a little heavier; some beautiful Cattleya labiata, Dendrobium formosum and Oncidium varicosum, are to be had. Lilies are not in such good supply, but there are enough to fill all orders. There is plenty of lily of the valley and violets. One wholesaler says that violets sold for less money last week than in any other week in October. Gladioli are off the market but a few dahlias are still arriving. Home grown gardenias are very scarce but large shipments of these flowers are being received from the east. Carnations are in fair supply and have a fair demand. Some fine snapdragons are arriving, greens of excellent quality are in good supply with smilax quite plentiful.

FLORISTS' CLUB.

A paper on "The Retailing of Cut Flowers," by Irwin C. Bertermann of Indianapolis, Ind., will be read at the next meeting of the Florists' Club, to be held at the Union Restaurant November 7 at 8 p. m. Officers for the ensuing year will be nominated at this meeting.

Chairman French of the good-of-the-club committee announces that ladies' night will be Thursday, November 14, with a banquet and dance at the Hotel Sherman, at 7:30 p. m. sharp.

NOTES.

The George M. Garland Co. has just filled another order for O. C. Barber, of Barberton, O., which calls for two iron frame houses, 16x323 feet, one cross house 8x125 and another 16x62 feet. T. B. Gray, sales manager for the Garland Co., made a business trip to Fond du Lac and Janesville, Wis., this week.

Oscar Wiegand is back from a long visit in California with glowing accounts of the Golden State. During his stay at San Diego he purchased two lots and will most likely make his home there in the future.

Oscar Leistner, who has been abroad for several months, arrived in New York, on October 23, and will return here after calling on the trade in the principal cities in the east.

The John C. Moninger Co., is filling an order for Sherman & Morgan, of Elgin, for 3 new houses 27x150 feet. The order also includes the heating and watering systems.

Miss Ida Evert has leased a part of the basement formerly occupied by the Poehlmann Bros. Co., at 30 East Randolph street, and is now disposing of her brothers' stock.

A. Lange had an order for a large wedding at Oshkosh, Wis., last week that kept H. Stone and his force of assistants quite busy for a time.

Mrs. F. Beu lost her gold watch one day last week and after advertising in the daily papers for it for some time she gave up all hopes of ever getting it back, when Herman Schiller did the unexpected and called her up with the information that it was in his possession. He found it on the sidewalk in front of Kennicott Bros. store and recognized the watch by the initials on it and promptly returned it to its rightful owner.

The war in Mexico is not affecting the plant business to any great extent in that country as far as the Geo. Wittbold Co.'s customers are concerned for this firm is constantly receiving orders from the land of rebellions. Louis Wittbold says that his firm has one customer down there who must do a big business, as he is one of their largest buyers.

A. L. Vaughan & Co.'s shipments of chrysanthemums this week include nearly all the leading seasonable varieties and many of the blooms are fit for the exhibition table. W. E. Lynch says that the stock has been moving well, especially with the local buyers.

H. C. Blewitt, of Des Plaines, has finished work on his new iron frame house, 38x150 feet. John Prickett, of the Des Plaines Floral Co., had charge of the building and the George M. Garland Co. furnished the material.

The Raedlein Basket Co. is unpacking 17 cases of baskets which have just arrived from the Raedlein factories in Germany. Another shipment of 24 cases from the same place is due here next week.

John Micus, with Adam Ziska & Co., died of dropsy on October 23 and was buried the following Friday at the Bohemian National Cemetery. He was 48 years old and was well known to the local trade.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg is back from a well earned rest and is again at-

Bassett & Washburn bought 1,200 yards of burlap to cover up their partly unfinished houses during the recent cold spell and thereby probably saved their carnations from being touched by the frost. As soon as Mr. Washburn received notification from the weather bureau that a killing frost was due he got busy and closed in the unprotected houses without delay. He was none too soon, for that same evening the thermometer dropped to 28°. This firm is now cutting from a crop of imported pompons.

E. B. Washburn and family left on October 25 for Pasadena, Calif., and will make their home with O. P. Bassett until they find a permanent location. Mr. Washburn's many friends in the trade wish him well and hope that he will soon regain his health.

Miss O. A. Tonner, who recently took over the H. V. Tonner wholesale store, is now conducting the business under her name. She handles a large supply of chrysanthemums and carnations and a general line of seasonable cut flowers and greens.

The Chicago Carnation Co. is booking orders right along for its new scarlet carnation The Herald. A. T. Pyfer says it is doing fine in his firm's greenhouses at Joliet and he cordially invites the trade to visit the plant and see it growing.

Wm. Hild, of Nilesville, South Dakota, was in the city on business this week. He placed an order with A. Dietsch Co., for greenhouse material and bought a hot water boiler from the S. Wilks Manufacturing Co.

Percy Jones reports business in the supply department as very good, especially in the ribbon line, of which a large supply is carried. Louis Finne- man, formerly with Weiland & Risch, is now with this firm.

Erne & Klingel have had a good call for American Beauty roses and are receiving regular shipments of these flowers. This firm has a good local business and is now going after the shipping trade.

J. J. Johnson of Johnson & Chronis wishes to deny the report that he is going to Europe to fight the Turks. He says he can get all the Thanks-giving turkey he wants in Chicago.

The J. B. Deamud Co. finds the demand for chrysanthemums very brisk and reports a good local trade. This house, as usual, is well supplied with green goods of all kinds.

Chas. Samuelson is running a very neat display advertisement in the south side cars, American Beauties and violets are shown in colors.

Miss Gillam, daughter of Mrs. — Gillam of the Belmont Floral Co., is continuing her studies in botany and landscape gardening.

Sadie Blackley has opened a new flower store at 3101 Cottage Grove avenue under the name of the Columbia Florist.

Harry H. Hunt, of Hunt Bros., who opened a retail store at 3406 North Clark street, is doing a good business.

D. E. Freres is finding ready sale for the fine roses that he is receiving from Adam Zender's greenhouses.

J. Palus & Son have two houses of fine poinsettias which Mr. Palus says will be just right for Christmas.

Joseph Broeckl has opened a new flower shop at 2927 Evanston avenue.

Visitors: Gust. Rusch, with Gust. Rusch & Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; R. A. McPherson, manager of the Cottage Greenhouses, Litchfield; Geo. Crabb, with Crabb & Hunter, Grand Rapids, Mich.; William Hild, Fort Pierre, S. Dakota; Samuel Seligman, representing Wertheimer Bros., New York; Julius Dilloff, representing Schloss Brothers, New York; J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.

FROST FINALLY COMES.

At last we have had a frost and from now on it is to be hoped that trade will pick up. All flowers are plentiful, especially American Beauty roses. Carnations and other flowers are not bringing fancy prices, the chrysanthemums influencing the market. A week or so of cool weather will improve the sales of violets. Greens of all kinds are in demand, including galax and magnolia leaves. Ruscus is seen in all the wholesale houses.

NOTES.

Ostertag Bros. have issued a business card which reads: "Buy your flowers on the presidents' corner, Washington avenue and Jefferson." Pictures of Uncle Sam, Washington and Jefferson, adorn the card. This firm is up to date and original.

Officers of the Florists' Club met at the Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. to make arrangements for the reception of President Vincent of the S. A. F., who will deliver a lecture at the December meeting on the International Flower Show.

Charles R. Felton, son of R. F. Felton, florist to His Majesty King George of England, stopped over at St. Louis to visit his brother. He was enroute to New Orleans, where he will enter the employ of Harry Papworth.

The Kings Highway Floral Co. had an opening Saturday and Sunday. This store was formerly occupied by Dunford, the Florist. Miss Charlotte V. Hale, formerly with the Ellison Floral Co., will run the store.

A preliminary chrysanthemum show is now going on at Shaw's garden. The regular annual chrysanthemum show will take place in tents raised for the occasion in about two weeks.

Chas. Schoenle died suddenly at his residence over the store, 2255 La Fayette avenue, October 29. The funeral will take place Thursday, October 31, at 2 p. m.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS SELL WELL.

We have had two or three chilly days but little frost, and the dahlias are still with us. The crop is uncertain, however, as they do not mature well, and quite a number of stores have cut them out. The chrysanthemum is now the whole show and makes up by far the greatest part of the decorative effect in the flower shops. Some superb flowers are seen. Bonnaffon is here in all its glory. Florence Harris is another good sort. Chrysolora, the new yellow, is a grand flower. Many of the old favorites, such as Halliday, Early Snow, Pacific Supreme, Mrs. Hurley, Ivory and others find a good sale. Prices are good for the season, and considering the quantity coming in the market cleans up very well. Of the roses, Killarney is too plentiful. All the Tafts are quickly picked up every day. Mrs. Ward is also a good seller. Sunburst and Hillingdon are also in good demand. American Beauties do not accumulate to any extent, and prices are well maintained. Carnations are good but move sluggishly in the face of so much competition. Orchids seem to be overstocked, as some of the street men are

BUSINESS VERY POOR.

The business of the past week was very unsatisfactory in both the wholesale and retail trade. On October 23 there was a continuous downpour of rain which practically paralyzed business for that day and the two following days were dark and gloomy. The sun came out on Saturday and it was the one day of grace that saved the business of the week from pitiful slaughter. Stock, particularly chrysanthemums, has been pouring in, and under the above named conditions it has been puzzling to the wholesalers to know what to do with it. Chrysanthemums as usual at this season overshadow all other stocks, but there is no scarcity of the others. The chrysanthemums are very fine and the big fellows are already arriving. It has been noted that they are earlier this year than usual, which increases the congestion. There is always a demand for roses no matter what is on the market, but they have been moving very slowly and there is very fine stock at that, considering the season. Carnations are very hard to move but that is not surprising considering the other stocks that are all about. There has been no frost in this vicinity and dahlias and cosmos are yet arriving in quantity. Lilies are plentiful and cheap, in fact at the prices some of the big department stores are advertising all cut flowers in the daily papers, it would seem that they are extending an invitation to the regular retailers to get off the earth. However, present conditions cannot long continue. New retail stores are being opened, generally by young but experienced men, and throughout there is an atmosphere of optimism.

New York, Monday, October 28.—The market is better this morning. The supply of stock is somewhat lighter and there is a slight advance in the price of some stocks. The weather is clear and bracing and the general outlook is encouraging.

NOTES.

The publicity committee of the New York Florists' Club is active in a new scheme to popularize flowers. Large colored Halloween posters have been sent to all retailers. The illustration on the poster is of a bunch of yellow chrysanthemums, and a yellow pumpkin carved as a mask, just as we fixed them for putting a candle in when we were boys. A number of copies of a circular entitled "Flowers for Halloween" accompanied the posters—one to be placed in each box of flowers delivered to customers.

It having been reported that a new retail store on Madison avenue would be "headquarters for Briarcliff roses," Joseph Millang, general manager of the New York Cut Flower Co., authorizes us to state that his company handles the Briarcliff roses exclusively at wholesale. As is generally known, these roses are grown by the F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, and in the future, as in the past, the New York Cut Flower Co. will be their only headquarters in this city, says Mr. Millang.

Young & Nugent arranged a very beautiful wedding decoration, October 23, in the Church of the Advent, Broadway and Ninety-third street. The occasion was the marriage of Miss Ernestine Josephine Sierck to Edward P. Alker. The tasteful arrangement of a great number of chrysanthemums with autumn foliage won much favorable comment. The decoration was under the personal supervision of John B. Nugent, Jr.

The patriotic hearts of the Greeks of this city, many of whom are florists, are being fired by the news of the success attending the armies of their fatherland in the war with Turkey. At the Subway Florists, 283 Lenox avenue, they show with pride a photograph of Wm. H. Zois, one of their former associates in the business, but now wearing the uniform of a Greek soldier.

Kammann & Crowley have opened a handsome retail store at 31 West Fifty-eighth street. The senior member of this firm has for a number of years been well and favorably known in the retail trade of this city. His partner is a Newport, R. I., man and they will also have a store at that city. They have also the flower concession in the new Vanderbilt Hotel.

At one of the leading hotels, on October 23, there was a fine display of chrysanthemums decorating the luncheon tables. It was a matter for comment that they were not of the cheaper sorts, but the real exhibition varieties. It was the finest exhibit that has been seen in this city so early in the season. The decoration was by J. H. Small & Sons.

Clarence Slinn of Spring Valley, formerly with his brother, B. S. Slinn, Jr., in the wholesale business, recently went into business for himself, in the Coogan Building. Assuming that it is not good for man to be alone, he has married Miss Helen Bloomfield, a bright and intelligent young lady of this city.

George Hildenbrand, the popular retail florist of Washington Heights and formerly a familiar figure in the wholesale district, is the father of a new boy, born October 2. This makes three boys in the Hildenbrand family.

Traendley & Schenck are handling a big cut of chrysanthemums from Komitsch & Junge, Secaucus, N. J. They are also receiving much good stock from other growers.

H. E. Froment, who handles the immense rose cut of the L. B. Coddington range, Murray Hill, N. J., is now very busy with both roses and chrysanthemums.

William Kessler, who wholesales both plants and cut flowers at his 28th street store, is now very busy sending out evergreens for winter boxes.

Robert Pressfreund, who for the past fifteen years has conducted a retail store at 154 Third avenue, has opened another at 3493 Broadway.

M. C. Ford is handling fine stock of new crop sweet peas in addition to large consignments of chrysanthemums.

MILADY

Is Coming Out!

We shall disseminate in March the new red forcing Rose "MILADY." Look for it at the fall shows! We believe this variety means commercial, profitable red roses. It has color, size, substance fragrance and productiveness.

We invite you to visit our place and see it growing.

Rochester, N. Y.

Business for the week ending October 26 shows signs of improvement. There are lots of chrysanthemums on the market, but they are not so large as one might expect. There is an over supply of Easter lilies, but the quality is fine. Callas are coming in. Valley is good but scarce and does not meet the demand. Orchids are of good color and size. Roses are good and prices keep about as usual.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

At the suggestion of President John Dunbar, of the Florists' Association, the general committee for the third Rochester Flower Show has decided to have the inmates of the orphanage and similar institutions as guests at the show. The meeting of the committee was held at the Hotel Seneca with Chairman Charles H. Vick presiding. Ferdinand J. Keller, chairman of the committee on decorations, reported that the plans had been completed.

NOTES.

Geo. T. Boucher had a very attractive window last week. Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used in the center, surrounded by a low green fence. On either side was grouped Boston and Whitmanii ferns.

E. R. Fry reports business as very good. Something like 250,000 bulbs, chiefly tulip and narcissi, are being planted in the various parks of the city, according to one of the head gardeners.

H. E. Wilson has a very attractive Halloween window this week. Corn pumpkins and autumn foliage are used.

Julius Berg of Lion & Co., New York, called on the trade this week and reported business as exceptionally good.

The chrysanthemums at the greenhouses of H. E. Wilson are looking fine.

Miss Rose Ella Brown began work again October 26 at H. E. Wilson's.

H. H. Radcliffe of Greenwood, Del., was in the city this week.

Henry P. Neun had a very large wedding for October 28.

Charles Gow visited Buffalo October 27.

HARD FROST NEEDED.

The past month has been almost ideal as to weather conditions, with clear, bright days and not cold enough to kill the foliage which has been gorgeous in all the rich autumn tints. What we need now is a good hard frost—one that will help the florists by finishing the outdoor stuff, which is poor now. Dahlias, like all outdoor flowers, have become poor in quality since the last rain.

NOTES.

The range of Lehr Bros. is looking in fine shape just now. They are not growing as many carnations as formerly and have gone into roses extensively. They have lately installed an electric motor for pumping water and it is giving great satisfaction so far. Mr. Lehr and John Rider have recently motored to Washington in Mr. Lehr's car.

The regular meeting of the Gardeners' Club was held Monday, October 27, at the club rooms. Much interest is being shown in the coming exhibition of the Maryland State Horticultural Society at the Fifth regiment armory. This is always a fine affair and each year shows improvement. Both fruit and flowers are shown here to perfection.

Miss Anderson, daughter of A. Anderson, has returned to Philadelphia, Pa., to take a class in domestic science. Miss Anderson graduated from Drexel Institute in June and is the youngest teacher of that branch in Philadelphia.

A. Anderson finds that his new auto is a great time-saver in getting his flowers to the city. Nearly all the florists of this vicinity have gone in for machines and so far all seem satisfied with the change.

I. H. Moss is cutting a fine lot of cold storage liliun giganteum. His roses are looking well. Poinsettias promise well for the Christmas sales.

John Rider, a carnation grower in the vicinity of Lehr Bros., has C. W. Ward, White Perfection and Enchantress all blooming finely.

B.

Albany, N. Y.

The Albany Cut Flower Exchange of Albany, N. Y., recently was organized and will be incorporated with $25,000 capital stock. The officers are: Edward P. Tracey, president; Patrick Welch, Boston, Mass., treasurer; Thomas Tracey secretary and manager. The company will have its headquarters at 76 Maiden Lane and will cater to florists in eastern New York, Vermont, and western Massachusetts. It will carry a line of green goods and act as sales agent for growers. Edward P. Tracey, the president, is a member of the firm of Meany & Tracey, proprietors of the Rosery. Mr. Welch is in the supply business in Boston and is well known in the trade. Thomas Tracey is a brother of the president and for some time has been in the employ of W. C. Gloeckner, 97 State street.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, and painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established, and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia Be Sure to Look Us Up

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your convenience, both going and coming. Then you will see our Palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place), and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to our Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition

The Seed Trade.

American Seed Trade Association.

Chas. N. Page, Des Moines, Ia., President;
Harry L. Holmes, Harrisburg, Pa., First
Vice-President; Arthur B. Clark, Milford,
Conn., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel,
Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer;
J. M. Ford, Ravenna, O., Assistant Secretary.
Next annual convention, June, 1913.

SOME of the onion set experts predict that low prices will prevail later on.

DUTCH bulbs have been in brisk demand and many varieties are already sold out.

VISITED CHICAGO: M. H. Duryea, New York; Watson S. Woodruff, Orange, Conn.

CHINESE lilies (narcissus) are very scarce, one large consignment having reached this country in a worthless condition.

CHICAGO.—Prices on the Board of Trade October 30 for grass seed were noted as follows: Timothy, $3.50 to $4.25 per 100 pounds.

NEW YORK.—Business has been unusually brisk during the past two months with S. D. Woodruff & Sons. Advance orders for seeds, seed potatoes and onion sets far exceed anything that was ever booked by this house in former years. All of their salesmen are turning in record business and the trade in general seems to realize the shortage in such items as carrot, beets, parsley, turnip and Globe onion, and to these soon will be added sweet corn, beans and peas.

Danish Cabbage and Cauliflower Seed.

Odense, October 16.—Plenty of cauliflower has been grown and the early varieties are now harvested. The yield is expected to be about an average. Of the later varieties the yield will be rather poor as some fields suffered from early frost.

Cabbage plantations were not so large as usual and the plants suffered severely during the hard winter. The yield will be below the average.

D.

The Late Wm. F. A. Kendel.

After a lingering illness extending over many months, William F. A. Kendel, younger son of the late A. C. Kendel, of Cleveland, O., and brother of C. E. Kendel, secretary of the American Seed Trade Association, passed away October 22, 1912. Mr. Kendel entered the seed business at sixteen years of age and had completed a period of over twenty-four years when death cut short his activities in the prime of life. He had many friends in his own community and elsewhere, being amiable and of an attractive personality, and his untimely end has been a great shock. He numbered among his friends many of the most prominent and influential citizens in his locality. He had the management of the financial end of the business and his rigid honesty and prompt dealings placed the firm on a high financial basis. His equal will be hard to find. The business, known as A. C. Kendel's Seed Store, will be continued by the surviving partner, C. E. Kendel, without change of the firm name.

Holmes Seed Co.'s New Home.

The Holmes Seed Co., of Harrisburg, Pa., of which Harry L. Holmes, first vice-president of the American Seed Trade Association is the head, has leased new quarters at 119 South Second street, and will move from the old quarters as soon as some minor improvements are made. The new home is a four-story building and the entire structure will be occupied by this rapidly growing seed firm. A floor space of more than 20,000 square feet will give the business room to expand, which is what it wants.

Mr. Holmes established the business 16 years ago, after serving long and faithfully in the mail order department of another seed house. In all, his experience in the seed trade covers a period of 36 years. He started the present business in a modest way and six years later was compelled to move to his present location, 9 North Market square, for lack of space. These quarters again proved inadequate, and some time later Mr. Holmes moved his wholesale vegetable seed department to a large warehouse on Tenth street.

The new home will give the firm ample room for several years and it is conveniently located, being within easy distance of all the railways. It is said that the Holmes company did more than twenty times as great a business this year as all the seed firms of Harrisburg combined did before Mr. Holmes went into the business for himself. This season the firm broke its record by the sale of 564 tons or 1,126,696 pounds of seeds.

Rain Ruins English Crops.

The local [English] press intimates that estimates of British autumn and winter trade prospects must be modified by reason of the grave disaster to the agricultural industry during August, because of the abnormal rainfall which washed away a large tonnage of hay and almost ruined the cereal crops. These losses, together with the outbreaks of the foot and mouth disease, "make it extremely probable that the present year will prove to be the most disastrous for British agriculture since 1879," a calamity which, it is remarked, must in some degree prejudice every branch of the home trade, and the outlook for some departments of industry is rather gloomy, "though at present the general industrial position is satisfactory with an abundance of work in manufacturing trades, full employment being the general rule."

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa., President; J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore., Vice-President; John Hall, Rochester, N. Y., Sec'y. Thirty-eighth annual convention to be held at Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

OGDEN, UTAH.—Supervisor E. S. Clarke of the Wasatch forest intends to transplant 60,000 young pine trees from the Wasatch nursery to the forest.

COLUMBIA, S. C.—The Barnwell Pecan Orchards Co. of this place has incorporated with a capital stock of $75,000 to develop land for orchard purposes.

TORONTO, CAN.—The board of control has been asked to appropriate $500 annually for each of the four city nurseries and an additional $500 for extension work.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Systematic fumigation of the orchards of Los Angeles County has been ordered by Horticultural Commissioner Wood in a fight against the mealy bug.

Afforestation in China.

Saplings of pine and acacia trees were transplanted by hundreds of thousands last year on the bare hillsides extending from Sungshoushan to East Chikuanshan, Port Arthur. The civil government office has decided to transplant over 800,000 saplings of scrub oak, pine and acacia in an area of about 360,000 tsubo (about 295 acres) on the same hillsides next year. This will complete the afforestation program for the range of hills running in the shape of a crescent along the northeast of the fortress town.

Nursery Importations.

The United States Treasury Department has issued the following notice anent the new Plant Quarantine Act: "The chief officer of the customs at the port at which any nursery stock shall first arrive shall promptly notify the Secretary of Agriculture of the arrival of such stock, stating the nature and quantity thereof, the date of arrival, the name and address of the consignees (both nominal and ultimate), the name of the port of delivery, whether or not the shipment is accompanied by a certificate of inspection, and the number of the permit from the Department of Agriculture, if the permit has been received. "Prompt advice of the delivery of nursery stock under permit shall also be forwarded to the Secretary of Agriculture."

We are Headquarters for Hardy Perennial Phlox.

The Plants Supplied are all Strong One Year Old Field Grown Stock.

New Varieties of Hardy Phlox.

Asia (Tall.) One of the most valuable recent introductions, a delicate shade of mauve, with crimson-carmine eye. $2.00 per dozen; $15.00 per 100.

Braga (Dwarf.) Mauve-rose, more or less suffused with salmon; large white eye, a distinct and pleasing color combination. $1.50 per dozen; $10.00 per 100.

Europa (Tall.) A white variety, with very decided crimson-carmine eye; the individual flowers as well as the trusses are very large, entirely distinct, a valuable acquisition.

Elizabeth Campbell (Dwarf.) Very bright salmon-pink, with lighter shadings and dark crimson eye, an entirely new and much wanted shade in Phlox.

Frau Anton Buchner (Dwarf.) The finest white variety yet introduced, having a large truss and individual flower of dwarf habit.

Goliath (Tall.) A giant in growth, in rich soil over 5 feet high, the flowers of good size in bold massive panicles of a rich crimson-carmine, with deeper eye.

Hervor (Dwarf.) This is the finest variety of its color; a bright but soft rose-pink, with a large white eye.

Rynstrom (Tall.) An improved form of the popular variety Pantheon, fine for massing; of a Paul Neyron rose-color.

Rosenberg (Medium.) Bright reddish violet, with blood-red eye, large truss and individual flowers as large as a silver dollar.

Widar (Medium.) A splendid improvement on Edmond Rostand; in color a light reddish-violet, with very large white center which intensifies and illuminates the color.

Price, (except where noted), $1.25 per dozen;
$8.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

General Collection of Best Standard Varieties.

Albion, medium. One of our own introductions; producing very large panicles of pure white flowers with a faint aniline-red eye.

Aglæ Adanson, medium. Immense flowers, snow-white, with red-eye.

Antonin Mercie, medium. Light ground color, upper half of petal deeply suffused bluish-lilac; large, white halo.

Bacchante, tall. Tyrian rose with crimson-carmine eye.

Beranger, dwarf. Ground color white, delicately suffused with rosy pink, distinct amaranth-red eye.

Bridesmaid, tall. White, with large crimson-carmine center.

Colibri, tall. White, with crimson-carmine center; very late.

Consul H. Trost, medium. Pure red, with bright French-purple eye.

Champs Elyses, medium. A very bright rosy magenta of an effective shade.

Coquelicot, dwarf. A fine pure scarlet, with crimson-red eye. $6.00 per 100.

Caran D'Ache, medium. Geranium-red, with old rose shadings and white eye; very effective.

Diadem, dwarf. A fine dwarf, pure white.

De Miribel, medium. White, suffused with bright rosy-scarlet, red eye.

Danton, medium. Scarlet, pure red eye.

Edmond Rostand, medium. Reddish-violet, shading brighter towards the center with an exceptionally large, white center.

Eugene Danzanvillier, tall. Lilac, shading white towards the edges; large white center.

Eclairer, medium. Brilliant rosy-magenta, with large lighter halo; an excellent variety.

Fruhlicht, dwarf. Bright salmon-pink, with white shadings.

George A. Strohlein, medium. Bright scarlet, with crimson-red eye; does not bleach. $7.00 per 100.

General Giovaninelli, dwarf. Bright Tyrian rose, with light shadings at the base of each petal, a pure red eye, very effective.

Hermine, dwarf. The dwarfest variety in our collection, never exceeding ten inches in height; pure white flowers of good size; early; unequalled for bordering; a perfect little gem.

Helena Vacaresco, dwarf. Very large flowering dwarf, white.

H. O. Wijers, tall. Glistening white, with bright crimson-carmine eye.

Henry Murger, tall. Beautiful variety; white, crimson-carmine center.

Henry Royer, medium. Tyrian rose, with lighter shadings.

Jeanne D'Arc, tall. A good standard late white.

Kucken, tall. Delicate pale rose-mauve, with claret-red eye.

La Vague, medium. Pure mauve, with aniline-red eye.

Le Prophete, dwarf. Bright violet-rose, large light halo and bright rose eye, fine.

Louise Abbema, dwarf. Very large, dwarf pure white, fine form.

Mme. Paul Dutrie, tall. A delicate lilac rose, reminding one of some of the beautiful soft pink orchids. The flowers are very large and borne in panicles of immense size.

Mozart, tall. Ground color white, suffused salmon; aniline-red eye.

Mrs. Jenkins, tall. The best tall early white for massing.

Nana Coerulea, dwarf. Very free flowering light reddish-violet.

Obergartner Wittig, medium. Bright magenta, with crimson-carmine eye; large flower and truss, one of the best.

Professor Virchow, medium. Bright carmine, overlaid with orange-scarlet.

Pantheon, tall. Bright carmine-rose.

Pacha, dwarf. Deep rose-pink, suffused with solferino-red and carmine-purple eye.

R. P. Struthers, tall. Rosy-carmine, with claret-red eye, fine.

Sarabande, medium. Reddish-violet, with lighter shadings.

Sunshine, dwarf. Large, aniline-red, with crimson-red eye and light halo.

Selma, tall. Large flower, pale rose-mauve, with claret-red eye.

Siebold, tall. Bright vermilion-red overlaid with orange-scarlet; crimson-red eye. $6.00 per 100.

Vesuvius, medium. One of our new seedlings; pure red, with bright purple eye, a dazzling color.

F. G. Von Lasburg, medium. The purest white in cultivation, individual flowers larger than any other white.

Price of any of the above (except where otherwise noted) $4.00 per 100, $30.00 per 1000.

Please Take Notice!

We Protect the Trade. Have No Department Store Customers.

Election is coming. For whom will you vote?

VOTE FOR GODFREY ASCHMANN.

I'm a leader in the land where the Araucarias grow.
The only real progressive, as all florists know:
When making out your orders, give your biggest vote for me
Then you'll have the richest Christmas you ever yet did see.

Let Wilson, Taft and Roosevelt, in their travels to and fro Promise all the big improvements that any of them know:

Still if you come to Aschmann's, you'll see the very best:
So mail to him your orders and he will do the rest.
The easiest thing a man can do is to make a noisy breeze.
The hardest task a florist has is to grow the plants that please:
Yet in the years that I have spent in growing for the trade,
I've filled the bill and satisfied the many friends I've made.

Araucarias Our Specialty.

Kentia Forsteriana, 6 in. pots, made up, one large in center, three small ones around, $1.00 to $1.25.

Ferns.

The growing of Nephrolepis for the past five years has been one of our leading specialties. We have three houses, which were rebuilt this summer, especially adapted for the growing of first-class stock. Ferns do not do well in old houses. They need houses with plenty of sun and good, fresh, sweet air. Old dark houses bring fungus and make spindly plants.

Neph. Giarasii. This is a new fern, very graceful, of weeping habit, short and bushy, very much admired by every one who has bought it. 4-5 5½-6 in. pots, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c.

Neph. Whitmanii, 4 in., 20c; 5½ to 6 in. pots, 30c, 35c, 40c and 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Neph. Scottii, 4 in., 20c; 5 in., 35c; 5½ to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Boston, 7 in., 75c; 5½ to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 5 in., 35c; 4 in., 20c.

Neph. Elegantiissima Compacta, 6 in., 50c.

Neph. Scholzei, 6 in., 50c.

Adiantum Hybridum, the new Maidenhair Fern, large 4 in., bushy, 15c.

Japanese Fern Balls, our own importation, now full of leaves: 8-9 in. in diameter, only 35c (cheap at 50c).

We have a big assortment of 2½ in. Dish Ferns, now ready, $4.00 per 100.

6 in. dishes, made up of Wilsoni Ferns, one large Dracaena Terminalis in center, 50c.

6 in. pans made up of 3 in. Wilsoni Ferns, very attractive, would sell like hot cakes for 75c. Look! only 25c per pan for three big plants.

Areca Lutescens Palms, made up of 3 plants, 4 in., 20c to 25c; 5¼ in., made up of 3 plants, 35c.

Aspidistras, variegated, 6 in. pots, 15c per leaf; green, 6 in. pots, 10c per leaf. Plants have from 5 good leaves upward to 10 leaves.

AZALEAS.

Our new importation of Azaleas are all in and unpacked. Never in our life have we received a better and finer selection of Azaleas than this fall. All of them have original foliage and are well budded.

For Christmas Forcing.—If you want to be successful, lose no time and start now. Start the Azaleas in low temperature and increase the temperature gradually up to 60 degrees until they show color; then cool off gradually again. We have only the best well-known Christmas varieties, such as Deutsche Perle, white; Simon Mardner, pink; Mme. Petrick, new, pink; Pharilda, Matilda, variegated; Vervaneana, variegated rose. Prices: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. For Easter Blooming and for Easter we have the well-known American varieties, such as Mme Van der Cruysen, best pink Paul Weber, De Schryveriana, John Llewellyn, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), and a few more good sorts. P. S.—The Christmas varieties can be kept for Easter forcing without trouble. Price: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. We sell our Azaleas for cash only, because there is no profit to be made in Azaleas. Our Mme. Petrick Azaleas are round as an apple, covered with buds; a child can force them; best pink; earliest of all. All other varieties are covered with buds.

No profit is made on Azaleas any more; therefore only cash with order will be accepted.

Cocos Weddelliana Palms, single, 3 in. pots, 15c, 18c and 20c.

Corpha Australis Palms, 5 in. pots, 20 in. high, 35c, Asparagus Plumosus and Sprengerii, large 4 in., $10.00 per 100 (or 10c).

Asparagus Plumosus, 2½ in., $3.00 per 100.

Asparagus Sprengerii, 2½ in., $3.00 per 100.

Hydrangea Otaksa, pot-grown. Remember, only pot-grown stock, like ours, will force successfully. 5½-6-7 in. pots, 25c-35c-50c.

Primula Obconica Grandiflora, good strain, assorted, 4 in., $10.00 per 100; 5½ in., $2.50 per doz.

Primula Chinensis, John F. Rupp strain, assorted, 4 in., $10.00 per 100; 5½ in., only $2.50 per doz.

Poinsettias, 4 in., 20c to 25c.

Begonias Gloire de Lorraine and Lonsdale, pink, 5½ to 6 in. pots, 50c, 75c to $1.00.

Glory of Cincinnati, 5, 5½ to 6 in. pots, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

Ficus Elastica, Belgium or American stock, 5-5½ in., 30c, 35c to 40c; 6 in., 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Jerusalem Cherries (Solanum) 6 in., 25c, 35c, 50c.

Daisies, Sanderi, pure white, everlasting bloomer, very valuable for cut flowers, 2½ in., $5.00 per 100.

Queen Alexandra Daisies, pure white, good Easter Daisy 2½ in. pots, strong, $4.00 per 100.

Cineraria Hybrida, our well-known superior strain, which created a sensation last Easter 2 in., $5.00 per 100.

Cash with order, please. 25 sold at 100 rates. All plants must travel at purchaser's risk.

TESTIMONIAL.

When You Buy, It Pays to Buy Good Stock.

Look and see what Mr. Fred I. Michell, of that so well-known firm of Henry F. Michell Company, of Philadelphia, has got to say about our plants: "Sept. 14th, 1912.

"I have just visited the greenhouses of Mr. Godfrey Aschmann, and must say that it was indeed a great surprise to me. I have never seen a better lot of Araucarias, Ferns of all sizes, varieties and prices, Rubbers, Palms, Azaleas, and other plants in season, ready for shipment, as are at present at Mr. Godfrey Aschmann's."

"The first L. & B. houses I put up were so satisfactory that I soon added 75 ft. extensions to each of them. Then I needed more growing room and put up this fine big Iron Frame 57 ft. wide house. It is a perfect greenhouse. Built on a steep side hill, it hasn't shifted an inch. The bolted together angle iron columns seem to give it great stiffness, for not a glass has broken except by outside causes. Then another thing—every iron member was cut and drilled absolutely exact. It went together like a charm. This is very necessary to the man who erects his own houses."

Right at the start, get it out of your mind that our Curved Eave is an imitation or infringement of any other Curved Eave. It absolutely is not. It's an entirely different construction from any others. In detail it is the same as our first Curved Eave which was originated by us over nine years ago and which was the first Flat Rafter Curved Eave construction ever constructed by any greenhouse builder. From the first it was simplicity itself—today it is still the same strong, neat, light eave, entirely devoid of any cumbersome reinforcement fittings.

It is economically adaptable for either commercial or private houses.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Heaths.

All the ericas will require a cool temperature to get the best results. Erica melanthera can be had in flower for Christmas and early winter but under no circumstances will it pay to try to force it into bloom by giving it artificial heat, for it will immediately spring into a soft growth. They will give the best results in a house where the night temperature is kept at from 40° to 45° with plenty of ventilation throughout the day. When coming into bloom the plants should never suffer for want of water, in fact, these plants should be kept well watered throughout their growth. The propagation of the young stock for the succeeding year should now commence, the soft tender shoots that protrude beyond the flowering wood being the best for this purpose. A cool propagating bed is to be preferred for they do not need bottom heat, but the soft cuttings will need to be well shaded and kept well watered, and if enclosed in glass the cuttings will strike more readily. As soon as rooted they should be potted and the selection of soil is important. A light peaty soil mixed with a good proportion of sand is what they desire. Give the plants all the air possible throughout their growth, in a cool temperature and in a bright sunny location.

Genistas.

If the genistas are grown in warm greenhouses they invariably come into bloom before Easter, unless that day is at its earliest in March, so the plants that are to be at their best for that day should be retarded by being grown cool until late winter. These plants are much better under cool treatment at all times, but by bringing into gentle heat they can be had in succession from February to April. Plants that are being grown into special forms will have to be kept pinched back to conform to the shape until the flower buds set. The cuttings for next year's growing should be propagated during November and early December. The top shoots which are pinched off to keep the plants shapely make fine stock for propagation and they root readily in a bench with a little bottom heat. They should be shaded for a few days when first placed in the sand. Pot in small pots as soon as rooted and shift into larger sizes as required. When growth commences pinch back to keep the plants shapely.

Acalyphas.

One of the plants that is not ordinarily grown as well as it ought to be and which makes a beautiful showy plant is the acalypha, especially A. Godseffiana and A. Sanderi, which bears long spikes of red flowers, sometimes called the chenille plant, from the flowers which resemble large pieces of red chenille. The plants should be well hardened off in the fall and cuttings of the new growth can be taken during the winter, in November and December, if fine specimens are wanted. The cuttings are taken preferably with a heel and root easily in a warm propagating bench. When rooted they should be potted in a good rich soil and placed in a warm greenhouse until they have made roots and commenced to grow, when they can be removed to slightly cooler quarters. The great mistake made by many growers is to place them in a cool house immediately after they have been taken from the propagating bed and they stand half dormant, and if too cool frequently lose much of their foliage, and get stunted. To have fine plants they should be kept moving all winter and potted into larger-sized pots as soon as necessary, and a few of these showy plants well grown will attract attention and redound to the credit of the grower. Aphis and mealy bug are the two insect enemies of these plants, and should be kept in check continually or the plants will be ruined. The bedding acalyphas should be handled in a similar manner but the first of the year is early enough to start the cuttings of these unless there are signs of a shortage of stock, in which case early propagation is to be recommended, and it is seldom one has too many of these plants if they are well grown.

Begonia Rex.

With the advent of steady firing and a warm propagating bench the cuttings of Begonia rex should be started at once if good plants are desired for spring and summer growing. These plants are very ornamental when well grown and the leaves can be used in much floral work. These plants are raised from either shoot or leaf cuttings but where many are propagated the latter method is generally employed. Well matured leaves that are healthy and vigorous are selected and two methods can be adopted. The leaf can be cut several times through the midrib and its branches and then placed on the propagating bed and the cuts pegged down to the sand. A wire in the shape of a hair pin will do this. Or the leaf may be cut into triangular pieces, with the rib as the apex, and these cuttings inserted in the sand as other cuttings are with the point down. Another method sometimes adopted is to cut the leaf in two parts lengthwise and the two halves are stood erect in the sand. The cutting bench should be shaded and if covered with glass and kept close the propagation will be more rapid and successful. The small leaves will shortly protrude from the sand and when the roots have attained a length of half an inch or more they can be potted in soil consisting of two parts loam, one part leaf-mold, one part well-rotted manure, and one part sand. They will require a warm temperature, and when watering be careful not to wet the foliage, especially where the sun shines upon them, or holes in the leaves will be the result. They should be shifted into larger pots as required and as the plants grow coarser soil may be used in the potting. They make much handsomer plants when grown in shady locations rather than in the full sunlight.

Stevia.

The early stevia will now be coming into flower, but if the plants are in pots, and there is a good large number, they should not be brought into flower all at once. By keeping some of the plants in a cool location they can be retarded so that plants may be had in bloom up to February. A house or deep frame where the night temperature can be kept just above the freezing point will hold them in check and they can be brought in as desired. The dwarf variety is very easily handled in this manner, but the tall plants are not so easily moved around. Keep the plants well tied up for the joints are very brittle and break down easily, and the long variety should be very carefully handled even after the sprays are cut for they break down with their own weight when in flower.

Favor Suggestions.

The envelope baskets made of palm and straw which come from Jamaica are inexpensive and most attractive for floral arrangement. They are woven in every imaginable size and shape and colored with vegetable dyes. Some are made of cane over stout foundations. A charming openwork cane basket can be lined with a green tinfoil and bunches of violets arranged in them. Especially pretty are the square effects, for these cane baskets are woven so loosely a violet ribbon can be intertwined and a bow tied of it, making a pretty suggestion for an offering. Then the envelope baskets of cane and straw can be arranged with some small flower, either sweet peas, lily of the valley or tiny pink roses, and when tied with a loop to carry over the arm make a pretty favor for a cotillion. These envelope baskets are about six inches wide and about nine high. The flap is about three inches over. On these envelope baskets tiny rings of flowers can be arranged and the loop made of asparagus vines, using the individual leaf of the asparagus. These will also look well arranged with red berries. They can also be decorated by merely covering the flap with red berries, attaching a tiny ball of the berries at the middle of the flap to extend in a red ribbon as a sort of ornament. Use red ribbon for loop over the arm. Tiny chain baskets are also good for cotillion favors. Connect about three of the small two-inch square baskets with red satin ribbons of the very narrow kind, allowing enough to extend up over the baskets to be used as a loop over the arm. Tie a tiny bunch of violets in each if berries are not used. In using the violets use either a green satin ribbon or a shade of harmonizing green.

New York Florists' Club.

As Secretary of the New York Florists' Club's publicity committee, I have been instructed to send the publishers of THE AMERICAN FLORIST a black and white cut of the Thanksgiving show card which our committee is going to distribute to the retail trade for display in their shop windows the week preceding November 28, Thanksgiving Day. This card will make a very taking appearance printed in three colors on a sheet 12 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches wide by 11 inches deep. This showcard in turn is mounted on a neutral cardboard 14 inches wide and 13 inches deep, the board being punched for a cord by means of which it can be suspended. These cards are sent to each recipient in large manila envelopes, into which are also placed 50 box slips, about 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 6 inches, on which will be printed a few facts concerning the observance of Thanksgiving Day and the use of flowers for that occasion. Retailers will be requested to place one of these slips in each package or box of flowers they send out prior to Thanksgiving Day, in order to promote sales of flowers on Thanksgiving Day itself.

The drawing is by a celebrated artist, Charles Livingston Bull, and represents a spray of deep pink roses as the leading feature. In the lower left hand corner is shown a Puritan and his wife going to Thanksgiving service at the little stone church in the distance. The Puritan is armed with his flintlock musket, as was the custom in those days. The ancient and modern customs of celebrating Thanksgiving are thus brought into full contrast. This will be the second showcard distributed by the publicity committee of the New York Florists' club.

The reception of the first, a hallo- we'en show card, met with great favor, and it is expected that the Thanksgiving card, on account of its artistic execution, will be in still heavier demand. At least 2,000 of these latter will be distributed in New York City and its immediate vicinity, and it is expected that this distribution will have a marked effect upon the people at large in inducing them to purchase flowers for Thanksgiving.

THE EXHIBITIONS.

Lenox Horticultural Society's Fall Show.

The first exhibition of the fall season opened in the town hall at Lenox, Mass., on October 24. The exhibition was held by the Lenox Horticultural Society and was well arranged. The groups on the main floor occupied the premier position, the intervening space being used to display the large vases of chrysanthemums. Orchids, roses and carnations filled the right table, short-stemmed specimen chrysanthemum blooms the left. Flowering plants were on the stage, and vegetables and fruits upstairs. The judges were Wm. Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa., Thomas Logan, Philadelphia, Pa., Jas. Stewart, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and A. E. Thatcher, Bar Harbor, Me. The competition being very keen in the important classes, the judges found many problems in awarding decisions but gave general satisfaction. The groups were very pleasing and artistic. Fred Heeremans, superintendent for W. D. Sloane, won the Breck silver cup with an effective and harmonious arrangement consisting of a central column and three side mounds of Phoenix Roebelenii, Begonia Gloire de Lorraine and Lilium Giganteum. The panels were filled with specimen crotons, lily of the valley and Farleyense ferns. Second prize went to Allen Jenkins, superintendent to S. P. Shotter. The third prize was received by Ed. Jenkins, superintendent to Girard Foster. The Boddington prize group was easily won by A. J. Loveless, superintendent to Mrs. Griswold. The other orchid prizes were shared by A. H. Wingate, superintendent to Chas. Lanier, E. J. Norman, superintendent to Mrs. Westinghouse, and P. J. Donohue, superintendent to Mrs. Jessup. The awards were as follows:

Twelve 6-inch chrysanthemums in pots—Mrs. Griswold, first; G. Foster (E. A. Jenkins, gardener), second; Mrs. Robt. Winthrop (S. W. Carlquist, gardener), third.

Groups of plants, 11 feet in diameter, arranged for effect—W. D. Sloane (A. J. Loveless, gardener), first; J. P. Shotter, second; G. Foster, third.

Specimen kentia—Chas. Lanier (A. H. Wingate, gardener), first; G. Foster, second.

Specimen areca—Chas. Lanier, first.

Specimen any other variety—G. Foster, first; W. D. Sloane, second.

Specimen fern—W. D. Sloane, first; Chas. Lanier, second; W. M. Salisbury (J. W. Pybus, gardener), third.

FALL FLOWER SHOW.

The fifth annual fall flower show of the Pasadena Horticultural Society was held October 24-26, at the Hotel Maryland. The exhibition was declared to be the best yet held by this society and drew enormous crowds. There was an immense array of chrysanthemums, dahlias and other autumn flowers, one exhibitor alone displaying more than six hundred varieties of chrysanthemums. Nearly a thousand varieties of dahlias were shown. Notable among the displays was Henry E. Huntington's rare collection of palms and tropical plants. Two specimens of dwarf Japanese pines from the gardens of the late emperor of Japan were shown by the Figueroa Nursery of Los Angeles. The largest collection of chrysanthemums was that of Miss Sadie A. Thomas, wholesale and retail florist of Pasadena. She had on display 486 standard varieties and 157 pompons and singles. Chas. H. Totty of Madison, N. J., showed fifteen rare exhibition varieties which he introduced from England. Awards made the first day were as follows:

FALL EXHIBITION.

The fall exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York opened on the evening of November 1, in the American Museum of Natural History, Central Park west and Seventy-seventh street, the trustees of this institution having permitted the Horticultural Society to use all space necessary for its exhibits. The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of the following men, prominent in horticulture: F. R. Pierson, chairman; Geo. V. Nash, secretary; F. A. Havemeyer, F. E. Lager, John Canning, I. S. Hendrickson, Jos. A. Manda and James Stuart.

From every viewpoint this was the most successful exhibition ever held by the society. Primarily it was a chrysanthemum exhibition, but there were also very fine displays of roses, carnations, dahlias, ferns, orchids and other foliage and flowering plants. While everything exhibited was creditable, the feature of the show was three bush chrysanthemums grown by John Canning, gardener for Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y. Nothing approaching their equal has ever been seen in this city, and some very good plants have in the past been shown. Two of these plants were each eleven feet 6 inches in diameter and bore over 1,000 blooms. The other was not far behind. The white was Lady Lydia, the yellow R. F. Felton, the pink Wells' Late Pink. These plants took first prize, respectively, in classes A1, A2, and A3 of $25. Wells' Late Pink took the sweepstake prize and a silver medal and the group was awarded a gold medal as a special prize. Other creditable exhibits of bush plants were made by Samuel Untermeyer, Yonkers, N. Y. (W. H. Waite, gardener).

Exhibitors and prizewinners in roses were: Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., who was awarded a silver medal for a vase of his new rose, Mrs. Geo. Sawyer; Traendly & Schenck, New York; F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y.; Louis A. Noe, Madison, N. J.; L. B. Coddington, Murray Hill, N. J. Traendly & Schenck, Scott Bros. Elmsford, N. Y., and the Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y., took prizes for carnations. Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., secured numerous prizes for orchids. Prizes for orchids were also awarded Joseph A. Manda, West Orange, N. J., and Samuel Untermeyer. The Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., had a fine exhibit of flowering and foliage plants, but not in competition. Other noteworthy exhibitors were: Wm. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y. (R. F. Cushman, gardener); Percy Chubb, Glen Cove, N. Y. (Alex. MacKenzie, gardener); Miss Cockcroft, Saugatuck, Conn. (Adam Peterson, gardener); Miss Bliss, New Caanan, Conn. (J. T. Burns, gardener); Mrs. W. E. Griswold, Lenox, Mass. (A. J. Loveless, gardener); Chas. Malloy, Portchester, N. Y. (Wm. Sidley, gardener).

The attendance on Saturday, November 2, was very large, a constant line of visitors pouring through the rooms during the hours the exhibition was open, but on account of the excellent management there was no crowding or confusion. The gossips said that Samuel Untermeyer sent west for the man who had won prizes for him before; that there were large bets made on the result of the competition; that Totty's rose Mrs. Sawyer is a winner; that Geo. V. Nash and Jos. A. Manda are the right men to conduct an exhibition.

A great throng attended the exhibition on Sunday, November 3. A notable vase of the rose Radiancy was exhibited by Traendly & Schenck. Spectators were surprised at the length of the stems. The white carnation Matchless, exhibited by the Cottage Gardens Co., seems to fill the bill for the white variety. A pink carnation exhibited by James D. Cockcroft, Northport, L. I., and named Northport looks promising. As usual, the F. R. Pierson Co. had a good exhibit of prize winning ferns. Ferns come and some of them go but the Pierson ferns are all stayers. Among the out of town visitors were J. F. Sullivan, Detroit, Mich., and W. J. Palmer, Buffalo. The latter was the guest of Frank Traendly.

THE ANNUAL SHOW.

Rochester, the "Flower City" of the Empire state held its annual fall flower show at Convention Hall, an ideal place, November 5-9. For several weeks the various committees had been hard at work planning for the success of the event. The Rochester Florists' Association promoted the show and Charles H. Vick was the chairman. With such a splendid committee and the loyal support of the residents of Rochester the show could not fail to be a success.

The decoration committee consisted of: Ferdinand J. Keller, chairman; George B. Hart; R. G. Salter; E. P.

Wilson; E. R. Fry; F. R. Schlegel; J. M. Keller; Geo. T. Boucher; Robert Ballentyne; C. B. Ogston; Chas. Suhr; A. H. Salter; F. W. Vick; George F. Crosman; W. T. Logan; John C. Parker; Felix Albert; John Dunbar. The chairman promised to give something new and effective in the line of hall decorations, and these combined with a very fine lighting scheme, proved most effective.

A Hard Worker for the Rochester Flower Show.

Among the local exhibits were fine specimens from the conservatories of George Eastman and Mrs. Kimball. The advertising committee did good work and made the city bloom with the yellow and black posters which they got out. Many of the large stores, public buildings and theaters exhibited them.

The committee by hard work and good management, succeeded in keeping the cost far below the actual figures of the two previous shows. The prices of admission were the same as before—25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Invitations were sent out to the orphans' home and other municipal institutions for the mornings.

The general committee, numbering about 80, was composed of some of the best known city officials both of this and other cities. Among the out-of-town men were, Wm. F. Kasting, Buffalo, N. Y.; E. F. Rowe, Harrisburg, Pa.; Calvin J. Huson, Albany, N. Y. Geo. Eastman of Kodak fame was among those represented.

Both the hall proper and the annex were filled with the finest and rarest blooms of the season. Mr. Eastman was a patron of the first two flower shows and upon frequent visits to the hall did not disguise his pride in the display of Rochester grown flowers or the general arrangement scheme. Among specimens from his conservatories that excited interest were Japanese water lilies and an exhibit of chrysanthemums.

Members of the Ladies' Florists' Club served refreshments in a tea room. The women met recently at the home of Mrs. George Crosman, No. 63 Crosman Terrace, to organize and perfect plans. Mrs. John Dunbar, chairman of the committee and wife of the president of the Florists' Association, presided. Other members of the committee were: Mrs. William L. Keller, Mrs. E. H. Vick, Mrs. Charles Suhr, Mrs. Geo. B. Hart, Mrs. E. P. Wilson, Mrs. R. G. Salter, Mrs. F. W. Vick, Mrs. F. J. Keller, Mrs. A. H. Salter, Mrs. George Boucher, Mrs. F. R. Schlegel, Mrs. J. M. Keller, Mrs. W. H. Dildine, Mrs. George Arnold, Mrs. R. F. Nagle, Mrs. E. R. Fry, Mrs. George Keller, Mrs. Chas. Boland, Mrs. F. B. Messing, Mrs. Edward S. Osborne, Mrs. C. A. Rapalji, Mrs. John Suhr, Mrs. Geo. Shepard, Mrs. L. Brockman, Mrs. H. W. Wilson and Miss M. Crook. The women agreed upon a division of work and appointed a committee of men to help out.

At the meeting of the advertising committee, H. W. Bramly and W. H. Campbell, advertising managers of two department stores said that "no public or semi-public pleasure-giving enterprise seemed to stir more enthusiasm, attract more visitors and interfere less with business activity." They said they regarded the flower show as a producer of business.

Music and flowers make a great combination, and the committee did well in procuring the park band under the directorship of Theodore Dosenbach to be at the hall at the opening day. The Fifty-fourth regiment band was in attendance the rest of the time and the ladies orchestra played daily in the other hall.

EIGHTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

This society held its eighth annual exhibition at Pembroke Hall, Glen Cove, L. I., on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 29-30. The two main floors of the large hall were filled with large exhibits of chrysanthemums, roses, carnations, vegetables and outdoor flowers and fruits. Chas. Totty, Madison, N. J., had on exhibit a vase of his new rose Mrs. Geo. Sawyer. This exhibit received a certificate of merit. Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., exhibited a vase of their new red carnation Wm. Eccles, which also received a certificate of merit. A vase of pink carnations shown by J. D. Cockcroft, Northport, L. I., was awarded a certificate of merit. The Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., made a pretty exhibit of orchids which were greatly admired. The chrysanthemums of course were the chief attraction and the following varieties were best in their respective colors: White, Wm. Turner and Naamah; yellow, Chiltoni and Mary Donnellon; pink, Lady Hope-ton and L. Rousseau; crimson, Wood-mason and Pockett's Crimson. Wood-mason carried the honor for largest blooms in the show. The attendance was large on both days and the management is to be congratulated on the well arranged and successful exhibition. The special prize awards were as follows:

The Mrs. F. S. Smithers silver cup for collection of hardy chrysanthemums, 50 varieties—Mrs. H. L. Pratt, Glen Cove, (H. Gant, gardener), first; Mrs. H. W. Bucknell (G. Barton, gardener), second.

The St. Paul Show.

Final arrangements are being completed by the committees in charge and everything promises to be in shape for the opening of the show, Friday morning, November 8. A. S. Swanson, the superintendent, will be on the ground from Tuesday morning until the close of the show. His assistants will be on hand Thursday morning, as will also the secretary and his assistant, so that everything will be well taken care of. The exhibitors will receive proper attention the moment their exhibits arrive.

The decoration committee will begin work Tuesday night, as soon as the election returns are over, which will probably be about 2 a. m., and work will be pushed day and night until completed. One of the largest show windows in one of the best retail stores on the best corner in town is this week displaying the silver trophies of which there are now eleven on hand. Six more are promised.

The ladies of the society are busy with arrangements for colonial night and the flower committee with arrangements for selling flowers at the booth. The committees have been at work selling tickets and so far have disposed of something over $200 worth. O. R. Eckhardt seems to be the champion ticket seller, as he has sold a large number, beginning the day they were first issued and keeping up the good work every day.

Entries are beginning to come in from outside exhibitors and all signs point to crowding the capacity of the hall to the utmost. The photographic contest under the direction of Mrs. Ruff will be very interesting. A large number of entries have already been made, with some arriving every hour. A great many are looking forward with interest to the lectures by President Farquhar of the S. A. F.

At the last meeting a committee was appointed to arrange for a banquet in honor of the outside florists who will visit the show, the banquet to be held on Monday evening, November 11. Already applications for tickets for the banquet have been received. The committee has not yet announced where it will be held, but a good attendance is assured.

Dr. Schiffmann, the one-time orchid king of this city, who removed to Pasadena, Calif., several years ago, has been requested to send an orchid exhibit and it is hoped that it will arrive in time for the show. The secretary has sent out 200 special invitations to prominent florists in the west and northwest, also a few of the more prominent in the east, asking them to attend. It is hoped that a large number will accept.

S. D. DYSINGER, Sec'y.

Connecticut Horticultural Society.

At the meeting of October 25, R. J. Foley, of Melrose, and F. A. Roblins, Jr., of Hartford, were elected members, bringing the roster up to 208, its highest point. A handsome exhibition of chrysanthemums was made, J. Alfred Weber showing immense blooms of William Turner, white, and Mrs. C. H. Kelly, red. Alfred Cebelius showed well-trained bush plants containing many hundreds of blossoms. T. B. Brown of Windsor staged two seedlings which he had grown. George B. Baker, William H. MacKenzie and John Gerard, acted as judges. They made awards as follows: Honorable mention to T. B. Brown for seedlings; a first-class certificate to J. A. Weber for cut blooms, and a cultural certificate for mushrooms; a cultural certificate to Alfred Cebelius for bush plants. The secretary by request read a magazine article by Dr. Edward F. Bigelow, entitled "The Perfections and Imperfections of Nature." John Gerard, in the general discussions, advocated the idea of our national government granting letters patent to the originators of new species of flowers, vegetables, and fruits—a practice that obtains in all countries as regards mechanical inventions. This question will probably be brought up again at some future meeting. Our next meeting, on the evening of November 8, will be chrysanthemum night and a fine exhibit of this favorite flower is expected.

Kansas City.

The month of October was very satisfactory to the trade, both in weather and business. Stock was plentiful and the demand about right.

NOTES.

Several retailers were treated to an auto ride and visited the extensive plant of W. H. Sawvil, whose genial smile brightened the atmosphere surrounding his specialty of 35,000 carnations. Mr. Sawvil, although a novice in floriculture, has made a success of specializing. Last season his stock was planted in solid beds with splendid results. He has used the raised benches this year and the outlook is even more promising. The problem of color has been nicely handled about as follows: red, 1-6; white, 2-6; pink, 2 shades, 3-6. Beacon and the three varieties of Enchantress are grown.

The trade regret to learn of the accident befalling E. H. Frandsen which has kept him in the hospital for two weeks. He is however gaining rapidly and will probably be out in the next fortnight. Miss Frandsen is keeping watchful eyes on the fine stock during her brother's absence.

The new iron frame houses built by Mrs. A. R. Myers are up-to-date in every respect. Basements are built beneath the entire houses which have reinforced concrete floors and benches. The basements contain the boilers, work rooms and space for storage.

— Stevens, who for two years was grower for Mr. Sawvil, has started in business for himself and has completed two large houses for carnations and chrysanthemums.

The new modern range of 150,000 square feet of glass owned by W. A. Rule has been leased by E. O. Pratt, a vegetable specialist.

— Frith is once more hustling about the plant, after his long illness. His Killarney stock equals any on the market.

Mrs. J. H. Boyd of Spring Branch Road has built a house 16x100 and opened a store at Independence.

Clarence Chandler has returned from California and is pushing the planting of nursery stock.

James Payne is looking for a new location to build greenhouses.

Mrs. E. D. Ellsworth is out again after a week's illness.

E. A. Humfeld says business is very satisfactory. K. C. M.

Washington.

S. S. Pennock, Chas. Meehan and E. Fancourt of Philadelphia, Pa., were in town this week to see that their new store was properly launched. It is one of the finest wholesale houses in the country. The size of the building is one hundred by twenty feet. The office is on the balcony in the rear. All the wood work is finished in dull steel gray and the walls are painted buff to correspond. The refrigerator on the main floor is twenty by ten feet, built by Livezey Refrigerator Co. of Philadelphia, Pa. The basement has an eleven-foot ceiling and extends under a wide pavement to the curb line. It is equipped with a hand lift with a capacity of three tons. There are cold storage rooms in the cellar about twenty feet square for green goods. There is also a storage box in the basement. This to be cooled by natural air to be used entirely for carnations and such flowers as do not require ice. This latter item is one that should be of interest to florists everywhere. The place is heated by steam and the boiler room and coal bin are enclosed with fireproof hollow tile walls. Boiler and all steam pipes are covered with asbestos to prevent heat in the basement. The place is electrically lighted throughout and icebox doors contain automatic devices by which boxes are lighted when doors are open and the lights turned off when closed. The formal opening will be held Thursday evening November 21.

The bowling team of the Baltimore Florists and Gardeners' Club paid a visit to this city October 29 to see the chrysanthemum show held at the Agriculture Department and to play the local team. The Washington team succeeded in taking three games. The scores:

OBITUARY.

Chas. Schoenle.

Charles Schoenle of St. Louis died suddenly October 28. He was one of the best known florists in the city. He began his start in the business with Luther Armstrong and afterwards entered the employ of the Ayres Floral Co., which was then located on Easton avenue. Mr. Schoenle was a member of the St. Louis Florists' Club and the Florists' Retail Association. The funeral took place October 30 and was very largely attended. The following florists were among the pallbearers: George H. Angermueller, Wm. C. Smith, Andrew Meyer, Jr., Martin Moran, C. A. Kuehn. The Florists' Club and the Retail Association both sent special floral pieces which were very beautiful. The M. M. Ayers Floral Co. had the family order and the work was very beautiful. The Florists' Club attended the funeral in a body.

Gottfried Gross.

Gottfried Gross, for a third of a century a florist at Quincy, Ill., died October 26, at the age of 69. Mr. Gross had been in poor health for a year or two and submitted to an operation a short time before his death. He came to America from Switzerland when but twenty years old, and located in New Jersey. From there he went to Ft. Wayne, Ind., where he married Miss Catherine Cook. Later Mr. Gross moved to Quincy and remained there until his death. He was at one time a successful orchardist but for several years had devoted his time solely to his greenhouses. He is survived by his wife and seven children.

Robert Turton.

Robert Turton, a St. Louis, Mo., florist, fell dead on the street in his home city, October 25. Heart failure was the cause of his death. Mr. Turton had never been seriously ill and was active up to the time of his demise. He was a veteran of the Civil war and a member of the G. A. R., which organization had charge of the services at the funeral. The deceased is survived by a widow, five children and three grandchildren.

Parcels Post Requirements.

Postmaster Morgan of New York invites the special attention of the public to the following features of the proposed domestic parcels post regulations which go into effect on January 1 next:

That distinctive parcels post stamps must be used on all fourth class matter beginning January 1, 1913, and that such matter bearing ordinary postage stamps will be treated as "held for postage."

That parcels will be mailable only at post offices, branch post offices, lettered and local named stations and such numbered stations as may be designated by the postmaster.

That all parcels must bear the return card of the sender; otherwise they will not be accepted for mailing.

It is of the utmost importance that these requirements be observed in mailing parcels post packages in order that such packages may be promptly handled and despatched, as failure to so comply will result in inconvenience and annoyance to the public.

Winter-Flowering Sweet Peas.

We have received from Cornell University a bulletin entitled "Winter-flowering Sweet Peas," which is the second of a series by Prof. Alvin C. Beal, giving the results of tests and investigations carried on at the college of agriculture experiment station. After briefly referring to the importance of this type to the florist the bulletin takes up the history of this flower's evolution, followed by some pertinent comments on its culture and a description of the different varieties.

"Next in order to the waved section the most important type of sweet peas yet developed from the older garden forms is the winter-flowering class, which has reached its greatest perfection in the United States," according to Prof. Beal.

"The winter-flowering type is absolutely distinct in its habit of growth and its early flowering character. Unlike the garden types, which apparently stand still for a time when only a few inches high while side shoots are developed, the winter-flowering peas grow rapidly until they attain a height of two to four feet; then they begin to flower freely, after which time side shoots are developed."

The bulletin points out that this type makes its greatest growth under glass and does not compare, in point of growth, with the garden type, when planted out of doors, although flowering profusely. The flowers are, as a rule, of the open form of Blanche Ferry though some varieties are hooded and a waved-flower group is now being perfected by Anton C. Zvolanek, Boundbrook, N. J. At the Cornell agricultural experiment station the open-flowered type is regarded as the best for mid-winter and therefore for commercial purposes. "The perfection of this type," says the bulletin, "will be along the line of increased size and number of flowers on a stem."

"Fifteen years ago," to quote Prof. Beal again, "sweet peas were usually fairly plentiful in the markets of the large cities about April 1, and sometimes flowers were seen as early as the last week in February. Among the varieties grown were Blanche Ferry, Lottie Eckford, Emily Henderson and Katherine Tracy. The seeds were usually sown in August or September in pots and benched after chrysanthemums, or seeds were planted in carnation benches and the plants trained on the purlin supports of the greenhouse."

The first record of sweet peas being grown under glass in any other than a very limited way is in 1897, when, Mr. Zvolanek states, he grew three houses of them, thus becoming undoubtedly the largest grower in the country at that time."

Concerning the origin of Blanche Ferry, the bulletin quotes from an article by Will W. Tracy, published in THE AMERICAN FLORIST, Vol. 13, April 2, 1898, as follows:

"Some forty years ago a woman in northern New York noticed and saved seed from a particularly bright-flowered plant of the Painted Lady. She planted them in her garden, and each succeeding year saved and planted seeds from what she thought were her best plants. She did not raise many, some years not more than a dozen plants and never more than could be raised in three square beds.

She was the wife of a quarryman and her garden was always over limestone ledges where the soil, though fertile, was often not over a foot in depth, and gradually her plants became more compact and sturdy, until after some ten or twelve years she ceased to bush them, simply letting them support themselves. After she had raised them in this way for some twenty-five years, a seedsman noticed their beauty, obtained about one hundred seeds, and from them has come the Blanche Ferry."

High, light houses are required for the growing of the winter varieties. The plants grow to a height of from six to ten feet and naturally require headroom. Since a deep, moist soil is called for, solid beds are preferable to benches. The soil should be prepared two or three feet deep to give the roots an opportunity to reach into the earth. Good drainage is essential and the beds should be at least a foot above the walks. More care is required where benches are used instead of beds but where space is limited sweet peas may be grown in benches to succeed chrysanthemums. The early chrysanthemums should be cleared away by October 20 if the sweet peas are to be ready for the Christmas market. Seed from outdoor fall-sown plants is to be preferred and should be sown about August 20 for Christmas. Pots instead of beds or benches are sometimes used. "A day or two before the planting," according to the bulletin, "the beds should be thoroughly saturated with water; William Sim, the most extensive grower, advises a strong dose of liquid manure instead. As soon as the top has dried off so as to be in a good friable condition, plant the seed."

Proper supports are essential to the successful growth of the peas and should be provided as soon as the plants are up. Wire netting, string or wire and string may be used. The experiment station prefers the wire netting, although commercial growers object to it on the ground of greater numbers of crooked stems than with the other methods.

An attempt to approximate natural outdoor spring conditions is desired, and for this reason the temperature should be kept as low as possible at first. The colder the plants are kept while growing, the healthier they will be. The temperature should be raised a degree each night until 50 is reached as soon as the buds can be felt. Red spider, green fly, climbing cut worms and snails are all enemies to be guarded against and the damping-off fungus and mildew are also a menace.

BUSINESS CONTINUES GOOD.

Business continues to be good in both towns. Carnations are becoming plentiful and are of good quality for this time of the year. Roses are rather scarce and are bringing fair prices, although the stems are short. Some very fine Pacific Supreme and Virginia Poehlmann chrysanthemums were seen on the market the early part of the week.

NOTES.

The new building being erected for the Champaign Seed Co. will be ready for occupancy about the middle of November. The building is a two-story brick structure, 22x100 feet, located at Clark and Neil Streets, and will be used entirely for the growing business of this young concern. The first floor will be given up to the retail business, while the wholesale business and the packing of seeds will be taken care of on the second floor. Last year this company began doing business on a modest scale, and a short time ago they incorporated for $10,000 with George B. Ransom, Mary B. Ransom and Bert C. Hennes as incorporators.

The grading and excavating for the new greenhouses for the Department of Horticulture has been completed. Work on the houses for the division of plant breeding and olericulture is well under way. It is hoped that they will be completed before severe weather sets in. At the experimental greenhouses roses and carnations are again being grown. The rose work is a duplication of last year's work, while a number of changes have been made in the carnation experiments. One half of one of the houses is devoted to stem-rot investigations.

W. N. Rudd, J. F. Ammann, F. L. Washburn and Chas. Loveridge, who attended a meeting of the floricultural advisory committee, were visitors at the experiment station greenhouses Friday and Saturday.

R. R. Root, a graduate of Cornell and Harvard, has taken up his duties as instructor in landscape gardening. Mr. Root spent the summer in Europe studying European Landscape architecture.

The next annual meeting of the Illinois State Horticultural Society will be held here December 10-13 A. H. N.

Cincinnati.

DEMAND IS FAIR.

The demand is fairly good but not all it might be. There is easily sufficient stock for present needs. Shipping business is good. The chrysanthemum season is at its height and this flower is enjoying the best call of them all. Practically all the good offerings since the glut have been selling. They have not, however, been bringing quite the same price they brought in other years. Roses sell nicely but they do not clean up as regularly as they should when the quality of the offering is considered. The carnation cut has decreased in size, but there are easily enough, in spite of that to go around. Other offerings are Gigantium lilies, valley, orchids and sweet peas. Business in green goods is excellent.

NOTES.

C. E. Critchell is finding a better call for lily of the valley and orchids than he has ever had at any other corresponding season of the year. He is also finding a good call for prepared oak sprays.

Peter Weiland is turning out some very good chrysanthemums on his first trial of this flower since he built his new place a year and a half ago.

G. Brunner & Sons have another large decoration this week. One item

A meeting was held Oct. 24 in an endeavor to get at the cost of our productions, which brought out a lively discussion but not much in the way of practical results. Henry Rohrer gave a very interesting account of a trip through the west and his visits to various florists, among the Breitmeyers at Mt. Clemens, Mich., Van Bochove Bros. at Kalamazoo, Mich., the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., and others. The Board of Trade rooms were engaged as a meeting place for a year and if any visiting florist is within reach the third Thursday of any month of the year he is welcome to our meetings. Henry Rohrer exhibited some very fine chrysanthemums, as did Rudolph Nagle and a fine exhibit of chrysanthemums and carnations was made by — Spinner, gardener for the Locher Estate.

STOCK STILL SCARCE.

Stock of all kinds is still scarce, and with a good demand for everything it keeps the wholesaler hustling to fill all his orders. A great many chrysanthemum growers either reduced the number of plants or discontinued them altogether, because they state that in former years there were so many grown there was no money in it. Carnations are very scarce owing to the dark cloudy weather we have been having.

NOTES.

George McCallum is again confined to his bed on account of injuries received in his recent accident, and the doctor states it will be sometime before he can leave his home.

The McCallum Co. is making a specialty of magnolia leaves and state that they have handled more of them this fall than any three former seasons together.

TRADE NOT SATISFACTORY.

The unfavorable weather of the past week has affected business considerably with the result that trade in general has been far from satisfactory. The weather for the month of October, except for a short period, was fine, the percentage of sunshine running up to 74, ten per cent above the average and the highest since 1895. This weather has been fine for trade of all kinds. The cold wave shortened up the cut materially, but there is still plenty of stock to go around with the exception of American Beauty roses. Roses have been coming in in large quantities and the receipts have been larger than the demand. Killarney and White Killarney especially are in heavy crop with many of the growers and of superb quality. Richmond has improved in the last few days, both in quality and quantity. Some fine stock is now coming in, the buds being long and of good size, and the stems have also increased in length. Carnations are having a very brisk demand and are none too plentiful, a shortage at times being very much in evidence. Chrysanthemums are arriving in larger quantities and the tables in some of the stores are heavily laden with blooms. In some cases they were sold in large lots, especially the yellow varieties, to make room for the other shipments that were to follow. Major Bonnaffon, Dr. Enguehard and Christy Mathewson are now obtainable, besides many other seasonable varieties. Amorita and Christy Mathewson are of very good quality and command good prices. Pompons of all kinds are in great oversupply. Fairy Queen is having a good call and is used extensively by the downtown florists. Violets have improved greatly with the advent of cooler weather and are having a good demand. Lily of the valley is in good supply and the quality is of the finest. Lilies and callas are to be had, but the demand is not heavy for either. Orchids are in good supply and some beautiful flowers and sprays of these exotics are to be had, but the prices are very likely to advance. Home-grown gardenias are still very scarce and very little eastern stock is arriving. Green goods are plentiful, smilax especially so, and winter berries and mistletoe are now being received. Thanksgiving orders are being placed and some Christmas orders are also being booked. The supply houses report a very busy season and some of them are predicting an advance in price on chiffons and ruscus.

NOTES.

A. Vanderpoel, proprietor of the Douglas Boulevard Floral Co., has bought a home and several lots at Fortieth and Colorado avenues and will soon build a new store on the property. He will move his conservatory to the new location and will conduct the business under his name as soon as he occupies the new store.

The North Shore Floral Co. has incorporated with a capital stock of $2,000. The incorporators are: Bernard J. Schmierer, president; Ida L. Schert, treasurer and Carrie M. Schmierer secretary.

Fred Longren, one of Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s traveling men, returned from a northern trip on October 31 and started out again the following Monday.

E. B. Washburn and family have reached Pasadena, Calif., safely and are now moving into their new home.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. received a shipment of mistletoe and Michigan winter berries this week. This firm's chrysanthemums are of the first quality and are greatly admired by their customers. Governor Wilson, a new large yellow, is particularly fine and will no doubt prove to be a good commercial chrysanthemum.

Fred Lautenschlager has returned from Vincennes, Ind., with an order for Kroeschell Bros. Co. to furnish a central heating system for John G. Frisz's new range of 120,000 square feet of glass. Mr. Lautenschlager says the boiler business was the best ever this year with Kroeschell Bros. Co.

M. Winandy Co.'s new bench and heating system so far is giving satisfaction wherever it is installed. It is already in use in 7 different ranges in this vicinity and the manufacturers think that it will not be long before it will be in use nearly everywhere.

Carl Ickes says that the A. Dietsch Co. has had an extremely busy season and that orders for greenhouse material are still arriving. Mr. Ickes escorted Wm. Hild, of Fort Pierre, South Dakota, through the Peter Reinberg greenhouses last week.

J. F. Kidwell says that carnations had the call at the Chicago Flower Growers' Association's store this week. Chrysanthemums are seen here in good supply and are having a good sale.

Frank Williams is steadily improving in health and is permitted to leave the sanitarium to visit his home a few days each week. His friends hope that he will have a speedy recovery.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. is building up a good trade in supplies and report a good demand for ruscus. T. E. Waters is making a strong bid for the holiday business and is mailing samples of the different colors of ruscus, oak leaves, etc., neatly done up in cartons to everyone in the trade upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps.

Wietor Bros.' shipments now include a large assortment of fancy pompons and several of the leading varieties of chrysanthemums. The Killarney and White Killarney roses are arriving at this store in fine shape and the American Beauty roses as good as formerly.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club will be held at the Union Restaurant, Thursday evening at eight o'clock. A paper on "The Retailing of Cut Flowers," by Irwin Bertermann, of Indianapolis, Ind., will be read and officers nominated for the ensuing year.

Fritz Bahr, of Highland Park, is shipping some fine Major Bonnaffon chrysanthemums to the E. F. Winter-son Co. The Mount Greenwood cemetery is also shipping a good supply of these flowers to the same firm.

The J. B. Deamud Co.'s leaders this week are a fine grade of American Beauty roses and chrysanthemums. Wilder S. Deamud, the proprietor's enterprising son, likes the wholesale business first rate and is constantly drumming up trade.

Bassett & Washburn are having quite a demand for their imported pompons and the proprietors state the stock is giving satisfaction. Major Bonnaffon and white and yellow Eaton chrysanthemums have made their appearance at this store.

Percy Jones is showing Major Bonnaffon chrysanthemums of fine quality in large quantities this week. H. Van Gelder says his firm is now carrying a complete line of everything in cut flowers, greens and supplies.

Phil Schupp says J. A. Budlong is cutting from a new crop of American Beauty roses and that the demand for these roses is so brisk that the stock is sold at a very early hour.

The Chicago Carnation Co.'s baseball nine cordially invites the trade to attend their grand ball to be given in the Adams hall at Joliet on November 14.

John Kruchten says that gardenias are as scarce as ever as far as home grown stock is concerned and that he is constantly refusing orders.

Weiland & Risch have had a force of men busy all week unloading their winter supply of coal. Peter Risch says that about 2,000 tons are needed each season to heat their range of 36 houses successfully.

Orr & Lockett are installing a complete set of fixtures for Phillip Vitellare, the new florist at 175 W. Jackson boulevard.

J. E. Enders has recovered from his recent operation and is again at work at Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s store.

Chas. W. Crum, formerly at 704 S. Center avenue, has opened a new store at 3954 W. Harrison street.

Visitors: B. J. York, representing the A. M. York estate, Hancock, Mich.; Frank M. Smith, of Smith & Fetters, Cleveland, O., returning from California; — Shade, Edmonton, Alberta, Can.

OUTDOOR FLOWERS AT END.

Cooler weather to a marked degree has arrived and all outdoor flowers are at an end. The smaller varieties in chrysanthemums show their influence on carnations, especially for funeral purposes. Fancy chrysanthemums bring $2 to $3 a dozen, carnations $1.50 to $2.50 a dozen. Roses have been very plentiful. American Beauties are good and bring good prices. Violets are daily improving and the prices are better. Asparagus plumosus and sprengeri and all other greens are selling well.

NOTES.

George H. Angermueller and wife, Ben Albert and Harry Schlechter had a very enjoyable trip Sunday to De Soto, Mo. They visited the greenhouses of G. M. Thost and found everything in tip-top shape. They were royally entertained by S. H. Hibbert and wife who have retired from the flower business.

C. A. Kuehn's store always has a fine, clean, fresh appearance and is now well stocked with fancy blooms in chrysanthemums and other flowers.

The Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. has had heavy sales on chrysanthemums, roses and violets. This firm is headquarters for Missouri.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. is receiving large consignments of chrysanthemums and handling some extra fine orchids.

W. A. Rowe is cutting some extra fine cut lily of the valley and ships to the Windler Wholesale Floral Co. He has a very swell location.

Alexander Waldbart & Sons find trade very much improved.

Miss Matilda Waldman has a fine trade in American Beauty roses, also a large plant trade.

The Oakland Floral Co. is shipping some extra fancy Mrs. Kelley, Tousey, Ivory and Pierre.

Paul Heil, formerly with the Ayres Floral Co., is now in the employ of F. H. Weber.

Baer of Peoria, Ill., is shipping fine chrysanthemums and carnations to this market.

Joe Ent is a daily visitor to the market and finds trade picking up.

H. G. Berning has a great supply of chrysanthemums and carnations.

George H. Goebel is cutting some good chrysanthemums.

Jules Bourdet is cutting some good chrysanthemums.

F. C. Weber, Jr., is a daily visitor to the market.

Mrs. Richter is cutting some fine violets.

William Kalisch is still on the sick list.

BUSINESS INCREASING.

The month of November opened with rain followed by snow-flurries and cold, dark, disagreeable weather. All the florists are busy, a fact which becomes evident by the large amount of chrysanthemums that are being cut. Early blooms are all cut and gone. Halliday, Col. Appleton, Enguehard are on the market with Ivory and Bonnaffon coming a little later. The flowers are of excellent quality and are bringing reasonable prices. Although there are many chrysanthemums grown and offered there has been no glut on the market. Carnations, which are reaching their standard winter length, are of good quality but are not offered in an oversupply. In fact, they have been cleaned up early each day for the past few months. Roses are of excellent quality and standard length of stems but are not to be had in very large quantities. Those who are growing American Beauties are having excellent success. The flowers are good and the stems long.

NOTES.

Ralph Knight reports his chrysanthemums about all cut. His sweet peas are in the best of condition and he expects to begin cutting soon.

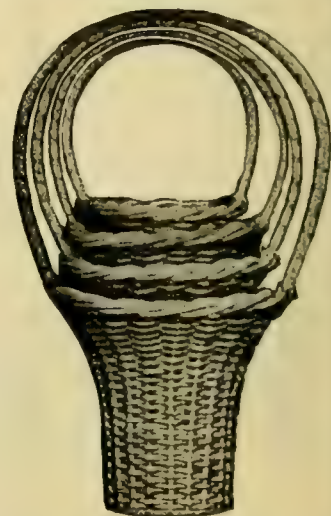

Leo Miller's establishment shows the result of his judicious care. His roses show excellent growth and bud while the carnation range is in fine growing condition.

James Dozer, formerly with the Livingston Seed Co., is now with the Columbus Floral Co.

L. S. B.

WEST BEND, WIS.—F. C. Kesting, a local florist, will enter the nursery and seed business also.

Philadelphia Notes.

J. J. Habermehl's Sons had quite an elaborate decoration for an after-the-opera dinner on hallowe'en. The celebrated Clover room at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, about sixty feet square and with a high ceiling, was made to represent a barnyard scene. The entire wall space was covered with straw mats, on which garlands of fruit were festooned. The ceiling was canopied with oak leaves, while the floor was completely carpeted with green raffia mats. A stage showed through an opening at one end and in front of this was a pond in which ducks swam about. Electric lights covered with green and red shades furnished a rather weird light. Leading to the room a long entry was bordered with tall cedars on which were suspended all kinds of hallowe'en figures and lanterns. It was much admired by all who had the good fortune to see it.

The November meeting of the club was fairly well attended. There was no essayist, but the question of publicity in connection with the work the New York club has been doing was taken up and considerable progress made. All are enthusiastic in the matter. President Thilow appointed a publicity committee of eighteen who will meet soon and lay out the work in a systematic manner. The various committees of the club to serve for the ensuing year were appointed by President Thilow. — Morrison of Baltimore, Md., was an interested visitor.

New flower stores are opening up with the approach of the busy season. Eugene Weiss, one of the old-timers, is getting into the business again. His store, to be opened soon, will be on Germantown avenue below Cheltenham avenue, Germantown. The New Century flower shop, F. Sheane, proprietor, will open on Fifty-second street below Spruce. Another is to be opened by

The Leo Niessen Market is a busy place these days. The floor space, one of the largest if not the largest occupied by any similar firm in the country, seems to be hardly sufficient, so great is the stock handled. Chrysanthemums and American Beauty roses were leaders the past week.

The store of M. Rice & Co. is one of the busiest places in town. As the holidays approach the force is increased, but the alert salesmen on the road keep things at a white heat all the time. They say this is sure to be their banner season.

Jack Berger says he believes the chrysanthemums are better this season than ever before, but that the warm weather is hurrying them along too fast, every day bringing them large consignments.

The London Flower Shop is to give the profits for one day, November 9, to the Home for Incurables. Extra salesladies from friends of the home are to assist for this occasion.

Cattleyas are a strong feature with Edward Reid as are also American Beauties.

SATURDAY TRADE GOOD.

It was dull last week. Saturday as usual was the bright spot. Friday's rain storm kept people indoors, but the bracing day on Saturday and the Harvard football game lent a zest to the trade. Red chrysanthemums were in the call and good prices obtained. Violets are plentiful. Carnations are druggy and hard to move. Many lots are going to the street men. Orchids are being worn by the society buds.

NOTES.

The best Bonnaffons we have seen were in the Co-operative Market and were grown by Robert Montgomery, of Natick. The size of the flowers, the length of stem and the glossy foliage put them in the show class. Edmund J. Welch, son of P. Welch, returned after a year's absence to be representative of Welch Bros. Co.'s three stores in Boston, Montreal, Can., and Albany, N. Y. He has been getting the practical end of the business with Lawrence Cotter of the Lakeview Rose Conservatories, Jamestown, N. Y. Mr. Welch speaks very highly of the high-class stock grown by Mr. Cotter, and especially the Lakeview strain of double Pink Killarney grown there. Mr. Cotter has our best wishes for his continued success.

The club banquet will be held November 11. Probably Mayor Fitzgerald will favor us with the rendition of his favorite song

GOOD CALL FOR MUMS.

A killing frost visited this section on November 1 and the temperature fell to below freezing, but the sunshine is still with us and the flowers are doing beautifully. The chrysanthemums are in all their glory and there is call for all that are brought in. The football game between Vanderbilt University and the University of Virginia made quite a rush in the chrysanthemum line. Violets went by the wholesale to give the blue color of Virginia. All the florists express themselves as quite satisfied with the special demand, and are looking forward to the famous Vanderbilt-Seawane game on Thanksgiving day, when there is always a large demand for everything in sight. Funeral work has been rather more slack the past week than for several weeks previously. The funeral of Brown McMillin, son of former Governor McMillin and the present democratic candidate for gubernatorial honors, called for many beautiful flowers.

NOTES.

The Joy Floral Company is very proud of its crop of American Beauty roses, which are of rich color, fine in foliage and very long-stemmed. Their grower is Godfrey Johnson.

L. Haury & Sons are bringing in fine plants and flowers. They have the daisy chrysanthemum, which seems to be a great favorite, and the sales on it are fine.

McIntyre Bros. hope to be in their new store in a short time and look

DEMAND HAS INCREASED.

Since the outdoor stock has about disappeared altogether, the demand for flowers has increased to a noticeable extent. Carnations have cleaned up nicely nearly every day at fair prices. The opening and reception at the new west side market house cleaned up a large quantity of chrysanthemums and roses during the latter part of the week. A fine lot of Bonnafon chrysanthemums are arriving daily. This week will see the large Col. Appleton a part of the daily stock. Orchids are rather plentiful and the demand fair. There are plenty of small chrysanthemums, Ivory and pompons on the market, and retailers can get anything from 50 cents to $3 a dozen for the best. Valley has not been overplentiful. Violets are in good demand, and the flowers show good size and form. Southern smilax can be had at any time as fresh stock arrives nearly every day. Boxwood is good this season and retailers are availing themselves of this favorable green for wreaths, etc., etc. Christmas orders for boxwood are also being taken daily for future delivery. There will be a few novelties for Christmas this year. C. F. B.

BUSINESS QUIET.

Business has been quiet the past week, although there has been several large weddings and one or two large decorations that drew heavily on the chrysanthemums. These flowers, the growers say, are from a week to ten days earlier than last year. Almost all the popular varieties are now in. Wm. K. Harris is cutting Dear Friend, Maud Dean, white Grace, white Dean and Lady Bountiful, the last three being sports of Maud Dean and all very fine varieties. The Robert Craig Co. is cutting heavily; in fact, they are coming from every direction, and yet the market appears to take them all at fair prices. Killarney roses are in crop again and some of the finest Marylands that have ever graced this market were seen the past week. Sunburst, Ward and Hillingdon are fast getting into their stride and will certainly give the Killarneys a run for public favor. American Beauties are in fair demand, with quality very good for the season. Carnations, while fine, are low in price. The Wards are equal to last season. Gardenias are a trifle below the demand, while cattleyas are a little ahead. Easter lilies move

TRADE SOMEWHAT IMPROVED.

Though there were dull days in the middle of the last week, its beginning and ending were both good in comparison with some days that had gone before. The week's business opened with a lighter supply of stock and conditions were somewhat better. While there was an abundance of stock throughout the remainder of the week, the market had a better tone and Saturday, November 2, was a good day. The early chrysanthemums are now pretty well cut out and the later varieties, notably Bonnaillon are appearing. Roses and carnations were never better at this season and when this is written it is nearly November and yet dahlias and cosmos are coming in. Violets, in the vernacular of the lower East Side, seem to have "got theirs." They cannot be moved at 20 cents a hundred; within a comparatively short time large sales have been made at 75 cents a 1,000, which may be better than throwing them on the dump, but is not much. The complaint for the past week has been that the weather was too warm. This week opens much cooler.

New York, Monday, November 4.—There is a fair market this morning. The weather is clear and cold. Heavy frosts are reported from New Jersey and Long Island, which will finish the outdoor stock. The outlook is encouraging.

NOTES.

G. Meyer, of Fifty-eighth street and Madison avenue arranged a fine wedding decoration, October 31 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newbold Edgar, 28 East Thirty-ninth street. The occasion was the marriage of their daughter, Miss Agnes Le Roy Edgar to Stewart Edmund Davis. The walls of the parlor were branched to the ceiling with white chrysanthemums, the dining room with pink Ivory chrysanthemums. The bower was of palms interspersed with white chrysanthemums. Over 200 candelabras were used on the mirror near which the bridal party stood. Vases and bunches of chrysanthemums were placed in every available nook. This was conceded to be one of the very finest decorations of the season.

Anton Schultheis of College Point was found with a force of men potting up azaleas, and the stock looks very fine. He has always taken high standing as a grower of fine plants and continues to keep well in the front of the procession. There is so much good stock that it cannot all be enumerated, but particularly noteworthy are poinsettias in pans and also for cutting, ardisias, O. oranges, cyclamens, and ericas. He is now selling a great stock of chrysanthemums in pots.

The A. J. Guttman floor of the Coogan Building, Twenty-sixth street and Sixth avenue is now a very busy place. In addition to the large stock handled by Mr. Guttman the Henry M. Robinson Co., of which Maurice Glass is manager, is doing a large business. Fred Schumann, a former partner of J. J. Perkins, has re-entered the wholesale business on this floor.

Though the Julius Roehrs Co. is located at Rutherford, N. J., so much of their stock is marketed in New York that they may well be considered as a part, and a large part, of the trade of this city. Their trucks, loaded with evergreens and a great variety of other stocks, are daily to be seen on the streets of the metropolis and their products can be seen in all the leading stores.

Dalliedouze Brothers will this season disseminate their new sport of the Enchantress carnation which they have named Enchantress Supreme. For the past four years they have been growing it and have now a very large and fine stock. It is a better color and forms better buds than the parent Enchantress, at the same time having all the other qualities.

At the John Scott range, of which George Scott is now general manager and Harry Fraser head grower, there is the usual great stock of fine Scotti ferns. At the original home of this fern, it is gratifying to observe the stock so well kept up. There is also a great stock of other standard foliage and flowering plants.

Election day falling on Tuesday, the MacNiff Horticultural Co. has announced a special sale for Wednesday, November 6, when they will offer a fine stock of evergreens, boxwood, rhododendrons and rose bushes. Notwithstanding bad weather their sale on November 1 was well attended and a large stock disposed of.

At the range of G. Dreyer, Woodside, there is the usual great stock of foliage and flowering plants. The late H. Dreyer was a noted plantsman and under the management of his son the range is now in fine condition. Palms, ferns, araucarias and many other plants, all in fine condition, are very noticeable.

A. Demeusy, another Flatbush grower, has a fine healthy stock of carnations, notable among them being the new red, St. Nicholas, recently brought out by Bauer & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind. All of his cut flowers are handled by Bonnet & Blake of Brooklyn.

The remodeled St. Andrew hotel, Broadway and Seventy-second street, which was opened October 31, shows some new and interesting features. There is a sunken Venetian garden, containing both natural and artificial flowers, and also a rose garden.

Badgley, Riedel & Meyer are receiving a fine line of chrysanthemums, also something very good in carnations and orchids. Every member of this firm is a hard worker and constantly on the job. They deserve the success that is attending them.

A daily feature in the store of Henshaw & Fenrich is the new pink rose, Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, which brings top prices. They are also receiving large shipments of other standard varieties as well as many chrysanthemums.

David Herbert and son of Ateo, N. J., were in this city last week calling on Guenther Bros. Up to the time this was being written they were still cutting dahlias at their big farm, as there had been no frosts.

Importers of azaleas have recently received cablegrams from Belgium saying that on account of heavy October frosts stock has been damaged and that shipments will only be about one half what was ordered.

Edward Bogan, one of the old landmarks of the flower business in this city is yet seen occasionally in the wholesale district. Though bearing the weight of over four score years he is active and cheerful.

Wm. Iler, with E. C. Haran, recently received a letter from Arthur Hunt who is under treatment for throat trouble in a sanitarium at Liberty, N. Y. He says that he is greatly improved in health.

In his new store on Twenty-eighth street, Wm. P. Ford has been handling a great stock of chrysanthemums as well as all other stocks that go to make a completely equipped wholesale store.

George Siebrecht of Siebrecht & Siebrecht has been sick for the past week but it is hoped that he will have recovered his usual health in a short time.

G. Messeberg, also of Flatbush, is cutting a good stock of chrysanthemums and carnations which is being handled by Moore, Hentz & Nash.

G. Golsner's Sons, College Point growers, give their attention to cut stock, carnations, callas and bouvardias being very prominent.

James Coyle, for years favorably known as an employee of H. E. Froment, is now well established in business for himself.

Louis Schmutz is busy as usual filling orders for plants.

The Rosery celebrated its fifth anniversary November 1 by opening at a new location, 23 Steuben street. The members of the firm, Edward F. Meany and Edward P. Tracey, gave out 2,000 roses to customers who called. The first two days brought many new faces to the establishment and kept an extra force of help very busy. The store is well fitted up and attractive and Messrs. Meany and Tracey are much encouraged with the outlook.

At the old store, 76 Maiden Lane, all is activity. This is now the home of the new Albany Cut Flower Exchange, Thomas F. Tracey, manager. The opening on November 1 was most auspicious. Orders came Friday and Saturday from florists as far north as Saranac Lake and west to Oneonta. This firm fills a want which was long felt as a wholesale place has been needed in this section for some time.

BUSINESS IMPROVING.

Week before last was the duller than we have had for a long time, but last week was better. Good material is coming into the wholesale houses and is beginning to bring good prices. Some very good pompon mums in various shades sell well. Bonaffons are scarce now, but other kinds are plentiful. Easter lilies are scarce again and do not meet the demand. Violets are exceptionally good. Some fine baby foxglove has arrived. Carnations are very scarce. Potted plants are beginning to be shown in several of the stores for the thanksgiving trade. Prices on all flowers at wholesale are on the advance but business for the month of October has been below normal.

NOTES.

In memory of Vice-president Sherman, an effective window display was shown by H. E. Wilson, of 88 East Main St.

George Bennett, of Greece, N. Y., started last Monday for California and expects to be away at least three months.

George B. Hart received a very fine shipment of cyclamens which he quickly disposed of the other day.

Frank Boenka has recently erected a greenhouse and has begun to grow carnations.

Fred Mossgraver is building a greenhouse, 40x150 feet, at Webster, N. Y.

H. J. H.

Buffalo.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS MORE PLENTIFUL.

Chrysanthemums are getting more plentiful. Roses are in good supply and carnations are having their usual sale. Pompons are in demand and in all colors. Weddings were numerous last week. Receptions have been few probably owing to election excitement.

NOTES.

The flower show is the all-absorbing topic and every one is doing his utmost to make this show a success. The best efforts of the trade will be in evidence from Wednesday until Sunday at the Elmwood convention hall to show the people what possibilities there are in flowers. General Chairman Kasting is a busy man and with his able corps of assistants on the different committees will spare no trouble to make the show a success in every way.

Humboldt Park, of which Henry Elbers is superintendent, is one of the city's beauty spots. A floral exhibit was held on Sunday which was attended by thousands. South Park has also had its annual exhibit and Professor Cowell has shown the citizens of this place some rare flowers.

A great many social events are scheduled and the season bids fair to be more active than last year with every prospect of a good supply from the local growers.

S. A. Anderson has built a 500-foot brick driveway to his Elmwood place.

ERFURT, GERMANY, May 9, 1911.
AMERICAN FLORIST Co.,

Dear Sirs:—If you have any copies left of the comparative color plate compiled by F. Schuyler Mathews, I shall be obliged if you will send me one, my copy having somehow got mislaid and I do not like to be without this excellent little production.

Next annual convention, June, 1913.

CHICAGO.—Prices on the Board of Trade November 6 for grass seed were noted as follows: Timothy, $3.50 to $4.25 per 100 pounds.

PORTLAND, ORE.—The foundation of the new warehouse being erected by the Portland Seed Co. has been completed and work started on the walls.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.—The Champaign Seed Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000. Leo B. Ranson, May Ranson and Bert C. Hennessy are the incorporators.

SEDALIA, MO.—L. H. Archias, well known seedsman, and his wife, celebrated their china wedding anniversary October 28. The marriage occurred twenty years ago at Helena, Ark. Mr. and Mrs. Archias have been residents of this place for 13 years and are among the town's most prominent and respected citizens.

SAN JOSE, CALIF.—Thos. W. Chisholm, sales manager for the Braslan Seed Growers Co., Inc., is leaving the coast for his annual visit to the trade. After being in close personal touch with this season's harvest and the apportioning of the various acreages for the coming year's crop, Mr. Chisholm is well prepared with first hand information for the trade.

THE efforts of J. C. Vaughan (democrat) and Thos. D. Knight (Progressive), to oust Congressman Mann of the Second Illinois District, according to the returns at hand, with about one-fourth of the 181 precincts heard from at this writing, indicate that the vote is so split as to give Mann enough, more than one-third of the votes, to insure his election.

McCullough Not Seriously Injured.

The impression has been given out that J. Chas. McCullough, of Cincinnati, O., was shot while in front of his office. As a matter of fact, Mr. McCullough was on a Zoo-Eden Park street car, returning to his office, just ready to leave the car, when a revolver in someone's pocket was accidentally discharged, the bullet going through the fleshy part of the right forearm, just below the elbow, not injuring any of the bones. Mr. McCullough was immediately taken to the Good Samaritan hospital, where he has been for some days. He is recovering rapidly and no serious results anticipated. A wrong impression seems to have gone out to the trade as to the extent of the injury.

Idaho Peas.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., November 1.—John B. Davis, of the John B. Davis Seed Co., returned home the latter part of last week from Idaho, where he spent a couple of months gathering the crop of the past season. This turned out very satisfactorily, in fact, better than anticipated. He reports that instances were quite frequent when over 30 bushels were harvested from an acre, from two and one-half bushels sown. The average returns were 25 bushels to the acre and 10 bushels to the one sown. He harvested a total of between 9,000 and 10,000 bushels. This will all be shipped to this city and some of it is on the way, it taking in the neighborhood of four weeks for the freight to make the journey. All the seed will be picked over in this city, which will give employment to a large number of girls during a part of the winter when the work is most desirable.

Growing Lettuce.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

As I am a beginner in growing lettuce in greenhouses I would be pleased to have your advice as to what kind to grow. Also how should the soil be prepared, how much manure should it contain, and what kind? In fact, I wish to know everything from beginning to finish.

W. T.

Ohio.

In the central and western states mostly leaf lettuce is produced under glass. The proper variety for this purpose is Grand Rapids. It stands up better under heat than other kinds and is now practically the only kind used. Years ago there was a general impression that any old house would grow lettuce, but nowadays with close competition the house is of first importance. It cannot be too good. We need just as good houses for lettuce as for cut flowers to get the best results. The ground used is of minor importance as such a small area as is used in greenhouses can be readily built up to meet requirements. Thus if local land is too heavy sand can be added, or if too sandy some loam or clay may be brought in. The main thing is humus, however. Lettuce requires plenty of it and manure is the proper source. We have always had excellent results from the use of horse manure partly decomposed. On new ground we have used as much as one-third of such manure without harm, and later, after the lettuce was well under way, we added chemical fertilizers besides.

The main points in lettuce culture are good plants, plenty of food and water, a low temperature and fresh air. We will treat the production of plants in a separate article in a later issue. Nothing is gained by high temperatures in spite of much argument in favor of heat. We have always found a low night temperature desirable, this being more important than the day temperature. The night temperature determines the body. Thus, 48° produces a much better lettuce than 55°. We believe in a good use of temperature in sunny weather, up to 75° or 80° with air on. In dark weather 60° is ample with some ventilation and heat. Fully nine-tenths of all lettuce troubles arise from faulty ventilation. The rule is air or heat—closed houses and no heat should not be tolerated. Whenever the outside temperature drops to a point compelling closing of ventilation heat must be turned on, and in cloudy weather it often pays to fire with ventilators well open to circulate the air.

Grand Rapids lettuce is almost universally planted 8 x 8 inches. A few growers plant 6 x 8 inches, and others 6 x 6, depending on the market. The first spacing gives greatest weight in pounds while the last is often desirable if sales are made by the dozen. Mechanical watering is very successful with this crop. Where solid beds are used and soil is of good depth it pays to put on most of the moisture before planting. We have produced some of the best crops that way—never watering after planting. This treatment prevents many maladies in winter.

We find most successful lettuce growers operate on sandy soils, which is a hint as to requirements. Some of these soils if separated would contain very close to one-third of their bulk of sand and gravel. If we could produce a soil approximately one-third sand and gravel, one-third loam and clay and one-third humus in the form of old manure we should be able to produce fine lettuce.

VACAVILLE, CALIF.—A. J. Cook, state horticultural commissioner, called a meeting of fruit growers here October 21.

MONROE, MICH.—The Mutual Nurseries Co. of this place has filed articles of incorporation at the state capital. The capital is placed at $50,000.

MUSCATINE, IA.—Wesley Greene, secretary of the Iowa Horticultural Society, reports that his state yielded only a fifteen percent crop this year.

VALLEY CITY, N. D.—The Northwest Nursery Co. has acquired a tract of land containing 274 acres which will be set out in young stock next spring.

PORTERSVILLE, CALIF.—A. G. Shultz, county horticultural commissioner, is busy filling orders for the lace-wing fly, an enemy of the soft brown scale which attacks both citrus and deciduous trees.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—The Gibraltar Investment Co., which already owns thirty nurseries in southern California, has purchased a 210-acre tract at Hemet. The firm's largest nursery will be established there.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Tropical fruits will be grown by the government in the new greenhouse on the grounds of the Department of Agriculture. Among the many other varieties are the pomelo, the breadfruit, the guavo and the mangosteen.

POCATELLO, IDA.—Seventy thousand young Douglas fir trees, raised from the seed at the government's nursery, have been planted on the hills near here. Since the establishment of the Mint Creek nursery nearly a million young forest trees have been transplanted and the greater number of them are thriving.

Christmas Tree Embargo.

Washington, D. C., October 31.—Preliminary to a proclamation quarantining portions of the New England states against the shipment of Christmas trees, railroad ties, telephone poles, plants and other products, on account of the gypsy and brown tail moth ravages, the Federal Horticultural Board heard the protests of 30 representatives of New England horticultural interests. It was stated today their objections will be thoroughly considered.

Death of Joshua I. Maxwell.

Joshua I. Maxwell, of Geneva, N. Y., one of the founders of the nursery industry that has made his community famous, died October 23 at the age of 88. Mr. Maxwell entered the nursery business in 1852 with his brother, who had begun four years earlier. There were but two nursery firms in Geneva at the time and the plantings of the two did not exceed ten acres. When the Maxwells retired in the eighties they were planting more than 1,000 acres. Mr. Maxwell was interested in many business enterprises in his home town and donated large sums to charity.

WHEN THE VOTE WAS COUNTED.

When they counted the vote, there could be no mistake.

Godfrey Aschmann was head of the poll; The Bull Moose was nowhere, and Debs was a fake. While Taft was left in a hole.

Not one of the lot knew how to pot

Up a plant in the way it should grow.

The contest was hot. Who said it was not?

No one else else had the ghost of a show.

Aschmann showed us his charms; then back to their farms

His competitors scurried in haste.

His Araucarias, Ferns, Azaleas and Palms

Appealed to all who had taste.

Said the Florists all round, no better are found.

We're for Aschmann down to our last cent:

With volumes of sound, to his houses they're bound.

To stock up with the best their intent:

And they sing as they go: "Our old friend is not slow;

He's on top of the heap, all his rivals below."

Ferns.

The growing of Nephrolepis for the past five years has been one of our leading specialties. We have three hucses, which were rebuilt this summer, especially adapted for the growing of first-class stock. Ferns do not do well in old houses. They need houses with plenty of sun and good, fresh, sweet air. Old, dark houses bring fungus and make spindly plants.

Neph. Giatrasii. This is a new fern, very graceful, of weeping habit, short and bushy, very much admired by every one who has bought it. 4-5 1/2-6 in. pots, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c.

Neph. Whitmani, 4 in., 20c; 5 1/2 to 6 in. pots, 30c, 35c, 40c and 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Neph. Scottii, 4 in., 20c; 5 in., 35c; 5 1/2 to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Boston, 7 in., 75c; 5 1/2 to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 5 in., 35c; 4 in., 20c.

Neph. Elegantiissima Compacta, 6 in., 50c.

Neph. Scholzei, 6 in., 50c; 4 in., 25c.

Adiantum Hybridum, the new Maidenhair Fern, large 4 in., bushy, 15c; 5 in., 25c.

Japanese Fern Balls, our own importation, now full of leaves; 8-9 in. in diameter, only 35c (cheap at 50c).

We have a big assortment of 2 1/2 in. Dish Ferns, now ready, $4.00 per 100.

6 in. dishes, made up of Wilsoni Ferns, one large Dracaena Terminalis in center, 50c.

6 in. pans made up of 3 in. Wilsoni Ferns, very attractive, would sell like hot cakes for 75c.

Look! only 25c per pan for three big plants.

Ficus Elastica, Belgium or American stock, 5-5 1/2 in., 30c, 35c to 40c; 6 in., 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Hydrangea Otaksa, pot-grown. Remember, only pot-grown stock, like ours, will force successfully. 3 1/2-6-7 in. pots, 25c, 35c, 50c.

Primula Obconica Grandiflora, good strain, assorted, 4 in., $4.00 per 100; 5 1/2 in., $2.50 per doz.

Primula Chinsensis, John F. Rupp strain, assorted, 4 in., $10.00 per 100; 5 1/2 in., only $2.50 per doz.

AZALEAS.

Our new importation of Azaleas are all in and unpacked. Never in our life have we received a better and finer selection of Azaleas than this fall. All of them have original foliage and are well budded.

For Christmas Forcing.—If you want to be successful, lose no time and start now. Start the Azaleas in low temperature and increase the temperature gradually up to 60 degrees until they show color; then cool off gradually again. We have only the best well-known Christmas varieties, such as Deutsche Perle, white; Simon Mardner, pink; Mme. Petrick, new, pink; Pharilda Mathilda, variegated; Veraneana, variegated rose; Apollo, red. Prices: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

For Easter Blooming and for Easter we have the well-known American varieties, such as Mme Van der Cruysen, best pink; Paul Weber, De Schryveriana, John Llewellyn, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), and a few more good sorts. P. S.—The Christmas varieties can be kept for Easter forcing without trouble. Price: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. We sell our Azaleas for cash only, because there is no profit to be made in Azaleas.

Our Mme. Petrick Azaleas are round as an apple, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50; covered with buds; a child can force them; best pink; earliest of all.

All other varieties are covered with buds.

No profit is made on Azaleas any more; therefore only cash with order will be accepted.

Daisies, Sanderl, pure white, everlasting bloomer, very valuable for cut flowers, 2 1/2 in., $5.00 per 100.

Queen Alexandra Daisies, pure white, good Easter Daisy, 2 1/2 in. pots, strong, $4.00 per 100; 3 in., $6.00 per 100.

Jerusalem Cherries (Solanum), 6 in., 25c, 35c, 50c.

Cash with order, please. 25 sold at 100 rates. All plants must travel at purchaser's risk.

TESTIMONIAL.

When You Buy, It Pays to Buy Good Stock.

Look and see what Mr. Fred J. Michell, of that so well-known firm of Henry F. Michell Company, of Philadelphia, has got to say about our plants: "Sept. 14th, 1912.

"I have just visited the greenhouses of Mr. Godfrey Aschmann, and must say that it was indeed a great surprise to me. I have never seen a better lot of Araucarias, Ferns of all sizes, varieties and prices, Rubbers, Palms, Azaleas, and other plants in season, ready for shipment, as are at present at Mr. Godfrey Aschmann's."

One of the Recent Testimonials.

Saskatchewan Greenhouses,

E. J. Coster, Proprietor.

(P. O. Box 75), Prince Albert, Sask., Canada. Your shipment of Oct. 23rd arrived in first-class shape, and I beg to say I never bought such good ferns at the price in my life, and I have been buying them for over sixteen years. Now I am coming back to you for more stock if you use me as well as you have done this time.

Yours truly, E. J. COSTER.

Amount of order for ferns, $33.60.

Worth Every Cent It Costs And More

If you buy first class materials for your house, practically the only difference in cost between our Iron Frame construction and any cheaper one is on the frame itself. That means, that any money you save in a cheaper house, is cheaper only because, it has a poorer frame.

Any cheapening of the frame is at the expense of the most vital part of your house—the supporting part.

You cannot afford to put your money into a construction with a temporary frame as against our house with a permanent frame, which is a permanent, paying investment.

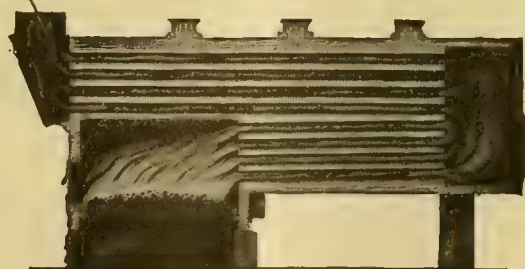

Send for our new commercial catalog and get further straight facts on constructions

TRADE IS FAIR.

Business is fair, local stocks scarce but improving, good weather and everybody busy—this will about cover the trade situation here at present. The autumn shortage of stock was worse than usual, owing to a blighting spell of dry hot weather the first week of September. Carnations are getting into line rapidly now, probably a little ahead of the usual time. Chrysanthemums, locally grown, are fairly in the game. The stores have had them from Chicago growers for a month. Except for a few spots locally, there had been no killing frost up to October 21.

FAIR AND EXHIBITION.

The Wichita fair and exhibition held October 2-10 was a great success. This exposition is held instead of the more common county or state fair. It was entirely under cover in a municipally owned building called the Forum and a paved and roofed annex. This afforded ample room for a splendid display of fruits, cereals, and products in general. Merchants and manufacturers also had exhibition spaces, and exhibited and demonstrated their goods. W. H. Culp & Co. furnished large decorative plants liberally in the foyer and upon the stage. Chas. P. Mueller put in a very complete and elaborate arrangement in the annex. The fruit display, especially of apples, was probably the best ever made in the state. Hundreds of boxes of apples of splendid quality were exhibited by the leading orchardists in this part of the state. There was a flower parade October 10 in which nearly fifty automobiles took part. Some of the decorations were very elaborate and beautiful. With the exception of the entry of W. H. Culp, who used all natural material, and the Shriners, who used a liberal quantity of American Beauties, all the decorations were of artificial flowers. In the industrial parade the next day Chas. P. Mueller made a good showing with five vehicles in line. W. H. Culp & Co. were also represented in this parade.

NOTES.

G. M. Reyburn of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, was a visitor during exposition week. He says the Forum offers facilities amply adequate for the S. A. F. convention, with the added advantage over the Coliseum in Chicago that it is on a side street and free from outside noise.

Mr. Herman Rynveld of Rynveld & Sons, Holland, visited the trade last week.

TRADE SLOWLY IMPROVING.

Business is improving slowly with nearly enough stock of good grade to meet all demands. Roses are fine. Carnations are still somewhat short of stem. Chrysanthemums are plentiful. Violets are extra fine for so early in the season. Bulb planting is about over with and nearly every florist is ready for winter business.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETS.

The Tri-City Florists' Club met with Ludwig Stapp of South Rock Island, Ill., recently, and a large number of members were present. A special attraction was billed for the evening. A representative of the Universal Cement Co. gave an illustrated lecture on cement or concrete as used in and about greenhouses. The talk was very instructive, and no doubt a number of the members will take advantage of what was learned during the lecture. Later the club adjourned to the dining room, where a fine chicken supper was awaiting. After a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Stapp for their kindness and hospitality the club adjourned to meet with C. O. E. Boehm of Davenport during the chrysanthemum show which will be held on or about November 10.

At Albert M. Herr's place carnations have been relegated to one large house for rooted cuttings only. The other houses are all filled with stock plants of geraniums of which he grows only three varieties, Nutt, Riccard and Poitevine. Of these three there are five houses full of rooted cuttings in various stages, many of them ready to ship. Mr. Herr recently bought his father's place and has torn down all the houses thereon and erected one large house, intended eventually as a start for a range of cut flower houses, but used this season for coleus of which he has some twenty varieties now in four-inch pots for stock.

Annual convention and exhibition at Chicago,
November, 1913. CHARLES H. TOTTY, Madison, N. J., President; C. W. JOHNSON, Morgan Park, Ill., Secretary.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY OF AMERICA.

Eleventh Annual Convention and Exhibition Held at New York
November 6-8, 1912.

The Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America was held on November 6, the opening day of the exhibition. President Totty's address was well received. He favored closer relations of all the minor societies with the Society of American Florists. He made a point when he said that his idea was that: "The different societies join hands with the parent body in a system of government such as is enjoyed by the different states in their relation to the Union."

The reports of Secretary C. W. Johnson and Treasurer John N. May were made and accepted and showed the finances of the society to be on a sound basis. A letter was received from W. N. Rudd, president of the Horticultural Society of Chicago, inviting the Chrysanthemum Society to hold its next annual meeting and exhibition in his city. President Foley of the Chicago Florists' Club extended an invitation of similar import. The invitations were accepted. The present officers were re-elected as follows: C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., president; Wallace Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., vice-president; Chas. W. Johnson, Morgan Park, Ill., secretary; John N. May, Summit, N. J., treasurer.

Wallace Pierson spoke of the question of a new badge, a ribbon, to be awarded to members who make fine exhibits at the different meetings of the society. He thought such a badge might be helpful in increasing membership. Secretary Johnson spoke along the same lines, and said that it was the intention to make the next meeting at Chicago exclusively a chrysanthemum show. The president was directed to appoint a committee to consider Mr. Pierson's suggestion in regard to a badge.

There was considerable discussion of the proposed change in the judging scale, and the matter was finally referred to the executive committee. Secretary Johnson thought that in view of past courtesies extended the members of the society it should offer a special prize for the National Flower Show of 1913 to be held in New York. As April is not a chrysanthemum month, after some discussion it was decided, on the motion of Wm. Turner, to offer a sweepstake prize of $10.00 for the best plant of marguerites exhibited at that time, it being pointed out that the marguerite is in fact a chrysanthemum. A vote of thanks was tendered the American Institute for courtesies extended.

President Totty's Address.

Another year has rolled around since you elected me your president at St. Louis and once more we assemble together to review the chrysanthemum field and see what can be done for the advancement of this particular society and what progress is being made. This society was organized in 1890, but it was not until ten years after that the first annual meeting was held in the fall, at the time when the "Queen of Autumn" was holding undisputed sway and when interest would naturally be greatest. This makes the eleventh annual exhibition since the meetings were changed to the fall, and I trust you will all feel that though progress has been slow, still we are moving onward and upward.

Personally, I think the Chrysanthemum Society of America, the Rose Society, the Carnation Society and other kindred organizations should be affiliated, in a way, with the parent body of the Society of American Florists & Ornamental Horticulturists—should really be a part of this body—and while I am not in favor of any society losing its individuality to the extent of not holding its own annual meeting or having its own officers, an affiliation with the parent body gives it the financial backing of that body or society and also a better status in the eyes of the floricultural world. This matter was agitated considerably by President Vincent, though for the last month or two I have heard nothing regarding any further progress being made. My own idea would be that if the different societies join hands with the parent body a system of government such as is enjoyed by the different states in their relation to the union would be the logical method of combination. This does not destroy the individuality of the society or drain it of any of its resources, save a minor tax that could be charged and still give it the backing of a co-operation of the entire flower business.

"Co-operation, not competition," is the keynote of modern business. We see this exemplified in every trade and condition of life, and I trust if the question of affiliation is presented to you at a later date you will be in favor of it. As regards individual membership in our own society, my opinion of it is that it should be very much larger. Just how to bring this about it is difficult to say. It certainly cannot be the annual cost of $2.00 that is standing in the way, as the annual report alone is well worth that to any member that is interested in 'mums. How then shall we go to work and interest our fellow 'mum growers in this society that was organized for their special benefit? Possibly, the reason many are not members is because the matter has never been presented to them in such a personal manner as to appeal to them. If any of you can suggest ways and means to bring about this desirable condition, I trust you will make suggestions to that effect.

There has recently been published in the trade papers some discussion on the official scale of points, the idea being that the present scale is designed chiefly for the purpose of judging seedlings and is not adequate for general use when judging in the average flower show. Most of the eastern judges take the official scale for exhibition purposes and score blooms according to that scale, whereas the western judges seem to take the commercial scale for their standard. In a competition where very widely different types are being exhibited together such as "Gen. Hutton" and "Major Bonnaffon," for instance, the number of points given for size on the official scale would cause "Hutton" to hopelessly overshadow "Major Bonnaffon," though the latter might score almost a total number of points for commercial purposes.

It has been suggested by Ex-President Elmer D. Smith that a sort of compromise scale be used in scoring exhibition varieties, when they are being judged in competition with a commercial variety. This compromise scale is as follows:

Color	20
Form and fullness.....	20
Size	30
Stem and foliage.....	30

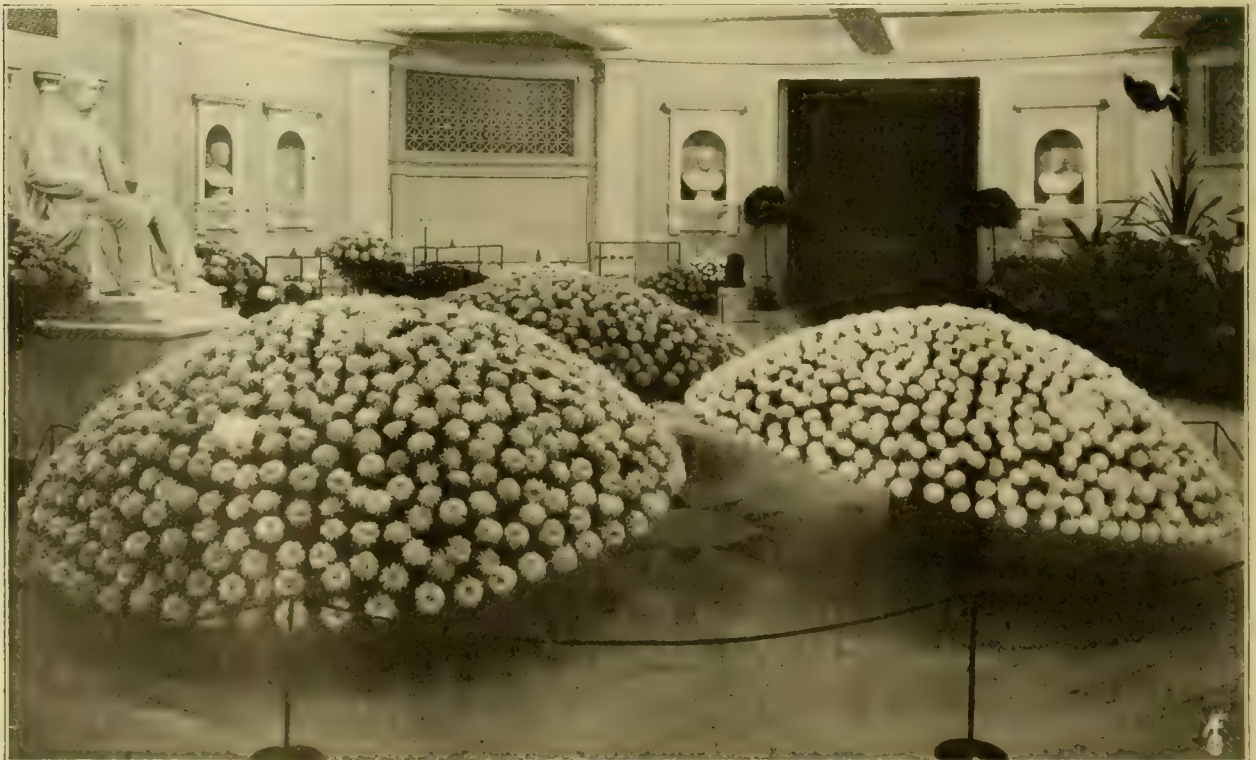

I myself am heartily in favor of this scale for general use, and if the members present think well of it a recommendation to that effect can be put through and a copy sent to all societies holding 'mum exhibitions. If the judges are conscientious, careful and fair, this compromise scale will assist them over many troublesome decisions, providing we can get them to accept it. Every society is practically a law unto itself and the chrysanthemum society is not in a position to insist that any suggestions it shall offer shall be carried out when judging 'mums, but a society that wishes to be up to date and have its exhibitions conducted and judged on the highest plane will, most likely, be only too willing to accept suggestions for its own advancement and good.

The scale of points as at present constituted for the use of judges in scoring varieties, I think we should not interfere with. They are the result of the accumulated experiences of quite a number of years and seem to me to fill the bill, but there is room for improvement in judging at exhibitions where all different types may be exhibited in one class. Is the demand for the large flowered chrysanthemum decreasing? Some retail florists claim that it is and others claim the reverse. My own opinion is that while sentiment and fashions change, and the demand varies considerably with the passing years, still, there will always be a market for a certain quantity of high-grade flowers, though it cannot be denied that the demand for singles and pompons has tremendously increased the last three or four years.

In the case of the singles the earlier types, which had just a single row of petals, have had to give place to varieties having three or more rows of petals which also have a stiff footstalk. These varieties can be packed and shipped long distances and come out of the box in perfect condition. Other types now coming into prominence are known as the early flowering varieties, which, if planted outdoors in the garden will give quantities of flowers from September 1 to well into November in most sections. They are very much larger than the pompons and seem to be becoming very popular. One thing is certain: the 'mum is so infinitely varied in its types that it will always be more or less popular.

There is a large and rapidly growing class of amateurs who are growing varieties of 'mums outdoors, not having any facilities for growing them under glass. Many of these amateurs are the greatest enthusiasts we have in the country and there certainly should be some way of enrolling them as members of this society. I trust this matter will be brought up for discussion and suggestions offered as to the best way of getting them to join our ranks. Whether we could get these people to join by organizing an amateur section is a question we might discuss at this time. The Chrysanthemum Society of America is a direct and potent factor in the development of the "Queen of Autumn," and I trust you will all put your shoulders to the wheel and help keep the chariot of progress moving upward and onward.

The Exhibition.

The annual show of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, in connection with the eighty-first annual fair of the American Institute of the City of New York, opened on the evening of November 6 in the Berkeley Lyceum Building, 19-21 West Forty-fourth street. The exhibition of chrysanthemums was very fine, both by private gardeners and commercial growers. Roses and carnations were also very prominent. This being the first time that the new pink rose, Mrs. Charles Russell, has come under the writer's observation in an exhibition, a few words about it will be appropriate. It is a remarkable production, as there shown, and cannot fail to spring into popularity. What is here written is of what we have seen, leaving out the possibilities of what may happen to it after it leaves the Waban Conservatories. The length of stems of the vase shown was equal to the average long-stem American Beauties and there were no weak necks, the uniformity of stem being notable. It is a beautiful pink, a much better color than American Beauty, and a better color than any other rose we have seen, not excepting Killarney. After being three days on exhibition in an unfavorable location the color had not in the least deteriorated and the general condition showed it to be a good keeper. We venture the assertion that no rose exhibited since the coming out of American Beauty has been the subject of so much favorable comment from old and experienced men in the trade.

Other fine roses were also exhibited, including Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, by Chas. H. Totty; Radiance and Bulgarie by Traendly & Schenck, and Milady by A. N. Pierson, Inc. Special prizes were awarded all these. Certificates of merit were awarded to: Rose Irish Fire Flame, S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co.'s exhibit; Lady Alice Stanley, exhibited by F. W. Vanderbilt, Hyde Park, N. Y. (Henry J. Allen, gardener); C. H. Behre, Madison, N. J., for a new rose. A. N. Pierson, Inc., was awarded a special prize for pompons, single and anemone chrysanthemums. Traendly & Schenck were awarded three special prizes for carnations and the Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y., received certificates for their new carnations, Matchless and Vivid. There were many fine chrysanthemums but Wm. Turner seemed to be the big chief. The exhibition was a great success and was very largely attended. The daily papers of New York deserve the thanks of the trade for the space they devoted to the fall exhibitions. Awards were made as follows:

THE FALL EXHIBITION.

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society threw open its doors on Tuesday evening, November 5, on what is said by many to have been its best fall exhibition. There were not quite so many exhibitors and some of their entries were not as large as formerly, but what they lacked in quantity was more than made up in the general excellence of all the exhibits. Orchids were a feature and a strong one, there being three exhibits, any one of which would attract attention at any show. The quality of the chrysanthemum plants was as good as ever seen here, there not being a poor plant in the various collections. The cut blooms were of extraordinary size and finish and attracted great attention from the visitors. Exhibits of well grown greenhouse foliage plants and ferns were quite in keeping with those of previous years, except that there were not quite so many entries.

One of the largest factors in the successful staging of the exhibits was the decorations. These were provided for by a private committee of the Florists' Club and the horticultural society, and were under the direction of William Graham. A raised balcony with a railing on which were seats so that the audience could both see and listen to the music with comfort, ran along each side of the hall on which were tall columns. These later also were placed on the stage at one end of the hall. Wild smilax and autumn leaves decorated the walls between and over the windows. Large palms and rubbers had been placed about where they added to the effect. Festoons of yellow Japanese lanterns were suspended from column to column which, when lighted, encircled the hall with beautiful lines of color. Green lanterns were suspended from the center chandelier. The center of the hall had two groups of foliage and flowering plants and in the center between them was a superb group of croton plants six to seven feet in height. All the specimen chrysanthemum plants also occupied this floor.

themum plants also occupied this floor.

The H. A. Dreer Co. staged a fine exhibit of all that is best in new plants and well grown specimens of standard sorts. The center space was filled with fine plants of the new glory of More-drecht fern, a genuine novelty. The orchid displays were staged very artistically. The Jos. Heacock Co. had a group of flowering plants of cattleyas and oncidiums in a large gilt frame about six by eight feet in size. These made a beautiful picture, standing out from their background of green. This frame was placed in a setting of large cibotium ferns which were staged in the foyer. The effect was beautiful and it was probably the most attractive exhibit in the show. Louis Burk's collection of orchids was enclosed in a large glass case, and being nicely arranged, made a finished exhibit. Many choice cattleyas and cypripediums showed the collection to be one of great value. The John Wanamaker table of orchids was beautifully arranged and contained a number of very choice sorts. A number of groups of ornamental foliage plants occupied the foyer. The grand staircase was decorated with vases of choice chrysanthemum blooms and foliage arranged for effect. In the foyer of the lower hall Thomas Meehan & Sons placed an art exhibit of paintings of mallow marvels which was very attractive. H. F. Michell's ship bringing bulbs from abroad was a happy concept, and well carried out.

A picture of a vase of orchids on a handsome table also placed in a large gilt frame with a black background and surrounded with cibotium ferns was a fine piece of work. In the rear hall Lord & Burnham occupied the center with a small greenhouse, surrounding which, as in a garden, were hardy chrysanthemums from the H. Michell Co. W. Atlee Burpee and the Overbrook Gardens made large displays of hardy chrysanthemums of single and double pompon sorts that were very attractive. H. A. Dreer Co., H. Michell Co. and H. Waterer staged collections of imported bulbs and garden requisites. The front of the hall and the outside foyer were nicely decorated with groups of evergreens from the W. H. Moon Co.

The display of roses, though not very extensive, brought out some fine sorts that were almost sensational. A. D. Montgomery exhibited Mrs. Chas. Russell, which carried itself well throughout the entire show, the buds developing into huge flowers much larger than American Beauties. This vase attracted attention from all the visitors. It was awarded a certificate of merit. Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, Totty's new pink, also made a fine showing and looks like a comer. Its immense flowers on four-foot stems were easily as large as American Beauties. It also received a certificate of merit. Stephenson's Radiance was the best yet seen here of this variety. The stems were all at least three feet in length. A. N. Pierson's Milady looks like a coming red, the flowers were very fine and while very double appeared to open out well and were symmetrical in shape. Robt. Scott and Son's Irish Fire Flame, the new single flame colored rose, was very striking as was Janet and Mrs. Forde. All the above varieties were thought worthy of the society's certificate of merit, excepting Irish Fire Flame, which was awarded a silver medal.

There were other roses of the White and Pink Killarney, Lady Hillingdon, Mrs. Ward, My Maryland, Radiance and American Beauty varieties. Charles H. Totty staged two fine new carnations in his Northport and Commodore, both of which are fine sorts. John Welsh Young won first prize for a vase of twenty-five Marylands. Special mention was given to the Jos. Heacock Co. for a vase of Killarney. This firm also received the highest honor of the society, a gold medal for their picture of orchids and cibotium ferns. There was a fine display of vegetables which were staged on Thursday in the lower hall and attracted much interest and attention.

Morris County Gardeners and Florists.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW.

The seventeenth annual flower show of the Morris County Gardeners and Florists' Society, held in Madison, N. J., October 31-November 1, was a most successful affair from every point of view. The chrysanthemums were finer than ever, roses were fully up to the Madison standard, and the carnations were of the highest grade. Novelties, and recent introductions were watched closely. C. H. Totty's new pink rose Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, was shown in majestic form. Edward Behre had two vases of the new rose Madison in fine condition. A. N. Pierson, Inc's., new rose Milady was a center of attraction for our lady visitors. In new carnations, the following were awarded certificates of merit: Matchless, Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y.; Wm. Eccles, Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y.; Northport, J. D. Cockcroft, Northport,

L. I., N. Y.; Enchantress Supreme, Dailedouze Bros., Flatbush, N. Y. Several new chrysanthemums were scaled by the committee of the C. S. A., points of which were not given out, but they looked good. One of the fine features of the show was the vegetable exhibits. Not only the very high quality of the exhibits, but the arrangement opened the visitors' eyes. There were five exhibits. The group of chrysanthemum plants with foliage and other flowering plants, put up by Harold B. Vyse, Morristown, John Downing, Morris Plains, and A. A. Macdonald, Duke's Farm, Somerville, N. J., were a show in themselves. Wm. H. Duckham's and John Jones' table of orchids were very fine, and Lager & Hurrell had a grand display of novelties in this line. The following were the awards:

sodded ground while a waterfall, rippling over the logs, splashed into a pool in which a number of young water fowl disported, when not hiding among the surrounding aquatic plants. A number of well grown ferns and foliage plants disposed among the oak roots and a front well broken with smaller foliage and flowering plants completed the best individual display ever attempted on the Coast.

The exhibit put up by John C. Carbone was a most pleasing feature, the arrangement of the orchids, ferns and other decorative plants being very ar-showed the best collection of specimen ferns ever exhibited here and received second award, losing first "for effect," lack of space causing a congested arrangement; C. Templeton Crocker (William Munro, gardener) took first on some extra fine outdoor roses, first on collection of dahlias and several other awards. Geo. A. Pope (William Kettlewell, gardener) exhibited a fine lot of dahlias, annuals and herbaceous blooms, and A. B. Spreckels (Louis Smaus, gardener) carried off a silver cup for chrysanthemum plants in bloom.

Outside of mums cut flowers were not prominent. New roses shown were: Sunburst, by John C. Carbone (it kept finely and became popular on sight); Prima Donna, by Domoto Bros., a strong double flower and a grand keeper; its American Beauty color will surely make it a popular favorite. What the rose entries lacked in quantity was made up in quality, being far better than those shown last fall. This cannot be said of carnations, the White Wonders from the Hillsborough Nursery being an exception. The nursery mentioned competed for the first time and took first with American Beauties and several firsts and seconds with chrysanthemums. Were it not for this firm the Japanese growers would have had a walkover with chrysanthemums as they cleaned up every other prize in sight, one taking first with each of the 7 entries. Among the winning varieties were noted: Wm. Duckam, Hunter, Dr. Enguehard, Bertha, Portola, O. P. Bassett, Jerome Jones, Jeffrys, Bonaffon and several others of which the names given are questionable. The Western Orchid Co., also a new entrant, won first with 3 fine specimen Cattleya labiata in excellent bloom. Owing to the lateness of the season there were only two entries for tuberous begonias, Henry E. Bothin of San Rafael (Jas. Niven, gardener) winning first with a fine up-to-date collection.

The Ferneries (H. Plath) showed their stock in a very attractive arrangement of cork bark built in imitation of a rockery 9 feet high, over which the plants were displayed to the best advantage. A partly concealed water pool and hidden electric lights added to the effect. Mr. Plath won first for his ferns arranged for effect and a number of awards for specimens. Outdoor decorative plants in

THE FALL SHOW.

"The best ever" is the popular verdict of the fall show given by the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society in the spacious Norman hall of the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco, Calif., October 23-26. The shows held by this society have become an autumn feature of the city's life and a function upon which society has set its seal of approval. John McLaren, the Exposition landscape engineer, congratulated the society on the general excellence of the exhibition. Mrs. Jas. Rolph, Jr., wife of the mayor, was present and assisted in judging the table decorations.

The plant exhibits were exceptionally good, there being a warm rivalry for the honor of winning the Flood challenge trophy. There were only two real contenders, the MacRorie & McLaren Co. and John C. Carbone. A joint meeting of the three sets of judges was held and the MacRorie & McLaren Co. was awarded the trophy for the premier exhibit of the show. The display consisted of a picturesque arrangement of oak roots, limbs and branches gnarled and contorted beyond description, a liberal use being made of tree ferns in the background. Phalaenopsis, oncidiums, cattleyas and other epiphytal orchids, neatly massed on the higher branches, were reflected in mirror ponds sunk in the green tistic. The orchid collection was admirable and included many imported laelio-cattleyas and brasso-cattleyas shown here for the first time.

The large private places took a prominent part in the show and contributed largely to its success. Eugene de Sabla (Wm. Hill, gardener), won nearly every first for inside decorative and flowering plants; S. E. Slade of Menlo Park (Chas. Ehrlich, gardener), tubs were shown to fine advantage on the spacious piazza adjoining the Norman hall and were creditable to the exhibitors, Domoto Bros. and the MacRorie & McLaren Co. A feature that attracted much interest was the vegetable exhibits shown by Eugene de Sabla and C. Templeton Crocker. The manner of display and the quality of the products were most admirable.

Much interest was taken by the visitors and the florists in general in the made up work that was featured daily. Albert O. Stein was awarded a fine silver cup for a Dresden table decorated with china dolls, the dresses of which were formed with miniature chrysanthemums, etc., an embroidery of baby roses and valleys in a conventional design taking the place of the usual ribbon. Pelicano, Rossi & Co. received second prize for a cyclamen decoration, a center lamp being used with a large shade trimmed with valleys, oncidiums and adiantum. The popular movement to obtain the Liberty Bell for the Exposition suggested the subject of Pelicano, Rossi & Co.'s entry for the most original design. The "Bell" was awarded first premium, second being awarded Albert O. Stein for a beautiful floral evening gown on a fine wax model. The gown was cut decollette and was made of adiantum. The trimming and embroidery were of tiny Cecil Bruner buds and valleys. The workmanship was exquisite. The Misses Hannon received a special mention for a floral pair of opera glasses in which electrically lighted pictures of well known members of the local society were to be seen.

Madame Johanna Gadschi, the grand opera star, assisted by Mesdames Will S. Tevis and Wm. H. Crocker, acted as judge and awarded first premium to Julius Epstein for a bridal muff of phaelaenopsis and valley. For a similar entry Pelicano, Rossi & Co., were awarded second. This firm also got a first for bridesmaid's bouquet, first for corsage bouquet and second went to a clerk in their store, Frank Thatcher. Albert O. Stein was awarded second for bridesmaid's bouquet. The contest for the big Carbone cup offered for the best basket of orchids was keenly contested as were the basket and hamper competitions on the last day.

It is a pleasure to state that the attendance was excellent and consequently a financial success was assured. Among the many visitors from a distance were William Hertrich of Los Angeles, Hiram Grimshaw and Dr. J. P. Parker of Santa Cruz, Messrs. Schmitz and Dobner of Stockton, Lester E. Morse, John Vallenge and many more. Manager Angelo J. Rossi and Assistant Manager H. Plath are to be congratulated on the completeness of the arrangements. Treasurer Eric James and Secretary T. F. Taylor also took an active part in the work. The judges were: Orchids—William Hertrich, Niels Peterson, Wm. H. Hutchings; plants—William Eldred, Thos. A. Munro, Sydney Clack; cut flowers—Jos. Thompson, J. W. Bagge, Eugene Burtle. The awards were as follows:

THE ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

Rochester and "Flower City" have long been synonymous terms, and the attendance at the 1912 exhibition indicates that the title is well deserved. Thousands visited the great mass of flowers in Convention Hall during the five days it was opened to the public. The verdict of the throngs who attended the third flower show is that it surpasses by far the floral carnival of two years ago, and has never been equalled in this city.

The plans were entirely different from those of two years ago. This time the hall was laid out as a huge chrysanthemum garden with pergolas and arches painted white, while the ceiling was entirely hidden by lattice work, covered with southern smilax, beautifully illuminated by electric lights especially designed for the purpose by John C. Parker of the Rochester Railway & Light Co. In the annex was a magnificent water court. At one corner of the west pool a great orange colored globe shed its rich rays on the two pools, which had been filled with pond lilies and other water plants. Other arc lights illuminated the whole garden and gave a fairy like aspect to the smilax decked trellises that covered the ceiling. In the same garden the Ladies Florists' Association very capably served refreshments in a garden specially set aside for this purpose. Concerts were given daily by the ladies' orchestra.

Comments on the beauty of the individual exhibits were many each day. Each florist had some particular attraction. The exhibitors included: George Eastman, Hiram W. Sibley, the park commissioners, A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn.; H. E. Wilson, Salter Bros., J. B. Keller's Sons, Geo. J. Keller, George B. Hart, James Vick's Sons, Charles Suhr, Henry P. Neun, E. R. Fry, George T. Boucher, Crosman Bros., Rochester Floral Co., Ellwanger & Barry, F. Schlegel & Sons.

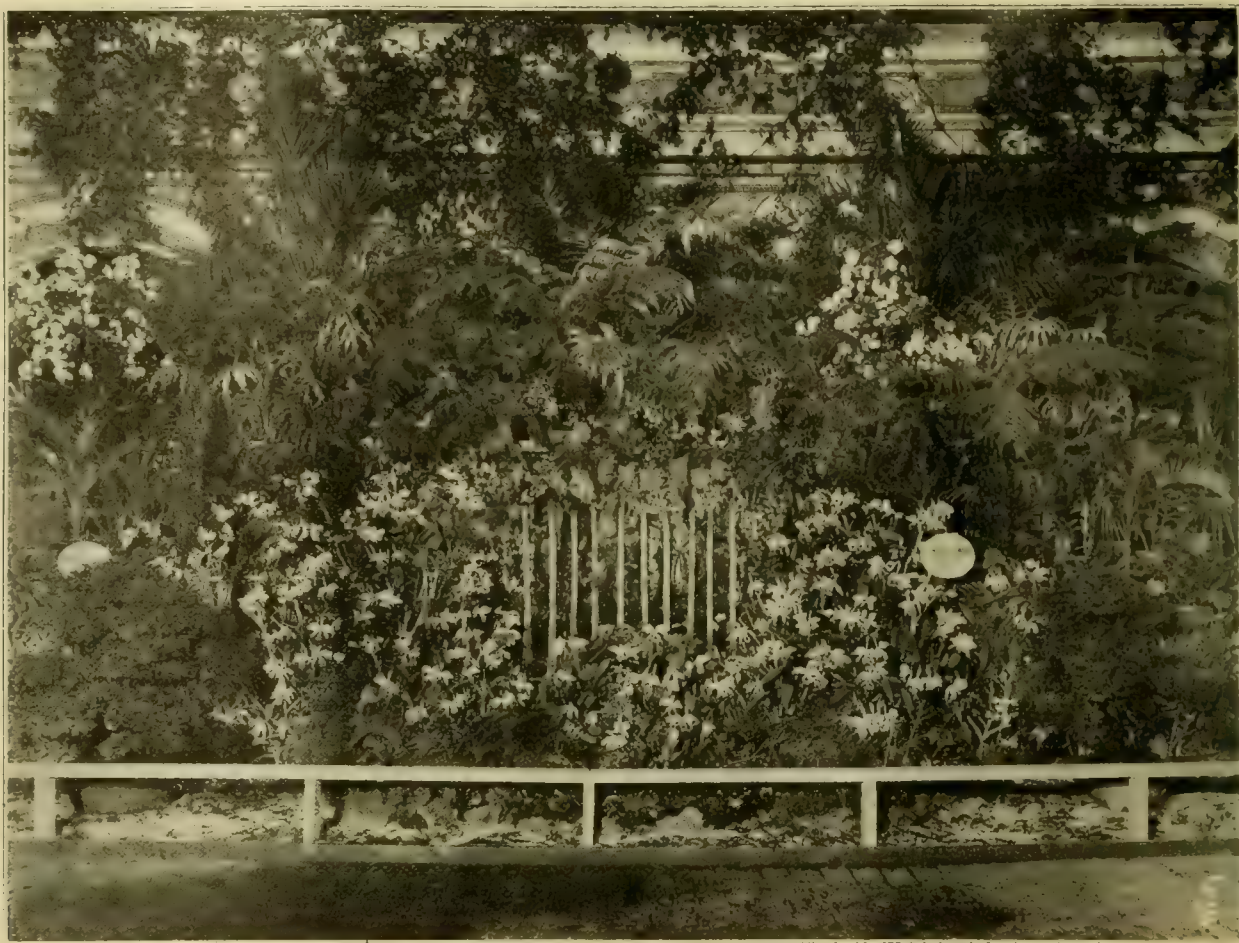

At two o'clock sharp Tuesday, November 5, the park band under Theo. Dossenbach played "America," after which John Dunbar, president of the Rochester Florists' Association, in a few well chosen words called attention to the various exhibits, afterwards asking Charles H. Vick, chairman of the general committee, to say a few words. These were well received by the crowd of visitors. After this Mr. Dunbar called upon the Mayor, H. H. Edgerton, to open the exhibition.

This probably was the largest and most complete exhibit of hardy ornamental fruits ever shown in this country. The park system contains a rich collection of the hardy trees and shrubs of the north temperate zone, received from Dr. C. S. Sargent of the Arnold Arboretum, Harvard University, and from Europe. Among flowering plants the park commission exhibited about 150 handsome bush chrysanthemums in varying colors of yellow, white, red and pink. A large group of light lavender salvias from Mexico (known botanically as Salvia leucautha), were shown as well as a group of showy acacias from Australia in full flower.

George Eastman's exhibit was chiefly that of chrysanthemums and was directly in front of the proscenium arch. It was most prominent owing to size and great number of blooms. Hiram W. Sibley's collection of chrysanthemums and celosias also came in for a generous share of attention. The exhibit of J. B. Keller's Sons in the chrysanthemum garden was featured by a basket of orchids mounted on an alabaster pedestal in the pergola at the right of the music terrace. In the basket were specimens of cypripedium, unoidiums, cattleyas, and laelius. Another exhibit of J. B. Keller's Sons was that of fine potted chrysanthemums as well as cut blossoms in numerous shades. They also made a fine show of roses. Salter Bros.' exhibit was very attractive with its miniature Japanese garden. In the center was a pool of water with gold fish, over which was a rustic bridge, and on the banks of which were pergolas and temples built in realistic fashion. Surrounding this were dwarf Japanese shrubs.

H. E. Wilson's exhibit created a good deal of interest. A huge rubber plant with palms and immense ferns made a fitting background for the fine cut and potted chrysanthemums used. Baskets filled with primroses and begonias, and tied with ribbon to match, were very attractive. A handsome basket of violets and lily of the valley was very pleasing. Other baskets of yellow, white and pink chrysanthemums, also baskets of white and pink Killarney roses. Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Aaron Ward and a large vase of American Beauties completed the exhibit. Opposite the Wilson display was that of E. R. Fry, who had an attractive exhibit of hawthorn bushes, palms, Norfolk pines, and a large collection of single chrysanthemums. The Rochester Floral Co. exhibited large baskets of delicate pink Killarney roses, and white and yellow chrysanthemums. Also a birch-bark box filled with African violets, tied with ribbons, and a huge basket filled with Lorraine begonias and maidenhair fern. George J. Keller's exhibit was featured by a large datura suaveoleus, which spreads its branches to a width of several feet and is loaded with long white bell-like blooms. Gold fish and birds against a background of autumn leaves were the exhibit of Crosman Bros. Two American Wonder lemon trees, the fruit of which weighs three to five pounds apiece, were also shown. A pool of goldfish surrounded by a rockery bordered with ferns and primroses was the special feature of Schlegel & Sons. The display shown by Henry P. Neun was very marked and the Glenview, Appleton, C. H. Totty and Will's Late deserve special mention. Charles Suhr was the only florist who exhibited azaleas. His collection also included primroses, carnations and chrysanthemums. Geo. B. Hart of the commission house had a fine display of roses. James Vick's also had a fine exhibit of grasses and other flowers. Henry Thomann had a miniature model greenhouse containing real plants and illuminated by electric light. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., had an exhibit in which he showed a large bouquet of his new rose Milady, as well as a good quantity of American Beauties.

Among the visitors were Mrs. Herbert W. Wadsworth of Ashantee, Mrs. Warham Whitney, of Rock Beach; F. R. Pierson, of Scarboro-on-the-Hudson, and E. W. Kipps, formerly of New York City, but now of Medina, N. Y. Mr. Kipps said he had seen flower shows all over the country but had never attended one which for charm and interest compared with the show here.

HORACE HEAD.

St. Paul Show.

The second show attempted by the Minnesota State Florists' Association was held successfully at the St. Paul Auditorium, November 8-12. After untiring efforts on the part of the committees the show opened its doors at 10 a. m. on Friday morning. The official opening took place Friday evening by the mayor, who made a short address. He then introduced Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, and the governor addressed the audience.

The opening presented an imposing picture. Governor Eberhart was accompanied by his entire staff. Another feature of Friday evening was the christening of a new yellow chrysanthemum originated by Elmer D. Smith of Adrian, Mich. This was christened by a St. Paul debutante and named after her. The chrysanthemum will henceforth be known as Lucille Quinlan. This variety is a rich yellow and from all appearances and all the endorsements it received from good authority should prove a good commercial chrysanthemum.

The decorative and plant stock exhibited at this show easily surpassed any ever before exhibited in this part of the country and would favorably compare with any ever exhibited at the national shows. Holm & Olson easily led in prizes received on plant stock, both decorative and blooming. The Poehlman Bros. Co., Chicago, was well represented.

In the basket of orchids which Holm & Olson exhibited and which were awarded first premium were used oncidiums, Vanda coerulea, cattleyas and dendrobiums. The colonial bouquet which received first award was made by L. L. May & Co., and they used roses, lily of the valley and violets. The corsage bouquet award was won by L. L. May & Co. They used lily of the valley and violets. August Swanson won first on a very effective table decoration, orchids, oncidiums, dendrobiums and cattleyas being used. J. W. Hill was awarded a silver cup in the amateur class for the best collection of pot chrysanthemums. W. D. Washburn's photographic exhibit of house and garden was awarded a silver cup.

Holm & Olson's exhibit of orchids, which received the sweepstake prize for the finest exhibit in the hall, was perhaps the finest display of orchids ever attempted throughout the central and western states. A waterfall was installed, around which were grouped hundreds of orchid plants, about 15 different varieties being represented. Some very valuable plants were in this group. At the back of the waterfall were grouped tropical plants and ferns. This exhibit attracted considerable attention and was well worth seeing. It also drew the Dispatch and Pioneer Press cup.

The Merriam Park Floral Co. had a beautiful display of orchids, in which were used oncidiums and cattleyas. A pergola was erected and cattleyas were used as a ceiling and around the up-rights and on cross pieces were used oncidiums. The exhibit was awarded a cup as the second best in the entire hall. The St. Paul park board received a cup for a meritorious exhibit of palms, tropical plants and blooming chrysanthemums. The feature of this exhibit was a large vase of chrysanthemums. The Minneapolis park board received an award of merit for a new collection of celosia. Henry Krinke was awarded honorable mention for an exhibit of the new lobelia Mrs. Aug. Swanson. This is a larger and more pronounced type of lobelia than any at this time on the market.

Saturday was designated as rose day and a fine showing was made. Poehlmann Bros. Co. easily were the leaders in this line. A new pink rose Mrs. Geo. Sawyer, which received honorable mention and which scored 87 points was exhibited by C. H. Totty of Madison, N. J. Milady, a new red rose, was shown by A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn. It scored 85 points. Both these roses arrived here in fine condition and were much commented on by all. They should both become good commercial varieties. On Saturday a handle basket of roses was a feature. Holm & Olson took first on a basket of Sunburst, Melody and Richmond roses. First prize on flowers for bridal party was awarded L. L. May & Co. The bridal bouquet was a shower of valley and roses, the maids' bouquets were of Killarney roses. A cup was the premium for this exhibit. Elmer D. Smith & Co., of Adrian, Mich., received a cup for sweepstakes for best 6 blooms of chrysanthemums exhibited. These were seedlings. Judges were: W. L. Rock, Kansas City, Mo.; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.; J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.; W. N. Rudd, Chicago. Some of the visitors were: G. J. Rusch, Milwaukee, Wis.; Frank Johnson, Chicago; F. H. Holton, Milwaukee, Wis.; C. C. Pollworth and wife, Milwaukee, Wis.; Aug. Poehlmann and Adolph Poehlmann, Chicago; C. E. Schaeffer, La Crosse, Wis.; G. A. Clausen, Albert Lea, Minn.; H. E. Philpot, Winnipeg, Man.; A. F. Morton, New York; — Rynweth, Holland; N. Nielson, Mankato, Minn.; — Peterson, Anoka, Minn.; W. T. Hall, Osage, Ia.; A. T. Shotwell and — Smedley, Fargo, N. Dak.; Miss Windmiller, Mankato, Minn.; — Reid, Chicago; Adam Zender, Chicago; J. K. M. L. Farquhar, Boston, Mass.; W. H. Hart, Owatonna, Minn.; — Wagner, La Crosse, Wis.; — Harbich, La Crosse, Wis.; Geo. Valker, Minot, N. Dak.; Ed. Goldenstein, Chicago; Fred Lautenslager, representative of Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago; S. A. Jamieson, Universal Portland Cement Co., Chicago.

Tuesday the feature was a table decoration without orchids. Holm &

Olson took first in this with a fountain table, the water spraying among the flowers, the center being illuminated. A motor under the table kept the water running. In presentation bouquets Holm & Olson took first with a bunch of oncidiums, valley, violets and roses.

ELMER D. SMITH'S COMMENTS.

The St. Paul show opened on time and to say it was a magnificent display in all classes is putting it very mildly. The only thing that could have improved the arrangement and general effect would have been more space, so that the groups of plants could have been made more of a distinctive feature. The groups of decorative plants were hardly up to the standard in number of varieties but were very nicely arranged. All the chrysanthemum classes were large, the plants well grown, and the effect displayed was exceptionally good. Many of the groups of singles, anemones and pompons, were most creditable. Some of the displays of miscellaneous plants were very fine, both as to quality and number of varieties. The entries in the cut flower classes were not as large as one would expect, considering there are but two exhibitions in the west this season. Many of these exhibits showed a high state of cultivation, being fully up to the standard of former years. The Minnesota State Florists' Association deserves much praise for the able manner in which every detail was handled and should be complimented upon the general effect, the splendid arrangement and the superb quality of the whole exhibit.

Tarrytown, N. Y. Horticultural Society.FOURTEENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

The exhibition of the above named society opened in Music Hall, Tarrytown, November 6. Excellent as its displays have been in previous years, this one far surpassed all that have gone before, and would favorably compare with many exhibitions held on a much larger scale and drawing exhibits from a much wider range of territory. Though largely an exhibition from the estates of wealthy men where the private gardener is an all important factor, yet there were fine exhibits from commercial growers also.

The F. R. Pierson Co. of Tarrytown and Scarborough made a fine display of American Beauty and other roses and their well-known ferns and other foliage plants. Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., another commercial firm, exhibited a new carnation and other stock. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., exhibited their new red rose Milady, and Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., his pink rose, Mrs. Geo. Sawyer. The entire hall, including the stage, was one grand mass of bloom with just enough fine foliage to heighten the effect.

In addition to the great stock of large chrysanthemums there were tables of orchids and foliage plants which added much to the beauty of the scene. Hanging baskets of ferns were also dispersed about the hall. For decorative effect but not entering into competition the F. R. Pierson Co. furnished much fine stock. A notable feature of November 7 was the keen competition for the silver cup offered by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish for the best arranged floral decoration for a circular dinner table 6 feet in diameter and seating 12 persons.

There were a number of competitors in the decorations, ranging through Killarney and Sunburst roses to chrysanthemums, begonias and other blooms, and in the details there was much elaborate work. In the center of the hall stood a giant kentia, a prize winner, exhibited by Miss Blanche Potter of Ossining, N. Y. (George Wittlinger, gardener). In addition to the many fine flowers there was a most notable exhibit of fruit and vegetables, a large wing of the hall being occupied by this stock. The awards follows:

Society's silver medal for new flower, foliage or decorative plant—Elmsford Nurseries (Scott Bros.), for new nephrolepis.

F. R. Pierson's silver cup to exhibitor receiving largest number of prizes in all classes—William Rockefeller (Geo. Middleton, gardener).

W. E. Marshall & Company's prize for six heads celery, three heads cauliflower and six onions—H. E. Rogers (Thos. L. Fisher, gardener), first; M. L. Sand (Thos. A. Lee, gardener) second.

Peter Henderson & Company's prize for best collection of six vegetables grown out of doors—S. P. Shotter, first; Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, second.

Certificates of merit—Emil Berolzheimer for dinner table decoration; C. H. Totty for new rose Mrs. Shawyer; A. M. Pierson, new rose Milady; Wm. Rockefeller, new carnation Rockwood Hall.

Cultural certificate—W. R. Harris (H. M. Blanche, gardener), for exhibit of Celosia plumosa.

Honorable mention—F. R. Pierson Co. for fine exhibit of roses, ferns, etc.; Scott Bros. for single chrysanthemum.

Judges the first day were: Alex. Mackenzie, Glen Cove, N. Y.; A. Bauer, Deal Beach, N. J.; A. Briske, Noroton, Conn. For the second day they were: F. Herrmann, Lenox, Mass.; Robert Spiers, Dalton, Mass.; John R. Fotheringham, Tarrytown, N. Y. Table judges the second day were: Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Miss Fish, Miss Thompson. EL. W. NEUBRAND.

Northern Westchester Co. Hort. Society.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW.

The tenth annual flower show of the Northern Westchester County Horticultural and Agricultural Society of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., was held at St. Francis Hall, October 31-November 2, 1912. All the classes on the schedule of any note were well filled and competition was extremely keen. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, though nearly double the size of the hall used in former years. One remarkable feature of this year's show was the general excellence of the exhibits. Among those entries to be noted was the superb collection of orchids of Miss Bliss of New Canaan, Conn., and also those of Hobart Park, Highland Farm, Portchester, N. Y. John Boruss and Alex. Marshall, respectively, are gardeners in these establishments and both are masters of the craft. Mr. Boruss was first. The greatest winner in the whole show was Alex. Thompson, Alex. Marshall coming close at his heels a good second.

Wm. Scott, of Scott Bros. (Elmsford Nurseries), was first in the carnation class (not disseminated), with "Wm. Eccles." Jas. D. Cockcroft, Northport, L. I., with "Northport," was second. Both these growers got a certificate of merit for their very valuable productions. Adolph Lewisohn, Esq., Ardsley, N. Y., showed a superb plant of "Annie Laurie" as a specimen bush plant which easily took first and was much admired. John Canning is the gardener on this fine estate and must be commended for his extremely patient and admirable work. The big chrysanthemums were well and thoroughly represented in all classes, the "Bailey Special" bringing out some very fine specimens. Mrs. Neustadt (David Gordon, gardener), was first; Miss Bliss. New Canaan, Conn. (J. Burn, gardener), second; Mrs. Moses Taylor (Alex. Thomson, gardener), third.

In the estimation of all who attended this show no other of recent years could come near it for excellence of flowers, location of hall and general appearance of the exhibits when staged. The judges were—Wild of Greenwich, Conn., Wm. Jamison of Tarrytown, N. Y., and Tom Aitcheson of Mamaroneck, N. Y. The awards were as follows:

CUT CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Twelve cut blooms, not less than 6 varieties—Mrs. Moses Taylor (Alex. Thomson, gardener), first; Mrs. Neustadt (David Gordon, gardener), second; Adolph Lewisohn. Ardsley, N. Y. (John Canning, gardener), third.

Six white—Mrs. Neustadt, first; Miss Bliss, second.

Six yellow—Mrs. Neustadt, first; Miss Bliss, second.

Six red—Mrs. Neustadt, first; Miss Bliss, second.

Six pink—Mrs. Neustadt, first; Mrs. J. H. Hammond (John Connolly, gardener), second.

Six, any color—Hobart Park, first; Mrs. Neustadt, second.

Collection of pompons—Hobart Park, first.

Collection of single flowers—Miss Bliss, first; Hobart Park, second.

CHRYSANTHEMUM PLANTS.

Twenty in pots, not exceeding 7 inches—Clarence Whitman (William Will, gardener), first.

Single plant in pots—Mrs. Taylor, first; James Sutton (D. Fraser, gardener), second.

Six best plants—Mrs. Neustadt, first; C. Whitman, second.

Specimen best plant—Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y. (John Canning, gardener), first; James Sutton, Mt. Kisco, second.

NEW CHRYSANTHEMUM MARY E. MEYERS.

OTHER CUT FLOWERS.

Collection of roses—Hobart Park, first; J. J. Riker (A. E. Townsend, gardener), second.

Seedling carnation, not disseminated—Scott Bros. (Elmsford Nurseries), with Wm. Eccles, first; James D. Cockcroft, Northport, L. I., with Northport, second.

Six blooms red carnations—Hobart Park, first; J. J. Riker, second.

Six blooms white carnations—Hobart Park, first; Mrs. Neustadt, second.

Twelve pink carnations—Hobart Park, first; Mrs. Neustadt, second.

Bunch (50) single violets—Mrs. Neustadt, first; Hon. Seth Low (Hugh Birch, gardener), second.

Bunch of double violets—C. Whitman, Katonah, N. Y., first.

OTHER PLANTS.

Collection of decorative plants, space 8 or more feet in diameter—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first.

Best specimen plant in show—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first; Mrs. W. J. Sloane (E. Cullen, gardener), second.

Six plants for table decoration—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first; Hobart Park, second.

Pair adiantums—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first.

Specimen fern—Hobart Park, first; Mrs. Moses Taylor, second.

Three Lorraine begonias—J. J. Riker (A. E. Townsend, gardener), first; Mrs. Moses Taylor, second.

Six plants for house decoration—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first.

Six geraniums—C. Whitman, first.

Collection of orchids—Miss Bliss, first; Hobart Park, second.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Collection of pears—A. W. Butler, first; J. H. H. Harriman, second.

Six heads of celery—Mrs. J. H. Hammond (John Connolly, gardener), first; A. W. Butler (John T. Hall, gardener), second.

Twelve distinct vegetables for exhibition—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first; C. Whitman, second; Mrs. J. H. Hammond, third.

Twelve distinct vegetables for table use—Hon. Seth Low, first; Eugene Meyer (Chas. Ruthrun, gardener), second; A. W. Butler (J. Hall, gardener), third.

Collection of farm produce—J. H. Hammond (Alex. Findley, superintendent), first.

Fern, for amateurs—John Connolly (11 years), first.

The Bailey prize, 24 chrysanthemums, not less than 12 varieties—Mrs. Neustadt, first; Miss Bliss, second; Mrs. Moses Taylor, third.

Twelve chrysanthemums, not less than 6 varieties, limited to members of society—Hobart Park, first; Mrs. Neustadt, second; Mrs. Moses Taylor, third.

Eight chrysanthemums grown on single stem—James Sutton (D. Frazer, gardener), first; C. Whitman, second.

Bouquet of flowers—A. H. Scribner (A. Kast, gardener), first; Mrs. Moses Taylor, second; J. Borden Harriman, third.

Special prize for largest chrysanthemum in show—Mrs. Neustadt, first.

Dinner table decoration (gardeners')—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first; C. Whitman, second; J. Borden Harriman, third.

Ladies' dinner table decorations—Mrs. Moses Taylor, first; Mrs. Harriman, second.

Collection of orchids (private gardeners')—J. Borden Harriman (M. J. O'Brien, gardener) first.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—Plans for next year's flower shows, to begin with a tulip exhibition in April, were made at a meeting of the Springfield Horticultural Society November 2.

NEW CHRYSANTHEMUM YONKERS.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Some of Smith's Novelties.

We present in this issue illustrations of a number of new chrysanthemums produced at the well known establishment of Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., as follows:

Yonkers—A yellow Japanese nearest to Yellow Miller in color, which it equals in size. Strong sturdy stem with foliage close to bloom. Adapted for commercial or exhibition use. Best bud August 15, cut October 25. C. S. A. certificate 89.

Lucille Quinlan.—In color bright yellow, same shade as Col. D. Appleton, but not so closely incurved, although decidedly globular in form. Shows no trace of bronze from late buds. Ready October 30. Best bud August 15. Suitable for either commercial or exhibition use. C. S. A. certificate 95.

Mary E. Meyer.—Japanese of medium size and especially adapted for commercial use. Growth short jointed, excellent stem and clothed with ample foliage which extends up to the bloom. In perfection November 1. Best bud August 25. Height 3 feet. C. S. A. certificate 93.

Elberon.—An exceptionally large Japanese incurved, 8 by 9 inches, of the M. Loiseau-Rousseau color and type, having less contrast between the upper and under surface of petals and presenting a more pleasing shade of pink. Very strong grower, with heavy rigid stem and ready to cut October 15. Unsurpassed as an exhibition sort either for collections or vases. C. S. A. certificate 95.

Notes of Novelties, Etc., at the American Institute Show, New York.

The date of this show was a little late for most of the large chrysanthemum blooms, which owing to the warm, bright weather matured earlier than usual this season, and many of the flowers showed the effect of having been stored, but still there was a grand array of fine blooms. The variety Wm. Turner, a large incurved white, was without a doubt the most conspicuous in the show. It was displayed in fine shape by Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., and J. MacDonald, gardener to J. H. Ottley, Glen Cove, Long Island, N. Y., and also by one or two other exhibitors. The six blooms of Harry E. Converse, which won the Harry E. Converse cup of the C. S. A. specials, exhibited by Ernst Wild, gardener to C. W. Harkness, Madison, N. J., were magnificent specimen blooms of this variety, being one of the best vases of flowers in the show and a great credit to the grower. The light pink variety F. E. Nash, a large Japanese reflexed, was in extra fine form. Some of the blooms were a little faded out, but in every other respect they were grand.

The twenty-five blooms of Col. D. Appleton, shown by Traendly & Schenck, Rowayton, Conn., were fine in every way and showed that this old variety can still be grown to take its place along with the best of them. Wells' Late Pink appears to be very popular with the gardeners around New York and it was shown in excellent form. Wm. Woodmason stood out very prominently in the collection. It is a big bloom of the chestnut color. A very fine bloom of Yellow Miller was noticed in the collection. Mary Mason, an old variety that is not seen much in the West any more, was shown in fine form. Mrs. H. Stevens was another very striking variety. Onunda was fine as regards size but the color is not pure enough. Wm. Mease, Pockett's Surprise, Pockett's Crimson, Mary Donnellan, F. S. Vallis and Mrs. O. H. Kahn were also shown in fine shape.

There were very few seedlings or undisseminated varieties. Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., exhibited a very large incurved pink named Elberon, but unfortunately it arrived late and it had suffered considerable in travel. It appears to be a worthy addition to the list of exhibition varieties. It has good size, fine form and is apparently of good color when in condition. A big array of pompon varieties were staged and among them were some very fine forms of this type. The Hitchings cup for the best 10 vases of pompons was won by the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Ill., with ten vases of seedling pompons, several of which are worthy of special mention. A room set apart for the purpose was entirely filled with hardy varieties, making a great display. A vase or two of the hairy varieties were noticed, a type not often seen at the exhibitions any more. The same can be said of the anemone, of which there was a fine lot of blooms.

Chas. H. Totty had also a fine collection of single varieties. Notable among them were: Wm. Buckingham, a fine white; Mensa White, another good one; Robt. Thorpe; Lady Bedford; and Josephine, a light yellow and a very large flower of this type with lots of substance. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., made a grand display of single and pompon varieties the same as they use for their commercial trade. They were well grown, of fine color and with plenty of substance. The Cottage Gardens, Queens, New York, had on exhibition their new white carnation Matchless, which is a large fine bloom of good color and form with five calyx and carried on long stiff stems. Also they showed a variety named Vivid, a bright cerise, particularly good as to color and form of flower, also having a good stem.

Traendly & Schenck staged several vases of standard varieties of carnations and a vase of their new variety Salmon Queen, a salmon sport of Enchantress in every respect the same as the parent but of an even more salmon color. The White Perfection and Pink Delight were well grown flowers equal to any seen on exhibition at this season of the year, but the best vase of blooms of the exhibit was that of Mrs. C. W. Ward. These were simply grand, the best the writer has seen at this time of the year and a vase of carnations that would be hard to beat at any time. Traendly & Schenck exhibited several vases of standard varieties of roses on long stems. They were a fine lot of well grown stock worthy of special mention.

The novelty roses were out in full force. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., exhibited Milady, a fine red rose, very fragrant, of good color, form and lots of substance. It opens out double and appears to be a splendid keeper. Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., exhibited Mrs. George Shawyer, a beautiful pink rose. The flowers were large, of fine color, very fragrant, of good form and carried on 4 to 5-foot stems. This also has the appearance of being a fine acquisition.

The Waban Conservatories, Natick, Mass., exhibited the Mrs. Chas. Russell, which, judging by the vase of blooms on exhibition, would seem to be the finest creation of all roses. We do not know anything about the productiveness or growth of this newcomer, but the color form, stem and every other point of the flowers shown were magnificent. Henry J. Allen, gardener to F. W. Vanderbilt, exhibited Lady Alice Stanley, also a pink rose but a little weak in stem and not up to the grade of the Mrs. Shawyer or Mrs. Russell. C. W. JOHNSON.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—S. D. Dysinger has a very interesting review of the history of the flower business of this city in a recent issue of the Pioneer Press.

PASADENA, CALIF.—At a meeting of the flower show committee of the Pasadena Horticultural Society reports showed that fully 7,000 persons attended the show, October 24-26, and that it was the most successful in every respect ever held.

NEW ROSE MILADY—FROM A. N. PIERSON, INC.

NEW ROSE MILADY, FROM A. N. PIERSON, INC., CROMWELL, CONN.

New Rose Milady.

The new rose Milady, which has been awarded many honors at the recent exhibitions, is an American seedling raised by Edward Towill, Roslyn, Pa., from whom the entire stock of this rose was purchased last season by the introducers, A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn. It is a hybrid tea, a cross between Richmond and J. B. Clark and from the latter parent has taken the characteristic of strong growth, heavy petalage and fragrance. In color, it is similar to the Richmond in the bud but as an open rose it is a very distinct red. By the introducers it is not classed as a crimson, the color being a pleasing shade of red. The flower opens delightfully and owing to its beautiful form in the wide open stage, has made a very decided impression on the public attending the flower shows in the east and on the commercial growers who have seen it both on the exhibition table and growing. The accompanying illustrations show character of growth and it is believed by the introducers to be a free blooming red rose that will be commercially profitable.

PLANT NOTES.

Catch Crops.

With the close competition that the greenhouse man is up against at the present day it does not pay to have any of the bench room idle, or if a crop shows that it is not going to succeed and be remunerative it had better be thrown out and the room occupied by something that will pay. The several different plants and flowers have their seasons, and when they are done a succeeding crop should be all ready prepared to take the place. It therefore pays to have some catch crop ready in cases of this kind. There are many annuals that can be grown and carried along in small pots and if not used and eventually discarded the loss is small. These if planted out in the benches will bloom in the early spring and give a very welcome variety to the flowers of that season. There are many flowers grown today that were first grown as catch crops, such as the antirrhinum. Among others which might be grown this way are the centaureas, either bachelor's buttons or sweet sultans, nasturtiums, lupins, calendulas, eschscholtzias, salpiglossis schizanthus, stocks and others. There are also many of the early blooming perennials which can be lifted and heeled in where they can be easily obtained during the winter and transplanted to the greenhouse. Among these are Coreopsis lanceolata, Aquile- gia cærulea, gaillardias, heuceras, sweet williams, and others which the grower has in stock. A dealer will always find customers who appreciate these flowers which are often not seen during the winter months, and by having the stock of a few of these odd things can often plant out a section of a bench that otherwise would not be returning any revenue, and thereby prevent loss.

Primulas.

As fast as the primroses grow space them out so that there is a good distance between each plant, and so that the leaves do not touch, allowing room between the plants for a free circulation of air. If the plants are placed on a bench with a front and back board, place boards across and set the plants on these or stand the pots on inverted pots so as to bring them up into the air. Take care in watering not to wet the foliage more than necessary, or the leaves will be spotted. Many good primulas are ruined by being overcrowded and the foliage allowed to remain damp. If the plants are not going to be in flower for the holidays they can be placed in a temperature of 60° at night for a short time which will rapidly bring them along, but do not attempt a higher temperature than that, nor for any great length of time. These plants are cold-loving subjects and are more satisfactory in a house that never goes above 50° at night. Primula obconica is now blooming freely and can be kept in bloom until spring if grown cool. These plants are particularly useful in filling Christmas baskets. Care must be taken in the handling of these plants by persons who are at all subject to poisoning from coming in contact with this, rhus, or other poisonous plants, for they sometimes cause a very troublesome and irritating eruption of the skin.

Ardisias.

The berries of the ardisias should now be turning a bright red and the foliage taking on that beautiful glossy appearance which makes this plant so popular at the holidays. Where these plants are grown in great heat the berries do not color as brightly and the leaves lack that thick, leathery texture and glossy appearance, and the plants are not so satisfactory in the houses. They also chill very easily, and if this happens the berries drop off. It is much better to finish them from this time on in a bright, sunny house, with good ventilation; this will tend to color up the fruit and give the plants a much healthier appearance, and they will prove more satisfactory. We have seen these plants where grown cool and not forced hold their berries until the next year's crop was borne. Keep a sharp lookout for scale on ardisias, they quickly get covered with the brown scale unless carefully watched, and when these insects appear constant washing is the great remedy. Clean off the first that appear. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

WITH THE GROWERS

The Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

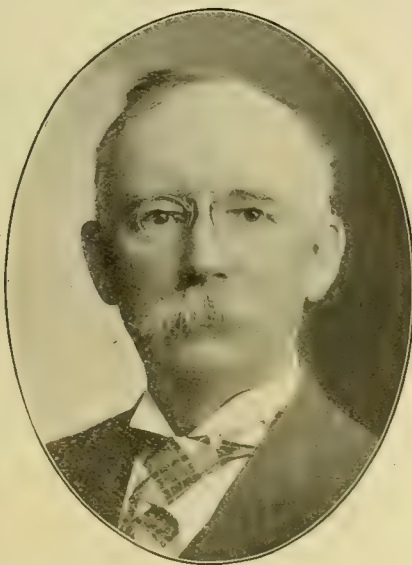

When Robert Craig built his first range of glass, consisting of two houses 18x60 feet, at Forty-ninth and Market streets 43 years ago, there was scarcely a dwelling in sight. Now he is so entirely surrounded by houses and business establishments that there is not room for the necessary expansion of the business, and the land too has become so valuable that negotiations with builders the past year have almost reached the selling point. In the event of a sale the entire plant is to be added to the already large range of over 100,000 feet at Norwood, a suburb about eight miles out on the lines of both the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads.

The Craig establishment is the Mecca of many growers who visit the place from time to time on the lookout for new things and at the same time to get a line on the latest wrinkles in the growing of the specialties to be found here. Among the popular plants the Boston Fern and its varieties are grown in immense quantities. In all sizes over an eight-inch pot Mr. Craig prefers the tubs, as they are lighter and do not break like the earthen receptacles. The list of varieties embrace the Boston, Scottii, Todeaoides, Elegantissima (improved and compacta), Giatrasi, Scholzelii, Amerpohli, Harrisii and a dwarfier form of this celebrated variety which is more compact and which originated here.

Many of the plants are grown on pedestals or plant stands or are finished on these elevated positions, which insures perfect symmetrical plants. Dracenas are one of the features, all of the best decorative varieties being seen in various stages of growth. The canes from which the young stock is obtained are grown on the Craig plantation in the Isle of Pines from plants set out by Mr. Craig's own hand. Varieties that took a long time to work up are now grown as easily as the most common sorts. Mr. Craig says the best sellers are Dracena terminalis, Lord Woolsley, Massangeana, Fragens, Mandiana, De Smetiana and Bronze Beauty.

The croton is at home here. In fact, Mr. Craig might with truth be called the Croton King of America. All the sorts worth growing are to be found here in quantity. Those that are best for house decoration are given special attention and many handsome specimens are seen. To secure perfect plants the top of strong growing shoots are rooted into moss by cutting, as is done with the rubber. Most of the stock, however, is grown from cuttings of strong end shoots, in beds of sand with bottom heat. The following list of some of the best sorts for culture in the house is given by Mr. Craig: Reedii, Queen Victoria, Chantileerii Major, Pere Charon, P. S. Randolph, Fred Sander. There are fifty other fine sorts also.

Among Mr. Craig's new ones are Mrs. August Poehlmann, Canada, America, Mrs. Robt. Halliday, John W. Pepper. A select lot of seedlings have been named after the 13 original states of the union. They are very choice and distinct in their colorings.

Rubber plants have long found favor here. Ficus pandurata is the leader in this class of plants. They are propagated from mossed shoots, the stock plants being planted out. New varieties are Ficus Utilis and Clanvierii. Begonias Gloire de Lorraine and Cincinnati are grown in large quantities. Shoot and leaf cuttings are both used in propagating. Over 75,000 young plants were sent out during the summer and several houses are given up to the growing of specimen plants for the holiday trade. Cyclamens are another specialty and always attract attention from the visitor. Much of the stock is grown from seed saved from plants of the best selected stock of the previous season.

Poinsettias are especially well grown. Nothing is quite so gorgeous as the poinsettia for a Christmas plant, and although the quantity is increased each year the cry is always for more than can be supplied. Cuttings are taken from stock plants grown indoors. Outside plants were at one time thought best, but cuttings from inside culture are found to strike easier and make a quicker growth. The growing of Easter plants is one of the important branches of the business. Rambler roses are a leader, and large quantities are carried over in pots so that the wood shall be thoroughly ripened. The early date of Easter in 1913 has hastened this stage of the preparation, the pots having been laid over on their sides for a month past.

Years ago greenhouse structures were erected generally by the growers themselves with the least possible expenditure of money. As the years roll by, however, the short lives of these buildings proved their inefficiency, and this work is now almost entirely in the hands of specialists who erect greenhouses that are so staple that they will last a lifetime and into the next generation. The recent addition of iron frame houses containing 50,000 feet of glass just completed at the Norwood branch is the latest word in such buildings, and contains the most up-to-date appliances for heating and ventilating. With ordinary care these houses should last for fifty years and perhaps longer.

Robert Craig, who carries his sixty odd years gracefully, is still actively in the harness and taking great interest in the building up of the new place and the great stock with which it is filled. Robert, Jr., has charge of the old establishment at Forty-ninth and Market streets and is ably seconded by Wm. P., who spends much of his time on the road, keeping the trade supplied with the Craig stock. Between the two places the glass area is nearly 300,000 feet, all devoted to the culture of plants in pots which reach the public through the medium of the retail florist.

Boston Gardeners and Florists.

The twenty-fifth anniversary banquet of the Gardeners and Florists' Club of Boston was held in Horticultural Hall, November 11, 350 being present. Vice-President Kennedy, in the chair, introduced Walter Ballantyne as toastmaster. "The Commonwealth of Massachusetts" was responded to by Alex. McGregor, representing Governor Foss, who was unable to attend. The Gardeners and Florists' Club toast was responded to by W. J. Stewart, first vice-president of the club, who gave a general outline of the formation and a review up to the present time of florists and gardeners' clubs of America. The toast was responded to by J. Otto Thilow, of Philadelphia, who told of the trade brought about by the combined efforts of the various organizations and spoke very appropriately of the help the florist's wife is to her husband in business. The American Rose Society toast was responded to by President Farenwald of that society. The American Carnation Society toast was responded to in a telegram received from President Breitmeyer from Detroit.

Peter Fisher spoke briefly for this society, C. W. Parker for the Massachusetts Horticultural Society and W. N. Craig for the ladies. Solos were rendered by Miss Katharine Singer, Miss J. A. Carson, Miss Ella Edmonds and James Singer. Dancing was enjoyed. A most enjoyable evening was spent, which will linger in our memories for many years. W. J. Stewart said he hoped to speak at the golden anniversary and we hope we may all live to see it. A telegram was received from Thomas Pegler, ex-president of the club, sending his best wishes.

MAC.

Gardeners and Florists' Clubs of America.

Paper read by J. Otto Thilow, president of Philadelphia Florists' Club, at the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Boston Gardeners and Florists' Club, November 11, 1912.

I am pleased to have this opportunity of addressing the Boston Gardeners and Florists' Club. The profession should call together all who have to do with nature's floral and plant life. We must all depend on the one source for the supply, which we may take in the new or crude state, and by fondling and amelioration produce that which appeals to us as beautiful and substantial. And when from experience we critically judge its qualities and present it to the public, it becomes staple and rewards the efforts of him who through enthusiasm, skill and with nature's help has added to the unbounded category of floral achievement.

No other profession is so resourceful, none so varied and interesting, nor has there been in any other sphere of man's occupation the possibility of such development by the people of our land. It is true that commerce, backed by the healthy monetary condition, with facilities to meet the upward trend demanded in modern civilization, has set the land and its people wild with enthusiasm to reach a standard above other countries. Our cities have grown far beyond their environment in much shorter time than had been provided for. The congestion has become uncomfortable and the facilities for transporting the masses are taxed beyond their capabilities, and all because the home-dwellers and those who are mindful of their families' urgent needs are seeking the open air, the sunlight, the trees and verdure and outdoor life as much as the seasons will permit.

What has this to do with the florist and gardener? Are we not the projectors of the civic condition in the localities where we are located? It is in your power to change Sodom into Eden and bring order out of chaos. Lanes have been made into parkways, bare hillsides planted with trees and shrubs, polluted streams are changed to babbling brooks, the former weed plots to flower gardens and parks—everything is done to beautify our surroundings, our homes, cities, and in fact our whole country. A flower has passed into the hands of some child, which suddenly was awakened into admiration for this token of nature. Within a few years the admiration grew into intense love for flowers, every social function could not pass without lavish provision of flowers and plants, and at no time in the year is that home without floral decoration, nor the garden without its maze of color and variety in plants and trees. There is no doubt but what at some time this fondness for flowers would have developed of its own volition—such cases are the exception, but the rule should be general, and would be if we were alert and use the opportunities which come our way. Not as a rule would we see a florist on the street or even at public functions without a flower in his coat. He makes the best display of what stock he has to attract the flower lover. We need to do more than mere advertising. People buy food and clothing because they must have them, but flowers and plants are considered luxuries and can be dispensed with, according to a narrow view.

At Eugene, Oregon near Oregon City, if you are passing through with the other passengers you will be presented with a bouquet of roses, showing what can be produced there and in quantity. Should a real estate agent pass through the train with offers of homes or even small farms, one would doubt the genuineness of his offer, but roses appeal to everyone and make an affectionate and lasting impression, and are used in this case as a strong advertising medium.

That there has been advancement through affiliation there is no doubt, as we have seen the progress of our business within the past decade. The ripe knowledge of the vigilant and hard working florist with the up-to-date methods now practiced, particularly that of specializing, the interchange of ideas at the club and convention where we tell all we know and have learned through hard knocks and even losses, the publicity given to every club in the country and its doings through the horticultural trade press, acquaint us with one another's ability in specific and skilled lines. If our club and society affiliation do no more than to broaden our minds, widen our principle and exert our interest one for another, it does much toward the uplift of our florist brother in the remote parts of this great land and even abroad. Through our individual efforts in our club, which is sounded abroad by the organs of the trade, which meets also the eager eye of the plodder who is anxious for even a suggestion to help him in his struggle, is for the greater good than much of that which comes to our notice. It was said to me by one of the American visitors to the London Flower Show, that he was, in company with an English grower, going to visit another grower who lived a short distance from the gentleman walking beside him, when he said: "This is my first visit to my neighbor, and we have been nearly side by side for many years." The American grower said: "Do you mean to tell me that you are not more congenial and neighborly than that? In America we could not afford to do that. If we can not learn from our neighbor, it is a blessed thing that he can learn from us."

If the expedition of our American brethren to the other side has infused a neighborly spirit among our foreign brethren, then they were angels of mercy indeed and we feel better for knowing we have done some good. There is one thing sure: The visit to London has impressed our delegation with the assurance that there is yet much to be done to reach the perfection in floriculture so lavishly displayed by our English cousins. We have gained much in these expeditions across the ocean, we have added to our list of enthusiastic exponents of horticulture. They have mounted the rostrum and delivered the truths and ideals which have given us great inspiration. Among these are the two masters of our great society, the S. A. F., one still at the helm and the other soon to be. We have been hearing from other members through our clubs, giving their individual thoughts and impressions of this great achievement by our foreign craftsmen.

There are two great factors in our trade today, the half hundred florists' clubs, and four energetic publications devoted to the trade with about a half score of magazines and other publications to greet the anxious amateur and enthusiast. This would seem to be as far as we can get in publicity in making our presence known, and yet there are thousands who are blest with an inborn trait and love for plants and flowers and get no encouragement from anyone except such as are highly enthusiastic and bubbling over with even a faint knowledge of horticulture. Are we so absorbed in our busy life that we do not find time to cultivate a fondness for flowers in others who are only waiting for some one to lure them? In my engagements with civic clubs I rarely find a florist interested, but many of the best ladies of our land active in the betterment of the surroundings of all classes, by the suggestion of better horticultural conditions. Surely this is a branch that the florist should be concerned in. These clubs and associations would welcome the advice and co-operation of the florist in the communities where better civic conditions are being advocated. Let us in some modest way demonstrate to the public that our business, the cultivation of plants and flowers, concerns everybody, and by our earnest interest in our profession, we can awaken the latent love for flowers in others, and to be keenly alert in everything horticultural, and never, when the season will permit, be without a flower upon the coat lapel. Wear the flower you like, or the button of your club.

Can we measure the good that will result from the recent and initiative move of the New York Florists' Club in their publicity effort? It is one of the most stimulating enterprises entered upon in the past quarter century. The present results alone might not warrant the assertion, but the indications for the future go far beyond a prophecy. It reminds us that we are not altogether awake to many things in which we might interest the public. Let every florists' club in this country be awake to what might be done in its respective localities, fall in line with the New York Club, and let us be altogether in one move the country over. Create the demand. Young men are continually stepping to the front to learn the old profession by the new methods. Our country is yet large enough. Lumber and glass are available and the ever balmy sunlight, an unpaid agent of unbounded scope. This is only in part what might emanate from a club as a body toward the advancement of our laudable profession.

To the individual club many suggestions can be made, and from many of those beyond our reach we might learn many good things. We, as active members of our club, reap benefits by our association with each other, but what about the man behind the gun? He who watches the plant's peculiarities and its needs, who through constant and close touch with the treatment of plants, whose experimenting has given results? Is it best to let him grind on or to let him mingle with others of same profession, that there may be mutual profit through each other's experience? Bring him out, introduce him to the club, let him become a member, let him feel that he is worthy of his hire. Shall he learn from affiliation only? Nay, he may teach that which his experience has gained for him. We can increase our usefulness by such development. Teach that the supply is inexhaustible, so that it will engender lavish use.

It is not so much how to produce it, but how to dispose of it. The club could be made the center from which new methods for the general business of handling flowers could emanate, an exchange for business and a resort for pleasure. A full equipment for games; a reading room provided with publications of the latest issues of horticultural matter in magazine and book form; conveniences for ladies who would be glad to spend one evening a week at games; a place to practice for the events at the S. A. F. convention. These are some of the things a florists' club should provide. A hearty co-operation with the ladies means in turn encouragement in business. From our clubs have sprung the social features of the S. A. F. conventions.

There has been a simultaneous growth of the S. A. F. with the florists' clubs. Which of these is the food for the other? As a final admonition, let me entreat you and all of the clubs and associations of our profession, that publicity of the right kind will bring about astounding results. The movement was launched at the Chicago convention with much more spirited interest than ever before. The New York Club has organized a strong committee which has already taken up two important features, viz., Halloween and Thanksgiving. Their methods of providing advertising should be encouraged by every club in the country, and should be supplied by the New York club at a minimum cost. This not only throws the work to one central production, but also makes the feature a national one the country over. As a source of information, I have written to the secretary of every club and association in the country as far as I could secure their names. I wanted information as to what the clubs were doing in publicity, and also invited their suggestions as to what might be conducive to the furtherance of the flower business. Responses have come from a small part of the fifty inquiries sent out, but the answers thus far received are most gratifying. In several instances the publicity committee is supplying articles every week for newspaper publication, something suggestive of the abundant bloom at the different seasons. In another case a florists' club is fostering a school garden contest, under the direction of the Woman's Club. Another club collected $300 from florists for Mothers' Day advertising in streetcar and newspaper and by wagon banners. They report the results are wonderful.

In conclusion I wish to emphasize that whatever you debate in the club, consider seriously the matter of production and prices. First class stock will always find a market. We don't wish to stop there. Moderate prices will influence the masses, and if possible get a flower into the hands of every man, woman and child, encourage the use of flowers at every function in the home, the festive hall and public demonstration, and by all means let the public know you are a florist. Make your club active, have an essay committee to prepare with the assistance of those who are capable, some paper or talk on topics of interest.

This committee is the most important of the club. Men who can interest both from knowledge of horticulture, and interesting topics of present day modern methods, should be available. The meetings should vary in the literary trend and not become monotonous. All this depends on the essay committee, which should infuse life into the club. The members are always anxious to hear good things. The committee on games should keep the club room active and in a spirited mood. This will keep us in as cheerful a condition as the flower itself. Encourage exhibitions at the meetings. This will show what our neighbor is doing and what his capabilities are. Have occasional outings during the summer and don't leave the girls at home. A membership committee is necessary to look up new members, and have every florist, grower, wholesaler and retailer in the chairs at every meeting. Your workmen and subordinates should be members. Encourage them by association. This enhances their interest in their work and proves profitable to you. Don't be afraid that your doings will not be known. Our trade papers are alert in everything that is going on in every club in the country.

It is therefore imperative to do things with telling effect. What I have learned in my personal touch with my florist brethren of the Philadelphia Florists' Club is the one paramount thought of doing whatever is best for the advancement of the business and broadening the horticultural realm; to make optimists, to use the club as a safety valve and engender personal feelings conducive to good friendship, and infuse a geniality into those with whom we associate. This genial temperament is usually characteristic of the florist. His life should be resplendent and aglow with cheer because his occupation is in touch with nature's sweetest product.

Retailing Cut Flowers.

Paper by Irwin Bertermann read by Wilder S. Deamud before the Chicago Florists' Club, November 7, 1912.

The merchandising of cut flowers is in itself closely allied in general principles with the selling in small quantities of any other article. The man who is capable of selling real estate or greenhouses is equally capable of selling roses. It is not the man who sells flowers sluggishly at a profit of 15 per cent, but the one who can brilliantly present to the public quantities of flowers at a gross profit of 150 per cent by closely watching the markets, who is a live factor in the upbuilding of the retail business at the present time.

The intensive form of conducting the retail business is much like intensive farming. A greater quantity of business may be transacted in a given space and time, but it takes much more energy and expense to do it. Unpopular as the practices may be with the greater number of retailers, the methods of some of the pushers as exploited by the trade papers at different times, showing the terrific manner of inducing trade, is certainly a good object lesson in showing how large quantities of flowers may be distributed among the transient trade, with much accruing good to the producer. Indirectly, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, still in its infancy, is making great strides in educating the flower buying public. When we think that a first-class florist in a town of, say, five hundred thousand, approximately, does an outbound and inbound business of $7,000 annually, it is wonderful to think of 1,000 florists doing a business of $7,000,000 annually. A conservative estimate of the orders received by New York florists in the season is from $750,000 to $1,000,000 per year. This important phase of the retail business should certainly be given impetus by grower and retailer alike.

The inspiration of the retail business—new varieties of flowers—should receive its just attention in all quarters. A new flower invariably brings a slightly higher price, and more than repays the slightly increased cost in the friends it makes and because of its popularity. Mrs. Aaron Ward, Lady Hillingdon and Melody have added tremendous influence upon the flower buying public. The roses Milady, Mrs. Chas. Russell, the new French hydrangeas, the daisy Mrs. F. Sander and several other novelties may be counted upon in making thousands of friends for those interested in buying nature's wares in the near future. Publicity with its great accomplishments seems to be the slogan, "first, last and all the time," with florists who are disposing of the greatest quantities of flowers. Those unwilling to take up the great selling cudgel are liable at any time to be surpassed by those who are willing to dispose of good goods at moderate prices and inform the public of just what they have to sell in an attractive manner. The good work now being done by the New York Florists' Club in the distribution of posters displayed simultaneously clearly shows what collective effort may do in publicity work. They plan for a great Thanksgiving campaign, and the outcome is awaited with interest. Advertising is a separate department in all the big stores of the country, but it is a sadly neglected art with many of the retailers who are wont to treat it as a side issue, and place it in the hands of the inexperienced for use. There is a vast difference between the maintainer of price and shrewd merchandiser, and the trade spoiler, who is harmful to himself and his fellowmen, both in selling and advertising.

"As ye sow, so shall ye reap" is nowhere better exemplified than in the comparison of a community of cheap florists and one worthy of prosperity and in which each is himself successful. It is just as possible to have each home in a town contain ten plants and have an educated love for them as one plant in each fifth home with a shy acquaintance of nature's wares due to lack of interest in the seller himself. The sale of potted plants, particularly in the larger flower centers, is a new channel which offers a great field for those willing to take a forward step and rise above the rose and carnation farms so popular and indicative of the day. The wonderful features of the National Boston Flower Show in the potted plant line will no doubt be duplicated and surpassed in the coming New York exhibition, and may be a proper incentive for the Westerners in the art of plant production. It is highly essential that the prosperous retailer interest the public in the growing plant as well as in the short-lived cut flower. It is almost impossible to present the wondrous and changing beauty of the flower possibilities to the public without the elegant displays of roses, rhododendrons, azaleas, bougainvillias, acacias, and particularly hydrangeas, cyclamens and the like. A higher standard of salesmanship is an essential that must be reckoned with in all the retail stores. The great strides made by the dealers in accessories, such as baskets, ribbons and supplies which outshine in many instances in a wholesale way those of the retailers themselves, are an instance of what first-class salesmanship —and to that it must be greatly attributed—may do. A clerk who is not able to sell quantities of goods at a fair price is no more destructive than one who is shrewd enough to obtain more from a purchaser than he is really willing to spend. A first-class clerk who has judgment gains the confidence of the patron and his employer, and who is able to arrange blossoms in a fine individual style is a scarce article. There is and always will be room at the top for those who can climb.

The artistic must be striven for in the disposition of flowers. To offer them for sale in unsightly masses at a low price is not sufficient. It is far better to sell a few flowers well arranged than many of them which in the end will detract rather than aid the general love of flowers. Elegant window displays, taste in store and house decorations, promptness, fairness in dealing, progressiveness, constant energy and alertness are the older virtues with which the striving store-man is ever face to face in his race to outclass his competitor and to dispose of his wares, striven equally hard for by his brother grower. The general use of flowers is far greater than the increase in population. This may be attributed to two factors. One is that the masses live farther removed from nature's beauty than formerly, thereby creating a general craving for it, and the other stronger one is the educational campaign of the retailers in the constant displaying and publicity of the flower business. Will it not be well, then, to follow the trail which has been leading forward for many years?

Our age has not been blessed with miracles, and it has been and always will be impossible for the flower stores to dispose of undue masses of flowers brought forward by climatic conditions. It is, however, possible for the retailer to watch the trend of the markets so as to aid in the fullest possible extent, the disposition of the largest numbers at the most favorable time. It is unreasonable to expect the erecting of greenhouses to proceed at the same enormous rate as in the last few years. It will be far better for the grower to produce more beautiful and varied varieties and for the retailer in his mission to so instill the love of flowers in the American hearts that they will be found in the homes of all in all their beauty, fragrance and refinement.

Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society opened its exhibition Thursday and continued till Sunday night, November 7-10. There were some noteworthy exhibits, though nothing startling in the chrysanthemum line. The show was a show in name only so far as the chrysanthemum entries are concerned. There was a very fine collection of apples grown in New England, an exhibit from the Amherst Agricultural College, showing the proper way to grade and pack and showing the packing that loses the western trade. In foliage and flowering plants, best arrangement. W. W. Edgar Co. received first prize. E. McMulkin, second. Thos. Proctor's specimen chrysanthemum plants were good. Walter Hunniwell received a silver medal for a group of chrysanthemum plants. In orchids, Wheeler & Co., Waban, were first, E. McMulkin, second.

There were many entries for the table decoration. Three ladies acted as judges.

Collection of fruit—Ed. McMulkin, prize and silver medal.

Table decoration—Ed. McMulkin, first; Henry Comley, second; F. H. Houghton, third.

Thos. Roland staged a splendid collection of foliage and flowering plants for exhibition. Jas. Nichol, Edgar Bros., and Edward Clark showed fine specimen blooms. William Sim exhibited a splendid stand of violets and Leonard Midgley a vase of the new carnation "Eureka." Patten & Co. showed their new seedling "Tewksbury," a dark red full flower. The Waban Rose Co.'s new rose Mrs. Chas. Russell received the society's gold medal. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., exhibited their new rose Milady. It showed good keeping qualities and is a good, full flower of velvety texture. This rose appears to have a future, and it has a beautiful perfume.

Philadelphia Notes.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co. were compelled to add a fine auto truck to their delivery service. Business here is away ahead of last season but their immense stock seems to show no depletion as nearly every day importations are received from abroad.

Robert Craig says he never was so busy as for the past six months. The new addition at Norwood required more stock to fill it and an added amount of energy to sell it, but the firm finds an active demand and this fall's business has broken all records.

Godfrey Aschmann sees nothing ahead but prosperity. The election had no terrors for him and his stock is the largest he ever had at this season. More orders are coming in and he is well pleased with his increased sales and the stock he is sending out.

"The American Beauty will be our special leader this season," says Leo Niessen. "We are handling more than ever and yet have demands for more than we can fill. It is still a great rose, there being nothing in sight to take its place."

Chief Corts of the Jos. Heacock Co. reports that the stock from the two large houses is being moved all right. It takes hustling but the work is made lighter by the quality of the flowers, which were never better for the season.

Berger Bros.' Central Market has choice chrysanthemums and some swell roses as features at this time. The report is more stock, more business and more hard work, but everybody happy.

The House of Rice is satisfied with business. This firm certainly should be as it is fairly swamped with orders from all over the country and the force compelled to work over time to keep ahead.

The Jos. Heacock Co. is being complimented on all sides for its orchid picture. This was the feature of the exhibition and was at all times surrounded by an admiring group of visitors.

The Florex Gardens are sending in fine Mrs. Ward and Lady Hillingdon roses to Eugene Bernheimer. The stock never looked better at these houses than it does at this time.

Edward Reid is justly proud of his fancy chrysanthemums. There are many that might be classed exhibition stock. Choice American Beauties are also a feature.

Frank Gaul opened up his new store on Saturday. He made a fine display and was much pleased with his first day's business.

EXAMINING COMMITTEES.

President Chas. H. Totty announces the committees to examine new chrysanthemums for the ensuing year as follows:

Boston—Wm. Nicholson (chairman), James Wheeler, Alex. Montgomery. Ship flowers to Boston Flower Exchange, C., Park street, care of chairman.

New York — Eugene Dailedouze (chairman), Wm. H. Duckham, A. Herrington. Ship flowers to New York Cut Flower Co., 55 Twenty-second street, care of chairman.

Philadelphia—A. B. Cartledge (chairman), John Westcott, S. S. Pennock. Ship flowers to A. B. Cartledge, 1514 Chestnut street.

Cincinnati—R. Witterstaetter (chairman), James Allen, Henry Schwartz. Ship flowers to chairman, Jabez Elliott Flower Market, care janitor.

Chicago—J. B. Deamud (chairman), D. A. Robertson, Peter Schilt. Ship flowers to J. B. Deamud, 160 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Shipments should be made to arrive by 2 p. m. on examination days to receive attention from the committees. Must be prepaid to destination and an entry fee of $2 should be forwarded to the secretary not later than Tuesday of the week they are to be examined, or it may accompany the blooms.

Seedlings and sports are both eligible to be shown before these committees, provided the raiser has given them two years' trial to determine their true character. Special attention is called to the rule that sports to receive a certificate must pass at least three of the five committees.

The committees will be in session to examine such exhibits as may be submitted on each Saturday during November, the dates of which will be November 16, 23, 30.

National Association of Gardeners.

The annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners will be held in the New Auditorium Hall, 81 Orange street, Newark, N. J., Tuesday afternoon, November 19. The meeting will be called to order at 2 o'clock. Routine business and election of officers will be attended to and there will be addresses as follows: "A Talk to Gardeners," Robert Craig, Philadelphia, Pa.; "International Flower Show of 1912," Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; "Problems of Plant Diseases That Confront the Gardener," Prof. J. J. Taubenhau of the Delaware Agricultural College, Newark, Del. A lecture illustrated with 70 stereopticon views of the international show at London will be given by Harry A. Bunyard, New York.

A banquet will be given immediately after the meeting. The dinner will be served promptly at 6 o'clock to enable guests who desire to do so to catch early trains. Patrick O'Mara will preside as toastmaster. A howling tournament will be held Monday evening, November 18, the day before the convention proper. Teams will consist of three men each and entries must reach the secretary's office by November 16. Individual bowling contests will be held Tuesday morning, November 19, at 9 o'clock. Exhibits for the meeting should be expressed in care of M. C. Ebel, secretary N. A. G., New Auditorium Hall, Newark, N. J., and should reach there on the forenoon of November 19.

The Chrysanthemum.

When 130,000 people throng to see a chrysanthemum show in New York the popular vogue of the flower must be regarded as pretty conclusively established. That is about as many persons as constitute the "capacity audiences" at the theaters on holidays, and the fact bears witness to the place chrysanthemum exhibitions now hold as fixed events in the fall calendar equally with football, the opera and the Horse Show. At the present rate of development of popular interest in it the chrysanthemum bids fair to become our national flower, as it is Japan's.

It is something more than a century since the flower of Chinese extraction with a Greek name made its way into Europe. The first English exhibition of chrysanthemums was held about ninety years ago, and the current exhibition of the American Institute in this city is its eighty-first. Most of the development of the chrysanthemum under cultivation has taken place in the last quarter of a century, and the result, as observed in the infinity of varieties, ranging from the tiny pompons to the mammoth plants too large to enter a hotel's doors, is a wonder story of floriculture.

The chrysanthemum is no longer a "gold flower" only, but one reflecting every hue of the spectrum. Its hardness and decorative uses have doubtless enhanced its popularity. Possibly "Madame Chrysantheme" added a sentimental touch of interest to it. But behind its vogue in this country and most suggestive of all the circumstances having to do with its popular appeal is the confirmation the attendance at chrysanthemum shows gives of the spread of a true æsthetic sense in a city where as many of the population go to see chrysanthemums as a world's baseball series.—New York World.

AMERICAN BEAUTY ROSES SCARCE.

The market took a change for the better on November 8, when both the local and out of town trade were good. Saturday was also a good day and stock of all kinds sold well, although the prices could have been a little higher. Stock is plentiful with the exception of American Beauty roses and orchids. American Beauties are arriving in excellent condition and are sold early at good prices. Roses in general are plentiful, but the supply of Richmond is considerably less. The newer roses are having a good call and no great surplus at any time is noticeable. Orchids, especially cattleyas, are in good demand. Dendrobiums, oncidiums, phalenopsis and cyripediums are obtainable and in fair supply. Chrysanthemums are very plentiful and some fine large blooms are to be had. Major Bonnaffon, White Bonnaffon, Dr. Enguehard, Timothy Eaton, Yellow Eaton, Christy Mathewson, Maud Dean, Col. D. Appleton and many others are included in the list. Pompons are arriving by the car loads and the shipments include nearly all the old varieties and many new ones. Violets are plentiful and of poor quality. Bouvardia has made its appearance but in no great quantity. Sweet peas, Paper White narcissus, mignonette and snapdragons in white and pink are also seen. The supply of lily of the valley, lilies and callas is equal to the demand. Greens are plentiful and the windows of the stores are radiant with chrysanthemum plants. Some of the large growers are inclined to think that the supply of American Beauty roses for Thanksgiving will be short. On Wednesday, November 13, the market was still in a very unsatisfactory condition with stock of all kinds arriving in quantities. American Beauty roses are holding their own and some of the dealers report that it is impossible to fill all the orders for Mrs. Aaron Ward, Sunburst and Prince De Bulgarie roses. Chrysanthemums are seen in large lots everywhere and many of the stores remind one of a small flower show. The weather is very cloudy and somewhat cooler.

Boxwood is coming in and winterberries are due in quantity next week. Thanksgiving holly is starting for market this week.

NOTES.

Joseph Ziska's new catalog of florists' supplies and wire designs is now ready for mailing. It contains over 300 illustrations of wire designs and is printed in green and black. The proprietor is well known to the trade for he is one of the oldest wire frame manufacturers in this country and has been in business here since 1880. It will be remembered that his business was formerly conducted under the name of the Chicago Rose Co., the change taking place October 1.

Louis Wittbold says the Geo. Wittbold Co. is cutting some fine roses at its Edgebrook establishment now and that nearly all of the stock is sold through their two retail stores. A change has been made at the North Clark street store, Victor Young now having charge.

August Poehlmann, A. T. Pyfer, W. N. Rudd, Adolph Poehlmann, Peter Olsem, A. Miller, Frank Johnson, Fred Lautenschlager, S. A. Jamieson and C. F. McCormick took in the flower show at St. Paul, Minn., this week.

At the Peter Reinberg store American Beauty roses and carnations are more noticeable since the supply of Richmond has diminished but at that Tim Matchen says he has plenty of the latter to supply all of his customers.

At A. L. Vaughan & Co.'s store chrysanthemums are still the leading feature with Major Bonnaffon and White Bonnaffon having the call. The new chrysanthemum Governor Wilson is second in the race, with Debs a close third.

The next regular meeting of the Cook County Florists' Association will be held at the Tavern, West Washington street, November 21. Walter Scott has promised to read a very interesting paper at this meeting.

Elmer D. Smith of Adrian, Mich., stopped off here on his way to and from the Minnesota State Florists' Association's flower show at St. Paul. He was well pleased with the show and says it was a very pretty affair.

A. Lange reports unusually good business and says that wedding orders are more numerous than for some time past. The box trade at this establishment is also very good and is gradually growing.

H. Wittbold is so busy with decorations this week that he has about all the work he can conveniently handle. He has just received a carload of wild smilax.

There is considerable talk among the wholesale dealers in regard to Sunday closing but as yet nothing definite has been done.

Jean E. Franke is back from an outing at his summer home near Thunder Lake, Mich.

M. Alexander, representing Lion & Co., New York, is calling on the trade here this week.

Theodore Vogel, formerly with the Alpha Floral Co., is now with Lubliner & Trinz.

Fred M. Dibols has resumed his position with Schofield, the North State street florist.

C. L. Washburn says that "Bassett & Washburn" in large letters now adorns his firm's large chimney at the new range. The chimney is 142 feet high and the letters are 4 feet in dimension. Mr. Washburn was present when the lettering was done and assisted one of the men in hoisting the 190 pound steeplejack to the top. This firm is having a brisk demand for their fancy white and yellow Eaton chrysanthemums and report that it is impossible to fill all orders for Sunburst, Prince de Bulgarie and Mrs. Aaron Ward roses.

Wietor Bros. are cutting a good supply of Maud Dean and Dr. Enguehard chrysanthemums and a crop of Rosette is due for Thanksgiving. Several new pompons are seen at this place that look very promising, especially Woodrow Wilson, a fine maroon. N. J. Wietor says that he has never before at this season of the year seen the quality of the American Beauty roses as good as it is now.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. is featuring a large assortment of all seasonable stock and a fine grade of roses and chrysanthemums is now seen at the store. The demand for orchids, especially cattleyas, at this establishment the past week has been very brisk. This firm is winning a large number of prizes at the fall shows.

The wholesale florists of this city have formed an organization which will be known as the National Wholesale Florists' Association. The dealers say that this was done to protect themselves against unjust and unlawful exactions and to extend credit only to those worthy of it.

At Percy Jones' store Major Bonnaillon chrysanthemums reign supreme, although a good supply of many of the other seasonable varieties are plainly visible. This firm reports a good demand for chiffons and have an unusually large supply in stock.

Hoerber Bros. are coming in crop with roses and are cutting heavily in chrysanthemums. This firm is having a good call for their Christy Mathewson chrysanthemums and have done well with this variety the first year.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is doing both a good city and shipping business and the manager reports a bright outlook for Thanksgiving. Michael Fink is quite at home here now and is doing first rate.

Erne & Klingel are looking forward to their first Thanksgiving and are making preparations for a big trade. They are well pleased with their start

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

J. A. Budlong cut his Chadwick chrysanthemums this week and is featuring a fine grade of American Beauty roses. Wm. Homburg, of this establishment, made a flying trip to Buffalo, N. Y., November 9.

The J. B. Deamud Co. received its first shipment of violets from the Des Plaines Violet Co. this week. Mr. Deamud has been a little under the weather for the past few days.

The Chicago Carnation Co. won first prize on their new scarlet carnation "The Herald" at the St. Paul flower show this week. This firm also won first prize on Enchantress.

John Kruchten's shipments of chrysanthemums are large and contain many of the old favorite varieties. Gardenias are still having a good call and move readily.

E. B. Washburn has purchased a residence on Orange Grove avenue, the Michigan boulevard of Pasadena, Calif., directly opposite the magnificent Busch estate.

James Freidl had a large banquet decoration at one of the local amusement halls on November 10 that called for a large supply of flowers.

D. E. Freres denies the "rumor" that chrysanthemums are scarce and points with pride to his large vases of Major Bonnaillon.

Arthur J. Graves of Bloomington has placed an order for a large greenhouse boiler with the John C. Moninger Co.

Dwight L. Harris says business is the "best ever" with the Pulverized Manure Co. at present.

A. Henderson & Co. announce the arrival of a shipment of spireas.

John Thorpe Embleton, great grandchild of the late John Thorpe, was born on November 4.

The first bouvardia of the season was seen at the E. C. Amling Co. store on November 9.

Miss K. N. Cooper, proprietress of the Auburndale Goldfish Co., is on the sick list.

Park Examinations.

Two examinations of interest to florists and gardeners will be held in the near future by the civil service board of the West Chicago Park Commissioners. One is to fill the position of florist in what is known as Class G, Grade II, and the pay is from $2.25 a day to $75 a month. There will be an oral and a practical test in greenhouse work and written questions on the care and propagation of plants and greenhouse operation. The duties of the florist include work in the conservatory and propagating houses and the outdoor gardens. The examination will be held November 20, 1912, at 8 a. m., at the Garfield Park Pavilion, Chicago, and applications must be filed in the office of the board before 5 p. m., November 19.

The second examination is for a gardener in the same grade and class and will be held at the same time and place and be governed by the same rules as regards filing of applications. There will be an oral and a practical test on the care and planting of trees, shrubs and plants. This position pays from $2.25 to $3.00 a day. The examinations will be to fill vacancies which may occur in the aforementioned positions within the next two years.

Chicago Florists' Club.

There was a good attendance at the regular meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club Thursday evening, November 7, President Foley in the chair. The resignation of Secretary McCormick was tendered and L. H. Winterson was appointed to take his place temporarily. President Foley announced that he had on behalf of the club extended an invitation to the Chrysanthemum Society of America to hold its annual convention and exhibition here in November, 1913, and this action was approved. An interesting paper on "The Retailing of Cut Flowers" by Irwin Bertermann, of Indianapolis, Ind., was read and at its close the matter of telegraph delivery was discussed at considerable length by George Asmus, who predicted a great future for this department of the retail business and urged florists generally to interest themselves in its great possibilities. Mr. Bertermann's paper will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Chairman French announced the arrangements for ladies' night Thursday evening, November 14, with a banquet at the Hotel Sherman, corner Clark and Randolph streets, at 7:30 sharp, to be followed by an informal dance. All members in good standing are entitled to complimentary ticket good for member and lady. Extra tickets $2 each.

The nomination of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: For president, Guy M. French and D. A. Robertson; vice-president, Chas. Bond, John P. Degnan and Alex. Henderson; treasurer, E. F. Winterson; secretary, Wilder S. Deamud, L. H. Winterson and S. A. Jamieson; trustees, H. N. Bruns, Geo. Asmus and C. L. Washburn.

Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., president of the Society of American Florists, has promised to give a lecture at the next meeting, December 5, illustrated with fine stereopticon slides.

H. N. Bruns promised an account of the observations made in Europe during his recent trip, for an early meeting.

St. Louis.

MARKET WELL SUPPLIED.

We are enjoying fine fall weather. The market is well supplied with all kinds of flowers. Medium quality chrysanthemums are plentiful; fancy chrysanthemums are not as numerous as last year. Violets are improving. Medium American Beauty roses and short stems are quickly caught up. Sweet peas have started but not in sufficient numbers to become a factor.

NOTES.

Miss Rose Windler was married to Edward A. Guntley Tuesday, November 5. Miss Windler is well known among the trade. She is a sister to Geo. B. Windler, grower, R. J. Windler, J. J. Windler, retailers, and A. J. Windler and Frank Windler, wholesalers. The wedding took place at St. Anthony church, which was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and palms. The house decoration was also carried out with the same effect, white chrysanthemums and white pom-pons being used throughout. The bride carried a shower of orchids and lily of the valley.

Otto Berning and Herman Niehaus of Berning's staff, Harry Schlechter and Fred Alves of Geo. H. Angermueller's, Geo. Schriever and C. A. Kuehn, Al Gumz, Frank A. Windler and J. J. Beneke are organizing a bowling league.

At the Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. can be seen a vast assortment of home grown chrysanthemums. This firm is making a specialty of handling local products. They are getting some fine roses also.

Mrs. Rosa Schoenle, whose husband died recently, will continue to conduct her flower store. She has sent her cards out in thanks for floral offerings and sympathy in the sad hour of her deep bereavement.

R. A. McPherson of Litchfield, Ill., was a recent visitor. He is consigning Rosseau, a fancy chrysanthemum, and has one thousand plants of Mrs. Drabble coming on, of which he speaks highly.

Mrs. M. M. Ayres has her store well filled with the very choicest of cut flowers. Mrs. Ayres has long had the reputation of being an artist in all varieties of floral work.

Geo. H. Angermueller has a fine lot of supplies. He has a specially fine supply of Christmas novelties, Velvet poinsettias, etc.

E. G. Hill of Richmond, Ind., is shipping a fine supply of chrysanthemums and pompons to H. G. Berning.

Joe Ent has erected a beautiful rustic fountain in the center of his store.

Exterior and Interior Views of Two Houses 34 x 100 Feet Each, Built by Us for the Wayne County Institution of the Poor, Detroit, Mich.

WHEN PLANNING THOSE NEW GREENHOUSES

Whose advice is best, a concern which originates or a firm that imitates? We do not travel around the country with kodak, rule, pencil and sketch-pad to copy our competitors' ideas, but have men with brains in our employ, whose business it is to design and invent new appliances for greenhouses.

DO YOU REMEMBER

when Garland first offered the cast iron gutter to the trade? How it was ridiculed by our competitors who said that it was impractical to lay glass on iron? How many manufactures of greenhouses do you find today who do not recommend them? Stop and think what they said about Trussed Houses. Why do they advertise them now? Concrete benches were also out of the question when they were first introduced. Are they today? Bear in mind that Garland designed and erected the first 27-foot, or so termed Western type of greenhouse that is in use exclusively today by such firms as Poehlmann Bros. Co., Peter Reinberg, George Reinberg, Wieter Bros., J. A. Budlong and hundreds of others. The two largest ranges of glass in this country are erected on Garland gutters. Garland furnished the material for the largest range of glass ever put up in this country in one year (for Mr. G. C. Barber, of Barberton, Ohio). Garland was the first to attempt to build greenhouses on wheels. Did you see what we had at the late S. A. F. Convention? As soon as our final O. K. is passed on them we will offer them to you, but not before. A greenhouse without a particle of wood used therein and a hydraulic ventilating machine which will do wonders. We have many other greenhouse appliances which will pay you to investigate, such as the never-slip Pipe Carrier, the Garland Handy Truck and others too numerous to mention. These are only a few reason why you should take Garland's advice.

The marriage of Leroy Smith, vice-president of the J. F. Ammann Floral Co. of Edwardsville, Ill., to Miss Ida Epps at St. Charles, Mo., July 20, only became known the other day. She is Werner Bros., in addition to growing fine roses, are raising fine lily of the valley for the Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co.

Fred Meinhardt says the trade is starting up well and he expects a fine business this fall.

Miss Newmann's store is well filled with fancy flowers. Her windows are always attractive.

Hugo and Gustave Gross are bringing some good violets to this market.

Ben Albers is growing some very fancy California violets. a young school teacher of Madison County. W. F.

BUSINESS VERY QUIET.

The last two weeks have been universally pronounced the slowest of the season in regard to business. Chrysanthemums, which are at their height at present, suffered most. The best of them could be bought for from $1.75 to $2.00 a dozen. Small blooms are almost unsalable. Good long-stemmed tea roses are not overly plentiful and sell at fair prices. Shorts, however, are abundant and cheap. Carnations are off crop, but the supply is equal to the demand. Fair stock sells at $2.00 a hundred and fancy stock at $2.50 to $3.00 a hundred. Good home grown single violets sell readily at $1.00 a hundred.

NOTES.

The November meeting of the State Florists' Association was held at Richmond and was well attended. P. J. Foley, of Chicago, happened to be present and as usual radiated cheer and good humor wherever he went. He was elected an honorary member of the Association. All the leading Richmond establishments were visited and Hill's new place, generally known as "Joe's place," received the lion's share of attention and was unanimously pronounced A No. 1 and up to date in every detail. John Evans demonstrated the superiority of his twentieth century ventilating arm, showing conclusive evidence that it is more efficient than the old style.

Recent visitors: P. J. Foley, of Chicago; F. Heintz, Terre Haute; B. F. Hensley, Knightstown, and P. J. Lynch of Newcastle. The two latter gentlemen were drumming up customers for their outputs of chrysanthemums.

L. Benson has opened his new store on Pennsylvania street and says that the business up to date has surpassed his greatest expectations.

H. W. Rieman's new automobile collided with a milk wagon. Little damage, however, was done to either.

A. W. Brandt is building an ice box which is of original and unique design.

Bertermann's new conservatory will be under roof some time this week.

The Hill-Heller Co. had the decorations for the Van Camp wedding.

H. J.

Pittsburg.

STOCK VERY SCARCE.

An unusual shortage of stock is to be reported with the demand for flowers good. Carnations seem to have dropped out of sight altogether. Some of the rose growers timed their crops to be off during the chrysanthemum season, which is usually a good plan, but owing to the scarcity of carnations many more roses could be disposed of. American Beauties have tightened up a little and the medium grades are very scarce. Valley moves out slowly, while the demand for violets is very good.

NOTES.

Quantities of Boxwood are seen at the McCallum Co.'s establishment, as they are already shipping hundreds of pounds daily.

R. J. Daschbach had a large wedding decoration in Uniontown and spent two days there personally directing it.

The Florists' Club met election night. Chrysanthemums was the subject, and a large and interesting exhibit was staged.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is cutting heavily on very fine White Killarney roses.

Oliver Crissman, Punxsutawney, and J. W. Glenn, Kittanning, were recent visitors. E. J. M.

STOCK VERY GOOD.

Now that the election is over business goes on as usual. Good flowers and others not so good are for sale. Some say they sell better than last year and others again see very little change from the prices that prevailed a year ago. The stock coming in is all that could be desired. There is more of it and a greater variety, and perhaps a slightly wider market than in a measure keeps pace with the increased supply. Chrysanthemums are now at their height, and considering the quantity offered are selling very well. Some very fine Yellow Eatons, White and Yellow Chadwick, Maud Dean, Bonnaffon, Golden Eagle and other varieties of almost exhibition caliber are daily offered and bring very fair prices. There are pompons in quantity, the inside stock selling well. In the rose line, American Beauties have been scarce, the growers evidently training this variety so that it will come up strong for the Christmas demand. The specials now bring $4 a dozen readily, with not enough for the demand. White and Pink Killarney are getting into winter form and very fine stock is seen. The newer fancy sorts are also improving and are much in demand. Carnations are next in importance and will soon be moved to the

CHRYSANTHEMUMS CHEAPER.

The glory of the late chrysanthemums is much in evidence, there being many chrysanthemums and much glory. The above is from the viewpoint of the enthusiast and fancier. As the cool and matter of fact dealer sees it, the situation is not so alluring. Though exceptionally fine stock is arriving much of it is selling cheap, a great amount being moved at from 8 to 12 cents. The fancies and what may be termed exhibition stock bring higher prices, but as is well known it is the smaller flowers that are most useful in the average retail store. Major Bonnaffon, Chadwick, Enguehard, Jones, Timothy Eaton and other well-known varieties are now seen at their best and play leading roles in the trade. The past week was replete with exhibitions both here and in nearby cities, and all this publicity should help to educate the people in the love and use of flowers. In roses, American Beauties fell off somewhat in supply toward the last of the week and prices for special stock were somewhat advanced. The new productions, such as Mrs. Geo. Shawyer and Sunburst, go quickly. There is little change in the supply or movement of the staple varieties, such as the Killarneys, Richmond and Lady Hillingdon. A few Brides and Bridesmaids are seen and they sell well. With so many chrysanthemums on the market it is hardly yet time to say much of the carnations except that for the season exceptionally good stock is arriving and of this none is better than Enchantress and Mrs. C. W. Ward. There are several new carnations on the market that look promising, but they have yet to be tried out. A feature worthy of note at this time is that it is impossible to buy 100 good yellow carnations at any price. Lilies and lily of the valley are plentiful enough and of the latter very fine stock is seen. There is a good supply of orchids and gardenias. The price of violets stiffened up a little on Saturday, November 9, which almost aroused hope in the hearts of the optimists that violets will "come back."

New York, Monday, November 11.—There is an over supply of chrysanthemums on the market, and while the stock is good, they are selling cheap. Roses, particularly American Beauties, are doing a little better as are violets. Carnations are holding their own. The weather is very fine and conditions, excepting a possibly excessive supply, are favorable for a good week's business.

NOTES.

Among the visitors in this city the past week was Alexander Montgomery of the Waban Conservatories, Natick, Mass., a former president of the American Rose Society. To say that he is a rose grower of national reputation would be just like saying that Woodrow Wilson is President-elect of the United States. All, and there were thousands of them who saw his new rose Mrs. Charles Russell on exhibition at the American Institute, will tender him a unanimous vote as a leader in his line. The vase of the rose Mrs. Charles Russell which was placed on exhibition on November 6 was, at the close of the show, placed in the window of the wholesale store of S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., and was looking good at the close of business, November 9.

At the range of the Knight & Struck Co., where H. D. Darlington is the resident manager, there are good prospects for a great stock of ericas or heather, as our Scotch friends love to call it, for Christmas. The ericas are a specialty at this range. Two new houses and other improvements were noted.

The Kervan Company, which does an immense business in greens, feels no alarm over the reported embargo on Christmas trees coming from New England. Their representatives cover the whole United States and if they cannot get what they want in one place they can get it in another.

A recent visit to the range of Wm. Pankok, Whitestone, L. I., showed a notably fine stock. Mr. Pankok was found busy unpacking a great importation of azaleas, which had happily escaped the frost which has been reported as doing much mischief. A hasty view of his range showed a great stock of fine palms, crotons, pandanus, poinsettias, begonias and a great variety of other foliage and flowering plants.

The show window of the retail store of C. A. Dards, Forty-fourth street and Madison avenue, was decorated the past week in a very artistic manner. Suspended overhead were two large plants of Platycerum grande and beneath, in addition to a large vase of Milady roses, there was a great exhibit of orchids, chrysanthemums and other seasonable blooms also.

One of the rising young men in the wholesale business is Paul Meconi, who has a good store on the ground floor of the Coogan Building, Twenty-sixth street and Sixth avenue. He makes orchids a specialty but can always furnish any kind of good stock.

The latest retail store to open on Madison avenue is the "Mignon Florist," at number 509. The proprietor is N. G. Davis, a native of Greece, who has had experience in the business in both France and England.

Moore, Hentz & Nash, who bought the range of the John Young Co., Bedford Hills, N. Y., are making a great success of their venture, as all who see the stock they offer will attest.

At the range of the Hinode Florist Co., now owned and managed by C. W. Scott and wife, we found a great stock of fine ferns. Many thousands of lilies will be ready for Easter.

A. L. Young & Co. are now handling very fine stocks in roses and chrysanthemums. A. L. Young, the head of this firm, though yet a young man is capable and experienced.

Wallace Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., returned home November 8, after making the round of sixteen fall shows, at all of which Milady received a certificate.

James Walker Heacock, of the Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa., was in the City November 11 calling on the trade in the interest of his firm.

H. E. Froment is now handling exceptionally good Radiance and Lady Hillingdon roses from the L. B. Codrington range.

During the past week exceptionally fine stock of chrysanthemums and roses has been seen at the store of Walter F. Sheridan.

Wm. A. Kessler continues busy filling orders for plants in the evergreen line for winter boxes and vases.

A. F. F.

New York Florists' Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the club was held in the Grand Opera House building on the night of November 11. President Manda in the chair. It was ladies' night, and as Secretary Young said: "Elaborate preparations had been made for the entertainment of the ladies." The business was quickly disposed of and for the remainder of the evening joy was unconfined.

It was very gratifying to the entertainment committee that there were so many ladies present. Charles Schenck, of the committee, had secured a fine array of talent as vaudeville artists and their efforts were well received. After that feature was ended a bountiful repast was served. The hall was finely decorated with large exhibition chrysanthemums, which were, at the close of the festivities, distributed among the ladies.

The committee on the nomination of officers for the club for the next year reported as follows: For president—Joseph A. Manda, Harry A. Bunyard, William H. Duckham, William H. Siebrecht. For vice-president—L. S. Hendrickson, John Donaldson, J. H. Fießer. For secretary—John Young, A. R. Kennedy, Thos. B. De Forest. For treasurer—W. C. Rickards, Charles Schenck, Philip F. Kessler. For trustees—Frank Traendly, Chas. B. Weatherhead, Harry Turner, John Miesam, A. T. Boddington, F. R. Pierson, Horace E. Froment, Henry Hoerneck, A. H. Langjhar, Walter F. Sheridan.

The Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y., exhibited its white carnation Matchless. Scott Brothers, Elmsford, showed their scarlet carnation William Eccles. George Melvin, gardener for Col. Chas. Pfaff, South Framingham, Mass., exhibited plants of Solanum Capsicastrum Melvina. J. J. Brozat, Bloomfield, N. J., exhibited the rose Madame Jules Grolez, which he claimed was identical with Chas. H. Totty's new rose, Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, to which proposition Mr. Totty emphatically dissented. At the next meeting a vase of Mrs. Geo. Shawyer from the Totty range will be exhibited beside the Brozat rose and a committee of experts will view them.

Rochester, N. Y.

BUSINESS BRIGHTER.

Business conditions are looking brighter here. Funerals, weddings and other events have continued to keep Rochester florists quite busy, and the week's business shows very satisfactory results. Most of the florists have been engaged at the flower show during the greater part of the week, but work has gone along steadily. Stock is coming in in good shape. Mums are in evidence in great volume and are in good demand. Josephine C. Touse and Major Bonnaffon have been added to the list. Paper white narcissus have made their first appearance this season. Violets, both English and California, are larger and more fragrant and both sell well. White candy tuft is also in fine condition. Carnations are also better but are not very long stemmed yet. Red sorts are very scarce, in fact, all are scarce. Roses are better and come in good quantities. Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Melody, My Maryland and Killarneys are all good sellers. There seems to be quite a call for potted mums in the large and pompon varieties this week. There is a great deal of fall planting going on. The general report is that the bulb business is heavier this season than last.

NOTES.

On Monday night, November 4, the store of H. E. Wilson was entered by a burglar and the cash register robbed of about eighteen dollars. The robber climbed through the transom over the door during the night, but his haul was not very large, the register having been cleared during the evening of most of the money. The police are making inquiries.

The extensive plant of The Rex Company, manufacturers of lime and sulphur solutions for spraying purposes, and other property close by, was entirely destroyed by fire on November 6, causing an estimated loss of $15,000, which was only partially covered by insurance. The building was a 60x100 foot structure.

Chas. Nuhlberger, who has been gardener for a great many years for the Rochester State Hospital, has now taken over additional work as farm manager.

Not Briarcliff Headquarters.

We are in receipt of a communication from Paul M. Pierson, proprietor of the Briarcliff greenhouses, Scarborough, N. Y., with reference to a New York news item appearing in our issue of October 26, page 810. This item was sent in by our former New York correspondent and Mr. Pierson writes as follows regarding it: "Our attention has been called to a notice published in your paper October 26 announcing the opening of a retail flower store in New York to be known as 'The Briarcliff Flower Shop,' and stating that they are the New York headquarters for the famous Briarcliff roses. It is only fair to us to state that we have no connection whatever with the proprietors of this store and have given them no authority to use our name in connection therewith. Of course, if they wish to handle Briarcliff roses, we shall be very glad to have them as our customers precisely as other retail stores in New York and other cities are our customers. We are making this statement because many of our customers seem to be under the impression that we are entering the retail business, which has no foundation in fact."

ELECTION WEEK POOR.

Election week was a little slow, according to reports from many retailers, funeral work being about the only outlet for the enormous supply of chrysanthemums which are arriving daily. Carnations are short of the demand, most growers being off crop. Roses are moving nicely and stock is exceptionally good. Violets are in good demand. Orchids are plentiful with little demand. Pompon chrysanthemums have been very plentiful this year. Greens of all kinds are also plentiful. Boxwood is being used quite freely. Orders for Christmas supplies are rapidly coming in and help to keep the wholesalers busy a good part of each day.

The flower show given under the auspices of the Ohio Horticultural Society promises to be a big success. Nearly all the leading local florists have reserved space for display purposes and the show is being advertised extensively in the local papers as a big society event. Florists should lend all the support possible as the returns will be worth a good deal to growers and retailers alike. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14, 15 and 16, are the days. C. F. B.

ROCKFORD, ILL.—W. C. Burroughs, who conducts a greenhouse at his home, has purchased another of Leake & Offord. He will operate both establishments.

BUSINESS VERY GOOD.

Business conditions are so good that at times the demand for flowers goes unfilled. Chrysanthemums are earlier than usual and although being grown in larger quantities than ever they are none too plentiful. The Canadian Thanksgiving day, October 28, gave an unprecedented amount of trade for Saturday, the twenty-sixth, and the market was cleaned up of all available stock. American Beauty roses are fine and meet with ready sale. Yellow roses still continue to hold their popularity and are hard to get at times. Ed. Molly, Richmond, the Killarneys and Brides are all in good shape but not nearly plentiful enough to go around. The carnation growers have struck it right and have their stock looking better than for many seasons past. The blooms at present are many of them up to the mid-winter quality and are hardly left enough time on the plants to develop properly. Lily of the valley and violets are both plentiful and good, as are orchids, especially cattleyas and oncidiums. The season has been poor for good colored oak or maple foliage and many cibotium and nephrolepis ferns are being used, of which there is a good supply.

NOTES.

The Steele Briggs Co. can always be depended on for some good chrysanthemums, their Bonnaillon being the first in this locality. Pink and white Ivory as they grow them are an addition to any florist's stock, and both Pennsylvania and Philadelphia, forgotten by many, are superior to many of the newer varieties.

W. Fendley has been changing the returns in his plant and installing more boilers, one of which caused him the loss of several teeth and some bad bruises as the result of an accident. However, he has been hard at work getting his violets housed. His plants are in fine shape and producing good flowers.

R. Jennings has had a lot of trouble with moths which have invaded the chrysanthemum houses and done considerable damage. In spite of this he is cutting some good blooms and the carnations were never better.

Grobba & Wandrey, having added to their storage facilities, are going extensively into growing valley. Cyclamen, of which they grow large quantities, is being marketed.

Mitchell, of the Woodstock Floral Co., was a recent visitor. He has been sending in chrysanthemums, carnations and violets, all of which show careful growing. H. G. D.

WATTSBURG, WASH.—A number of enthusiastic flower growers met here recently and organized the Waitesburg Floricultural Association. The officers elected are: Walter C. Jones, president; Mrs. R. E. Butler, vice-president; Mrs. Elma Brink, secretary-treasurer. A committee to have charge of flower shows is composed of J. L. Harpe, G. M. Lloyd, E. L. Wheeler, Mrs. R. E. Butler and Mrs. Elmer McKinney.

KERMAN, CALIF.—This town's second annual chrysanthemum show was held November 2.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, and painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established, and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia Be Sure to Look Us Up

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your convenience, both going and coming. Then you will see our Palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9 inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place), and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to our Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition

The Seed Trade.

American Seed Trade Association.

Chas. N. Page, Des Moines, Ia., President;
Harry L. Holmes, Harrisburg, Pa., First
Vice-President; Arthur B. Clark, Milford,
Conn., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel,
Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer;
J. M. Ford, Ravenna, O., Assistant Secretary.
Next annual convention, June, 1913.

WHITESVILLE, Mo.—Thomas Slawson is building a new seed house.

SEED beans of new crop will have to be dried promptly as they are coming in very damp.

PANTON, ILL.—The large seed warehouse being erected by Noble Bros. is nearing completion.

WATERLOO, IA.—The Iowa Seed Dealers' Association will meet here the first Monday in June, 1913.

LAWRENCE, KANS.—The Busch Seed Co. has moved into the Pearson building which it recently purchased.

EARLY reports of the tuberose crop indicate damage from "big root" disease varying from 30 to 40 per cent.

CABLE advices from Japan indicate that some late dug lots of Lilium giganteum have suffered by sprouting.

WEATHER continues good for bouquet green gathering but first hand dealers do not seem inclined to shade prices yet.

It is understood that Albert Dickinson and Chas. D. Boyles have resigned their positions in the Albert Dickinson Co., Chicago.

THRESHING conditions on beans in Michigan still continue bad. The beans are so moist that the threshers can not work.

CHICAGO.—Prices on the Board of Trade November 13 for grass seed were noted as follows: Timothy, $3.25 to $4 per 100 pounds.

THE dry rot and large-sized screenings are using up a considerable part of the apparent surplus of onion sets on the Chicago market.

FIELD corn is being taken into storage in good condition. There should be a good supply this season of dry, high germinating seed.

HELENA, MONT.—The Montana Seed Growers' Association, an organization of farmers, was brought into being here at the recent state fair.

THE favorable fall weather has facilitated the harvesting of gladiolus bulbs and most growers report stock well gathered and under shelter.

A. H. Goodwin, of Chicago, sails for Paris November 30 on the S. S. George Washington, via Cherbourg; he goes to join Mrs. Goodwin who has spent the summer there.

COLUMBIA, MO.—A seed testing laboratory is being operated by the agricultural college in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture.

SHENANDOAH, IA.—The Henry Field Seed Co. has completed the improvements on the two buildings formerly occupied by the Swanson Mfg. Co., which the seed company purchased last spring. The rapid growth of this firm makes more room necessary.

SAN JOSE, CALIF.—Thos. W. Chisholm, sales manager of the Braslan Seed Growers Co., left California November 10 for the annual visit to the seed trade.

PEAS imported into the United Kingdom have increased, while beans have decreased. During the trade year ended August 31 imports were 125,800 and 54,000 tons, respectively, in comparison with 76,300 and 100,000 tons, respectively, in the 12 months ended August 31, 1910.—Daily Consular and Trade Reports.

VISITED CHICAGO: H. H. Laughlin, of the Laughlin Seed Co., San Jose, Calif.; J. W. Edmundson, of the California Seed Growers' Association, Inc., San Jose Calif.; C. C. Massie, of Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn., enroute to Detroit; H. A. Johns, representing the Sioux City Seed & Nursery Co., Sioux City, Ia., on a visit to his bean growing district in Michigan.

Bouquet Green and Holly.

The bouquet green outlook in the west has been improved by reasonably good weather for the past 10 days. First hand general store buyers in the district who started the high prices are not disposed to make any concessions yet and some report light snows. It is not likely that prices will decline much if present weather continues.

Fancy holly packers are asking about the same prices as in the fall of 1911.

Government Seed Distribution.

Washington, D. C., November 12.—The annual work of assembling and packeting seeds for free congressional distribution has been commenced by the department of agriculture. More than 600 tons of seeds will be put into approximately 60,000,000 packets preparatory to mailing after January 1. Plans for a special distribution of seeds adapted to dry land conditions are being made by the bureau of plant industry. The object is to distribute the seeds in the great plains area and other dry sections for demonstration purposes.

Value of Potato Spraying.

The importance of potato spraying is proved anew by experiments conducted during a period of ten years by the New York Agricultural Experiment Station. A popular edition of Bulletin 349, which has been summarized by F. H. Hall, the editor, is entitled "Ten Years of Potato Spraying" and reviews the entire period of experimentation. An average increase of 69 bushels to the acre has been secured by spraying at Geneva, and a good increase also resulted at Riverhead, L. I., where duplicate experiments were made, although the average was not so high here, owing to lighter soil and adverse climatic conditions. In only two years, however, was there a failure to get an increase, while the average for three sprayings was 25 bushels, and 45¾ bushels where sprayings were made every two weeks.

A nine-year series of tests, known as "farmer's business experiments," were also made by the farmers themselves under the direction of the station authorities, and carefully kept records were taken. The average gain in these tests was 36.1 bushels, and the net profit gained was $14.43 an acre. Volunteer experiments made by farmers showed an even greater increase, although these are not thought to be wholly reliable. However, they clearly corroborate the findings in other cases and go to show that the grower who does not spray his potatoes is behind the times.

The experiment station uses a combination of bordeaux mixture and poison and suggests frequent applications, as it will not hurt the foliage.

Mushroom Notes.

While the manure is being prepared we should get the beds ready. These are similar to greenhouse benches, only deeper. Twelve-inch boards are used for the sides as less will not hold the heat. The beds can be any length but not too wide; if side beds are used 3½ feet is ample; if centre beds they may be 6 feet wide. They should be built so the crop can be picked without treading on the beds. Sides and bottoms should be thoroughly white-washed with a hot lime wash for each crop. This is very important to keep vermin in check. When the material is ready it should be of a dark color and rather mild in odor and with some heat left.

When filling the beds care must be used to shake out the manure well to prevent bunches, the evenner the better; a good worker will constantly tamp as he fills to get a solid pack. If the manure is in proper condition and the work well done heating will resume in a milder form. This heating can be induced by covering the new beds with hay, straw or canvas. At this point we must watch the temperatures closely by inserting thermometers here and there. As long as the heat is rising we cannot spawn, but as soon as a decline takes place we can place the spawn on top of the beds to absorb some moisture and when the inside temperature drops to 90° the spawn can be broken and planted. Break a brick in 6 pieces and plant about 10 inches apart each way, placing the pieces fairly under the surface and tighten them thoroughly. Better wait a week or ten days before casing with loam.

BUSINESS GOOD.

The election did not affect the flower business, which was good with plenty of good stock to be had at a fair price all week. Chrysanthemums bring from 4 cents to 12 cents, roses 2 cents to 10 cents for fancy stock, carnations 1½ cents to 3 cents, with plenty of orchids, valley and gardenias.

NOTES.

O. A. C. Oehmler reports his business better than he expected and says he will have to put on more help. He had the decoration for the Calvary Sunday school teachers' banquet. He also had a very pretty decoration at the Masonic temple, consisting of palms, foliage, yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Gude Bros. have purchased 85,000 square feet of ground at Bladensburg and Mt. Olivet roads and are erecting a rose house to cover 50,000 feet of the property. The price is said to have been about $12,000.

Geo. Shaffer had a nice wedding decoration at the Portland, the home of Mrs. Gill. The parlor was decorated with smilax, palms and white chrysanthemums.

Geo. H. Cooke decorated St. Stephen's church, using palms, ferns, foliage and over three hundred large white chrysanthemums.

Gude Bros. Co. will have their annual chrysanthemum show this week. W. H. Gude says it will be the best ever.

Z. D. Blackistone had the decoration for the opening of the New Bellvue Hotel.

I. Hass has accepted a position with the Washington Florists Co.

Bowling scores at last week's games were as follows:

Cooke	150	180	133	McKnew	195	172	148

New Scarlet Carnation

"The Herald"

The Great Red Winner

WE claim that The Herald will produce more perfect flowers in a season than any other scarlet now on the market. The Herald is an early free and continuous bloomer, giving 12 to 18-inch stems right from the beginning of the season until the end; all flowers have perfect large calyx, strong stem and extra good keeping qualities. The color is a good even shade of scarlet at all times; never slate colored or faded. On the exhibition table it ranks first among all commercial carnations and as a producer it is so far ahead of all others that we are frank in saying it does not pay you to grow any other scarlet except The Herald. The one carnation that is good all the time and gives you the greatest profit with the least worry and expense. All stock guaranteed strong, healthy and well rooted. Ready January 1, 1913; $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

WHEN THE VOTE WAS COUNTED.

When they counted the vote, there could be no mistake.

Godfrey Aschmann was head of the poll; The Bull Moose was nowhere, and Debs was a fake. While Taft was left in a hole.

Not one of the lot knew how to pot
Up a plant in the way it should grow.
The contest was hot. Who said it was not?
No one else else had the ghost of a show.

Aschmann showed us his charms: then back to their farms

His competitors scurried in haste.
His Araucarias, Ferns, Azaleas and Palms
Appealed to all who had taste.

Said the Florists all round, no better are found.
We're for Aschmann down to our last cent:
With volumes of sound, to his houses they're bound.

To stock up with the best their intent:
And they sing as they go: "Our old friend is not slow;

He's on top of the heap, all his rivals below."

Ferns.

The growing of Nephrolepis for the past five years has been one of our leading specialties. We have three houses, which were rebuilt this summer, especially adapted for the growing of first-class stock. Ferns do not do well in old houses. They need houses with plenty of sun and good, fresh sweet air. Old dark houses bring fungus and make spindly plants.

Neph Glatrasii. This is a new fern, very graceful, of weeping habit, short and bushy, very much admired by every one who has bought it. 4-5 1/2-6 in. pots, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c.

Neph. Whitmani, 4 in., 20c; 5 1/2 to 6 in. pots, 30c, 35c, 40c and 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Neph. Scottii, 4 in., 20c; 5 in., 35c; 5 1/2 to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Boston, 7 in., 75c; 5 1/2 to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 5 in., 35c; 4 in., 20c.

Neph. Elegantissima Compacta, 6 in., 50c.

Neph. Scholzei, 6 in., 50c; 4 in., 25c.

Adiantum Hybridum, the new Maidenhair Fern, large 4 in., bushy, 15c; 5 in., 25c.

Japanese Fern Balls, our own importation, now full of leaves; 8-9 in. in diameter, only 35c (cheap at 50c).

We have a big assortment of 2 1/2 in. Dish Ferns, now ready, $4.00 per 100.

6 in. dishes, made up of Wilsoni Ferns, one large Dracaena Terminalis in center, 50c.

6 in. pans made up of 3 in. Wilsoni Ferns, very attractive, would sell like hot cakes for 75c. Look! only 25c per pan for three big plants.

Ficus Elastica, Belgium or American stock, 5-5 1/2 in., 30c, 35c to 40c; 6 in., 50c; 7 in., 75c.

Hydrangea Otaksa, pot-grown. Remember, only pot-grown stock, like ours, will force successfully. 5 1/2-6 7 in. pots, 25c-35c-50c.

Primula Obconica Grandiflora, good strain, assorted, 4 in., $4.00 per 100; 5 1/2 in., $2.50 per doz. Primula Chinensis, John F. Rupp strain, assorted, 4 in., $10.00 per 100; 5 1/4 in., only $2.50 per doz.

AZALEAS.

Our new importation of Azaleas are all in and unpacked. Never in our life have we received a better and finer selection of Azaleas than this fall. All of them have original foliage and are well budded.

For Christmas Forcing.—If you want to be successful, lose no time and start now. Start the Azaleas in low temperature and increase the temperature gradually up to 60 degrees until they show color; then cool off gradually again. We have only the best well-known Christmas varieties, such as Deutsche Perle, white; Simon Mardner, pink; Mme. Petrick, new, pink; Pharilda Mathilda, variegated; Veraneana, variegated rose; Apollo, red. Prices: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. For Easter Blooming and for Easter we have the well-known American varieties, such as Mme Van der Cruysen, best pink; Paul Weber, De Schryveriana, John Llewellyn, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), and a few more good sorts. P. S.—The Christmas varieties can be kept for Easter forcing without trouble. Price: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. We sell our Azaleas for cash only, because there is no profit to be made in Azaleas.

Our Mme. Petrick Azaleas are round as an apple, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50; covered with buds; a child can force them; best pink; earliest of all. All other varieties are covered with buds.

No profit is made on Azaleas any more; therefore only cash with order will be accepted.

Daisies, Sanderi, pure white, everlasting bloomer, very valuable for cut flowers, 2 1/2 in., $5.00 per 100.

Queen Alexandra Daisies, pure white, good Easter Daisy, 2 1/2 in. pots, strong, $4.00 per 100; 3 in., $6.00 per 100.

Jerusalem Cherries (Solanum), 6 in., 25c, 35c, 50c.

Cash with order, please. 25 sold at 100 rates. All plants must travel at purchaser's risk.

TESTIMONIAL.

When You Buy, It Pays to Buy Good Stock.

Look and see what Mr. Fred J. Michell, of that so well-known firm of Henry F. Michell Company, of Philadelphia, has got to say about our plants: "Sept. 14th, 1912.

"I have just visited the greenhouses of Mr. Godfrey Aschmann, and must say that it was indeed a great surprise to me. I have never seen a better lot of Araucarias, Ferns of all sizes, varieties and prices, Rubbers, Palms, Azaleas, and other plants in season, ready for shipment, as are at present at Mr. Godfrey Aschmann's."

One of the Recent Testimonials.

Saskatchewan Greenhouses,

E. J. Coster, Proprietor.

(P. O. Box 75), Prince Albert, Sask., Canada.

Your shipment of Oct. 23rd arrived in first-class shape, and I beg to say I never bought such good ferns at the price in my life, and I have been buying them for over sixteen years. Now I am coming back to you for more stock if you use me as well as you have done this time.

Yours truly, E. J. COSTER.

Amount of order for ferns, $33.60.

If You Do Not Find What You Need in Our Ready Reference Department, Write Us About It.

This is Malcolm Franklin's 72-Footer at Yardley, Pa.

Big Houses For Big Business.

YOU ask: how big shall big houses be?

Our answer is: we believe that 72 feet is about right. We used to say 40 feet wide—then 55; but now we find that 72 feet works out to best advantage for growing space, economy in materials and cost of erection.

Just around Philadelphia alone, we have three 72-footers.

1. The first to build one was John Stephenson & Sons.

2. Then came Joseph Heacock & Co., at Roelofs, Pa.

3. And close to follow was Malcolm Franklin, with one at Yardley, Pa.

However, before you form definite conclusions, one way or the other, we would like to sit down with you and thrash the question right out from A to Z.

Such a talk is bound to be of help to you, especially as you in no way obligate yourself to buy of us.

Owning Your Greenhouse What It Means

This is the U-Bar, the bar that makes
U-Bar Greenhouses
the Famous Greenhouses They Are.

You can talk about the things cold frames will do for you "until the cows come home," but if you want real flowers, real bedding plants that you can count on being top notch year in and year out—then a greenhouse is the only thing. The only thing because it is the sure thing. With a greenhouse your frames become doubly valuable, as then one helps the other greatly to the advantage of both. With a greenhouse you control temperatures and conditions and can have what you want when you want it. But don't allow anyone to persuade you that any other curved eave house is just as good as the U-Bar. It is not so. We want to show you exactly why. Send for the catalog as a starter.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Azaleas.

Keep the azaleas well spaced out as they begin to come into flower. The buds should be swelling rapidly and beginning to show color by early December. Never allow the plants to suffer for water and where any are shipped out or carried into the residences they should be well watered before being taken out of the greenhouse. All plants that are sent away should be safely covered, and with azaleas it must be taken into consideration that they have been grown in a very warm temperature, and they chill easily. Plants that are forced as hard as these are to have them for the holidays are damaged very quickly if they get chilled, even if they do not get frost-bitten. We have known azalea plants to look all right when undone, but the blooms wilted and never came out. Six to eight thicknesses of newspaper with a heavy outside paper should always be used in doing up these plants and more if the weather is severe. If the plants are not far advanced enough to have them in for Christmas a little higher temperature will be required, for to have them in at that date is a necessity in order to get the best price. Watering or syringing with warm water will assist some, but we do not like to do this unless absolutely necessary to get them in on time. Plants that are too far advanced can be moved into a cooler house which will greatly benefit them for house culture.

Cinerarias.

As fast as these plants require it they should be repotted and shifted to larger-sized pots. They are growing rapidly and should receive no check or they will become stunted. Keep them in a cool temperature, that they may be strong and sturdy, and above all things now do not crowd them, but space them out often; when the leaves begin to touch go over the bench and space them out. These plants are beautiful in early spring if well grown but if they become crowded and get drawn they are but poor specimens. When the large plants begin to show their buds, if they are in as large pots as can be easily handled a watering of liquid manure will help them finish their flowers. They are strong growers and great feeders and where the pots are full of roots will need a little stimulant. Constant watchfulness for aphid is required in growing these plants. Frequent fumigations will be necessary or standing on tobacco stems will keep the insect in check.

Lily of the Valley.

It is often remarked that it is surprising more florists do not force lily of the valley for the holidays. While the forcing of this flower throughout the season had much better be left to those who make a specialty of it, for the demand during the winter is not at all steady, and for the smaller grower to attempt to grow his supply would be hazardous and probably result in so much waste that he would lose in the end. But well grown pots of lily of the valley at Christmas will always be disposed of and there is more or less demand for the cut blooms at that time, and a small amount can be grown and a good profit obtained. Well selected cold-storage pips are necessary—it would not pay to attempt to grow the freshly imported stock—and a place in the greenhouse where the pipes can be enclosed and the pots kept dark with a temperature of 80° maintained. It is not necessary to build an enclosure of wood, for bagging or old carpeting may be hung under a bench and shelves provided that will enclose a space large enough to grow what pots may be required. Three weeks with cold storage pips in this kind of an enclosure will bring it in on time, but the inexperienced grower had better take a little longer and if the flowers come too early as soon as the bells form the pots can be moved into a cool house and they will be much improved; in fact, they should have a few days in the light to give the foliage proper color. When the pips are received the roots should be cut so that they can be placed in the shallow bulb pans, and then planted in clean sand, the tops of the pips being just even with sand with a dozen pips in a four-inch pan or 25 in a six-inch pan. Water with warm water to settle the sand about the pips, and if they stand above the sand when it settles fill in to the top of the pips, and then place the pans in the warm enclosure. Keep the sand wet and always water at a temperature as warm as the enclosure. When the flowers begin to show, care should be taken not to wet them when watering. As soon as the first bells begin to open place them in a partly shady location in a little cooler temperature and in a day or two they can be placed in full sunlight in a house with a temperature of 60 degrees. They will then harden up nicely and keep longer.

Poinsettias.

The plants are now forming their showy bracts and the worries of the grower are nearly at an end, for if they have come through to this time in good condition the disposal of the plants and flowers is all that remains. Until the highly colored leaves have attained their full size, however, the same equal temperature should be maintained and then if found advisable a little drop in the temperature can be allowed, but it is far better to do this gradually and not subject the plants to too sudden a variation. The plants should now be all neatly tied to a stake and, as before remarked, the neater the stake the better the appearance of the plant. It always has seemed strange to us that a grower will spend time and money in producing a crop and then spoil the appearance or the best sale of the plant by using a cheap ill-looking auxiliary in attempting to save a penny. These plants can be disposed of at a good remunerative price if properly handled, and nice-looking, painted stakes can be afforded. The plants grown for cut blooms should be kept tied erect that they may have straight stems. In the cutting and marketing of these blooms much disappointment and failure has been experienced by many growers, the bracts wilting very soon after cutting and where this occurs they never recover. Some growers place the stems on a red hot coal immediately after they are cut and thus seal the end. Others plunge the stems in hot water, and both are said successfully to prevent wilting. Another plan is to wrap the blooms in wet newspapers, similarly to the manner of handling cut adiantums, and then placing the stems in deep jars of water. It will be found necessary to adopt these or some other method to prevent the blooms from wilting or many will be lost.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—McIntyre Bros., proprietors of greenhouses on Hillsboro pike, are opening a downtown store. Dan McIntyre will have charge of the greenhouses and Will McIntyre of the store. Hugh and Tom McIntyre will oversee the work at the new greenhouses on Nolensville road.

COLUMBUS, O.—Samuel Graff, manager of the Art Floral Co., may continue in business despite a contract not to do so entered into with his brother before the latter's death. Judge Kinkead ruled that the death of William Graff terminated the contract, which was made when the two dissolved partnership. William taking over the business, Mrs. William Graff, the widow, continued the business and the executor of the estate brought suit against Samuel.

The Turkey in Table Decorations.

From the center of the chandelier over the table suspend two rustic bars with one below the two and connected with two vertical bars. To keep them together tie with stout wire and cover with birch bark. These should not be clumsy heavy looking bars but of frail design so that the bark will not make them look clumsy. Encircle the two upper bars in the center (allowing the ends for a distance to be uncovered) with autumn vines of brilliant hues. Or, if this is not available, use Southern smilax; or even asparagus vines will look well.

Use this same arrangement on the lower bar in the center, allowing the vines to extend below in different lengths. On this lower bar place a turkey ornament. The kind used as favors will do. On the table make an arrangement of these bars, placing them on a basket of maidenhair ferns. On the lower bar of either side place a turkey ornament. On the top of the upper bar place a small round ball of berries from which extend tiny garlands of berries to the top of the center piece of the chandelier, using about two garlands for each side.

On the center of the table place a plate glass mirror to reflect the decoration above, surrounding it with a garland of American Beauty roses. For favors the turkey ornament can be prettily used by making the opening at the top where candy is usually placed serve to arrange a few lily of the valley with a touch of the berries in the center. These favors will look well resting on a mat of maidenhair ferns.

Cretonne Parasol for Ballroom.

There is always the demand for something unusual and at the same time artistically effective which the customer of the present day looks for in a ballroom decoration. To produce this effect the modern art of the florist has a distinction for originality for each function has some new keynote to startle the anxious guests who expect something different where the florist is given carte blanche. For the center of the ballroom arrange a huge open parasol made of a cretonne of the Dresden design in pink and white, covering the handle with a wide pink satin sash ribbon and attaching it to the ceiling with an immense rosette of the same ribbon. Fill in the parasol with the very long stemmed Killarney roses—starting to tie some of smaller size at the middle of the handle and working downward, increasing the length and size of the roses so that at the end they will extend beyond the parasol edge. From each prong end of parasol place a garland daintily made of small pink roses, using bunches of maidenhair ferns in between the roses to give it a dainty touch. Gather up these garlands in a very loose manner at the middle of the parasol underneath, having the garlands sufficiently long so as to fall gracefully. Also tie a pink satin rosette where the garlands are attached.

At convenient intervals from this centerpiece suspend a half open parasol made of the same cretonne. Place in the pockets made by the half opening huge bunches of pink chrysanthemums. If but one half open parasol is used on either side of the center-piece, stretch garlands of Killarney roses in pink, connecting the three designs. The garlands should be heavy and full and the center of each garland bunched with a loosely arranged lot of roses, using profusely of maidenhair fern—the new variety if possible; or the new specimen of Pierson will look well. Of course the end parasols will have to be finished with pink satin sash ribbon on the order of the center arrangement. On the walls place wall pockets filled with pink chrysanthemums. Cover the wall pocket with maidenhair, allowing no basket to show. Extend garlands of asparagus vines from these pockets. From the corners of the room garlands of asparagus vines can be extended to the half open parasols. Bank tall palms in the corners with a touch of potted chrysanthemums arranged in a cluster in the center part in front of the palms, using ferns of smaller size to finish.

For the dinner table use a round basket of fair height and cover it with a fancy pink and white silk or satin in a Dresden design. Arrange in it Killarney roses in pink and white. Run strands of asparagus vines from this to the table and encircle the lower part of the basket with it, also allowing rich full strands to extend to the end of the table at each end and at the centers. For favors use the rose-shaped vases that look like candlestick holders and fill these with a single pink rose surrounded with lily of the valley. Arrange these favors on the asparagus vines in a circle around the centerpiece. Or, a little pyramid tree arranged in a Dresden china tub made of lily of the valley will look effective and should be tied with a tiny rosette of pink gauze ribbon. In this case no green foliage of valley should be used, but merely the smallest sprays of valley arranged in a regular tree pyramid, using a green satin covered stem for the center. The tiny tips of the maidenhair fern should be used as a green around the lower edge.

WITH THE GROWERS

Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.

Taking advantage of Chas. H. Totty's invitation to visit his greenhouses, the writer spent a pleasant time with Mr. Totty looking over his chrysanthemums and other stock. The chrysanthemums were past their best, particularly the large blooms, but there were some fine specimen flowers still on hand. The last of a fine lot of Wm. Turner were still to be seen. This is a large bold flower of the purest white and it seems to make almost as large a bloom on late propagated stock as on that propagated earlier. A fine lot of Harry E. Converse was found here also and there were quite a number of plants of the incurved red or bronze that won the Lord & Burnham special prize at the American Institute's show. Part of a bench of Mrs. Gilbert Drabble was just finishing up. This variety is a beautiful white bloom when well done but it must be classed in the list of "fancies," and to grow it well it needs generous treatment.

The crimson variety, Wm. Kleinhertz, looked exceedingly well as to color, but Mr. Totty says that the blooms were not quite up to last year's standard in size, which has been the case with a number of varieties, and he attributes this to the very warm and damp weather which prevailed during October and which still continued at the time of the writer's visit. The outside temperature then was 65 degrees with a cloudy sky, conditions not very conducive to the keeping qualities of chrysanthemum blooms. The quantity and number of varieties of chrysanthemums grown at this establishment is bewildering. All the best of the standard exhibition varieties are here, as well as a large number of novelties of American and foreign origin in their first and second years' trials, many of which fall short of our present day standard, though some of them are wonders at the exhibitions in England and other European countries.

One variety from England is particularly noticeable in this respect. The growth of stem and foliage is almost perfect and the size of the bloom is large enough to compete in the fastest company, but as it develops it opens up and shows an eye as big as a dollar. The single varieties are grown in large quantities, one house in particular being worth going a long way to see. Every shade of color and form imaginable was represented and it was the same with the pompon varieties. Carnations are also grown but mostly for stock purposes. A box of the new variety Northport, another of Salmon Queen, Salmon Sport of Enchantress, and still another of Bonfire were all in good shape but it is a little early to comment very much on the carnation. The main thing to say is that the plants were in fine shape.

The biggest attraction at this place for the next few months will be Mr. Totty's new rose Mrs. George Shawyer, which is a beautiful shade of pink carried on long stems with fine foliage. The flower is of large size and very fragrant. It will be worth while for every rose grower that can to visit and see for himself the growth of this newcomer. One of its good features to be noted is the way it gets away into blooming shoots again after a shoot has been cut. There was scarcely any blind wood to be seen, every break getting away with a good strong-flowering shoot.

Dreer's Riverton Establishment.

One of the features of the Riverview, N. J., branch of this noted establishment the last two months has been the immense display of dahlias. Acres and acres of these, as much as almost an acre being given to some one variety, were to be seen in full flower, none of the blooms being cut for sale. Among the notable varieties, all of which were highly recommended by J. D. Eisele, were: Nancy May, Mrs. Roosevelt, Isabella Hall, August Nonin, Hampton Court, Hildegard Deegan, Mrs. C. L. Seybold, Prairie Fire, Tawine, Mde. Vanden Doele, Princess Victor, Eventide, Miss Minnie McCullough. These are just a few that were mentioned as they appeared individually to stand out of the masses of color. It was worth a day's journey to see.

Hydrangeas are also found here in great numbers. There are over 100 great plants in twenty-two varieties of the new French hybrids, which Mr. Eisele says are hardy and will do very well in this country. He says they will be found in every garden in the near future. A wonderful importation of bay trees, the largest ever brought to this country at one time, are stored here. They are very fine and on account of the great quantity received are offered at record-breaking low prices. A house of very well berried ardisias were all sold. Phoenix canariensis and roebelenii, a large house of each, were also featured. Livingstonia rotundifolia is also grown in quantity. The variegated pineapple appears to grow here as easily as the commoner garden plants. There is a great demand for these for private greenhouses.

Every foot of the great Riverton ranges is filled with clean, healthy plants. There are acres of kentias and almost as much space devoted to cocos weddelliana. They have made a specialty of this graceful palm the past five years and can hardly keep up with the demand for the stock, particularly in large sizes, of which many fine specimens are seen. The sensation of the fern ranges is the new adiantum Glory of Moredrecht, commonly called the Glory fern. Many of the plants can scarcely be distinguished from Farleyense, but unlike this variety they are one of the easiest sorts to grow, and G. D. Clark, the fern specialist, says it will soon be one of the staple greens for use with cut flowers, as it is even easier to cultivate than adiantum croweanum. A house entirely filled with thousands of this variety in three-inch pots was a beautiful sight.

Ferns for the table are now grown in 2½-inch pots. Placed a little apart on the table they make fine bushy plants and their small ball of earth prevents of their transfer to the fernery without disturbing the roots as when taken from the larger pots. A new Asparagus Madagascarensis, a dwarf form which makes sets and ripens seed in red pods on the end of each spray is thought to be worth a trial as a Christmas novelty.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Stem and Foliage.

The importance of perfect stem and foliage in the commercial varieties is well established by the few kinds now considered suitable for this purpose. The writer in his address as president of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at St. Louis last year mentioned the need of a race for exhibitions with the foliage brought closer to the blooms, thus eliminating the long bare necks. In another publication appears the following reference to Thos. Pockett's work along this line: "Mr. Pockett is a most interesting man to talk with and after one has heard him speak of spending eight years to get the foliage up to the flower on a variety that conformed to his ideal in every other respect, one will realize the painstaking, plodding care of the hybridist working along year after year for a return that is miserably inadequate by comparison."

This simply demonstrates the fact that the eminent specialist has also given time and thought to this subject and whatever his achievements are he is certainly entitled to full credit, as it is a step in the right direction. "The Triumvirate," however, do not control all varieties possessing this special feature. President Roosevelt disseminated by us in 1906 was the first break we obtained and Artistic Queen, among the present year's novelties, was the second. The accompanying illustrations show three new candidates in the exhibition class that will be appreciated when their merits are generally known.

ELMER D. SMITH.

Some of the Newer Varieties.

The chrysanthemum is now the leading attraction at the park conservatories, cemeteries and other public and semi-public places. These are the places where the popular favorites of years gone by can be seen. They linger in the affections of the gardener but the commercial grower out of the necessity of keeping his stock up-to-date with commercial varieties has discarded them long ago. Most of the parks, etc., also keep their stock up-to-date with leading exhibition varieties as they are sent out each year, growing them up to the highest state of perfection, which is a grand feature and should be encouraged in every way. That they are popular with the public can easily be verified by a visit to any one of these places on a Sunday during the time the chrysanthemum display is on. There are a large number of varieties mostly among the imported exhibition kinds that are magnificent when well grown, but they require a long season of growth and lots of care to get them to their highest state of perfection, which means that they are out of the consideration of the average commercial grower and the task of keeping them in existence and to the front is left to the private gardener and those connected with the parks and the other institutions.

The single flowering varieties are another class that work in fine shape for decorative and display effect. These have made such a big advance during the past few years that it makes one stop to think a little of the reason why some enthusiasts have been so enraptured with them as to push their development to their present high state of perfection, and it can be readily seen that the end is not yet. Last season a great improvement could be seen along the line of color and petalage and when this season's record is written there is not any doubt as to the advancement that will have been made. The pure tones and contrasts of color of the large flowered varieties are most beautiful and there is not anything more pleasing than the graceful sprays of the small flowered varieties. The pompon varieties are also being grown and developed to a greater extent than was ever thought of a few years ago. Then a few varieties were grown that had been in existence a long time without any additions, but now we find many beautiful varieties coming out from many sources. They are very showy when grown dwarf in pots and they last in good condition for a long season.

A few notes of the newer varieties that are grand in every way and especially suitable for display purposes when well grown, may be useful to someone desirous of enlarging or improving his collection. These notes are of a collection that has been grown in 7 and 8-inch pots and given the closest attention.

Mrs. David Syme—A large white Japanese with broad petals curling and entwining, making a very beautiful bloom of purest color.

W. Woodmason—A striking crimson variety of great size, dwarf grown.

J. W. Molyneux—One of the very best bright crimson varieties that has come under our notice. A fine grower; large, reflexing Japanese flowers, showing off the color effect of the petals to the best advantage.

M. L. Rosseau—A striking lavender shaded with rose on the inside of the petals. This is not a new variety but there are few that can beat it in size when well done and it is such a bold, striking flower that it stands out in front among the best of them.

Gladys Blackburn—This is a favorite with us on account of its graceful reflexed form and fine habit of growth. It is best described as a straw colored or light buff. Although it is light in color, it is one of the most attractive and is a fine keeper.

NEW AMERICAN CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Showing Stem and Foliage.

Lenox—A very large Japanese incurved yellow of the largest size and fine keeping qualities. Comes into bloom early and lasts a long time. A very attractive variety.

Lady Edward Letchworth—A golden yellow of fine form with bold, curling petals. A fine variety.

Reginald Vallis—One of the largest deep rose pink with lots of life in the color. A very striking variety in a collection; fine semi-dwarf grower.

Mary Donnellan—In form, color and petalage the most beautiful of all yellow chrysanthemums. Under some conditions of growing the stem and foliage are not of the best. It is also inclined to be a tall grower but it is such a beautiful flower that it pays to give it a little extra care.

Adonis—A beautiful shade of pink. One of the largest, also inclined to be a tall grower, and comes a little late. A fine flower when well done.

Mrs. J. Wells—A deep purple. A very striking color as a contrast to the whites, yellows and pinks. A fine, large flower.

Pockett's Crimson—Not a very new variety but one of the very best of the crimson with reverse of gold petals. A great favorite.

Harry Converse—Chestnut crimson. A fine acquisition of 1911. A variety that is hard to beat in its color.

Naomah—A bold, pure white, incurved flower. The very best for all purposes, graceful in outline of petalage and of the largest size.

While glowing over the many qualities and attractions of the newer varieties we must not forget the old "stand-bys" that are of proved merit both for display and exhibition. Among those that have been with us for a long time and are still right up at the top are: F. S. Vallis, Glenview, Pockett's Surprise, Gen. Hutton, Geo. W. Pook, Mrs. Jos. Sinnott, T. Carrington, Mrs. Wm. Duckham, S. A. Naceur Bey, Frank Payne, Chas. H. Totty. Mrs. Chas. H. Totty, Leslie Morrison, Mrs. O. H. Kahn, Mrs. Wm. Knox, Lillian Coppard and O. H. Broomhead.

Palmer Exhibit Lauded.

The exhibit of W. J. Palmer & Son at the Buffalo flower show is the subject of a half-column article in the Courier of that city. The Palmer exhibit was distinguished as displaying the largest chrysanthemum and the smallest rose of the entire exhibition. The Courier says in part:

There is a pleasing absence of overlapping and confusion among the floral pieces. Each basket, bouquet and plant presents a picture to the visitor as sharply defined as a medallion. This effect is intensified also by the somber background of smilax constructed upon a rustic latticework. Suspended from this latticework are myriad baskets overflowing with twenty-four varieties of dainty pompon chrysanthemums.

In the very center of the display is a huge vase of gorgeous scarlet roses. This piece forms the apex of the floral display from which smaller and slenderer vases and reed baskets descend in a graduating scale. Some very bizarre hues are to be discovered among the roses, particularly in that of the lovely Irish Flame rose and the delicate Killarney rose. The rose which is constantly the center of the greatest admiration, however, is the charming little Mignon rose.

NEW ROSE MRS. CHARLES RUSSELL.

THE ROSE.

New Rose Mrs. Charles Russell.

That the advance reports of the new rose Mrs. Charles Russell, first notice and illustrated description of which appeared in THE AMERICAN FLORIST, in no way exaggerated the fine qualities of this beautiful flower is made evident by the word received from the exhibitions where it has been shown. The rose is the result of 12 years' propagation at the Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass. and was named for the wife of the treasurer of the corporation. It has taken the place of the American Beauty at the Waban Conservatories and many experts predict that it will eventually supersede that magnificent flower in popular favor.

The color is described as a carmine pink, gradually shading from a deep carmine to a pleasant pink as it unfolds. The growth is very strong and it throws long, strong shoots from the base of the plant, but these stems never produce a "bullhead" even in the coldest weather. The shoots are something like those of the American Beauty, being three or four feet in length, but unlike that variety there is always a flower at the top. The foliage is extremely glossy, another feature which many people like, although some may still prefer the American Beauty type in this respect. At the Waban greenhouses the plants are grown both on their own roots and grafted, with little difference in the result. The growth in the beds is stronger than in benches, but the flowers produced in both cases are practically the same.

In the twelve years the Mrs. Charles Russell was being produced four separate crosses with good sturdy stock were made, with probably as near a perfect rose as has yet been propagated as the result. It will be disseminated in 1913 and seems certain to leap to the front at once. It received the Massachusetts Horticultural Society's gold medal at the exhibition at Boston, November 7-10.

In a paper read before the Chicago Florists' Club recently, E. G. Hill, the well-known rose specialist of Richmond, Ind., said: "The writer had the pleasure of viewing 25 blooms of Mrs. Chas. Russell last Saturday in the flower shop of Fred Lemon which had been sent by the raiser, Alex. Montgomery, for inspection. The flowers were larger than American Beauty and were indeed magnificent in form and substance; they were on stems three feet long and held erect; the color dark rosy pink, or so it appeared to the writer—not unlike the color of good American Beauty. What impressed me most was its fine form and its splendid keeping qualities. I do not know the parentage of this rose, but it surely is close kin to American Beauty judging by its general make up. Mr. Montgomery is to be congratulated on producing such a fine rose."

Heating Dwelling.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

I have a No. 30 Wilks hot water boiler, which I used in the greenhouse (25x100 feet) and would like to put it in the dwelling. I want to have the boiler in the basement, which is 25x75 feet. I would like to place five radiators in the hall upstairs and two in the basement. Would you kindly advise me how to put it up and where to put the feed box? Is there any difference between steam and hot water radiators? I want to use 2-inch pipe for everything. M. W. Illinois.

While hot water radiators can be used for steam heating it is not feasible to use steam radiators for hot water unless the sections are connected at the upper end as well as at the lower. In the hot water radiators the air vents are at the top, while in the steam radiators they are about one-third of the way down from the top.

There is likely to be some trouble in securing a circulation in the radiators in the basement unless they can be raised several feet. If 2-inch wall coils are used, put in connecting pipe of the same size, and make sure that all pipes have a slight fall. The size and arrangement of the connecting pipes cannot be determined from the data given. In a general way we would suggest that the main flow pipe run through the basement a foot or so under the floor joists so as to pass under the inlets to the radiators in the hall. It should be about 3-inch at the start and can gradually be reduced to 2-inch. From this run feed pipes to each radiator.

The main return should run along the side of the flow pipe and should connect with the opposite end of each radiator. The main flow and return should have a slight rise from the boiler. The expansion tank can be connected at any convenient point. It should be located higher than the radiators and may be placed in the attic.

THE CARNATION.

Carnation Princess Dagmar.

The accompanying illustration shows the new seedling carnation Princess Dagmar which won a silver medal at the exhibition of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Boston, Mass., November 7-10. In color Princess Dagmar is a deep crimson, but not too dark. The flowers are borne on long, stiff stems and are large in size, averaging, according to their originators, Patten & Co., Tewksbury, Mass., from three and a half to four inches. The plants are strong growers and healthy and the calyx does not split easily. The flower is a cross between Genevieve, a large white seedling, and an unnamed crimson seedling.

Heating, Syringing, Fumigating.

The shortening days and cooler nights bring to mind the fact that some little artificial heat is needed in order to keep a good growing atmosphere in the carnation houses, it being not quite so much a matter of temperature only as of getting rid of superfluous moisture. Where the houses are allowed to go without any fire heat until actual frost occurs, there will always be found more or less of the flowers that are imperfect in the center, owing to the collection of moisture among the partly opened petals. And not only among the open flowers is such a condition likely to be noted, but some of the larger buds will also decay, and the only way to prevent this trouble is to air freely and to give heat enough to dry the atmosphere.

The damping of the flowers as noted above is also encouraged by too much syringing, or by syringing too late in the day. Of course, carnations are not in such active demand during the height of the chrysanthemum season, but, even so, one does not like to see good flowers spoiled for the lack of a little care. With this in view it is good practice to start the fires in reasonable season. For example, in the latitude of New York city it usually becomes necessary to begin firing in the carnation houses about October 15 to 20. This does not mean that the houses need closing down at that period, but rather that they may be aired more freely and to allow the moisture to escape from the foliage and flowers.

CARNATION PRINCESS DAGMAR.

Suitable days for syringing become less frequent as the season advances, and speaking in a general way it may be said that provided the syringing was thoroughly and frequently performed during the month of September, there will be much less need for doing it when the days get short. There may be some nests of red spider hidden away on the back of side benches or some such inaccessible places, and it is these that cause trouble later on, when there is little chance to dislodge them with the hose. The morning is the time to water and to syringe where it is needed, getting at it as early as possible after the flowers have been cut.

If the soil has been well prepared beforehand and sufficiently enriched at the time the benches were filled, there should not be any necessity for feeding yet, unless it is those plants that were planted indoors in May or June, the latter having naturally exhausted more of the plant food from the soil than the ones planted in from the field in July and August. But the matter of feeding is one in which experience counts and for which it is hard to give positive instructions, so much depending upon the original condition of the soil and also upon its consistency and general character.

Light soils lose some of the fertilizing elements much sooner than heavy or clayey soils, and in most cases will stand a greater amount of fertilizing material without souring. This is probably due to the physical condition of the soil in a great measure, the air, sun and water all having easier access to, and consequently freer action upon, the light soil than the heavy. The most essential fertilizing element for carnations is doubtless nitrogen, and the forms that are most convenient to the hand of the grower are contained in stable manure, sheep manure, dried blood and tankage, all of which have value, although the value varies according to the needs of the soil. Lime aids the grower by opening and sweetening the soil, and also by liberating some forms of plant food that otherwise might remain inert throughout the season. As the plants get more heavily rooted more care is required in stirring the surface of the soil, otherwise many roots may be disturbed, especially when the stirring up is done after a cloudy spell of weather, for at such periods the roots come closer to the surface.

Wiring and tying should be kept well in hand at this season, otherwise the shoots will not have proper support, and once allowed to grow crooked they never get thoroughly straightened out again. Tucking in will need frequent attention, for the shoots will catch under the wires and strings and soon be spoiled. Spraying or fumigating with nicotine solutions are in order each week, and while neither of these operations is an unmixed joy to the operator, yet there seems to be no other poison more effective against thrips and aphids. Fumigating bleaches some of the light pink varieties, while spraying spots some of the dark colored flowers. There may be some injury from either, though used carefully these preparations do little damage.

W. H. TAPLIN.

Crested Ferns.

The natural venation of ferns is arranged after a forking pattern, and in consequence one of the commonest forms of variation is that in which the pinnules pinnae or fronds fork at the tip, according to the Fern Bulletin. When, as is most frequently the case, the parts divide into two equal branches, the form is spoken of as a forked form, but when the forking is multiplied it is called crested. In the early numbers of the Bulletin thirty-seven different species are recorded as having forking fronds. So far as we are aware no attempt was made to give these forms scientific names, but with crested forms the case is somewhat different, since the division of the frond is more complicated and often results in specimens of considerable attractiveness. Of these latter, several have been given distinctive names. Since several of these names are not self-explanatory the whole list for the American ferns may be given. Among the nephrodiums a crested form of n. cristatum is known as f. pufferae, and a similar occurrence in n. marginale is f. Davenportii. Maxon gave the name cristata to a form of Dicksonia. Trelease named a crested form of Pellaea atropurea, f. cristata, and A. A. Eaton gave the name of ramosa to a partly forked, partly cristate form of Woodwardia radicans, or W. spinulosa as recent fern lists have it. Eaton also named polystichum munitum f. flabellatum, and the editor of the Bulletin has named a similar form of the ebony fern asplenium ebeneum f. furcatum. Our two commonest species, polypodium vulgare and athyrium filix-foemina, have of course, long had named crested forms. Clarence Lown, an early American student of ferns, gave the name cristatum to a form of p. vulgare, though according to Gilbert this is properly bifido-multifidum. A crested form, however, is known in England and bears the name of cristatum. Our very common Christmas fern (polystichum acrostichoides) appears never to have had named a crested variety, though several such forms have been reported. The only advantage to be gained by giving a name to these forms, is that it enables them to be handled in print more easily. Anyone having a taste for naming forms of this kind should have no trouble in securing material for the work if a careful search is made in the haunts of the ferns.

Ohio Horticultural Society.

FALL EXHIBITION.

The first exhibition of the Ohio Horticultural Society was held at Gray's Armory, Cleveland, November 14-16, and was an unqualified success in every respect. The total attendance was 9,500 and many of the visiting florists declared it was the best show they had ever attended. John Boddy, chairman of the society's exhibition committee, and Joseph Hossack, manager of the show, as well as the other officers and members of the society, worked with might and main to make the exhibition a success and their efforts were well repaid.

Among the exhibits of more than ordinary note were the A. N. Pierson, Inc., display of Milady roses, the Wa-

Store, Chicago and New York, three firsts, one third; J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland, one first, five seconds, three thirds.

Cut chrysanthemums—Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., six firsts, two seconds, one third; Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., six firsts, two seconds, one third; Poehlmann Bros. ANNUAL FALL SHOW.

The second annual fall show of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society opened November 7. The arrangements were excellent and much credit is due Anthon S. Petersen, manager of the show, and Oscar E. Addor, corresponding secretary of the society, for their untiring efforts in arranging the details. Much fine stock was shown and the exhibition was a decided success. Awards were made as follows:

ban Rose Conservatory's Mrs. Chas. Russell, Chas. H. Totty's Mrs. George Sawyer, and last but not least, a dining room table by Knoble Bros. which won first prize in its class. There were 374 entries in all. The J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland, won the Moninger silver cup for the largest entry list in the show, having nearly 80 entries.

The table by Knoble Bros. was especially meritorious and won much favorable comment. Yellow baby pompons were the principal decoration. The table was set complete with ten covers, gold chairs and lace cloth being used. The centerpiece was made in the shape of a tree four feet high. There were corsages for five ladies and boutonnieres for a like number of gentlemen. The corsage bouquets were tied on the chairs with yellow ribbons. Thirty bunches of the yellow pompons and 550 maidenhair ferns were used.

The exhibition as a whole was highly creditable and insures the success of the society's future efforts. There were 115 different classes of entries in all, 33 being of chrysanthemums, including plants and cut blooms. The carnation and rose displays were also very attractive and the decorative and foliage plants and table decorations attracted the people in crowds. The officers and members of the society feel greatly encouraged with the exhibition.

The awards in the chrysanthemum plant class were as follows: F. R. Williams Co., Cleveland, six firsts, two seconds, one third; Vaughan's Seed Chicago, six firsts, five seconds, one third; F. R. Williams, five firsts, four seconds, two thirds; E. G. Hill, five firsts, four seconds, one third; James A. Cockroft, Northport, N. CHRYSANTHEMUM EXHIBITION.

The annual chrysanthemum exhibition at Massachusetts Agricultural College was held on Saturday, October 26 and was the most successful ever given. The college exhibited specimen blooms of many of the new varieties, which were cut, labeled and staged by members of the senior class. The members of the junior class gave an exhibition of table decorations, using chrysanthemums for the flowers and autumn foliage, ferns, smilax and asparagus as accessories. There were sixteen tables entered in the competition and these were arranged with more taste and skill than any previously shown. Three prizes were given: a copy of Scott's Manual valued at $5 for first prize, cash prize of $3 for the second, and $2 for the third.

The first prize was awarded to Miss L. E. Bates of Kingston, the second to H. W. Levine of Roxbury and the third to Miss S. J. Strange of Marshfield. The first prize table was of Peter Pan chrysanthemums and smilax, the second a tall vase of four large Rose Pockett chrysanthemums set in a brass jardiniere filled with Peter Pan chrysanthemums and Whitman fern. The third prize table was a table of Miss Mary Pope chrysanthemums and smilax. Beside the varieties exhibited by the Agricultural College, A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn., sent several vases of chrysanthemums and a vase of Milady roses. C. H. Totty of Madison, N. J., sent a large number of single chrysanthemums and a vase of his new rose Mrs. Shawyer.

The past year has been the most successful in the history of the floricultural work at the college. Of the six men completing the work in June, two are with A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., one is in charge of a commercial range in Kingston, Mass., one is instructor in floriculture at the Pennsylvania State College, one with Thomas Galvin, Inc., Tremont Street Store, Boston, and one has returned to college for further work. A graduate of the department two years ago has just accepted an instructorship at Cornell. The present senior class numbers nine and the junior class sixteen. In addition, thirty-eight are taking the plant material course.

Mr. Bartholomew has not arranged definite plans for the future, although it is understood that he has a number of positions of responsibility that are open to him.

OBITUARY.

The Late Henry Hession.

It sometimes happens in this busy bustling world that the passing away of a man who has done notable work in his particular field of endeavor receives but scant mention. This frequently happens in relation to men who have never sought publicity but have been content to pursue their chosen path in life, dealing justly with their fellow men but never appearing in the role of flatterers or courtiers.

Such a man was Henry Hession, who died at his home in Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y., October 9, 1912. Mr. Hession was born in Norwalk, Conn., about fifty-three years ago, his parents removing to New York when he was but a child. At the age of eighteen years he began work as a florist and followed it with unremitting endeavors and marked success until seized with the illness that ended his life. At one time, talking with the writer, as a friend talks to friend, he said, not in a boastful manner but casually: "There is nothing in this business that I have not done. I have sold flowers from a basket, I was a wholesaler and a retailer, but I gave all up to be a grower."

When he died Mr. Hession left a fine range at Flatbush of about 150,000 square feet of glass, besides a fortune of no mean size. We believe it is about fifteen years since he began to attract the attention of the trade as a grower. For a time he grew a variety of stock, but after a few years devoted his attention exclusively to carnations, with which he had great success. With an eye single to results, he was a close student of methods and was only satisfied with what he believed was the best.

At one time when he demolished some houses that he considered out of date and erected on a larger and more modern scale, another florist said of him: "Mr. Hession is tearing down better greenhouses than I can afford to build." He founded a flourishing retail business on Madison avenue, New York, which has long been and is yet managed by his brother, Edward Hession. He is survived by a wife and three children, Henry Hession, the oldest son, being now the manager of the range.

A. F. F.

Walter S. Nichol.

Walter S. Nichol, aged 60, died at his home at Barrington, R. I., November 12, as a result of paralysis. He was born in England but came to America with his parents when five years old. He had been a resident of Barrington for twenty years where he was well known as a florist. He was also a prominent member of a number of agricultural and horticultural societies. He is survived by three daughters, his wife having preceded him in death six years ago.

George F. Ditzenberger.

George F. Ditzenberger died November 11 in a Hackensack, N. J., hospital where he had been taken from his home at Woodcliff Lake. Mr. Ditzenberger was proprietor of the Woodcliff Floral Co., and his death was the result of a fall in his greenhouse and subsequent meningitis. He was but thirty-two years of age and apparently had a long life of usefulness before him. He is survived by a wife and one daughter.

THANKSGIVING.

On account of Thanksgiving, next week's issue will go to press Tuesday, November 26, one day earlier than usual and advertisers and correspondents will therefore favor us by mailing their copy as early as possible.

THE Luther Burbank is the latest edition to the list of societies.

RENEW subscriptions promptly so that no copies of the paper may be missed.

"LET us floral your winter parties" is the way the Beaumont Floral Co., Beaumont, Texas, puts it in an attractive announcement of its chrysanthemum season.

EXAMINING COMMITTEES.

President Chas. H. Totty announces the committees to examine new chrysanthemums for the ensuing year as follows:

Boston — Wm. Nicholson (chairman), James Wheeler, Alex. Montgomery. Ship flowers to Boston Flower Exchange, C., Park street, care of chairman.

New York — Eugene Dailedouze (chairman), Wm. H. Duckham, A. Herrington. Ship flowers to New York Cut Flower Co., 55 Twenty-second street, care of chairman.

Philadelphia — A. B. Cartledge (chairman), John Westcott, S. S. Pennock. Ship flowers to A. B. Cartledge, 1514 Chestnut street.

Cincinnati — R. Witterstaetter (chairman), James Allen, Henry Schwartz. Ship flowers to chairman, Jabez Elliott Flower Market, care janitor.

Chicago—J. B. Deamud (chairman), D. A. Robertson, Peter Schilt. Ship flowers to J. B. Deamud, 160 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Shipments should be made to arrive by 2 p. m. on examination days to receive attention from the committees. Must be prepaid to destination and an entry fee of $2 should be forwarded to the secretary not later than Tuesday of the week they are to be examined, or it may accompany the blooms.

Seedlings and sports are both eligible to be shown before these committees, provided the raiser has given them two years' trial to determine their true character. Special attention is called to the rule that sports to receive a certificate must pass at least three of the five committees.

The committees will be in session to examine such exhibits as may be submitted on each Saturday during November, the dates of which will be November 23 and 30.

MARKET OVERSTOCKED.

With the chrysanthemums at their height, fuller crops of roses and carnations, quantities of violets and a full supply of other flowers, the market the past week was considerably overstocked. With a glutted market and a somewhat lighter demand prices receded considerably, but the business conditions were considered favorable for the season by men who are in the thick of things most of the time. American Beauties which for a time have sold up close were far more plentiful and really fine stock a trifle full was offered at reduced prices. All other roses with the exception of Mrs. Taft, Ward and Sunset were ahead of the demand. The entire stock of Mrs. Taft was captured by one retail house for a time, whether to get stock or make a "run" with it is not known. Carnations are selling better. The quality leaves nothing to be desired except possibly a little longer stem. As last season the Wards are leaders with white and pink Enchantress and Delight a good second. Cattleyas command top prices. There are plenty of good gardenias, which are in fair demand. Violets are plentiful and of excellent quality, both single and double. They seem to be able to hold themselves in popular favor with the cattleya and gardenia as a corsage flower. The past week might be christened Bonnaffon week, as this variety is now at its height and it was seen in quantity everywhere and had a field day Saturday when thousands were sold to be worn at the Princeton-Yale football game. Quantities of violets were also sold to the Yale contingent.

NOTES.

The trade is not done talking about the exhibition of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. The committee on decorations held a meeting last week to wind up the business and all felt that the fine results obtained warranted the effort it had cost them in money and time. They promise to make redoubled efforts for next season.

The publicity committee of the Florists' Club held an adjourned meeting last Thursday afternoon and considerable progress was made. Other meetings will be held and a definite plan of action will be presented at the next meeting of the club.

Red ruscas, red sago palms, red cape flowers, ready for instant shipment for the early Christmas orders, are the features at M. Rice & Co.'s busy supply house. Every department is working overtime to keep up with the orders.

The H. A. Dreer Co. is growing its table ferns in 2½-inch pots and giving them room to develop. The small ball of earth is much better for filling dishes than that from a three-inch pot.

Something very choice in violets was seen at the Berger Bros. central market, the past week. Select Chadwick chrysanthemums were also a feature.

The American Beauty rose is the leader with the Leo. Niessen Co. They handle them in quantity and of a quality unsurpassed.

The first good mignonette of the season was seen last week. It is a welcome addition to the market's assortment.

The public free chrysanthemum exhibition in Fairmount park, where quantities of plants are massed, is immensely popular with the public and is visited by thousands during the week and tens of thousands on Sundays, when the guards find it very difficult to handle the huge crowds. Xavier Schmidt is to be complimented on the general excellence of the plants and their grouping.

Godfrey Aschmann is having a great run on ferns and araucarias. Now that the election is over he finds that his customers appear to have no fear for the future and are ordering liberally for the holiday trade.

The Robert Craig Co. is already beginning to set aside stock of cyclamen for future delivery. The quality of the plants is very fine. Begonias and poinsettias are also a feature.

Pappas, at his Broad street station stands, had a fine day with chrysanthemums and violets last Saturday on account of the Princeton-Yale football game.

Ed Reid filled several large out-of-town orders the past week. American Beauty roses and high grade chrysanthemums are now features.

AMERICAN BEAUTY ROSES STILL SCARCE.

American Beauty roses are having a very good call but the supply is short and many of the dealers are finding it impossible to fill all their orders. The quality of the stock now arriving in this market is fine and one prominent grower states that he has never before seen this flower so good at this season of the year as it is at present. The other roses that are now coming in are also of good quality but the demand for them is none too brisk. Killarney and White Killarney are fine and Richmond has assumed mid-winter form. Mrs. Aaron Ward, Sunburst and Prince De Bulgarie are in brisk demand and are sold immediately upon arrival. Carnations have had a good call, with the better grades selling at good prices. Chrysanthemums are in large supply everywhere and have been sold in large lots at low prices during the past week. W. H. Chadwick, Golden Chadwick, Timothy Eaton, Yellow Eaton, Major Bonaffon, White Bonaffon, Dr. Enguehard, Nagoya and Golden Eagle are seen in the market now besides many other varieties. Pompons and anemones are also to be had in large quantities. Violets are a little better in quality. Sweet peas are in larger supply and Paper White narcissi are plentiful. Stevia is offered freely and is used in large quantities. Mignonette and snapdragons in white and pink are staple goods. Home-grown gardenias are in larger supply but orchids are none too plentiful. Business picked up considerably the latter part of last week and Saturday was a fairly good day. The opening of the week found trade still good with the supply of chrysanthemums much smaller. Golden Wedding is now coming in and chrysanthemums in general are selling much better.

The weather is very favorable now and trade should show a great increase. New galax is arriving and the supply of greens is plentiful.

NOTES.

The Cook County Florists' Association will give its first dance and reception at the Bush Temple hall on Wednesday evening, December 4. Its bowling league has entered three two-men teams and six individuals in the city tournament which opens at Bensinger's West Randolph street alleys on November 30. A meeting of the association will be held at the Tavern, West Washington street, on November 21.

Pochlmann Bros. Co. has been winning a large number of prizes at the fall shows and the quality of the stock that it will offer its customers for Thanksgiving will be the same as that which occupied the exhibition tables. The supply department has made up six different assortments of goods for the retail store and a perforated circular describing each lot is now being mailed to the trade.

Geo. Weinhoeber says that the Fleischmann Floral Co. had three large weddings in Memphis, Tenn., this week that called for a large supply of stock. Besides the table flowers the orders consisted of 50 corsages of orchids and violets.

Tim Matchen says that business is pretty good at Peter Reinberg's store and that both the local and shipping trade is showing a great improvement.

A visit to Wietor Bros.' large range of greenhouses on Devon avenue on November 17 found the stock in all the houses in excellent condition and promising large cuts for the holidays. Very few of the chrysanthemums have been cut but the majority of them, especially Lynwood Hall, Dr. Enguehard, Maud Dean, Golden Eagle and several other late varieties will be ready for Thanksgiving. The carnations are in splendid shape and while the cut will be good for next week the majority will not be ready until the holidays when they will be most needed. The same can be said of the roses, only one can not speak too highly of the quality for it will be far better than last Christmas when it was exceptionally fine. Killarney, White Killarney, Richmond, Mrs. Jardine, My Maryland and Sunburst are certainly at their best, but the American Beauties are in magnificent condition. One could not help but agree with N. J. Wietor as he escorts one through the houses that big cuts are due for the holidays, for the plants are already setting buds and average about four to each plant. It seems that Mr. Wietor knows where every bud is for he can show them to you at a glance, and unless some unforeseen accident occurs this firm will have the largest supply of stock for the holidays that it has ever had in its history. More could be said of the stock in Wietor Bros.' greenhouses but a visit to their establishment now would give one a far better idea of the splendid shape that the stock is in than a pen could describe. Last year when this establishment was visited, it was a favorite trotter that we enjoyed a ride behind, but this year it was N. J.'s splendid new Haynes touring car. Henry Wietor and H. E. Griffin were also present on our visit, which was indeed a pleasant one.

The Chicago Carnation Co. won 12 prizes out of 13 entries at the flower show at Cleveland last week when its new scarlet carnation, "The Herald," again won first prize over all reds in the 100 class. This carnation is said to be a wonder and nearly all of the florists who have seen it growing have placed their orders for cuttings for January 1 delivery.

Bassett & Washburn are featuring an excellent grade of Timothy Eaton and Yellow Eaton chrysanthemums at their store at present. The stock is certainly fine and C. L. Washburn says that a great many people visited his firm's establishment at Hinsdale on November 17 to admire the stock.

J. A. Budlong is cutting from a fine crop of American Beauty roses and the lily of the valley also seems to hold up well. This firm seems to be having great success in growing Prince De Bulgarie for the roses seen at the store now are unusually fine.

Peter Reinberg and Frank Evert have returned from a hunting trip in Dupont with the report that quail are not quite as plentiful there as they used to be. Mr. Reinberg says that his party had a good time and got their share of game.

The J. B. Deamud Co. expects to have a large supply of chrysanthemums for Thanksgiving, for one of its growers writes that his Major Bonaffon, White Bonaffon, Timothy Eaton, Yellow Eaton and Dr. Enguehard will be ready for cutting then.

Percy Jones' help in the cut flower department is busy shipping Major Bonaffon and White Bonaffon chrysanthemums while the help in the supply department is making up ruscus wreaths for the holiday trade.

The E. C. Amling Co. is now showing fine Golden Wedding chrysanthemums.

Home Grown Gardenias, $3.00 to $4.00 per 100.

JOHN KRUCHTEN,

162 N. WABASH AVE.

L. D. Phone Central 6269.

CHICAGO, ILL.

At John Kruchten's store home-grown gardenias are having a good call and the proprietor states that the supply is much larger at present than it has been for some time. This flower is becoming popular especially with the local trade and it is very seldom that there is a surplus of home-grown stock.

Thos. B. Wilson, foreman for A. B. Dick under Jack Tiplady at Lake Forest, has accepted a position as head gardener for A. Monell of Tuxedo Park, N. Y. Mr. Wilson was at one time with Vaughan's Seed Store and later with A. Henderson & Co.

S. Klemm of Hammond, Ind., who recently underwent an operation in a local hospital for gallstones, is able to be about again. He called on his friend, W. E. Lynch of A. L. Vaughan & Co.'s store last week when he seemed to be in great spirits.

Frank Kral had a large decoration at the Auditorium last week when Father Kolbeck of one of the local parishes celebrated his silver jubilee. The tables were neatly arranged with carnations and chrysanthemums in Mr. Kral's artistic style.

Zech & Mann's single violets are fine and John Zech says that they are the best that his firm has had all season. The double violets are also good and the stock in general seems to be up to its usual high quality.

A. L. Vaughan & Co.'s shipments of cut flowers now include a large supply of fancy sweet peas which are having a good sale. Wm. Timme is again in the employ of this firm.

S. Selgman, representing Wertheimer Brothers, New York, is in the city again this week. Some of "Sprinkleproof Sam's" friends are noticing that his visits are now becoming more frequent.

E. E. Pieser says trade at Kennicott Bros. Co.'s store is much better this week. Miller Bros. are shipping some good chrysanthemums in to this house and Major Bonaffon seems to predominate.

J. F. Kidwell says that the stock sells up well at the Chicago Flower Growers' Association's store and that business is as good as can be expected. Mr. Kidwell is troubled with eczema.

Hoerber Bros.' roses will be in fine crop for Thanksgiving, especially Killarney and White Killarney. This firm has had a good call for their chrysanthemums all this week.

A. T. Pyfer, E. F. Kurowski, H. E. Philpott, Adolph Poehlmann and Dick Solms attended the flower show given by the Ohio Horticultural Society at Cleveland last week.

L. Hoeckner is selling clean newspapers for shipping boxes as a side line and has nearly every local wholesaler on his list as a customer.

George Reinberg has been showing some fine Nagoya chrysanthemums all this week in addition to fancy American Beauty roses.

Nick Spireopolis, Peter Propps and James Moller have opened another store in the basement at 112 South Wabash avenue.

Martin Reukauf, with H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., is in town this week calling on the trade.

At Kyle & Foerster's store the stock is arriving in fine shape with chrysanthemums the chief offering.

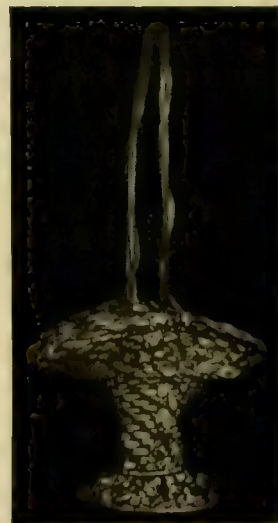

Irving Freedman, of the Lubliner & Trinz force, went to the hospital for a second operation this week.

The A. L. Randall Co.'s salesmen are sending in some fine orders for supplies for the holiday trade.

Joe Beaver has the decorations for the land show which opens at the Coliseum on November 23.

John Stuppy, with the Stuppy Floral Co. of St. Joseph, Mo., was a welcome visitor here this week.

Of Stock for Thanksgiving.

Large supply of Beauties, Roses, Carnations, Valley, Single and Double Violets, Chrysanthemums, Pompons, Leucothoe and Greens of all kinds. We treat our customers right and take the same care with a small order as we do with a large one. We are filling them both with stock of fine quality and the care taken in packing and shipping at just the right time insures its safe arrival and in the best possible condition. Repeat orders prove this, and while we are anxious to obtain new customers, the approval of our old ones is even more appreciated. We give personal attention to all orders.

Gust. Rusch & Co. report business fine both in the city and shipping trade. This firm has added several new growers to its list, which gives it a better opportunity to fill orders for its rapidly increasing business.

The Edlefsen-Leidiger Co. reports business good. This firm is a heavy chrysanthemum buyer and is handling an excellent line of blooming plants.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. is cutting some fine pompon chrysanthemums which find ready sale. They are also cutting good Killarney roses.

C. Dalwig, of the Dalwig Seed Co., says the bulb trade was excellent and this was due to the fine weather we have been having. G. R.

St. Louis.

CHRYSANTHEMUM PRICES LOW.

Chrysanthemums have been very abundant and prices very low. American Beauty roses are in fair supply but not a glut. Violets are improving; a few sweet peas are in. Stevia has made its appearance; ruscus and boxwood are seen everywhere. Smilax, galax, adiantum and all greens are in demand. Lily of the valley is fine. There is an over supply of Boston ferns in four to six inch pots, which even the department stores cannot unload.

NOTES.

Foster, the Florist, Kings Highway and Delmar Avenue, has a very fine store. The floor space is immense. The entire west window has a large tank designed and built by Fred Foster, Jr., with electric illumination and with all varieties of goldfish. Another special window display of novelties and another with a fine display of plants are to be seen here. Miss Hattie Kubisch is saleslady and is also a very fine designer.

The St. Louis Florists' Club met Thursday, twenty-five members being present; F. H. Weber in the chair. Trustees were appointed to arrange for a reception to Richard Vincent, Jr. Resolutions were ordered on the death of Charles E. Schoenle. Fred Alves and K. Hiemens were elected. Proposed for membership: F. X. Gorly, Ad. Janeicke, Al N. Windler and O. H. Sanders.

The park department has formed a club called the Park Department Employees' Organization. Park employees only are eligible. Dwight F. Davis, park commissioner, started the club. The following officers were elected: Frank Miller, president; Rudolph Hinternesche, vice-president and secretary; Edward Boland, treasurer; John Mortiz, sergeant at arms.

James E. Jones, of the Advance Co., Richmond, Ind., was a visitor. He was on his way to visit his parents in Oklahoma. Mr. Jones was very enthusiastic over business prospects for the ensuing year. He spoke very highly of E. G. Hill's carnations, saying they were the finest crop he had ever seen.

Anton Bros., Clayton, Mo., are bringing in fine white and other varieties of carnations. Fred Anton is very enthusiastic over the outlook. The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. handles his stock.

H. C. Irish, formerly of Shaw's Gardens, has been appointed a member of the State Board of Horticulture. Professor Irish is a member of the American Pomological Society.

Henry Shaw's banquet will take place Thursday, December 12. Richard Vincent, Jr., president of the S. A. F., will attend after his reception at the club meeting.

Geo. H. Angermueller is receiving daily some of the finest Easter lilies seen in this market; also smilax as fine as can be seen anywhere.

Hugo Grop and Charlie and Henry Myer are bringing in extra fine California violets to the Wm. G. Smith Wholesale Floral Co.

Ed. Loyet, Kings Highway and Suburban tracks, is a hustler and has a good stand. Ed. is a daily visitor to the market.

C. A. Kuehn has the finest lily of the valley and adiantum that come into this market. His supply is home grown.

Julius Koenig, city forester, is busy making arrangements for spraying trees and eradicating all insects.

U S Budlong's E Blue Ribbon Valley.

The chrysanthemum show has been going on all week at Shaw's Gardens, over 500 varieties being shown.

F. H. Weber has a splendid show of plants and always a fine stock of cut flowers of finest quality.

Grimm & Gorly had a special sale of fine chrysanthemums last Saturday at 10 cents, $1 per dozen.

Miss Matilda Waldmann has done an immense trade in chrysanthemums at popular prices.

The Kings Highway Floral Co. has a very beautiful store. Miss Hale is the manager.

The Retail Association meets Monday night at the Washington Hotel.

Alex. Siegel has been giving special sales on chrysanthemums.

WEEK IS POOR.

Last week Monday, Friday and Saturday were the only bright spots in the market. Even then, the best of prices were not realized except in a very few instances. The days between the opening and close were so dull that they more than offset the glamour of the few really bright days. Chrysanthemums were hit the hardest by the slump. In order to clean them up in any quantity at all it was necessary to sacrifice them. In the rose line American Beauties suffered the most. For several days they did not sell at all. The tea roses moved out consistently. Carnations, because of the short supply, have been cleaning up fairly well. Neither Easter lilies nor callas enjoyed any too active a call. The same is true of orchids and valley. Violets sold well and sweet peas cleaned up absolutely as fast as they came in. Other stock offered includes stevia and narcissi.

CLUB MEETING.

The club meeting November 11 was well attended. After the close of the business session a committee consisting of A. C. Heckman, Jr., and Ed. Schumann held sway. Supper was served and the hearty way in which the members present pitched into the provisions showed that they appreciated the committee's work. Then under the direction of Frank Volz and Nick Weber, melody reigned for the balance of the evening. The same programme will be repeated at the next meeting of the society, December 2. President Gus Adrian appointed a committee consisting of Chas. H. Hoffmeister, A. C. Heckman, Jr., and Ray Murphy to arrange for a banquet. They have chosen the Bennet House and the affair will take place at that hostelry on the night of December 9 at 8 p. m. Tickets can be obtained from any of the committeemen or from any whole-

STOCK STILL SCARCE.

The market is still rather tight. Carnations are keeping out of sight, and other flowers, while not so scarce, are cleaned up daily. There has been an over supply of pompon chrysanthemums, however, this year, a great many of them finding no sale. Chrysanthemums still continue to sell well and the quality is fine.

NOTES.

The R. J. Daschbach Co. and H. C. Buechler, of Braddock, have combined as one firm. Both stores will be continued. Mr. Daschbach states he is also considering the advisability of uniting with one or two other stores, as he says co-operation has competition beat a mile.

W. C. Drews of Braddock, while hunting the last week, ran across such fine log moss that he wired his store to forward him a lot of sacks, and intends gathering it for his large Christmas trade.

Geo. McCallum, although still limping, has tackled his old job again. This firm is receiving quantities of special American Beauties.

L. I. Neff states that he is having good success with his artificial door bunches among the undertakers.

M. Koval, who recently started a flower store on Frankstown avenue, has secured Mike Steiner as manager.

The Ludwig Floral Co. finds its truck to be a greater convenience than anticipated.

H. B. Ackerman states that the Penn avenue store of the Ziegler Co. is doing fine.

BUSINESS INCREASING.

Business has been increasing in volume the last week with plenty of stock to meet all demands. Chrysanthemums are at their best, and many are being disposed of. Several receptions and weddings have called for large numbers recently. Roses and carnations are fine with no shortage in either line. Violets, callas, paper white narcissi and lilies are getting plentiful.

CLUB MEETING.

The Tri-City Florists' Club met at Central Park Thursday, November 14, as the guests of Superintendent C. O. E. Boehm and wife with nearly every member present. An inspection of the chrysanthemums on exhibition was made and many of the newer varieties noted. Two of the large show houses were filled with these flowers. The pompons and singles are exceptionally fine. One house is filled with cyclamen in 7, 8, 9 and 10-inch pots, with the foliage completely hiding the pot and with from 10 to 50 blooms even now. Another house is filled with Begonia Glory de Lorraine and like the cyclamen each and every one is a fine plant. A house of crotons and poinsettias looks well. Some 9,000 geraniums are already potted up as are thousands of other bedding plants. After the trip around the place supper was served. It is needless to say the boys all voted Mrs. Boehm the best cook ever. At the meeting which followed a new member was elected. A committee composed of C. O. E. Boehm, John Temple and Henry Pauli was appointed to arrange a series of topics and a programme for the next year. A publicity committee also was appointed consisting of the following members: Theo. Ewoldt, Davenport, chairman; Wm. Goos, Bettendorf, Iowa; Henry Meyers, Rock Island, Ill.; — Sorensen, Moline, Ill. Wm. Goos invited the club to meet with him December 12 and the invitation was accepted. The club then adjourned after a vote of thanks were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Boehm and their two daughters for their hospitality.

Theo. Ewoldt, who suffered from two broken ribs and a badly bruised body received in a runaway about three weeks ago, is again in the harness and able to look after his business.

Everything was hustle and bustle show week. Stock of all kinds has been fairly plentiful and of good quality. Business shows a decided improvement.

TRADE ACTIVE.

Bright days have brought the people out in throngs and heavy sales are reported. There is plenty of stock for every one. Thousands of chrysanthemums are being cut and find a ready sale. Carnations run about the same as usual for this time of the year. Roses are good and command fair prices. Sweet peas are coming in with nice stems and sell well.

NOTES.

H. J. Hoffman lost a large number of chrysanthemums during the last cold snap because his grower did not have the heating apparatus in repair.

C. E. Stone, while attending to his greenhouse duties, fell and broke several ribs last week. He is now able to walk about the house.

Wm. Brust, the popular West Side florist, expects to build a conservatory and also enlarge his store next spring.

The Art Floral Co. had one of the finest window displays that has been staged in this city.

CHRYSANTHEMUM GLUT.

The warm weather that prevailed throughout all the early part of the past week sent an enormous stock of chrysanthemums to market, so many in fact that the market was literally glutted with them. At the same time roses and carnations were not standing still, and so it may readily be seen that there was a chance to get flowers at a low price. Again, some of the leading retailers acknowledge that the demand was far below what it should have been at this season of the year. Doubtless the springlike weather also entered into the falling off in retail trade as it made automobiling and other forms of outdoor amusement agreeable and kept many people away from their city homes. While a great amount of stock has been handled, much of it may be said to have been sacrificed. It has all been trying to the nerves of the wholesalers as it has been impossible to keep cleaned up. About the only encouraging feature in the whole business is that it seems impossible that present conditions can long continue and Thanksgiving should pretty well clean up the chrysanthemum crop, for it is the late varieties that are now pouring in. The way the retailers have been able to keep their iceboxes and show-windows filled up should give flowers "publicity" if that is what is needed. Chrysanthemums in pots have also been a noteworthy feature. Some wholesale stores that had room have been handling them; in other cases they have been delivered direct from the greenhouse to retailer. The carnations too, have been given a great start by the warm weather and are coming in fast. American Beauty roses are somewhat off crop, but there is no scarcity of tea roses. Violets, at this season of the year, should be moving freely, but the dealer who can clean them up at 40 or 50 cents a hundred feels fortunate.

New York, November 18.—There is a fair movement in stock today, arrivals being somewhat lighter. The social season opens this week and it is hoped that it may improve conditions. The weather is much colder, which should somewhat reduce the supply. The opening of the Horse Show, which occurred November 16, made some business, though little was expected of it. There have been some dinners that called for decorations and there will be more this week. A walk through the Plaza and other leading hotels on November 17 showed elaborate decorations with large chrysanthemums and autumn foliage. Myer, the Plaza florist, has been very busy decorating and the effect is fine.

NOTES.

One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street is one of the great cross-town thoroughfares and has many good retail stores, including flower shops. Of these Tryforos Brothers may be mentioned. The business was founded by James Tryforos over twenty years ago. Later he took his brother as a partner and they do a good business.

Calling recently on Ed. Jansen, famous for novelties in flower baskets, we found him serene and happy. He has turned the business over to his sons but from force of habit drops in occasionally. When he gets tired of New York he takes a trip to Europe. He retains an office at 110 West Eighteenth street.

John Orth, who for many years has been employed by Anton Schultheis, College Point, died November 12, aged 82 years. He was a native of Germany. Many fine flowers were seen at his funeral from Mr. Schultheis and family and from the firm's employees.

Leo Klein, who succeeded the Misses Horn and Hess in the retail trade at 767 Lexington avenue, has now a fine store and in anticipation of the opening of the horse show has had a window decoration in which a miniature horse was an attraction.

A feature on the floor of the New York Cut Flower Co.'s store is the fine lily of the valley being handled by Frederic C. Scheerer. It is grown at the Carl Jurgens range, Newport, R. I., which Mr. Scheerer represents on this market.

The plant growers of this vicinity are well prepared to supply the fall and winter trade. Calling recently on Peter Wagner of Flatbush, we found a great stock of fine ferns, poinsettias, dracaenas, and a variety of other good plants.

Dailledouze Bros. are offering rooted cuttings of their Enchantress Supreme carnations for dissemination. These plants make a fine display in their greenhouses and there can be no doubt that this introduction will please the trade.

Henry M. Robinson, president of the Boston and New York company which bears his name, spent several days here last week. He is enthusiastic over the new rose Mrs. Chas. Russell of which his firm is selling blooms.

Another of the industrious retailers of Madison avenue is A. Meyer, who is located at 1064, near Twenty-first street. He has a good store and does a nice business.

George Bradshaw of Wm. Kessler's plant store has recently been doing good work at window decorating with plants. George is an old hand at the business.

M. A. Bowe arranged an elaborate dinner decoration on November 14 at the home of James B. Brady, sometimes nicknamed "Diamond Jim" Brady.

Fred Schuman of the Coogan Building has formed a partnership in the wholesale business with Harry Peters, the firm name being Schuman & Peters.

Ralph Armstrong's new store at Madison avenue and Forty-seventh street is now very handsome and he is well pleased with the outlook.

CLUB MEETING.

One of the most satisfactory meetings held by the Albany Florists' Club in many months was that of the evening of November 5, the occasion being ladies' night. Upon the arrival of the members, their wives and friends, they found the room decorated with a variety of the season's popular chrysanthemums and roses. In the center of the room was a long table on which had been staged by Roman J. Irwin of New York a choice exhibit sent by A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn. In the vases were specimens of 13 of Pierson's chrysanthemums, as follows: August Dasse, Nontero, Mrs. Charles Razer, Roman Gold, Merry Jane, Minta, Fairy Queen, Mikado, Mary Richardson, Morwenna, Lyndhurst, Mersthan Tints, and Ceddie Mason. In the front center of the group was a large vase containing 15 specimens of the new rose Milady, which is to be disseminated in the spring of 1913. The rose is of a scarlet color, has long stems, clean foliage, and attracted favorable comment. W. W. Hannell of Watervliet, Frederick Goldring, Slingerland, Fred A. Danker and others had good exhibits of new varieties of chrysanthemums, carnations and roses. Mrs. John T. D. Blackburn, chairman of the children's gardens committee of the Albany Woman's club, gave a short and interesting address on the work done by her committee last summer in promoting the interest of the school children in the growing of plants and flowers. She said that 466 children's gardens had been planted. Two hundred of them were visited by the club committee in season, and prizes were awarded to 66. She said the Woman's club would advocate the sale next season of one-cent packages of seed and in addition would encourage the planting of bulbs. Miss Grace Cogswell, chairman of the home gardens committee of the Woman's club, gave an interesting account of what she had observed in Cleveland, O., among the children's gardens. The entertainment committee provided music, recitations, and the meeting was most enjoyable.

NOTES.

The annual chrysanthemum show in the lake house, Washington Park, was opened, November 7, to be continued for two weeks. The city has in the park greenhouses about 700 plants in over 400 varieties available for the exhibition. This year nearly 40 new varieties will be displayed for the first time in Albany. The show attracts a considerable number of flower lovers from this section.

Edward Welch, son of P. Welch of Boston, treasurer of the Albany Cut Flower Exchange, has gone on the road for the Exchange and is canvassing the trade between Albany and Syracuse with success. Edward Welch for a time was in the employ of the Lakeview Rose Gardens, Jamestown, N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y.

CHRISTMAS ORDERS BEGIN.

Though there were dull days in the middle of last week its beginning and ending were both good in comparison with some days that had gone before. Orders are beginning to be placed for Christmas wreaths and greens. The supply houses report a very busy season. Killarney, Mrs. Taft, Melody and Maryland are all in fine shape. American Beauties are rich in color and have good stems. Lilies and callas are to be had, but the demand is not great for either. Carnations are good and are cleaned up about every day. Green stuff is very plentiful. Violets still sell well and continue to improve. Chrysanthemums are at their best and sell very readily. Lily of the valley is as good as can be found anywhere. Orchids are somewhat scarce.

NOTES.

Fred Brown of Buffalo will be the speaker at the Rochester Florists' Association's next meeting. His address will be on "Designing and Decorating." Mr. Brown gave this same address in Chicago last year and was well received.

Felix Alberts, with Henry P. Neun, had a most effective window this week consisting of a large heavy mound of lavender chrysanthemums and Boston ferns surrounded by a mass of oak leaves as a background.

A special meeting of the Rochester Florists' Association was held November 13. The total receipts of the Flower Show amounted to $4,500 and the total expenditure $4,400.

A meeting of the Ladies' Florists' Association was held at the home of Mrs. William L. Keller November 14. Three new members were added, making a total of about 20.

The annual display of chrysanthemums at the Highland Park Conservatory opened on Wednesday, November 13, to last for about three weeks.

HOLD SATURDAY SALES.

Ideal fall weather and good supply of stock help to keep local florists in good humor. The debutante has had full swing the past two weeks, which gave the trade about all they could manage. Several weddings have been on the calendar, which has made November an unusually busy month. Chrysanthemums are in abundance and prices range from $2.00 upward a dozen, except on Saturday when all have adopted the sale plan. One florist is having a special price from about 4 p. m. until all is sold. This gives everybody an opportunity to have a bunch for the table Sunday.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

The Buffalo Florists' Club, undaunted by the financial loss of two years ago, attempted another show this year. To say that it excelled the last is putting it mildly. Like the operations of the most eminent surgeons it was "successful" but from the financial standpoint the "results were fatal." W. J. Palmer & Son, S. A. Anderson, J. J. Albright (through—Sandiford, his gardener), North, South and Humboldt parks, the Wm. Scott Co. and practically all the florists sent the best they had, and with the artistic and original Italian Garden planned by McClure & Son, gave us the best show ever produced in this city. South Park had their show seven miles from the city, average carfare 20 cents, no admission, one thousand people journeyed out to see it. Humboldt Park had a large crowd. There were no original table decorations, no showing of roses, no Japanese gardens, no Milady roses, no Irish Fire Flame, no suggestion of the possibilities of the use of flowers: just the blooms in perfection but there was no admission, and the crowd went. Buffalo florists are very much discouraged.

Peter Crowe of Utica, N. Y., was a visitor as was also Edward Mepsted of Ottawa on a trip after a serious illness. Miss Julia Scrimm of the same firm was also in Buffalo. Other visitors were Roman J. Irwin and C. B. Knickman, both of New York.

BISON.

Washington.

The Washington Florists Exchange has moved back to the remodeled building at 1214 H street. A. Schnell, the manager, says that he will be better able to handle the large consignments of plants and cut flowers than ever. He extends an invitation to the trade to inspect his new home.

G. H. Cooke will act as one of the judges at the Maryland State Horticultural Society exhibition to be held at the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, November 19-23. The Bowling Club will visit the Baltimore Club on November 21 and try and repeat the scores of the last meeting.

A very neat invitation was received by the Washington florists from the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. to inspect their new home on the evening of November 21 at 8 p. m.

J. A. Peterson was a visitor this week, showing some of his samples of Phoenix roebelenii and some very fine plants of Pandanus veitchii.

J. A. Phillips, the Mt. Pleasant florist, had the decoration for Fairmont Seminary, using Killarney roses, pampas, palms and ferns.

W. Miller of Providence, R. I., has accepted a position with H. Pfister as designer and decorator.

Gude Bros. are bringing in some very fine plants of Begonia Glory of Cincinnati.

Visitors: Jos. Smith of W. Boas Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; Geo. W. Watson, Philadelphia, Pa.

G. C. D.

Boston.

ROSES ARE IMPROVING.

Cool crisp weather is what this city is having now. Chrysanthemums are still in the front seat, but we can see their finish shortly. There is likely to be a holding up this week, with an avalanche Thanksgiving. Roses are going better as the quality improves. The carnation is coming up, and with Thanksgiving we may expect to see things take their regular course. Red chrysanthemums have made their appearance.

NOTES.

Saturday Dan Leamy of the Co-operative Market showed us a box of mushrooms packed in wax paper, just received from one of his consignors.

The trolley express is about to be started. It will be a boon for the growers along the electric lines. This will be the first real blow at the express companies and it may cause a lowering of rates. We hope so, for the expense account has been climbing up yearly and the rates cut quite a figure in the grower's returns. We hope to be able to tell about one of the lines next week.

MAC.

CORRECTION.

Patten & Co., of Tewksbury, Mass., write: "We wish to make a correction in your report of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society's show, issue of November 16, page 967, where you refer to our new seedling Tewksbury, which is wrong. It should be Princess Dagmar and this is a new seedling carnation, which you have failed to state."

Nassau County Horticultural Society.

The monthly meeting of this society was held at Glen Cove, L. I., on Wednesday, November 13, President Johnston in the chair. There was a fine display of late flowering chrysanthemums. Wells' Late Pink, H. E. Converse and Wm. Turner were very fine. Prizes were offered for 3 yellow, 3 white and 3 pink, and the winners were F. H. Gaut, J. W. Everett and J. McCarthy. F. Petrocchia received the thanks of the society for new pink celery. H. Gaut was awarded certificates of culture for chrysanthemums grown in 6-inch pots, 3 flowers of H. G. Converse, and for collection of single chrysanthemums. H. S. Ladeu, Glen Cove, was elected to honorary membership. J. E. Colenso, B. Allmond, T. Twigg, A. Richardson and P. Charboriman were elected to active membership and there were four applications received. Prizes are offered for 3 poinsettias, 50 violets and 25 mixed carnations at the next meeting.

FLOWERS BY TELEGRAPH

SAN FRANCISCO

CALIFORNIA
PELICANO, ROSSI & CO.,
123 KEARNY ST.

San Francisco.

Stock is good, chrysanthemums particularly so; it was commonly remarked that the roses at the present show were nearly fifty per cent better than those shown at the last fall show. American beauties are in good demand and bring a better price, a few specials reaching $2.25 a dozen. The prevailing price is $2 for firsts and $1.50 a dozen for seconds. Very little third-grade stock is coming in. This applies also to other rose stock the most of which is coming in of two grades only and selling at 50 and 75 cents a dozen. Richmonds are holding their heads up better. Aaron Wards are coming with far better stems and for the present are the popular yellow. Chrysanthemums are of grand quality and clean up well in spite of the quantities coming in. The scarcity of the flowers with the hawkers shows plainly that the local demand, aided by the heavy shipments to other markets, is holding the supply even. Prices, however, have declined, only a few specials of Col. Appleton, Enguehard, or Hunter bringing $1.50 a dozen; good blooms of the leading varieties are going for $1; seconds or inferior varieties sell for 75 down to 50 cents a dozen. Appletons are A1, though three weeks early. Cattleyas, oncidiums, phalaenopsis and Odontoglossum grande are plentiful and as usual are in good demand at standard prices. Valleys are good at three dozen for a dollar. Violets, coreopsis, cosmos and other outdoor stock is plentiful and there are greens to fill all demands.

NOTES.

Activity of unusual order prevails at the two local military posts. At the Presidio, the military post at the west end of the exposition grounds, Post Commandant Col. C. G. Gardner has a large force employed tearing down and removing fences and other unsightly objects, planting trees, extending lawns, and other such work for the permanent beautification of the post and surroundings. Gen. W. H. Murray, commanding the Pacific Coast division and residing at Fort Mason, situated at the eastern end of the exposition grounds, has ordered the renovation of the post. The work includes considerable garden operations. The veteran gardener, John J. Jacks, has resigned his position at the Sharon Estate and has been appointed by the government as landscape gardener to Gen. Murray.

At the exposition nursery three double span houses, 42x100 feet each, are almost finished, as are the potting shed and boiler room each about 20x26 feet. Hot water will be used. The stock includes some 6,000 each of eucalyptus and acacia in varieties planted in 12-inch boxes, the plants averaging 10 feet high. Propagation of large quantities of shrubs and many bedding plants is going on. T.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, and painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established, and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia Be Sure to Look Us Up

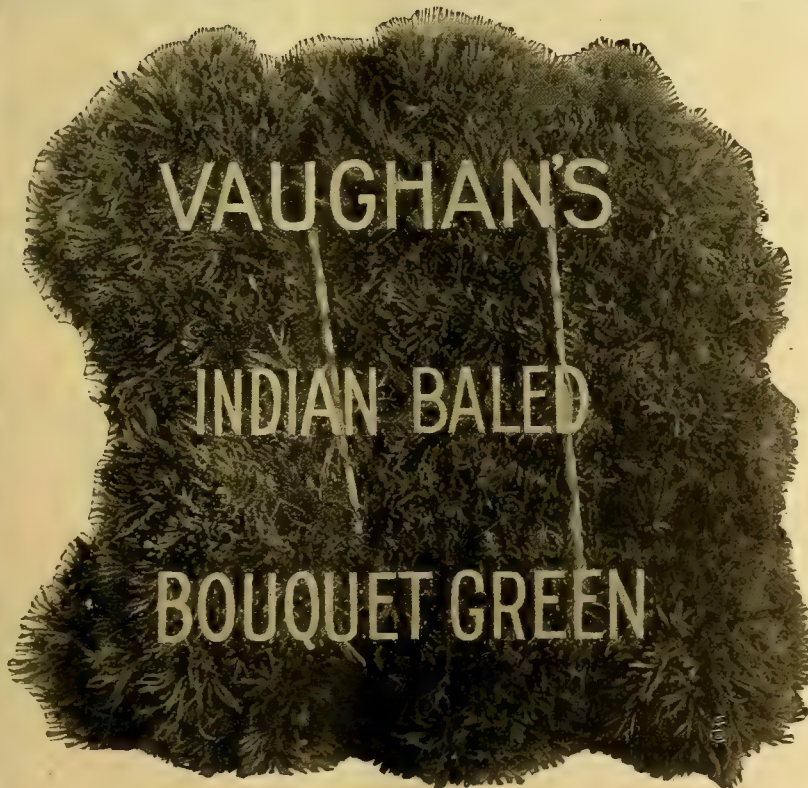

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your convenience, both going and coming. Then you will see our Palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place), and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to our Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition

The Seed Trade.

American Seed Trade Association.

Chas. N. Page, Des Moines, Ia., President;
Harry L. Holmes, Harrisburg, Pa., First
Vice-President; Arthur B. Clark, Milford,
Conn., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel,
Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer;
J. M. Ford, Ravenna, O., Assistant Secretary.
Next annual convention, June, 1913.

VISITED CHICAGO.—O. L. Coulter, of
C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, Calif.

THE tuberose bulb crop is thought to be somewhat short. Big-root reports continue.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Rahe Seed Co. of this city has incorporated with a capital stock of $5,000.

SWEET CORN seems to ripen very unevenly, quite a few ears in nearly all crops showing a doughy condition.

SPHAGNUM Moss dealers after an all summer's battle with wet weather conditions are now delayed by car shortage. Troubles never come singly.

MANITOWOC, WIS.—M. G. Madson, of the M. G. Madson Seed Co., and Mrs.
Madson announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Inga Marie, to Reinhold
Ferdinand Baruth, November 14.

THE thirteenth annual meeting of the Wholesale Seedsmen's League will be held at the Hardware Club, New York, Friday, November 22, when three directors will be elected.

INDEPENDENCE, IA.—Mel. L. Webster has returned from a month's visit at his branch house in Waco, Texas. He reports trade good, with a very strong demand for farm seeds. Dealers seldom order until the planting season is actually upon them.

HOLLY dealers are offering carlots with some freedom and the inference is that a good supply will be available.
No one outside of the districts where it is cut seems to have any information as to the quality, and men posted in this trade believe the weather has been so mild that the foliage is not yet hardened as it should be; it takes a fairly hard freeze to put the foliage in condition for boxing and shipping.

ADVICES from southern France regarding crop prospects for French bulbs indicate that the stock planted this fall has come along comparatively free from rain which, the growers say, is a favorable condition, preventing premature growth and having a tendency to eliminate disease. The quantity planted is reported to equal that of last year, except in freesias, which have not only sold out freely the last two seasons, but have sold in smaller size than usual, which has depleted the planting stocks.

WATERLOO, NEB.—J. C. Robinson has moved his warehouse on to the railroad track, enlarged it greatly and changed his power to a new 100 horse power oil-burning engine for generating electricity by which the entire plant is operated. He will have drying and handling capacity for three to five carloads of seed corn daily. His early field corn, sweet corn and some vine seeds are beginning to come in.
The Rocky Ford, Colo., branch has made a good start in vine seed production this year, bumper crops being the rule.

BOUQUET GREEN does not improve in quality under the continued bright and fairly dry weather. The market generally is weaker under continued picking, though most pickers quit when the very high first prices were withdrawn.

Parcels Post

President Chas. N. Page of the American Seed Trade Association, writes as follows to seedsmen regarding the new parcels post law which will go into effect January 1:

"Our committee on postal affairs succeeded remarkably well in securing changes in the parcels post law, so that the mailing of seed catalogues and other third-class matter was not interfered with, nor rates increased on catalogues, nor any merchandise in our line. Owing to an unfortunate wording of an amendment added by the senate committee at about the last moment, there is some question as to whether seeds, plants and bulbs can be sent at the new parcels post rates, and the postmaster general will probably not render his decision until January 1, when the new regulations are published. There is no doubt but that the intention was to give the trade an option to make shipments by parcels post, should they so desire.

"Under present conditions, however,
I would advise that caution be used in making references to parcels post rates in new catalogues or circulars."

Bell Complaint Dismissed.

A complaint against J. J. Bell of Deposit, N. Y., charging him with having violated the federal law by opening mail addressed to the J. J. Bell Seed Co., of which C. H. Putnam of that village is now the head, has been dismissed by U. S. Commissioner E. H.
Moody of Binghamton. The J. J. Bell Seed Co. was formerly located in Binghamton and was conducted for a long time by J. J. Bell. The business was sold eventually to Mr. Putnam, by whom it was continued under the same name. A daughter of Mr. Bell also conducted a business in Deposit under the name of the Deposit Seed Co., and, it is alleged, opened certain mail intended for the J. J. Bell Co., which resulted in the filing of the complaint cited. Mr. Bell's attorney stated that suit will at once be brought by Mr.
Bell to recover $25,000 for malicious prosecution. Summons in the case have already been issued and are now in the hands of the process servers.

I Want to Get in Touch with a Big, Broad Man in the Seed Trade Who Isn't Happy in His Job

I want to hear from the best seedsman in America who wants a bigger, broader, richer future than his present position or business holds.

This man is needed by one of the oldest seed businesses in America—a house with an enviable reputation, built up by fair dealing, consistent advertising, and honest seeds.

The business is big and steady; it is in a large eastern city, but its trade extends from coast to coast. It can be made much greater—it ought to be doubled. It is on the up-grade now.

For the man who can take hold and help put this seed business where it ought to be, there is an unusual opening. If he measures up to requirements, he will have an opportunity at once to acquire an interest in the business.

A man with capital—possibly a manager or a partner in another concern—is preferred. The business is paying and additional capital is not needed, but it is felt that an investment by the right man will cause more rapid growth.

This is a big thing, and I can give the details only in person. If you think you're the right man, write me fully, telling what you are doing, what you have done, and whether you would consider an investment after investigation had shown it advisable. Address me in confidence—no one else will see your letter without your permission.

JEFFERSON THOMAS

Vice-President and Manager, The McFarland Publicity Service

HARRISBURG, PA.

I know, too, of several good openings in the nursery trade, and invite letters from expert growers, shipping foremen, correspondents, etc. Tell in your first letter what you have done, to whom you can refer, and what salary you command.

Lettuce Plants.

Good plants being the foundation of the whole lettuce forcing industry, it will pay any one interested to carefully consider essential points to success. We have been so uniformly successful in producing good lettuce plants, that the process is almost second nature, and it would be hard to write on the subject had we not noticed mistakes made by many growers when visiting other plants. By pointing out these mistakes we can do more good than by treating of our own methods.

One prominent grower, well known far and wide, has an enclosed case with bottom heat where the flats are placed to germinate. This looks good to him but is all wrong. These seedlings germinate too fast; are weakened by high temperature and confinement; if not moved out in time they are ruined entirely; and if moved when they should be they are checked by lower temperature. Also in a case like this, thick seeding is a grave error.

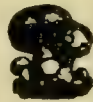

Another grower carried the mulching idea too far. After having filled the benches in his plant house with proper soil, he then covered this soil with fresh horse manure and washed the fertility in with a good watering. We were lucky to see the young plants a month later—a flat failure as we expected. These tiny seedlings did not flourish in so rich a soil in midwinter.

Still another man, being a florist, used spent earth on chrysanthemum benches for lettuce plants; here was another case of "bad luck," only half a stand and what there was poor and sickly. Various growers are troubled with mildew; we find they water continually and often late in the day, softening their plants and making them a prey to cold air currents. Very often one watering right after dibbling the seedlings is all they need until ready to move into permanent beds. By reducing the moisture more roots are formed and the foliage being firmer is more resistant.

We have always practiced the following: Sow thinly; sprout in low temperature; expose to full light; water very moderately in winter; use only moderately rich earth and always fresh for both seed flats and seedling benches; dibble the seedlings as soon as the character leaf shows, and never less than 2 x 2 inches apart. Transplant into permanent quarters as soon as they close in on each other. The whole procedure should be forward instead of backward, as regards heat, moisture and fertility—that is, the growing house, should be warmer, richer and moister than the plant house. Such plants will ever press on-wards and will not stand still, which is the key to success.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa., President; J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore., Vice-President; John Hall, Rochester, N. Y., Sec'y. Thirty-eighth annual convention to be held at Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

OAKLAND, CALIF.—The annual meeting of the California Association of Nurserymen was held here November 7-9.

HOLLISTER, CALIF.—The San Benito Nursery has filed articles of incorporation. The company is capitalized at $10,000.

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—The regents of Michigan University have secured a new nursery site and work of preparing the ground for spring planting is under way.

MADISON, WIS.—A forestry school, in connection with the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, will be opened January 7. Complete courses in range and nursery work will be given.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—The Pacific Nurseries have been forced to move from their old location at 3041 Baker street, as the site was required for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The salesyard is now at Colma, between Mt. Olivet and Home and Peace cemeteries.

FISHER, BRYANT & OLMSTED, consulting foresters, announce that Frederick Erskine Olmsted has withdrawn from the firm and that the business has been incorporated and will be continued under the corporate name of Fisher & Bryant, Inc. Mr. Olmsted leaves to practice consulting forestry independently and along special lines but will maintain close relations with the new corporation. His address will be 21 Lime street, Boston, Mass.

Sludge for Canadian Fruit Growers.

Negotiations are reported under way to ship the surplus sludge from Leeds sewage works to Canada for use as fertilizer by fruit growers. The plant for pressing this sludge into cakes was installed five years ago. The annual production is approximately 35,000 tons. Farmers in Yorkshire take 15,000 tons of this, paying only cartage charges of 60 to 75 cents a ton. The city has been required by the health authorities to destroy the surplus, which entails an annual cost of about $5,000. If the deal is closed with the Canadian firm this amount at least will be saved to the corporation. No direct profit is anticipated from the shipment if made.

Plenty of Christmas Trees.

New York, November 9.—The forestry experts of the New York city park department declare that there will be no shortage of Christmas trees this year, even though the gypsy moth quarantine declared by the department of agriculture causes some increase in price.

The quarantine applies to trees from New England, and it is declared that New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the Adirondacks may be depended upon to supply all the trees necessary.

The park entomologists say that the quarantine came none too soon, for the gypsy moth was spreading rapidly westward from Massachusetts.

Prepare for Thanksgiving and Christmas

Be Successful This Christmas. Don't be defeated in society. Moving in or even thoughts of moving in high society often brings disappointment and sorrow. Be wise and have your eyes open and do as Godfrey Aschmann does. Put your full strength and mind into business. Time lost is money lost. The time—holiday time—now has arrived, so that a proper investment of your pennies can't fail to turn them into dollars. Prosperity is at last once more knocking at your door. There are signs of a big demand for Christmas Plants. We were not slow in looking forward by raising an immense stock of Choice Christmas Novelties, Godfrey Aschmann's quality, such as described below, now in prime condition for the holidays for immediate shipment.

Araucarias Our Specialty.

6,000 at hand, all sizes.

Araucaria Excelsa is a Christmas novelty of ours that has no end.

Twenty-five years of importing, cultivating and shipping of Araucaria Excelsa gained us such a reputation all over America, from ocean to ocean, that it has aroused the young as well as the old, and has inflamed them to such an extent that they want at least one or two of these so much prized evergreen pine trees at Christmas on the Christmas table or in any suitable place in the home.

Look! Christmas trees will be scarce this Christmas. Why? Have you read the report of the United States Department of Agriculture, Notice of Quarantine No. 4 (Domestic), effective on and after Nov. 25th, 1912? This is on account of two injurious insects, the gypsy moth and the brown tail moth. Regulations about Christmas, too, for some of the Eastern States. If you will write to the United States Department of Agriculture, they will mail you all particulars on this subject.

A Christmas tree everybody, especially for the dear little ones, will have. Now, what will you do? I know what I am going to do. Make a break for Godfrey Aschmann's Araucaria House. It will give us two advantages. First, it will serve as a Christmas tree; and, look! afterwards it will serve as an ornamental plant for the parlor.

Araucaria Excelsa, 5½ to 5½-in. pots, 2-3 years old 3-4 tiers, 14-15-16 in. high, 40c to 50c; 5½ to 6-in. pots, 3 years old, 4-5 tiers, 16-18-20 in. high, 60c to 75c; 6-in. pots, 4 years old, 4-5-6 tiers, 20-22-25 in. high, $1.00; 6-in. pots, 5 years old, 5-6 tiers as big as an elephant, $1.25 to $1.50; 7-in. pots, 5 to 6 years old, 6-7 tiers, 30 to 40 in. high, a holy terror, only $1.75 to $2.00.

Araucaria Excelsa Glauca and Robusta Compacta, April, 1911, importation, 6-7 in. pots, fine bushy plants, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 each.

Ferns.

The growing of Nephrolepis for the past five years has been one of our leading specialties. We have three houses, which were rebuilt this summer, especially adapted for the growing of first-class stock. Ferns do not do well in old houses. They need houses with plenty of sun and good, fresh sweet air. Old, dark houses bring fungus and make spindly plants.

Neph. Glatrasii. This is a new fern, very graceful, of weeping habit, short and bushy, very much admired by every one who has bought it. 4-5 5½-6 in. pots, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c.

Neph. Whitmani, 4-in., 20c; 5½ to 6-in. pots, 30c, 35c, 40c and 50c; 7-in., 75c.

Neph. Scottii, 4-in., 20c; 5-in., 35c; 5½ to 6-in., 40c to 50c; 7-in., 75c.

Boston, 7-in., 75c; 5½ to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 5-in., 35c; 4-in., 20c.

Neph. Elegantissima Compacta, 6-in., 50c.

Neph. Scholzei, 6-in., 50c; 4-in., 25c.

Adiantum Hybridum, the new Maidenhair Fern, large 4-in., bushy, 15c; 5 in., 25c.

We have a big assortment of 2½-in. Dish Ferns, now ready, $4.00 per 100; 3-in., $7.00 per 100.

6-in. dishes, made up of Wilsoni Ferns, one large Dracaena Terminalis in center, 50c.

6-in. pans made up of 3 in. Wilsoni Ferns, very attractive, would sell like hot cakes for 75c. Look! only 25c per pan for three big plants.

Begonias Gloire de Lorraine and Lonsdale, pink, 5½ to 6 in. pots, 50c, 75c to $1.00. Gloire de Cincinnati, 5, 5½ to 6 in. pots, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

Begonia Gloire de Lorraine, 3-in., 12c to 15c.

Our usual Christmas strain of Begonia Improved Erfordi are now ready; large 4-in., 15c to 20c.

Poinsettias, 4-in., 20c to 25c; 5½-in., 35c to 40c.

Large 6-in. pans, Azaleas pots, filled with Asparagus Plumosus or Wilsoni Ferns or Alba Lincaata, with a Poinsettia in center, potted six weeks ago, now large and fine, 50c per pan.

Corpha Australis Palms, 5-in. pots, 20-in. high, 35c.

Asparagus Plumosus and Sprengeri, large 4-in., $10.00 per 100 (or 10c).

Asparagus Plumosus, 2½-in., $3.00 per 100; 5½-in., large, 35c to 40c.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 2½-in., $3.00 per 100.

ONE OF GODFREY ASCHMANN'S ARAUCARIA HOUSES.

AZALEAS.

Our new importation of Azaleas are all in and unpacked. Never in our life have we received a better and finer selection of Azaleas than this fall. All of them have original foliage and are well budded.

For Christmas Forcing.—If you want to be successful, lose no time and start now. Start the Azaleas in low temperature and increase the temperature gradually up to 60 degrees until they show color; then cool off gradually again. We have only the best well-known Christmas varieties, such as Deutsche Perle, white; Simon Mardner, pink; Mme. Petrick, new, pink; Pharilda Mathilda, variegated; Veraneana, variegated rose; Apollo, red. Prices: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. For Easter Blooming and for Easter we have the well-known American varieties, such as Mme Van der Cruysen, best pink; Paul Weber, De Schryveriana, John Llewellyn, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), and a few more good sorts. P. S.—The Christmas varieties can be kept for Easter forcing without trouble. Price: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. We sell our Azaleas for cash only, because there is no profit to be made in Azaleas.

Our Mme. Petrick Azaleas are round as an apple, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50; covered with buds; a child can force them; best pink; earliest of all. All other varieties are covered with buds.

No profit is made on Azaleas any more; therefore only cash with order will be accepted.

Hydrangea Otaksa, pot-grown. Remember, only pot-grown stock, like ours, will force successfully. 5½-6-7 in. pots, 25c-35c-50c.

Primula Obconica Grandiflora, good strain, assorted, 4-in., $4.00 per 100; 5½-in., $2.50 per doz.

Primula Chinensis, John F. Rupp strain, assorted, 4-in., $10.00 per 100; 5½-in., only $2.50 per doz.

Queen Alexandra Daisies, pure white, good Easter Daisy, 2½-in. pots, strong, $4.00 per 100; 3-in., $6.00 per 100.

Ficus Elastica, Belgium or American stock, 5-5½-in., 30c, 35c to 40c; 6-in., 50c; 7-in., 75c.

Daisies, Sanderi, pure white everlasting bloomer, very valuable for cut flowers, 2½-in., $5.00 per 100.

Jerusalem Cherries (Solanum), 6-in., 25c, 35c, 50c.

Aspidistras, variegated, 6-in. pots, 15c per leaf; green, 6-in. pots, 10c per leaf. Plants have from 5 good leaves upward to 10 leaves.

Cocos Weddelliana Palms, single, 3-in. pots, 15c, 18c and 20c.

Areca Lutescens Palms, made up of 3 plants, 4-in., 20c to 25c; 5½-in., made up of 3 plants, 35c.

Cash with order, please. 25 sold at 100 rates.

All plants must travel at purchaser's risk.

Kentia Forsteriana, 4 year old, 30 to 35 inches high, 6-in. pot, $1.50.

Kentia Forsteriana, 4 year old, 26 to 30 inches high, 6-in. pot, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Belmoreana, 4 year old, 6-in., 26 to 28 in. high, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Belmoreana, combination or made up of 3 plants, 3 year old, 24 to 26 in. high, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Belmoreana, 4-in., 25c; 5½-in., 50c.

Kentia Forsteriana, 4½ to 5 in. pots, 20 to 24 in. high, 30c to 40c.

Kentia Forsteriana, 6-in. pots, made up, one large in center, three small ones around, $1.00 to $1.25.

Cineraria Hybrida, our well-known superior strain, which created a sensation last Easter, 2-in., $5.00 per 100; 3-in., $7.00 per 100.

TESTIMONIALS.

When You Buy, It Pays to Buy Good Stock.

Look and see what Mr. Fred J. Michell, of that so well-known firm of Henry F. Michell Company, of Philadelphia, has got to say about our plants: "Sept. 14th, 1912.

"I have just visited the greenhouses of Mr. Godfrey Aschmann, and must say that it was indeed a great surprise to me. I have never seen a better lot of Araucarias, Ferns of all sizes, varieties and prices, Rubbers, Palms, Azaleas, and other plants in season, ready for shipment, as are at present at Mr. Godfrey Aschmann's."

Two of the Recent Testimonials.

Saskatchewan Greenhouses,

E. J. Coster, Proprietor,

(P. O. Box 75), Prince Albert, Sask., Canada.

Your shipment of Oct. 23rd arrived in first-class shape, and I beg to say I never bought such good ferns at the price in my life, and I have been buying them for over sixteen years. Now I am coming back to you for more stock if you use me as well as you have done this time.

Yours truly, E. J. COSTER.

Amount of order for ferns, $33.60.

Forest Hill, Houston, Tex., Nov. 8, 1912.

Mr. Godfrey Aschmann,

1012 West Ontario St., Phila., Pa.

Dear Sir:—We thank you for the kind attention given our last order for Palms (Oct. 11, 1912, amount $48.60). They came through in first-class shape. We also thank you for the complimentary palm. I herewith enclose draft N. Y. Exchange for $76.35 for the following order: 30 Araucarias, at 40c up to $1.50; 25 Azaleas, etc. We hope to favor you from time to time with further orders.

Yours truly, FORESTDALE NURSERIES.

ENCHANTRESS SUPREME

THE best Sport from Enchantress up-to-date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguishes its parent.

☞Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching.

☞A good all around Carnation that retains its color at all seasons.

☞Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. ☞Has shown no inclination to be a burster.

☞The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years duration convinces us of its great value.

¶ This rose has now been awarded 17 First Class Certificates, and a silver medal, and last week, at Cleveland, secured first prize in the class calling for 25 blooms and also first prize in the 50 bloom class, besides carrying away the sweepstakes over ten classes. Surely, this is enough to establish its value as an exhibition rose. Come and see its productiveness in the greenhouse as a bread and butter rose.

¶ Orders booked for delivery early in the new year at $30.00 per hundred; $250.00 per thousand.

CARNATIONS

Commodore. The Improved Victory scarlet.

Northport. Winner of everything in the dark pink classes and the Sweepstakes Cup at Cleveland. "Northport" has received a dozen or more Certificates this fall.

THE NEW GOLD MEDAL ROSE

"Mrs. Charles Russell"

This Giant Forcing Rose is an American Seedling raised at the Waban Rose Conservatories, and has been tested in our houses for several years.

It has proved to be a strong, vigorous grower, and its freedom of bloom is remarkable for a Rose that is fully as large as an American Beauty.

Its large pointed buds, of a clear rose pink and delightfully sweet fragrance, are the admiration of all who have seen it, either growing in our houses or as exhibited by us at the different shows.

It has received high honors when exhibited at such centers as Philadelphia, New York and Boston. At the latter place the Massachusetts Horticultural Society honored it with a Gold Medal, a rare distinction from this conservative society.

Plants Will Be Ready for Delivery after March 1st, 1913.

OWN ROOTS—$30 per 100, $250 per 1000 plants.
GRAFTED STOCK—$5 per 100 extra.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOLIDAY TRADE.

Christmas Greens.

The greens for Christmas are a proper part of the flower trade and the procuring of good stock and the arrangement and proper showing of these holiday necessities is attended to early by the wide-awake florist. Too often the handling of this stock is left to the corner grocery or provision store, the proprietor of which procures cheap stock and gets the business because he displays and advertises it, while the florist is backward in letting his customers know that he has the goods and that they are of much better grade than can be procured of his holiday competitor. It is good business to display some of the Christmas greens ten days or two weeks before the holidays and thereby let the trade know that the store or greenhouse will be able to supply the demand. While this may result in a small loss by the drying of these samples, yet the increased sale will more than compensate for this. The sale of Christmas trees can also be made a feature of the holiday trade and a display of them in front of the store and office is certain to attract attention and induce trade.

Holly.

First and foremost of the holiday greens will come the holly, which is closely associated with Christmas, especially with Englishmen and Americans. The holly is said to be very well berried this year and that there will be much more good stock than was obtainable last season, but from present indications the price will be about the same as has prevailed during the last few years. A sample case should be obtained as an early delivery and bunches and made-up work displayed to attract the customer's attention. The balance of the stock can be ordered so as to be received just before the time of delivery and a high grade article to fill the orders will be assured. The uses of holly are many. Much will be sold in bunches for the customers to take home and arrange as their fancy dictates, and these will be hung in the windows and around the rooms of the dwellings. Nice selected sprays should be tied together in different sizes and of different prices for the selection of the buyers. It will surely result in much waste if the open case is at the customer's hands for the branches will be turned over and over and many of the berries broken off, but this can be obviated by having bunches already for delivery or selection. Holly wreaths are always in demand and these should be made of selected pieces with plenty of berries, and if the branches are not heavily fruited more berries may be wired on. Holly festooning is rarely used, it being much too expensive and the cheaper greens are more often employed. A custom of many dealers is worthy of emulation; short sprays of holly that are well covered with berries are selected and with all boxes of cut flowers, which at this season are mostly presents, one of these sprays is placed on the top of the flowers or neatly tied on the outside of the box with a Christmas red ribbon. This little courtesy of the day is sure to be appreciated.

When the cases of holly are received keep them in a cool place away from all boilers or fire heat. It is far preferable to allow them to be in a freezing temperature than in a warm dry room, but a cool damp cellar is the best location and the leaves will hold their fresh look for many days.

Boxwood.

A supply of boxwood has become an actual necessity in all up-to-date florists' establishments doing a retail trade, not only at Christmas but throughout the season. The uses of this beautiful green are many and varied. It makes most beautiful wreaths and these can be arranged either by being bound to a wire or the sprays cut into short lengths and inserted in a frame filled with moss in the same manner that floral work is arranged. This will greatly depend upon where the wreath is to be used.

If to be hung in the window it should be of the kind bound on the single wire and made double, that is, both sides finished with the green. Boxwood also makes very showy balls that may be hung from chandeliers, doors or in the windows. A few bunches of red immortelles or winterberries can be placed in these to give the Christmas color. Miniature trees made of boxwood, in the round shape such as globe bay trees, are very decorative and can be used in table decorations or for a table ornament. These as well as the balls are made by making a small round ball of moss and inserting short sprays of boxwood into it. The balls have a wire fastened in the moss by which they are hung and those that represent trees are fastened on the top of a stick with the bark on, the stick being securely placed in a pot. Small sprays are also inserted in moss placed in the small white chinaware and these placed on the table for dinner decorations are very effective. Boxwood can also be used as a green with many flowers where the cut sprays of asparagus are not to be had. Selected sprays are a beautiful green to be used with carnations. Another arrangement where boxwood is handy is to place a few sprays in the pot of a plant that has lost its lower foliage, thereby removing the bare look which the plant would otherwise have.

Laurel.

Next to holly probably more laurel is used than any other green, and in some sections of the country where laurel is plentiful its use exceeds that of holly. Laurel makes by far the most decorative festooning and thousands of yards of this material are draped in stores, residences, halls and churches during the week preceding Christmas. This green is also the most employed in wreaths which can be purchased in all sizes and at all prices. Laurel makes up in wreaths very easily and prettily. The better way is to purchase a single wire wreath frame or if this cannot be obtained handily the ordinary wreath frame can be made into four by cutting out the connecting wires. The sprays of laurel are then bound on to this single wire by a finer wire, the sprays being laid on and the wire passed over the stems in the same manner that festooning is made. If made on the frame, they hold their form when hung much better than those that are bound without any wire or stick to preserve the wreath shape. In decoration where large vases of flowers are arranged a few long sprays of laurel under the flowers give the arrangement a proper setting and a fine finish. One of the best features of laurel is that it is equally good outside as in, for the cold has but little effect upon the leaves and it looks as well after repeated freezings and thawings as when first put up.

Galax and Magnolia Leaves.

These two greens are perhaps not particularly associated with Christmas but they are used extensively at this time as well as at all seasons of the year. There has been a growing custom in many sections of the country of placing some Christmas gift or memento of green or flowers upon the graves of departed relatives, and the galax, magnolia leaves and sprays of leucothoe are used largely for this purpose, wreaths of these being very appropriate and filling the demand. The other greens are also used for this purpose, especially the boxwood and laurel. In making wreaths of galax they should be made very thick and heavy, for freezing weather has a tendency to curl the leaves and if placed outdoors in sections where the weather is apt to be cold, it is well to have leaves enough in the design to cover the frame, for otherwise when the leaves curl the moss can be plainly seen. Magnolia leaves make one of the richest wreaths for this purpose and they are not affected by the weather. Leucothoe is also a very good green for this purpose and if some of the dried flowers and foliage are arranged with this green some beautiful work can be supplied. Statice and wheat are both appropriate for this purpose and add greatly to the appearance.

Christmas Trees.

The demand for Christmas trees is increasing every year, and in some sections where they were formerly cut, the woods have been depleted and the gatherers have to go farther back to get what the trade demands. The cedars in many places have been entirely cut out and the greater number of trees now shipped to market are balsam and spruce. The former is the most desired for they have a pleasant odor and are generally of good shape for the purpose of hanging upon them the presents and candles and other ornaments. To successfully handle this trade the dealer should have supports made which will hold the tree erect, for in the cities especially the customer will not have the articles necessary to serve this purpose. Two pieces of three-inch boards about three feet long nailed together, with short pieces on the bottom of the ends of the top piece to make the frame stand level, is a cheap and good arrangement for this purpose. This should be strongly nailed to the base of the tree, and if the tree is large, short pieces of the same sized stock should be nailed from the frame to the trunk. If these are made up in advance it will greatly help the sale of the trees.

Mistletoe.

The sentiment attached to the mistletoe will always cause more or less demand for the sprays at Christmas. While perhaps it should not be classed among the greens, for it is the white berries that make it a salable product, yet it is always associated with the holiday greens. This product must be handled with great care and the cost and loss figured out or it will be found that the profit will be very small. There will always be more or less call for nice sprays of mistletoe for the ancient English custom of hanging the mistletoe and the leading of the young damsel under it and claiming the kiss will always have a place in the Christmas festivities. While the sales of the large bunches will be few for they are necessarily expensive, yet there are many who are willing to pay a good price for nice sprays that are large enough to make a showing in the Christmas decorations that the festivities may be made complete. This stock should be handled carefully and guarded against freezing or the berries will drop off.

White Pine.

A green that is extensively used in sections of the country where it grows plentifully is the ends of the branches of the white pine. The leaves of this tree are soft and very decorative and the short branches are not only of great value in floral work as a foundation in baskets but can be placed in the pots of plants which are devoid of foliage near the pot in the same manner as boxwood is used. The tips of this tree also make fine wreaths when combined with other greens, and some very attractive arrangements with different sized cones fastened in these wreaths are very popular where they are made and displayed. These wreaths are very unique and are not expensive and as a rule are readily sold to the best class of trade.

Bouquet Green.

When a good harvest of this is obtained it is one of the cheapest greens that the florist receives and is used largely for cheap festooning, and to fill in in floral work. This green is also used in making balls for the same purpose and in the same manner as the boxwood balls, but there will be a necessity of having bunches of red immortelles or winter-berries with the lycopodium to give them a nice finish.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

ODORLESS VIOLETS may be given fragrance by inserting a few rose geranium leaves in the bunches, crushing the leaves slightly in the hand before using them.

Pillsbury Car Wins Prize.

I. L. Pillsbury won second prize with his decorated car in the automobile parade held recently at Galesburg, Ill. The wheels of the car were decorated with white carnations over pink cheese cloth, the name was of white immortelles, also over pink cheese cloth, and the body was covered with pink roses over white muslin. The young ladies carried American Beauty roses.

A Rose Made of Roses.

Have a good sized frame made of wire, shaping each section like a rose petal, as each petal must be separate. A good height would be about ten inches tall, but this, of course, depends upon the size of the table to be decorated. Cover each wire petal with a heavy rich deep pink satin, not losing the shape of the petal, which must have its denture in the top center and bulge outward in the center. After covering the leaves with full blown pink roses completely on the outside, using paler shades for the inside, place in the center to give the pollen effect a round cluster of the tiny yellow chrysanthemums, using no green and making it a closely set center of yellow.

Place this arrangement on a large round flat basket which has been mossed, allowing the center to be considerably higher than ordinarily used for such purposes. Around this arrange rose foliage of different lengths, stemming the foliage in clusters with a small green bud of the roses intermingled. Place candelabums at either side, using the rose covered shades and surrounding the base with a garland of pink roses and allowing these to intertwine around the guests' wine glasses. This should be a flat garland and not too heavy looking.

Little Dresden ferneries will look well as favors. Or a pink satin roll with either end filled with rose buds and the roll tied in the center with white and green gauze ribbon will do. This design will also be effective with red roses, and if the height is not desired, omit the flat basket and instead arrange American Beauties around the center piece. Around the base of the rose centerpiece tiny electric lights will look attractive.

National Flower Show.

Paper read by Charles H. Totty at the convention of the National Association of Gardeners at Newark, N. J., November 19, 1912.

The question I wish to present to your notice is this: What part will the superintendents and gardeners of this country play in the International Flower Show scheduled for next April in the New Grand Central Palace, New York? I think I am safe in saying the finest plants in the world have been imported and sold in the neighborhood of New York in the last twenty years. These plants in the natural order of things, since they cost considerable money, have been bought by your employers and at the present time many of them are reclining in the greenhouses, within easy shipping distance of New York.

Are you going to leave them there or bring them out next spring and let the rest of the country see stock they have never previously had any knowledge of? We are now working on the final schedule which devotes considerable space to special classes, solely for the private growers in both plants and flowers and which in the aggregate amounts to some $5,000.00 for the gardeners alone. This is the first time in the history of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists, to my knowledge, that special classes have been made; the first time that private growers have been recognized as a large factor in the development of horticulture, and the fact that the Society of American Florists, which is primarily a trade organization, is willing to do this, is a tribute to the growing force and power of the private gardener in the horticultural world.

As members of different local horticultural societies, your response to my appeal to join with the parent body has been very generous. Practically every society within a reasonable distance of New York will be represented by a silver cup or by a cash premium. We also have working with us the American Rose Society, American Carnation Society, the Gladiolus Society and the Sweet Pea Society, and for once horticulture presents to the world a solid front standing together and it will show to the world an exhibition that will demand recognition as being the finest achievement in the annals of horticultural and floricultural history in America. My friends, it is fitting that this should be so. As the editor of the New York World remarks in a recent editorial: "When 130,000 people throng to see a Flower Show in New York, the popular vogue of flowers must be regarded as pretty conclusively established. This is about as many people as constitute the capacity audiences at the theatres on holidays, and the fact bears witness to the place flower exhibitions now hold as fixed events in the fall calendar, equally with football, the opera and the Horse Show. But behind the vogue in this country, and most suggestive of all the circumstances having to do with its popular appeal, is the confirmation the attendance at flower shows gives of the true aesthetic sense in a city where as many people go to see flowers as a world's baseball series."

I remember, and so do you, when about all the space a flower show would get in the metropolitan dailies was two or three lines in an obscure corner. Flower shows and the flower industry was regarded with toleration simply as a hobby of the rich. Today the people are awakened to a sense of the value of a flower show in cultivating the aesthetic taste of a city and we can get almost any space we wish in the leading newspapers of the country. An indication of this is shown in the New York Herald of November 18, which gave over a half a column to the National Flower Show, we are at present discussing. The popularity of any undertaking, be it sport, business or an individual, can always be determined by the amount of space that the newspapers can be induced to give the same. A newspaper man has his ear to the ground all the time watching the trend of popular thought, moulding it oftentimes when wrongly directed and giving it unlimited space, when as a news item it is of interest to the large body of our people. I am firmly of the opinion that this flower show in New York is going to set a record for attendance at a flower show in America.

Many of your employers are connected with what has been called the "upper crust" of New York society and they will be present. If that employer sees his name in conjunction with the first prize at the greatest flower show America ever had, he will think just that much more of his gardener. Those of you who are so loyal to your local shows, know how true this is. The average American is content with nothing but the best and if the spirit of emulation between the employer and the gardener is encouraged there is little doubt but that horticulture will rise even more rapidly in the immediate future. There is nothing about the cultivation of plants and flowers that will degrade a man. On the contrary, it is the most elevating pastime that a millionaire can spend his time and money in following. Those of you who saw the International Show in London, this year or who followed it closely, could not fail to be struck by the thousands of men, who gave liberally of their time and money to make that show the splendid success it was.

Conceding that this interest is not so widespread in our own people, still it is bound to come and I want to see the gardeners occupy their proper position at the head of the procession and there is no better place to leap with one bound into this premier position than next spring at the National Flower Show in New York. New York has not had a really representative show for years. The exhibitions have always been badly handicapped by the many local societies that are holding their own exhibitions at about the same time. Loyalty to his local society and a desire that his employer (who is very often still stopping at his country house) will see his products make the gardener look after his local show first.

In this case we have a grand spring show when there will be no other flower shows to take away the interest or the exhibits and I look to see the gardeners make this show one worthy of the highest praise.

Since the preliminary schedule was printed we have received many handsome donations of silver cups, gold, silver and bronze medals, etc., and from the purely material standpoint of getting something in exchange for one's labor the show will be something worth while. As an educational feature the society is planning to give two lectures a day on different matters pertaining to horticulture, every day during the exhibition. R. F. Felton, for instance, whose fame as a color artist in plants and flowers is international, will speak on color harmony and floral arrangement. J. K. L. M. Farquhar will give us one of his inimitable talks on some of the gardens of the old world. One or more American floral artists will give lectures on their ideas of floral art from an American point of view and other well known men will speak on different phases of horticulture. In this branch alone these lectures ought to put horticulture at least ten years ahead.

This is not an American show alone. Some European exhibitors are having stock specially grown and bulbs forced in this country to give it an international flavor. The Chicago Society, the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, the Shaw Botanic Gardens of St. Louis, all offer gold, silver and bronze medals for this show, as does also the American Institute of the City of New York. The hall is large enough; the number of classes is large enough and every man here present this afternoon, can be, if he wishes, represented in a greater or lesser degree in this great show.

Portland Flower Show.

The first annual show of the Portland (Ore.) Floral Society was held November 15-17. The exhibition was held in the armory, which was turned into a fairyland of flowers and plants, and was in every way successful. James Forbes was manager of the show.

PRIZE-WINNING ORCHID DISPLAYS AT PORTLAND SHOW.

Clarke Bros' Exhibit, Which Won First Prize.

Exhibit of the Martin & Forbes Co., Which Won Second Honors.

PORTLAND FLOWER SHOW, NOVEMBER 15-16.

General View of Exhibition Hall.

John Holze, Seattle, Wash., W. S. Duncan, Albany, Ore., and L. G. Pfunder, Portland, were the judges. A committee of five ladies judged the table decorations and the bridal and corsage bouquets.

The grand sweepstakes prize was won by the Martin & Forbes Co., Portland. It must be held three successive years to become the permanent property of the winner. Clarke Bros. were first for the best display of roses. The Martin & Forbes Co. led the winners with 22 firsts and 9 seconds, and Clarke Bros. were next with 14 firsts and 11 seconds. Tonseth Bros., Max Smith, Nicholas & Son and L. Lubliner were also awarded prizes in the growers' and retailers' class. Rahn & Herbert exhibited prize ferns and palms and the Routledge Seed & Floral Co., the Portland Seed Co. and J. B. Pilkington had exhibits of much merit. The Mountain View Floral Co. and the Swiss Floral Co. had landscape gardening exhibits. A new carnation seedling of promise was shown by the Martin & Forbes Co. It was christened the J. N. Teal. The flower is dark red in color.

Before the show closed the flowers were auctioned to the highest bidders and the proceeds turned over to the fruit and flower missions. The show was a success financially as well as artistically and the expense was more than offset by the proceeds. A surplus which remained will be used to defray the expenses of a banquet to be given sometime in the future by the society.

Early Flowering Sweet Peas.

The very interesting abstract from an article on these flowers by Prof. Alvin C. Beal in your issue of November 9, should tempt the florists to give them more careful consideration. I feel sure if this were done they would not only give more pleasure to their customers but find it a very profitable part of their business. To keep abreast with the day no grower should be content with anything but the newest and most advanced of the type. New growers may be led a little astray at first in making a selection of varieties to grow, for if they go in for such old varieties as Mont Blanche or Christmas Pink they will almost be sure to be disappointed with the quality, if grown under the best of conditions, especially when these are compared with newer varieties.

The round, upright, open standard is far preferable to the curled and pointed type. Hybridizers have a long way to go yet before they can claim to have a perfect flower in every shade and color. Three of the most desirable points a florist should look for are size, substance, and shape. If you get size it is one factor in quality. Substance is difficult to get with some of the Spencer varieties; waviness seems to require them thin to get the wave. Then what must a florist take as a guide to good shape? My ideal flower would be a good, bold, upright standard, almost round, with just enough wave in it to break its formality, wings to be in good proportion, not too large and projecting, with sufficient wave to show the heel, three to four flowers on a stem but no more. Some of the florists in England favor double and triple standards, claiming they make a bolder bunch besides standing long journeys better.

Wholesalers might make their price lists much more attractive and interesting to the retail florist if it was noted that newest and best waved varieties would be offered besides their ordinary stock of white, pink and mauve. Or it may be some have a great demand for design work. Here again mention might be made that the newest art shades could be had for this purpose, never forgetting to add the little addition at the end of the line. Another point for the florist to consider in handling these flowers is the bunching. All the flowers should be turned to face one way, tallest stems at the back, with the shortest to the front. In this way they lay finer in the shipping box and please the customer more than a straggly uneven bunch. Everything points to the winter-flowering sweet-peas rapidly advancing. More than one raiser has got them in the Spencers, and all up-to-date florists should have them.

National Association of Gardeners.

ANNUAL CONVENTION, NEWARK, N. J.

The National Association of Gardeners met in annual convention in the New Auditorium Hall, Newark, N. J., on November 19, 1912. The attendance of members was excellent and there were also a number of visitors from the allied trades.

Officers-elect: William H. Waite, Yonkers, N. Y., president; A. J. Smith, Lake Geneva, Wis., vice-president; M. C. Ebel, Madison, N. J., secretary (re-elected); James Stuart, Mamaroneck, N. Y., treasurer. Trustees for 1913: William Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa.; Peter Duff, Orange, N. J.; William Duckham, Madison, N. J.; Alexander McKenzie, Glen Cove, N. Y.; John Dodds, Wyncote, Pa.

Secretary Ebel read the minutes of the last annual meeting, and of the executive committee, which were accepted. In a felicitous address, President Logan briefly reviewed the work of the past year and looked forward to continued and increased prosperity for the organization.

Secretary Ebel's annual report was most gratifying. It showed remarkable progress and a large increase in membership. Among the new members are some of the most noted men in horticulture in this country, as follows: E. G. Hill, Richmond, Ind.; J. C. Vaughan, Chicago, Ill.; Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco, Cal.; Andrew A. Macdonald, Somerville, N. J.;

Arthur C. Ruzicka, Somerville, N. J.; David B. Ridpath, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Robert Petrie, Cedarhurst, N. Y.; George F. Shaw, Cedarhurst, L. I.; E. Coe, Greenwich, Conn.; Robert K. Rodden, Newton Centre, Mass.; Anthon S. Peterson, New Rochelle, N. Y.; O. A. Hunwick, Greenwich, Conn.; William Goodall, Greenwich, Conn.; James P. Aitchison, Stamford, Conn.; William Miller, Joseph S. Wood and Alexander Michie, Sharon, Conn.; Andrew White-law, Noroton, Conn.; William Scott, Elmsford, N. Y.; William Magee, Jr., Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Alexander G. Clarkson, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; A. J. Manda, Brooklyn, N. Y.; David Aitchison, Stamford, Conn.; James Foster, Stamford, Conn.; W. R. Brewer, Paterson, N. J.; Charles Ruthven, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; James Pride, Westchester, N. Y.; Ludwig Grossman, New York, N. Y.; Edward Davies, Convent, N. J.; John L. Meyer, Wayne, Pa.; Robert Hutchinson, Islip, N. Y.

The finances of the association were shown to be in excellent condition, there being a substantial balance in bank after all bills were paid. Notable features of the convention were the addresses delivered by Robert Craig of Philadelphia, which he called "A Talk to Gardeners;" Charles H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., whose theme was the "International Flower Show," and Prof. J. J. Tabenhaus, of the Delaware Agricultural College Experiment Station, who spoke on "The Problems of Plant Diseases Which Confront the Gardener." Harry A. Bunyard, of New York, gave an interesting lecture, accompanied with stereopticon views, of the great exhibition held in London the past summer. The venerable John Shore, patriarch of the association, who was the first president and is the oldest member, was called to the platform and spoke briefly but with point and feeling.

James Bell, another old member in point of membership, though not in years, was introduced to the convention and spoke briefly.

The addresses of Robert Craig and Charles H. Totty were received with much enthusiasm. Mr. Craig was tendered a standing vote of thanks. An invitation was received from the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society inviting the Association to meet in annual convention in San Francisco in 1915, co-incident with the Panama Exposition. The invitation was favorably received and it was voted that in appreciation of the courtesy of the fellow-craftsmen of the Pacific Coast it was the sentiment of this convention that the invitation should be accepted, but that definite action could not be taken at this early date.

THE EXHIBITION.

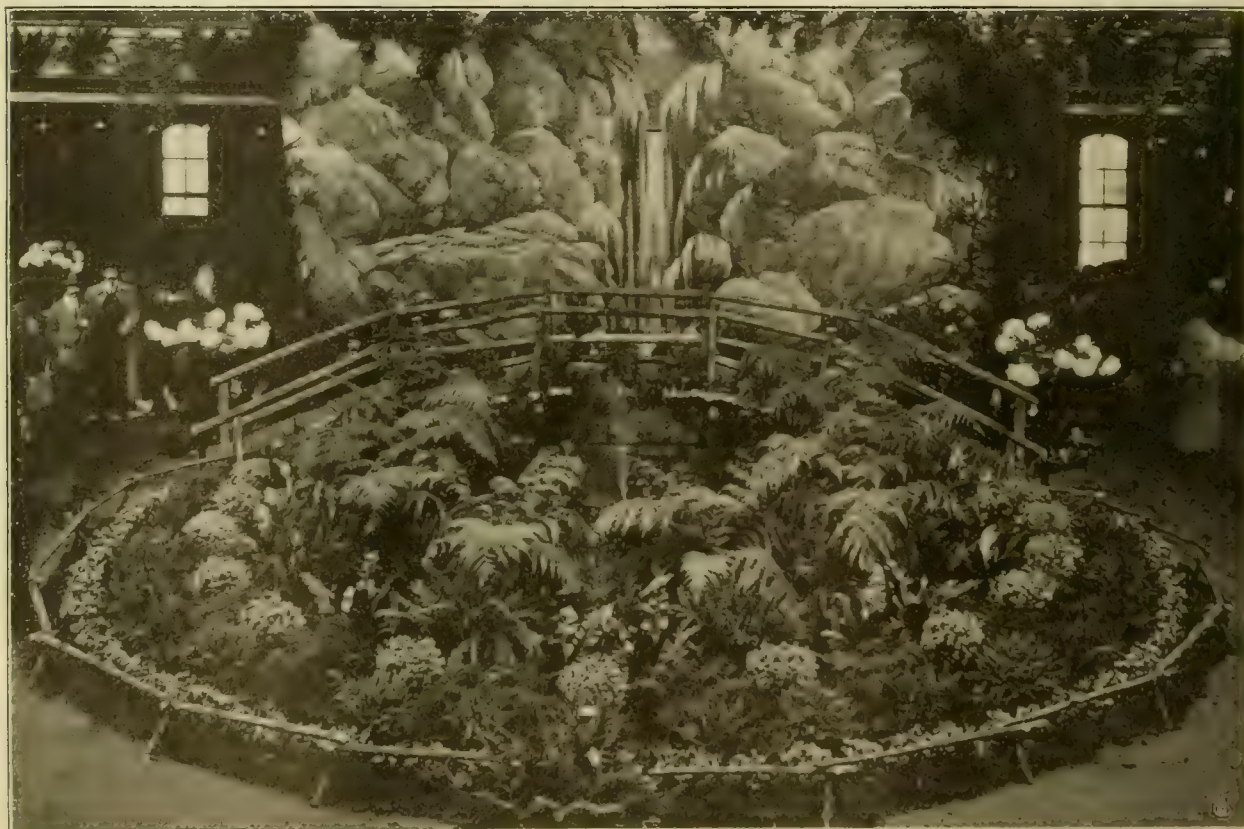

There was an excellent display of flowers and plants—very fine stock being shown. The committee appointed by President Logan to view the exhibits was composed of the following well known gardeners: William Kleinheinz, John H. Dodds, Thomas W. Head. They reported as follows:

Vase of Solanum capsicastrum Melvini—Col. Charles Pfaff (Geo. Melvin, gardener), South Framingham, Mass., certificate of merit.

Vase of carnation Wm. Eccles—Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., certificate of merit.

Vase of carnation Commodore—Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., certificate of merit.

Vase of rose Sunburst and carnation Northport—Chas. H. Totty, special mention.

Vase of carnation Northport—James D. Cockcroft, Northport, N. Y., certificate of merit.

Display of flowering and foliage plants—W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., special mention.

Fourcroya Walsonii and Polypodium Mandaianum—W. A. Manda, certificate of merit.

Vase of carnation Salmon Beauty—Traendly & Schenck, Rowayton, Conn., certificate of merit.

Twelve carnations, flowers of seedling No. 3—Wm. Reid, certificate of merit.

Crimson carnation seedling Harlowarden & Enchantress—Richard Hughes, certificate of merit.

Vase of rose Mrs. Geo. Sawyer—Chas. H. Totty, certificate of merit.

Vase of rose Mrs. Charles Russell—S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., certificate of merit.

Display of new fern Adiantum Farleyense Gloriosa—Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., certificate of merit.

Rose Lady Alice Stanley—Traendly & Schenck, certificate of merit.

Vase of new white pompon chrysanthemum Helen Newberg—A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., certificate of merit.

Flowers of chrysanthemum Summer—A. N. Pierson, Inc., special mention.

Rose Milady—A. N. Pierson, Inc., certificate of merit.

Group of hardy plants including vinca minor aurea—Wm. Tricker, Arlington, N. J., special mention.

Collection of hardy berried plants—Thomas Meehan & Sons, Dresher, Pa., special mention.

THE BANQUET.

The banquet was held on the evening of November 19 immediately following the business session, at the Continental Hotel. Patrick O'Mara was the toastmaster and the many who have seen him preside at similar functions will rest assured that he acted well the part. Prominent speakers were: J. Otto Thilow, Philadelphia; President-elect Waite, William Kleinheinz,

W. H. Waite.

President-Elect National Association of Gardeners

F. W. Kelsey, New York, President Logan, Secretary Ebel, Chas. H. Totty, and J. E. Clarey, Madison, N. J. The tables were beautifully decorated and won the admiration of many Newark citizens who were permitted to view them. It was regretted that on account of other engagements Robert Craig was unable to remain for the banquet. The trophies won by the association bowlers at the tournament in the forenoon, were presented at the banquet. The cup presented by the Aphine Mfg. Co., Madison, N. J., was won by the Pennsylvania team. The President's cup went to Walter Gray, Orange, N. J. The National Association cups went to William Robertson, Jenkinstown, Pa., Joseph A. Manda, West Orange, N. J., president of the New York Florists' Club, and Thomas Aitchison, Mamaroneck, N. Y. The Goodsell fifty-dollar gold piece was won by James Stuart, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and presented by Mr. Goodsell in person. As a review it may be said that from the first to the last, all the proceedings were on a high plane of fraternity, good fellowship and decorum. It is a fine tribute to the gardeners that they can so successfully plan and carry out such an entertaining programme. The following were the committees: Convention—Peter Duff, William H. Duckham, Anthony Bauer, W. H. Waite, James Stuart, John Everett, Carl Schaeffer, Frank E. Witney, William Kleinheinz, John F. Huss, Alexander T. Fraser, Thomas Proctor, William Craig, F. Kirk, Alexander McPherson, A. J. Smith. Final Arrangements—Peter Duff, Robert Tyson, Joseph Manda, M. C. Ebel, Austin C. Saylor. Bowling—Jos. Manda, chairman. Dinner—Robert Tyson, chairman.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

I have a very fine lot of giant Marguerite carnation plants about ready to commence blooming, but the buds are being perforated by some insect whose identity I can not determine, though I have searched diligently and often. It is very likely that the cut worm is doing the mischief. Scratch the soil a little at the base of the plant and see if the worms are not concealed there during the daytime, coming out to work on the plants at night.

THE actual number of members of the Society of American Florists registering at the Chicago convention last August was 707, probably the largest number on record. It is estimated that there were 70 additional members present who failed to register.

SADDLE RIVER, N. J.—A hail storm at Saddle River, N. J., last Sunday afternoon gave the secretary of the Florists' Hall Association several anxious minutes. No glass was broken although some of the hail stones were as large as marbles. Mr. Esler says that the man who asserts that it does not hail in the east is a fakir.

EXAMINING COMMITTEES.

President Chas. H. Totty announces the committees to examine new chrysanthemums for the ensuing year as follows:

Boston — Wm. Nicholson (chairman), James Wheeler, Alex. Montgomery. Ship flowers to Boston Flower Exchange, C., Park street, care of chairman.

New York — Eugene Dailedouze (chairman), Wm. H. Duckham, A. Herrington. Ship flowers to New York Cut Flower Co., 55 Twenty-second street, care of chairman.

Philadelphia — A. B. Cartledge (chairman), John Westcott, S. S. Pennock. Ship flowers to A. B. Cartledge, 1514 Chestnut street.

Cincinnati — R. Witterstaetter (chairman), James Allen, Henry Schwartz. Ship flowers to chairman, Jabez Elliott Flower Market, care janitor.

Chicago — J. B. Deamud (chairman), D. A. Robertson, Peter Schilt. Ship flowers to J. B. Deamud, 160 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Shipments should be made to arrive by 2 p. m. on examination days to receive attention from the committees. Must be prepaid to destination and an entry fee of $2 should be forwarded to the secretary not later than Tuesday of the week they are to be examined, or it may accompany the blooms.

Seedlings and sports are both eligible to be shown before these committees, provided the raiser has given them two years' trial to determine their true character. Special attention is called to the rule that sports to receive a certificate must pass at least three of the five committees.

The committees will be in session to examine such exhibits as may be submitted on Saturday, November 30.

OBITUARY.

George A. Sweet.

George A. Sweet, prominent nurseryman and banker of Dansville, N. Y., died November 13, aged 68. Mr. Sweet was a native of the town in which he died and had spent his entire life there. He was one of Dansville's successful nurserymen and was president of the Citizens' Bank and the Dansville Cemetery Association. He was also a prominent member of the Western New York Nurserymen's Association. The widow, one daughter, Mrs. B. G. Readshaw of Oakland, Calif.; one son, Maxwell Sweet of Dansville, and a brother, Edwin F. Sweet of Grand Rapids, Mich., survive. The funeral was held at the home November 16.

Charles W. Reimers.

Charles William Reimers, who for twenty-five years conducted a retail cut flower store and greenhouses at Crescent Hill, Louisville, Ky., died October 15 of anemia at the age of 60 years. He was born in New York City and located in Louisville at an early age.

Autumn Leaves.

Flower and leaf of vine and tree.
Grass of meadow, weed of mire—
Summer gathered them to be Faggots for the Autumn's fire.

Smoke-like haze on vale and hill;
Flashes of gold and crimson bright
Into life now leap and fill
Field and forest with their light.

All the glory of the year
Kindled into beauty so;
Soon the Winter will be here,
Soon the curfew—then the snow.

So these lovely leaves I lay
In my book, all gold and red;
Embers for a winter's day
When the Autumn's fire is dead.

ROSES IN GOOD DEMAND.

Bright, clear and Indian summer weather has been succeeded by cool. The near approach of Thanksgiving shows itself as the market Saturday had a tendency to shorten and stiffen up. Chrysanthemums are expected to shorten up considerably from now on. Probably a few stragglers will hang on till Christmas. Some good Golden Wedding are now being cut by our local growers. Carnations are improving and getting fine long stems. Roses are in fair supply. American Beauty roses are in good demand. Good violets are easily disposed of. Paper White narcissus in limited quantities is bringing 4 cents. Stevia is getting good. Business in general was quiet Saturday and Sunday.

NOTES.

Adolph Ahner is cutting some first class carnations. He will be in fine shape for Christmas. He consigns his stock to the Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. Some extra fine Timothy Eaton and Golden Wedding chrysanthemums were seen at the Windler establishment. Also fine cut lily of the valley and smilax.

The Retail Association met last Monday, 14 members present. There were distributed among the members postals for window Thanksgiving signs, purchased from the New York Florists' Club.

A meeting of local growers was held Saturday evening at the Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. Music, songs and jokes by the Irish comedian, Paddy Patton, were greatly enjoyed.

The Kelley Floral Co. has a splendid tank full of all varieties of goldfish. Ed is a hustler and has a fine and growing trade.

V. J. Gorly threw open his newly erected residence, 4550 St. Louis avenue, Sunday evening, with his employees as guests.

Mrs. M. L. Pelletier has been very busy of late. She is a daily visitor at the market and a good buyer.

At Angermueller's a very fine stock of roses were seen, also some extra fancy American Beauty roses.

John Held is cutting some choice Golden Wedding. He has a fine stock of blooming plants.

F. X. Gorly left for Chicago Sunday night to look over the market for Thanksgiving.

C. A. Kuehn has had some extra fancy chrysanthemums during the past week.

H. G. Berning has had a fine supply of chrysanthemums and carnations. John Barnard has several advance orders for Thanksgiving.

The Riessen Floral Co. reports trade as very satisfactory.

TRADE MUCH BETTER.

Trade the past week has shown a great improvement and stock in general has had a good call. The demand for American Beauty roses continues to be brisk with the supply still short. Richmond is arriving in fine condition but the demand for this rose is far greater than the supply. Killarney has had a good call. The supply of White Killarney and other white roses has been plentiful all this week. Prince De Bulgarie, Mrs. Aaron Ward and Sunburst sell quickly at good prices and can be seen featured in many of the down town window displays. Carnations are good property, especially red, and command high prices. The supply of chrysanthemums is large but good stock is scarce. Pompons are none too plentiful and the same can be said of lily of the valley. Violets have improved in quality and some very fancy stock is now obtainable. Sweet peas are getting more plentiful and some fine stock of this popular flower is to be had. The variety of orchids offered is quite large, there being cattleyas, dendrobiums, oncidiums, phalaenopsis and cypripediums. Gardenias are in larger supply but are moving well. Extra fancy stevia is obtainable in large quantities, mignonette is plentiful and there are plenty of snapdragons to go around. Smilax sold well the last few days and no surplus is reported. Trade was very lively the opening of this week and the demand for roses and carnations was exceedingly brisk. On the morning of Tuesday, November 24, trade continued to be good and roses and carnations seemed to clean up very fast. There were plenty of chrysanthemums however at that time and the shipments consisted mostly of Lynwood Hall, W. H. Chadwick, Golden Chadwick, Timothy Eaton, Yellow Eaton, Dolly Dimples, Major Bonnafon, White Bonnafon, Nagoya, Golden Eagle, Golden Wedding and a few other late varieties.

NOTES.

Albert E. Cole and Miss Olive K. Lloyd stole a march on their many friends last Wednesday evening, November 20, when they were quietly married at the parsonage of the Rev. McKay, 2519 Indiana avenue. Mr. Cole has charge of the American Beauty roses at E. C. Amling Co.'s store and is well known here. His wife recently came to this country from Australia. The best wishes of the trade are extended to the happy young couple, who will hereafter reside at 4855 Calumet avenue.

A meeting of the Cook County Florists' Association was held at the Tavern, West Washington street, last Thursday, November 21, when three new members were elected and several new applications were read. Walter Scott, of La Grange, read his paper on "Character as a Factor in Business Success," and the sports and pastime committee reported that the arrangements for the dance at the Bush Temple on December 4 were completed.

Victor Bergman, formerly with the Ernst Wienhoeber Floral Co., has purchased an interest in the Canger & Gormley store in the Fine Arts building on South Michigan avenue. The firm name after December 1 will be changed from Canger & Gormley to Canger & Bergman.

John Mangel had a very pretty window display in his Palmer House store this week consisting of artistically arranged corsages, bouquets and neatly arranged baskets of cut flowers. Several large orchid plants and azaleas in full bloom added greatly to the beauty of the window.

John Poehlmann says that Poehlman Bros. Co. has leased the third floor of the building it now occupies and will take possession next spring. Both the cut flower and supply departments are rushed with orders and present a very lively scene. The plant department at Morton Grove reports a good business and has a fine lot of blooming plants and decorative stock ready for the holiday season. Clifford Pruner, one of the traveling representatives, has returned from a successful business trip and will start out again next week.

Tim Matchen escorted the writer through the Peter Reinberg greenhouses on November 24 and it is safe to say that this firm will have large quantities of stock for the Christmas trade. The supply of Richmond roses will be fully up to that of last year and the American Beauties will be in larger supply. Mr. Matchen is a royal entertainer and "Stogie" and the rest of the store boys told the truth when they said that Mrs. Matchen was some cook for it was our pleasure to sample the "eats."

Henry Wittbold left November 28 for Lone Lake, Minn., to arrange a large store opening decoration. L. Wilkerson says that Henry Wittbold has had a good demand for wild smilax and that his firm sold a large supply of decorative stock to the land show exhibitors at the Coliseum.

The J. B. Deamud Co. has had a good call for the violets that it is receiving from the Des Plaines Violet Co. of which Mr. Deamud is one of the proprietors. The supply of stock that this firm is now handling is of fine quality, especially the chrysanthemums.

H. Van Gelder says that trade continues to be good at Percy Jones' store, both in the cut flower and supply departments. Chrysanthemums are the chief offerings now at this house, although the supply of other seasonable cut flowers is large.

The John C. Moninger Co. has just completed a new greenhouse 22x105 feet for Sears, Roebuck & Co. R. C. Lund, head gardener for this firm, is very busy getting things in shape for next season.

Joe Weis says trade at his Southport avenue store has been very good for the last few weeks. It is rumored that Mr. Weis has leased the flat above his store. Oh, you wedding bells!

Weiland & Risch have had several new signs painted on the various entrances to their store. They are now supplying their customers with fancy stevia in large quantities.

Frank X. Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, was a welcome visitor on November 25. He is as good looking as ever and as usual made a big hit with the ladies.

Ed. Armstrong, formerly with A. Lange and later with Kennicott Bros. Co., is assisting Canger & Gormley with their Thanksgiving trade.

U S Budlong's E Blue Ribbon Valley.

John Bergstrom, who recently opened a store in Rockford, was in the city November 25 buying stock for his Thanksgiving trade.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg is receiving an extra fancy grade of violets this week in addition to a good supply of other flowers.

Erne & Klingel will celebrate their first Thanksgiving on November 28. "It promises to be the best ever," they say.

Chas. W. McKellar's shipments of orchids are large but he finds no trouble in disposing of the cattleyas.

August Poehlmann is now speeding through Morton Grove in his new Winton-six touring car.

J. A. Sikuta says that he had more wedding orders this month than he did in June.

Fred Wittbold's son Teddy is the proud owner of a new Shetland pony.

Mrs. Krieger, Canger & Gormley's bookkeeper, is on the sick list.

Sprinkleproof Sam's shower turned into a snowstorm this time.

John Zech and Mat. Mann, Zech & Mann, visited the Chicago Carnation Co.'s greenhouses at Joliet this week for the purpose of seeing the new scarlet carnation "The Herald." Mr. Zech said that it is the coming red for it has a fine even color, perfect flower and good stiff stem. The Thompson Carnation Co.'s plant was also visited and the visitors say that some exceptionally fine W. H. Chadwick, Golden Chadwick, Timothy Eaton, Yellow Eaton and Lynwood Hall chrysanthemums were seen there. Upon investigation it is found that Z. & M. are handling this stock.

A. C. Raichar, of Michigan City, Ind., was the guest of Phil. Schupp and Wm. Homberg of the J. A. Budlong establishment on November 25. Mr. Raichar, who bought out W. A. Kintzle a few years ago, is building up a nice trade and enjoying a good business.

Bassett & Washburn are cutting heavily in roses and carnations and had a good supply of fine stock for their Thanksgiving trade. Their Eaton chrysanthemums were in great demand and sold at an early hour.

J. A. Budlong has been featuring a fine grade of American Beauty roses for some time as well as a good supply of his blue ribbon valley.

Hoerber Bros. had some fine Killarney and White Killarney roses to supply their customers for their Thanksgiving trade.

Joe Craig, the Wabash avenue florist, says that this is one of the best seasons he has ever had.

John Kruchten is headquarters for a fine grade of home grown gardenias which are having a very good call. An error appeared in his advertisement last week when gardenias read $3.00 to $4.00 per 100 instead of $3.00 to $4.00 per dozen as it should have been. It seems as if everyone in the trade discovered the mistake for they kept his telephone ringing all day long asking him if he had any gardenias at $3.00 to $4.00 per 100. Fortunately Mr. Kruchten is a pretty good natured fellow or matters might have been much worse.

The next regular meeting of the Florists' Club will be held at the Union Restaurant, Thursday evening, December 5, when the election of officers for the ensuing year will be held. One of the principal features of the meeting will be a lecture by Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., president of the Society of American Florists.

Joseph Ziska is receiving a large number of complimentary letters from florists who have received his new catalog and looked it over. The catalog which is now being mailed free to the trade contains an illustration of nearly every wire design imaginable and should be in the hands of every florist.

In our note on the Florists' Club banquet last week we inadvertently omitted mention of Elmer D. Smith's contribution of several fine vases of chrysanthemums, among which we noted Mt. Kisco and Elberon, blooms of the latter having been cut two weeks and still in fine condition.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are handling a very fine grade of American Beauty roses which are meeting with immediate sale. Mr. Vaughan said on Monday that business had been very good right along and that the greatest rush was yet to come.

Wietor Bros. are cutting a fine grade of all kinds of stock, especially American Beauty roses. Chrysanthemums are in good supply here and the cut was nearly enough to take care of all their Thanksgiving orders.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association has a good local trade and the Thanksgiving business promises to be very good. The demand for carnations at this house has been exceptionally brisk all this week.

J. C. Vaughan was tendered a complimentary dinner at the Union League club November 21 by democratic leaders in recognition of his great work for democracy in several recent campaigns.

W. F. Shields, formerly with E. MacMulkin of Boston, Mass., is now with the Bohannon Floral Co.

John Evans, of Richmond, Ind., talked Challenge ventilators here on November 21-22.

Peter Papos and a friend are going to open another store in Detroit, Mich., in the near future.

The E. C. Amling Co. shipments of stevia are very large and contain some fine stock.

Vaughan's Seed Store is shipping Thanksgiving holly and Liliun auratum this week.

H. E. Klunder is now with the Hill-Heller Co., Cincinnati, O.

DEMAND IS GOOD.

Some growers are again making the mistake of holding back stock for Thanksgiving for a little better price, with the result that orders for chrysanthemums in particular were hard to fill the past week, necessitating the use of long distance phone calls and telegrams to get extra shipments of stock to fill. The demand the past week has been very good, and everything sold off clean at a fair price. American Beauties are showing excellent form, and more perfect flowers and stiffer stems than have been seen for some time, and the demand about keeps the market cleaned up. Killarneys are now coming in with long stems and large blooms. Both Killarney and American Beauties are very fine. Aaron Ward roses are still favorites for corsage work, and show excellent form and color. Richmond roses are good stock and the Christmas supply promises to excel and exceed any previous year. Lily of the valley has been a little short of the demand. Orchids have been plentiful, both white and lavender. Violets are in good demand, some of the best Rheinbeck stock obtainable now being sold on the local market. Button chrysanthemums or pompons are still plentiful enough for this time of the year. Easter lilies have been a little scarce. Callas are arriving daily, with a fine demand. Carnations are far short, but the stock which does arrive shows the best of form. Greens of all kinds are plentiful, but the market is glutted with dark and short spray bunches of plumosa at a time of the year when long stemmed green is very desirable to use with chrysanthemums. Southern smilax is being used extensively for store decorations.

The Cleveland Florists' Exchange is handling the finest violets the New York growers produce and the advance orders for Thanksgiving Day business show how much the retailers who have bought and used them appreciate a good flower. The Exchange handled more violets this season than ever before, which is the best proof of stock being entirely satisfactory.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS ON THE WANE.

While there still appears to be a sufficient stock of chrysanthemums for the demand, the great supply, which has completely filled the market for the last two weeks, has dwindled and the coming week's demand will undoubtedly use up all that are offered at fair prices. Bonnaillon is still the standard yellow. Golden Wedding, yellow Chadwick, yellow Eaton, are fancy yellows. Lynwood Hall, white Chadwick and Timothy Eaton are now the chief white, with a few Jenne Nonin just coming in. Maud Dean is still the best pink. The yellow pompons, Quinola and Klondyke are good sellers. Roses are fairly plentiful, American Beauties seeming to be in crop again and are to be had in quantity. The quality of the specials is fine, in fact all grades are good. The new yellows are in great demand, as the public has taken to them with a will, particularly for the baskets and bunches. Sunburst and Lady Hillingdon are now seen with long stems and command two to four dollars more a dozen than the same grade of Killarneys. Mrs. Ward is also a good seller. Carnations are gaining in quality and $1.00 per hundred has been added to the price the past week. The Wards are still leaders. Violets are now up to the winter standard and are in good demand but at prices a trifle lower than last season. Cattleyas are a bit scarce with prices holding and, in fact, increasing. Cypripediums are more plentiful and sell fairly well. Good mignonette is now to be had in quantity and will be one of the staples from now on. Snapdragon sells up close every day. Winter flowering plants are now seen in fair assortment, including cyclamen with from 3 to 6 flowers. Begonia Lorraine and Cincinnati, primulas, and azaleas, very well flowered for the season, and poinsettias.

NOTES.

Leo Niessen says the Philadelphia market is growing larger all the time, the quantity of stock now coming in being much larger than last season. Forty-two employees are kept busy all day long handling the business at this busy place. More than half the American Beauties coming to this city are handled by this firm.

The cry that the retailers were averse to handling new roses has been disproved by the demand for the new yellows, which are behind the demand in quantity. Let the growers produce good stock of any kind and the dealers will fight among themselves to get it.

All the red things for Christmas are having a great run at M. Rice & Co.'s place. Special baskets for the holidays are pushing the factory to its limit to get them out on time.

Azaleas, araucarias and begonias are features with Godfrey Aschmann. He says the Christmas demand was never better, many orders being received for December delivery.

Eugene Weiss opened his Germantown avenue flower shop last Saturday. He simply had to get back into the harness again. We wish him every success.

Chadwick chrysanthemums, pink, white and yellow, were the feature of the Berger market the past week. A splendid stock of boxwood is also seen here.

John Gracey cleared up the Harris chrysanthemums on Saturday last, purchasing the balance of the crop for his Thanksgiving day business.

Julius Wolf, Jr., has purchased two autos to add to his delivery service. The last is a Ford, for which a special body is being made.

Frank Gane is much encouraged in his new venture on Thirteenth street. The store presents a bright, up-to-date appearance.

The Floracraft Gardens, Moorestown, N. J., are having great success with valley, the stock grading high.

Adolph Farenwald is sending some very fine American Beauties to the Leo. Niessen Co. K.

Cincinnati.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS SELL POORLY.

The market last week was a very trying one. The chrysanthemums proved almost the least popular of all flowers, while those that were either in short supply or off crop sold well and in many cases more of them might have been used. The ruling prices are only fair. The chrysanthemum market was as a whole very poor. Some of the better blooms both in large varieties and pompons sold nicely, but the bulk of the supply found either a very slow market or none at all. White roses and lilies followed right on the footsteps of chrysanthemums as far as being good sellers. Almost everything else sold nicely when all the attendant circumstances and conditions are taken into consideration. American Beauties, Richmond and pink roses moved fairly well. The same is true of valley, orchids, violets and carnations. Sweet peas were in demand. Narcissi cleaned up nicely. Considerable stevia was offered. The sales in these lines, however, were not at such a high price that they could offset the slump in the other lines.

NOTES.

The committee consisting of C. H. Hoffmeister, Al. Heckman, Jr., and Ray Murphy have been hustling and working faithfully and as a result of their efforts a successful affair, successful both in respect to attendance and the artistic features, is assured. The time and place is Burnet House, on Monday, December 9, at 8 p. m. Those who have not already signified their intention of attending should notify the committee at once.

C. E. Critchell has, for the past fortnight, been receiving from C. L. Baum, Knoxville, Tenn., some of the longest American Beauties ever offered on the local market.

GOOD SEASON EXPECTED.

This has been a good week and growers, wholesalers and retailers all look forward to a good winter.
Thanksgiving usually sees the opening of the winter's trade. Everything has sold well this week. Roses and carnations have advanced in price.
The latter are scarce, though nobody knows why. Even the big growers say their shipments have dwindled down to hundreds instead of thousands. In chrysanthemums, yellow bonnaffons have had a good call.
Good reds had a good demand at the end of the week for the Harvard-Yale football game. Violets are plentiful.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT IN TRADE.

The business of the past week was a slight improvement over that of the previous week but it was not good enough to give any wholesaler thrills. The glut of chrysanthemums, particularly toward the last of the week, was not so apparent, and though much good stock is yet arriving it is hoped that most of it can be handled. Considering the stock that has already been cut, and the present condition of the weather, it would seem impossible that the chrysanthemums can last much longer. As this is written it is less than a week from Thanksgiving and the weather is like May. True, there have been a few chilly mornings and an occasional cold wind, but it doesn't last. It may be that the slight falling off in the supply at this time is but the precursor of another glut at Thanksgiving. There is an abundant supply of roses and carnations, and though the best stock moves freely there are no high prices. Orchids are the only stock that is not plentiful and though we would not say they are scarce, the prices for selected stock have been slightly advancing. The best quality of gardenias are holding their own but the poor stock is hard to dispose of. Violets hang heavy on the hands of the wholesale dealers. Possibly a few hundred that are extra good and fresh may bring 50 to 60 cents a hundred, but there is sure to be a lot left that go begging. Asparagus and smilax are plentiful and cheap; while the asking prices for smilax is $1.00 a dozen, sales are made at 75 cents. There was a very lively movement in the early morning markets Saturday, November 23. This was very noticeable in the Coogan building where the New York Cut Flower Co. and the Cut Flower Exchange are located. There was also a better feeling in Twenty-eighth street. Wagons piled high with boxes of flowers went out of Twenty-eighth street November 23, their destination being department stores. These flowers were bought at a very low figure and all who know the methods of department store sales, know that no regular retail florist can compete with that kind of business. What happened on that day is but a sample of what has happened on many other days. We have many clubs and societies in which fraternity and helpfulness, one toward another, is frequently mentioned. Can the growers afford to contribute to the slaughter, figuratively speaking, of the retailers who have spent many years in building up their business?

Monday, November 25.—There is an upward tendency in prices this morning, particularly noticeable in carnations and lily of the valley. There was a thunderstorm on Sunday, November 24, followed by a cold wave and a fierce north wind is sweeping over the city.

NOTES.

Gottlieb Myer, the retail florist of Madison avenue and Fifty-eighth street, was in police court Monday morning to defend two of his men who had been arrested at Madison Square Garden for breaking the sabbath. Mr. Myer decorated the garden for the Horse Show and among many other good features, used a lot of fine palms, which he was naturally anxious to get back to his conservatory. When the wagon was loaded one of the "finest" appeared and put the two men under arrest. The two men and the load of palms were taken to the station. Mr. Myer going on a street car. Judge Appleton, who is noted for his fairness, doubtless saw the inconsistency of the arrest, with hundreds of more flagrant violations happening every Sunday, and honorably discharged the two men.

N. Christatos, Fifty-eighth street and Sixth avenue, has had printed a card which he gives to customers. On one side there is an acrostic poem, the acrostic being, "N. Christatos," in which the merits of his stock are set forth. On the other side, there are minute directions for the care of cut flowers and house plants. Mr. Christatos is one of the old timers in the business and his show windows are always beautiful.

Although occasional complaints are heard from certain quarters, Max Schling, who has a fine store adjoining the Plaza Hotel, is always bubbling over with good nature and every time we call his large force is busy filling orders. He always has fine stock and has orders for decorations booked weeks and even months ahead.

Alexander Donaldson, son of John Donaldson, the well known grower of Elmhurst, L. I., is reported as being in the Flushing hospital in a serious condition as the result of an operation. His father and mother, who recently went south for the benefit of Mrs. Donaldson's health, have been called home by telegraph.

Peter Bogart, who has a record of twenty-six years in the retail business, recently talked interestingly of past and present conditions in the cut flower trade. He is an optimist, has always had a good business and does not "view with alarm" the coming and going of freaks and fakirs.

At the store of Geo. M. Stumpp we recently noticed a splendid window display of palms, ferns, flowering and other foliage plants. This store has always been noted for its artistic arrangements and combination of plants and is now early in the field with much fine stock.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Butler, Florist, Inc., 18 East Forty-sixth street. The liabilities are $3,000 and the assets $1,500. This business was formerly located on Broadway. In recent years it has been conducted by Eugene Maccan.

Victor Darvel, C. W. Scott, John Miesem and Philip Einsmann, who have been on a southern trip, have returned home well pleased. They visited Old Point Comfort, Richmond and other Virginia cities.

Alexander McConnell's Fifth avenue store is now very beautiful and every feature is pleasing. Camellias, which are again becoming fashionable, may be seen at this store in perfect condition.

Herman Weiss, one of the young men in the wholesale business, is handling exceptionally fine stock of the chrysanthemum "Jenny Noonas," and it brings good prices.

The Johnstone Heating Co. has taken 275 feet of space in the Grand Central Palace, for the International Flower Show and plans to make a fine exhibit of boilers.

The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club will be held in the Grand Opera House building on the night of December 9. It will be election night.

A. F. F.

Rochester, N. Y.

ROSES VERY POOR.

The market is well supplied with all kinds of stock, save carnations. The shipments of these flowers are small and the demand great. Roses are very unsatisfactory. The outer petals are brown and dry and look old, and the flowers are small. Probably with more settled weather the quality would improve somewhat. Business is looking up now and the outlook is better. The chrysanthemums are large, fine flowers. Pink and White Ivory, Major Bonaffon, White Bonaffon, Timothy Eaton, Patty, Queen, Christy Mathewson and Col. Appleton are included in the list. Sweet peas, candy tuft, Paper White narcissi and snapdragons are also seen. Violets are plentiful and good. Valley maintains its high quality. Stevia has appeared and is sold readily. About all the stores have been busy with funeral work during the week and also a number of wedding orders have been filled.

NOTES.

George T. Boucher is making a decided increase in his store space. For a long time a circulating library has been using nearly half of the room. Soon however this will remove to another store, giving Mr. Boucher all of the space.

Charles Curtis of Irondequoit, N. Y., is growing some very fine Boston ferns this fall. This is his first attempt and he has been successful. Something like 1,600 good plants are in the house.

The Lord & Burnham Co., New York, has opened a branch office here in the Granite building, Main and St. Paul streets, in charge of H. E. Bates.

The ladies of the Florists' Association met at the Elm bowling hall on Tuesday with their husbands as guests.

Stephen Green, representing H. Bayersdorfer of Philadelphia, Pa., called on the trade this week.

The Maurer-Haap Co. is doing a good business in bulbs and plants for fancy hedges.

H. E. Wilson had a large decoration during the past week at the Powers hotel.

Hiram E. Wilson and wife have gone to Florida for the winter.

Thomas Cogger, formerly of Rochester, called on trade this week.

Miss Ball is now in the employ of the Rochester Floral Co.

Chas. Gow has been sick for two or three days. H. J. H.

Nashville, Tenn.

ANNUAL FOOTBALL GAME.

All the florists in this city are, as usual, on this date, looking forward to the annual Thanksgiving Day football game between Vanderbilt University and Sewanee. The Vanderbilt colors are represented by the yellow chrysanthemum, and the Sewanee colors by violets and chrysanthemums. Both flowers are grown to perfection to meet this annual demand, much to the joy of the grower, who plans his annual crop accordingly. There is no doubt that of the many thousand chrysanthemums now in the various floral establishments few, if any, will be left on hand by nightfall of Thanksgiving. The yellow chrysanthemums were never seen in better form.

NOTES.

McIntyre Bros. are installed in their beautiful new store on West End avenue, one of the fashionable residential sections. It is quite an innovation and looks very attractive among its aristocratic neighbors. The old residence, once a very handsome one, has been remodeled to meet the requirements of a floral store. The front floor room was lowered and brought out to the street, making a very commodious storeroom where all the business will be transacted. It is fully equipped with handsome counters, show cases and display cases. A large refrigerator has been built in the store capable of holding a vast amount of cut flowers. To the side of the store extending also to the street, and opening into the store is a very pretty greenhouse; very ornamental and attractive.

The Joy Floral Co. has already put in the football decorations which are both novel and beautiful. One window represents Vanderbilt and has a huge floral football of yellow chrysanthemums suspended from yellow and black streamers across the window. The floral football bears on black ribbon with gold letters, the word "Vanderbilt." The other window, the same in size and shape, is decorated in the same manner with the colors white and purple. Mr. Joy says he will have between two and three thousand fine flowers on sale. His roses and carnations will be abundant. For some time now he has had sweet peas and is still cutting a good crop of them.

Louis Haury & Sons have a trade and are more than satisfied with their experience in the uptown store. They have fine chrysanthemums and will have about fifteen hundred on sale Thanksgiving Day both white and yellow. Their potted chrysanthemums have sold well in both the pompon and other varieties. They will have plenty of violets for Thanksgiving and expect to meet all demands. They have issued a neat little leaflet of some of the fine designs and bouquets they have made.

Geny Bros. have a beautiful show window of fine potted and cut chrysanthemums. They are in great shape for the oncoming demand and the firm expects to do a good business. They have had fine sales all along on their chrysanthemums. They will be in good shape for the violet trade as they are having an abundant supply. Their roses are fine and carnations never better. They will be able to cut at least three thousand chrysanthemums for Thanksgiving.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS PLENTIFUL.

Chrysanthemums have been plentiful and of good quality. Yellows are selling best, whites second and pinks take third place. There is a limited demand for bronzes and reds. Singles are greatly in favor and sell readily. The varieties are legion. Roses and carnations will come to their own when the chrysanthemums are over.

CLUB MEETING.

The chrysanthemum show held recently at the club rooms was a surprise to all. The entries filled the large hall and the quality was above all expectations. Hall & Robinson, in the cut bloom section, easily carried off the first prizes. P. McKenna & Son were awarded, for a special exhibit of single chrysanthemums, a cultural certificate. Hall & Robinson won a special prize for an exhibit of roses, including all the newest varieties. The exhibit was visited by the ladies from the court of the Royal Guardians who appeared in a body. The preparations for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Montreal Gardeners and Florists' Club are nearly completed. Jas. Bennett, first president of the club, will preside at the banquet and an effort will be made to locate all the charter members and have them present. Any charter member is invited to correspond with W. H. Horobin, secretary, 283 Marquette street, for information. Fred Harris and Alex Morison were elected members, and J. H. Eddy, A. C. Wilshire and Julius Luck were appointed to audit the books. The awards at the exhibition were as follows: Chrysanthemum plant—T. Arnold, gardener to Mrs. C. M. Hays, first; L. Arnold gardener to J. Sutherland, second. Single chrysanthemum—T. Arnold, first. Chrysanthemum plant, 6 inch pot—T. Arnold, first; J. A. Travis, gardener to A. H. Sims, second. Nephrolepis—J. A. Travis, first; T. Arnold, second. Pan of ferns—J. A. Travis, first. Orchid—T. Arnold, first; J. A. Travis, second. Begonia Gloire de Lorraine—T. Arnold, first; L. Arnold, second; J. W. Turner, gardener to E. B. Greenshields, third. Begonia, other varieties—J. W. Turner, first. Cut chrysanthemums, twelve—Hall & Robinson, first; J. W. Turner, second. Three white—Hall & Robinson, first. Pink—Hall & Robinson, first; T. T. Arnold, second; L. Arnold, third. Yellow—Hall & Robinson, first. Red—T. Arnold, first. Bronze—Hall & Robinson, first; T. Arnold, second. Chrysanthemums and begonias—Hall & Robinson, first; T. Arnold, second. Vase of singles—Hall & Robinson, first; P. McKenna & Sons, second; J. Eddy & Sons, third; J. W. Turner, fourth. Vase of Pompons—P. McKenna & Son, first; Hall & Robinson, second. Special exhibit of seedling chrysanthemums—P. McKenna & Son. Special exhibit of roses—Hall & Robinson.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, and painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established, and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

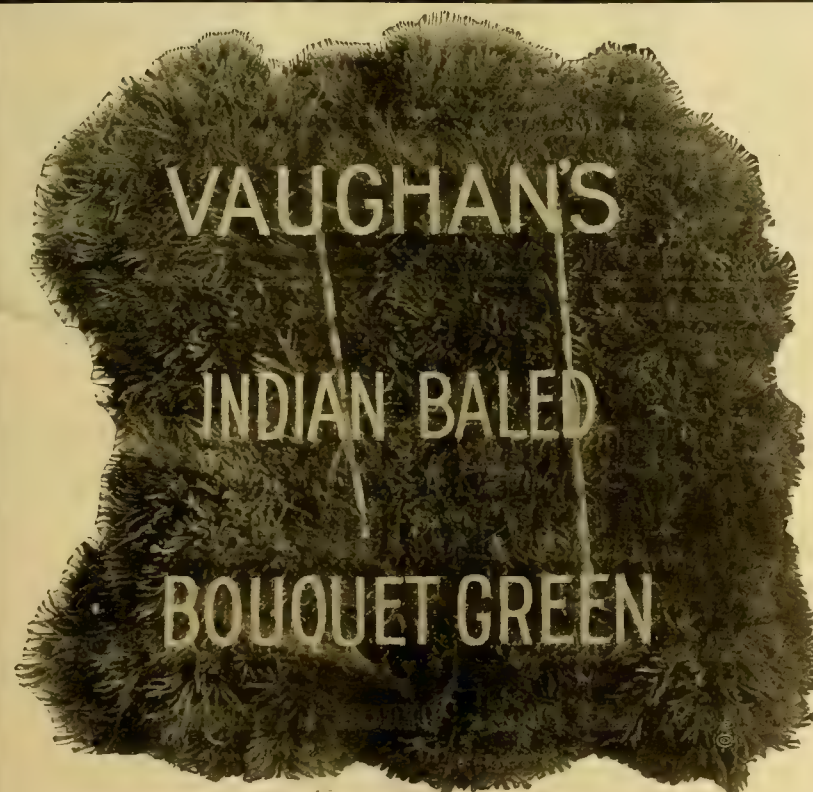

When in Philadelphia Be Sure to Look Us Up

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your convenience, both going and coming. Then you will see our Palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place), and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to our Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

TUBEROSE crop reports indicate a shortage of from 20 to 25 per cent.

WM. H. MAULE, Philadelphia, Pa., and family are at Virginia Hot Springs.

MONTANA PEAS from heavy, late soil are rotting considerably, some having been caught by early frosts.

W. ATLEE BURPEE, Philadelphia, Pa., promises the trade a sensation in his forthcoming 1913 general catalogue.

NEW ALBANY, IND.—The New Albany Seed and Implement Co. has incorporated. The capital stock is $5,000, and the directors are Herman Brown, Sr., Louisa Brown and Henry Goetz.

BOUQUET GREEN.—Cold weather and snow has stopped the picking of bouquet green. Slow demand and a full crop has weakened prices somewhat. With a good cold weather demand, however, the market should absorb present supply by December 1 to December 10.

DELAWARE HOLLY, it is rumored this week, has been quarantined by state or federal authorities. The Federal Horticultural Board at Washington, D. C., advises, however, that the federal law places no restrictions on Delaware cut holly and that only a small area in New England is quarantined.

HOLLY reports indicate well berried stock, but the early samples do not show the glossy foliage which a good stiff freeze usually puts on the leaves; unless this condition prevails before stock is packed in the cases it is likely to open up at the end of a long railway journey looking very dull. Offerings from the east and south have been reasonably free.

CHICAGO.—Leaders in Second District politics and personal friends to the number of about 50 gave a dinner to J. C. Vaughan at the Union League club on the evening of November 21 in recognition of the several excellent campaigns he has made in the cause of democracy in a constituency strongly republican.—Prices on the Board of Trade November 26 for grass seed were noted as follows: Timothy, $3.25 to $4.15 per 100 pounds.

Heinemann's Novelties.

F. C. Heinemann offers the following novelties for 1913, the descriptions being mainly in his own terms.

Petunia Hybrida Grandiflora Superbissima Nana.—All Superbissima petunias show the fault of growing too tall, being thereby of less winning appearance. The height of this strain is only one-half or two-thirds of that of the old class. A very large percentage of the seedlings will grow quite compact, as the distances between the flowering and branching shoots are remarkably short. The flowers are very large but substantial owing to their rich undulation which renders them loose and attractive, even more refined than those of the old Superbissima class. The display of colors is an extraordinarily rich one showing all shades, with deep dark throats as well as with the most lovely veining.

Chrysanthemums Leucanthemum Secundum, June Marguerite.—This novelty flowers shortly after spring Marguerite which blooms from May till early in June, and continues until the late varieties start, thus enabling us to have this valuable cut flower without interruption from May till August. The plant grows about three feet high, producing its pretty long-stemmed flowers profusely. The latter are much larger and more elegant than that of the Spring Marguerite. Its florets being loose and somewhat ray like and not so closely set, give the whole flower a most graceful appearance.

Schizanthus Hybridus Grandiflorus.—Out of the great display of colors which the large flowering schizanthus hybrids produce this lovely variety, which comes now almost true to color, has been selected. It is a brilliant violet red of lighter and darker shading. Each flower shows the large white eye, which is a peculiarity of the schizanthus, finely veined. On a few flowers the eye shows also a golden yellow margin. The white eye enriches most markedly the whole appearance. It is dwarf, of compact growth, and the flowers are very large.

Ageratum Mexicanum Little Dorrit.—Ageratum Little Dorrit (white) offered till now has a rather unpleasant color, and if massed in beds it has more the appearance of a pale blue than of white. All attempts to improve it were unsuccessful. This new ageratum has not been developed from the old strain, but has been cultivated by itself, coming quite true from seed. It is a really pure white variety so that a bed of it is of quite a remarkable aspect. The plants are very dwarf and compact and literally covered with flowers.

Papaver Somniferum, Hansa Poppy.—The flowers of this new poppy have a pure white ground color, passing towards the finely slitted edge to a deep crimson. The single fringed poppy is one of the most favored annuals and owing to the fact that every amateur can easily grow it without any experience the demand for it is increasing every year.

Vienna Carnation.—This new carnation has the same precedences as the improved strain of dwarf Vienna carnation. Like this it is quite dwarf and compact growing and very early flowering. The color of this introduction is a brilliant violet, quite a new shade and scarcely seen in any mixture, being most striking and very lovely.

Lima Beans in Cebu.

Cebu, the most densely populated of any of the large islands of the Philippine group, is confronted at all times with the problem of producing on its farms an adequate supply of food. Corn and rice, the principal food crops of the province, are largely grown throughout the island, but it is highly important that these crops be supplemented by others of known value. At the present time work is being carried on in Cebu by the Bureau of Agriculture, the Bureau of Education, and the Philippine Railway Co., not only to improve the crops already grown, but also to introduce new crops. In a recent communication Carl F. Coppage, supervising teacher in the municipality of Argao, furnishes a brief statement of work done with Lima beans. The results obtained, as shown in this report which is published herewith, indicate that his crop is one worthy of more extensive trial in other parts of the Islands:

"A small plot of Lima beans was planted about October 15, 1911, in a clay loam soil. The ground was spaded to a depth of about 10 inches, and beans planted in hills about 80 centimeters apart each way.

"When the plants were well up they were thinned to two in each hill and bamboo poles placed to support the vines. After this they received no other cultivation than such as was needful to keep down the weeds. The past season has been the driest known here for years, and there has been scarcely any rain in Argao since January 1.

"I have harvested these beans continuously since about January 15 and now (May 27) the vines are covered with blossoms and fruit in all stages of development.

"No estimate could be made as to yield per acre or hectare that would be in any way accurate, but I have seen these beans grown in the United States and am convinced that the yield here is much better.

"Another experiment was made in a sandy soil about 80 feet from tide-water. A few beans were planted near a stone wall about February 20, 1912. When they were a few inches high some bamboo poles were placed so that the vines could get to the top of the wall, and no other attention was paid to them. On my return to Argao I found these beans bearing fruit and doing fairly well, though not so well as the ones planted in October.

"These experiments have been crude, and were made in the hope of getting some food crop that would do well on such worn-out soil as we find here in this municipality. They will be continued throughout the year in different localities and soils, and more accurate data kept. No plant enemies, so far as I know, have attacked any of the plants.

"If this variety of bean will be able to stand the wet season moderately well I am convinced that it will be a valuable addition to the food crops here in Cebu."—Philippine Agriculture Review.

Prepare for Christmas.

Be Successful This Christmas. Don't be defeated in society. Moving in or even thoughts of moving in high society often brings disappointment and sorrow. Be wise and have your eyes open and do as Godfrey Aschmann does. Put your full strength and mind into business. Time lost is money lost. The time—holiday time—now has arrived, so that a proper investment of your pennies can't fail to turn them into dollars. Prosperity is at last once more knocking at your door. There are signs of a big demand for Christmas Plants. We were not slow in looking forward by raising an immense stock of Choice Christmas Novelties, Godfrey Aschmann's quality, such as described below, now in prime condition for the holidays for immediate shipment.

Araucarias Our Specialty.

6,000 at hand, all sizes.

Araucaria Excelsa is a Christmas novelty of ours that has no end.

Twenty-five years of importing, cultivating and shipping of Araucaria Excelsa gained us such a reputation all over America, from ocean to ocean, that it has aroused the young as well as the old, and has inflamed them to such an extent that they want at least one or two of these so much prized evergreen pine trees at Christmas on the Christmas table or in any suitable place in the home.

Look! Christmas trees will be scarce this Christmas. Why? Have you read the report of the United States Department of Agriculture, Notice of Quarantine No. 4 (Domestic), effective on and after Nov. 25th, 1912? This is on account of two injurious insects, the gypsy moth and the brown tail moth. Regulations about Christmas, too, for some of the Eastern States. If you will write to the United States Department of Agriculture, they will mail you all particulars on this subject.

A Christmas tree everybody, especially for the dear little ones, will have. Now, what will you do? I know what I am going to do. Make a break for Godfrey Aschmann's Araucaria House. It will give us two advantages. First, it will serve as a Christmas tree; and, look! afterwards it will serve as an ornamental plant for the parlor.

Araucaria Excelsa, 5½ to 5½-in. pots, 2-3 years old, 3-4 tiers, 14-15-16 in. high, 40c to 50c; 5½ to 6 in. pots, 3 years old, 4-5 tiers, 16-18-20 in. high, 60c to 75c; 6-in. pots, 4 years old, 4-5-6 tiers, 20-22-25 in. high, $1.00; 6-in. pots, 5 years old, 5-6 tiers as big as an elephant, $1.25 to $1.50; 7-in. pots, 5 to 6 years old, 6-7 tiers, 30 to 40 in. high, a holy terror, only $1.75 to $2.00.

Araucaria Excelsa Glauca and Robusta Compacta, April, 1911, importation, 6-7 in. pots, fine bushy plants, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 each.

Ferns.

The growing of Nephrolepis for the past five years has been one of our leading specialties. We have three houses, which were rebuilt this summer, especially adapted for the growing of first-class stock. Ferns do not do well in old houses. They need houses with plenty of sun and good, fresh sweet air. Old dark houses bring fungus and make spindly plants.

Neph. Glatrasii. This is a new fern, very graceful, of weeping habit, short and bushy, very much admired by every one who has bought it. 4-5 5½-6 in. pots, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c.

Neph. Whitmani, 4-in., 20c; 5½ to 6 in. pots, 30c, 35c, 40c and 50c; 7-in., 75c.

Neph. Scottii, 4-in., 20c; 5-in., 35c; 5½ to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 7-in., 75c.

Boston, 7-in., 75c; 5½ to 6 in., 40c to 50c; 5-in., 35c; 4-in., 20c.

Neph. Elegantissima Compacta, 6-in., 50c.

Neph. Scholzei, 6-in., 50c; 4-in., 25c.

Adiantum Hybridum, the new Maidenhair Fern, large 4-in., bushy, 15c; 5 in., 25c.

We have a big assortment of 2½-in. Dish Ferns, now ready, $4.00 per 100, 3-in., $7.00 per 100.

6-in. dishes, made up of Wilsoni Ferns, one large Dracaena Terminalis in center, 50c.

6-in. pans made up of 3 in. Wilsoni Ferns, very attractive, would sell like hot cakes for 75c. Look! only 25c per pan for three big plants.

Begonias Gloire de Lorraine and Lonsdale, pink, 5½ to 6 in. pots, 50c, 75c to $1.00. Glory of Cincinnati, 5, 5½ to 6 in. pots, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50.

Begonia Gloire de Lorraine, 3-in., 12c to 15c.

Our usual Christmas strain of Begonia Improved Erfordi are now ready; large 4-in., 15c to 20c.

Poinsettias, 4-in., 20c to 25c; 5½-in., 35c to 40c.

Large 6-in. pans, Azalea pots, filled with Asparagus Plumosus or Wilsoni Ferns or Alba Linata, with a Poinsettia in center, potted six weeks ago, now large and fine, 50c per pan.

Corpea Australis Palms, 5-in. pots, 20-in. high, 35c.

Asparagus Plumosus and Sprengeri, large 4-in., $10.00 per 100 (or 10c).

Asparagus Plumosus, 2½-in., $3.00 per 100; 5½-in., large, 35c to 40c.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 2½-in., $3.00 per 100.

ONE OF GODFREY ASCHMANN'S ARAUCARIA HOUSES.

AZALEAS.

Our new importation of Azaleas are all in and unpacked. Never in our life have we received a better and finer selection of Azaleas than this fall. All of them have original foliage and are well budded.

For Christmas Forcing.—If you want to be successful, lose no time and start now. Start the Azaleas in low temperature and increase the temperature gradually up to 60 degrees until they show color; then cool off gradually again. We have only the best well-known Christmas varieties, such as Deutsche Perle, white; Simon Mardner, pink; Mme. Petrick, new, pink; Pharilda Mathilda, variegated; Verzaneana, variegated rose; Apollo, red. Prices: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. For Easter Blooming and for Easter we have the well-known American varieties, such as Mme. Van der Cruysen, best pink; Paul Weber, De Schryveriana, John Llewellyn, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), and a few more good sorts. P. S.—The Christmas varieties can be kept for Easter forcing without trouble. Price: 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. We sell our Azaleas for cash only, because there is no profit to be made in Azaleas.

Our Mme. Petrick Azaleas are round as an apple, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50; covered with buds; a child can force them; best pink; earliest of all.

All other varieties are covered with buds.

No profit is made on Azaleas any more; therefore only cash with order will be accepted.

Hydrangea Otaksa, pot-grown. Remember, only pot-grown stock, like ours, will force successfully. 5½-6-7 in. pots, 25c-35c-50c.

Primula Obconica Grandiflora, good strain, assorted, 4-in., $10.00 per 100; 5½-in., $2.50 per doz.

Primula Chinensis, John F. Rupp strain, assorted, 4-in., $10.00 per 100; 5½-in., only $2.50 per doz.

Queen Alexandra Daisies, pure white, good Easter Daisy, 2½-in. pots, strong, $4.00 per 100; 3-in., $6.00 per 100.

Ficus Elastica, Belgium or American stock, 5-5½-in., 30c, 35c to 40c; 6-in., 50c; 7-in., 75c.

Daisies, Sanderi, pure white everlasting bloomer, very valuable for cut flowers, 2½-in., $5.00 per 100.

Jerusalem Cherries (Solanum), 6-in., 25c, 35c, 50c.

Aspidistras, variegated, 6-in. pots, 15c per leaf; green, 6-in. pots, 10c per leaf. Plants have from 5 good leaves upward to 10 leaves.

Cocos Weddelliana Palms, single, 3-in. pots, 15c, 18c and 20c.

Arauca Lutescens Palms, made up of 3 plants, 4-in., 20c to 25c; 5½-in., made up of 3 plants, 35c.

Cash with order, please. 25 sold at 100 rates. All plants must travel at purchaser's risk.

Kentia Forsteriana, 4 year old, 30 to 35 inches high, 6-in. pot, $1.50.

Kentia Forsteriana, 4 year old, 26 to 30 inches high, 6-in. pot, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Belmoreana, 4 year old, 6-in., 26 to 28 in. high, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Belmoreana, combination or made up of 3 plants, 3 year old, 24 to 26 in. high, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Belmoreana, 4-in., 25c; 5½-in., 50c.

Kentia Forsteriana, 4½ to 5 in. pots, 20 to 24 in. high, 30c to 40c.

Kentia Forsteriana, 5½ to 6 in. pots, 25 to 28 in. high, 50c to 60c.

Kentia Forsteriana, 5 to 6 years old, 40 to 50 in. high, $1.75, $2.00 and $2.50.

Kentia Forsteriana, 6-in. pots, made up, one large in center, three small ones around, $1.00 to $1.25.

Cineraria Hybrida, our well-known superior strain which created a sensation last Easter, 2-in., $5.00 per 100; 3-in., $7.00 per 100.

TESTIMONIALS.

When You Buy, It Pays to Buy Good Stock.

Look and see what Mr. Fred J. Michell, of that so well-known firm of Henry F. Michell Company, of Philadelphia, has got to say about our plants:

"Sept. 14th, 1912.
I have just visited the greenhouses of Mr. Godfrey Aschmann, and must say that it was indeed a great surprise to me. I have never seen a better lot of Araucarias, Ferns of all sizes, varieties and prices, Rubbers, Palms, Azaleas, and other plants in season, ready for shipment, as are at present at Mr. Godfrey Aschmann's."

Two of the Recent Testimonials.

Saskatchewan Greenhouses,

E. J. Coster, Proprietor,

(P. O. Box 75), Prince Albert, Sask., Canada.

Your shipment of Oct. 23rd arrived in first-class shape, and I beg to say I never bought such good ferns at the price in my life, and I have been buying them for over sixteen years. Now I am coming back to you for more stock if you use me as well as you have done this time.

Yours truly, E. J. COSTER.

Amount of order for ferns, $33.60.

Forest Hill, Houston, Tex., Nov. 8, 1912.

Mr. Godfrey Aschmann,

1012 West Ontario St., Phila., Pa.

Dear Sir:—We thank you for the kind attention given our last order for Palms (Oct. 11, 1912, amount $48.60). They came through in first-class shape. We also thank you for the complimentary palm. I herewith enclose draft N. Y. Exchange for $76.35 for the following order: 30 Araucarias, at 40c up to $1.50; 25 Azaleas, etc. We hope to favor you from time to time with further orders.

Yours truly, FORESDALE NURSERIES.

Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa., President; J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore., Vice-President; John Hall, Rochester, N. Y., Sec'y. Thirty-eight annual convention to be held at Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—The second annual apple show was held here November 12-16.

WEST GROVE, PA.—Chas. Dingee, founder of the firm of Dingee & Conard Co., is reported critically ill, members of the family having been called to his bedside.

OFFICIAL notice of quarantine against the gypsy and brown-tail moths, effective November 25, has been issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The gypsy moth has been discovered in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island and the brown-tail moth in Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. The plants affected are the coniferous or Christmas trees and forest plant products, field grown florists' stock, etc.

Montreal Notes.

R. W. Shephard, one of the best known fruit growers in the province of Quebec, died in the Queens Hotel in this city suddenly. He was known for the high quality of his apples, several barrels of which he sent every year to the king and queen of England.

The Montreal Floral Co. is doing a rushing business and the florists find that the company fills a long felt want. Their stock is complete at all times and is first-class in every respect.

Geo. Robinson has bought a parcel of land at the back river and will devote it entirely to the cultivation of perennials.

Maurice Wolf has shown fine taste in selecting his locality and fitting out his store, and should do a good business.

Wm. C. Hall has begun the erection of his greenhouses at his new place at Montreal west.

Boston Notes.

The trolley express mentioned last week is to be a real thing beginning December 1. The south part of the state has had it for about ten years. The western part is now to have the same advantage. At a meeting at South Framingham, Monday, November 18, in the Board of Trade rooms, the officials of the Boston and Worcester Street Railroad Co. welcomed some of the florists along their route. The rate for flowers is 30 cents a hundred weight, and 30 cents for returning "empties." They agree to take the flowers on board at places most convenient to the greenhouses and leave the empties on the return. Cars are to be in charge of a competent conductor or messenger who will be given orders that the flowers are to be handled carefully. This will be one bright spot on the growers' calendar. An early car will leave South Framingham, and in a short time we may expect to see express trolley cars between Springfield and Boston.

Penn. the florist, had a notable window exhibit recently—bunches of violets were used. Violet plants were in a clump to represent a bed with the figure of a man bent over in the act of picking the flowers from the plants. It was a great advertising scheme, and judging by the crowd around the window the novelty seemed to attract much attention.

P. Welch is away on a week's business trip.

Enchantress Supreme

THE Best Sport from Enchantress up-to-date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguishes its parent.

Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching.

A good all around Carnation that retains its color at all seasons. Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. Has shown no inclination to be a burster.

The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years duration convinces us of its great value.

THE NEW GOLD MEDAL ROSE

"Mrs. Charles Russell"

This Giant Forcing Rose is an American Seedling raised at the Waban Rose Conservatories, and has been tested in our houses for several years.

It has proved to be a strong, vigorous grower, and its freedom of bloom is remarkable for a Rose that is fully as large as an American Beauty.

Its large pointed buds, of a clear rose pink and delightfully sweet fragrance, are the admiration of all who have seen it, either growing in our houses or as exhibited by us at the different shows.

It has received high honors when exhibited at such centers as Philadelphia, New York and Boston. At the latter place the Massachusetts Horticultural Society honored it with a Gold Medal, a rare distinction from this conservative society.

Plants Will Be Ready for Delivery after March 1st, 1913.

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO., Painesville, Ohio

Books For Holiday Gifts.

The following books should be in every florist's and gardener's library. A good book on any subject in which you are specially interested is worth years of experience and should be kept convenient for reference at all times.

Send prices quoted and we send the books.

PRACTICAL FLORICULTURE (Peter Henderson).—A guide to the successful propagation and cultivation of florists' plants. Illustrated. 325 pages. $1.50.

THE AMERICAN CARNATION (C. W. Ward).—A complete treatment of all the most modern methods of cultivating this most important flower. Illustrated. $3.50.

THE ROSE.—Its cultivation, varieties, etc. (H. B. Ellwanger).—A complete guide of the cultivation of the rose, together with the classification of all the leading varieties. $1.25.

MANUAL OF THE TREES OF NORTH AMERICA (Sargent).—The most complete and authentic work on the subject. The pages number 826, with over 600 illustrations. $6.00.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY GROWING VIOLETS (Saltford).—This is by a practical grower who has made a success of the business. No grower of violets can afford to be without it. 25 cents.

OUTDOORS (McGaffey).—A breezy little book of the woods, fields and marshlands. Interesting to the lover of outdoor sports, the fisherman, hunter or botanist. Readable from cover to cover.

GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION (Taft).—It tells the whole story about how to build and heat a greenhouse, be it large or small, and that, too, in a plain, easily understood, practical way. It has 118 illustrations. $1.50.

CHRYSANTHEMUM MANUAL (Smith).—By an expert who has given his undivided attention for twenty years to the improvement of the chrysanthemum and its culture in detail. Profusely illustrated. 40 cents.

THE VEGETABLE GARDEN (Vilmorin-Andrieux).—The best and most complete book on vegetables ever published. There are 782 pages and hundreds of illustrations in this English edition, edited by Wm. Robinson, the noted English horticultural writer. $6.00.

LANDSCAPE GARDENING (Maynard).—The development of landscape art within the past few years compels the wide awake florist to keep posted on this branch of the business. The many suggestions of this book will be found helpful every business day. It contains 338 pages, 165 illustrations. $1.50.

YARD AND GARDEN (Baker). An excellent book treating on the method of making home gardens attractive. The author covers a wide range of subjects in quite an able manner and the book is full of interest for the amateur gardener; 140 illustrations, 420 pages, $2.

WINDOW GARDENING.—(Dorner.) An excellent treatise on this interesting subject telling in plain language the best methods of cultivating plants in rooms and windows. The author is a well known and practical grower. Well bound in green cloth, 153 pages and 43 illustrations, $1.25.

FUMIGATION METHODS (Johnson).—A practical treatise on cheap and effective means of destroying insect pests. Handsomely bound and profusely illustrated 250 pages. $1.00.

STEAM HEATING FOR BUILDERS (Baldwin).—Contains valuable data and hints for steam fitters and those who employ this method of heating. The 350 pages are fully illustrated. $2.50.

HEATING AND VENTILATING BUILDINGS (Carpenter).—This book covers the entire subject most fully. In the preparation of heating and ventilating plans it will be found a most valuable guide $4.00.

HEDGES, WINDBREAKS, ETC. (Powell).—A treatise on the planting, growth and management of hedge plants for country and suburban homes. A volume of 140 pages, with twenty-two illustrations. 50 cents.

THE PRINCIPLES OF FRUIT GROWING (Bailey).—The entire subject of fruit culture is treated very thoroughly in this illustrated volume of 516 pages. It is a book that no up-to-date fruit grower can afford to be without. $1.25.

HOW TO LAY OUT SUBURBAN HOMES (Kellaway).—Contains many useful hints and practical plans as to improving and laying out suburban homes and grounds. There are 112 pages, 38 half-tone illustrations and 15 plans and maps. $2.

THE GOLDFISH (Mulerdt).—A number of florists find goldfish an attractive and paying addition to their business. The best advice is given in every department of the subject, including construction and care of the parlor aquarium, in this volume of 160 pages, handsomely illustrated. $2.00.

THE BOOK OF WATER GARDENING (Bisset).—A most complete and excellent work on this fascinating subject. It is written by a thoroughly competent cultivator and is up-to-date in every particular. It contains 200 pages and 139 fine illustrations and is equally useful to the amateur and professional. $2.50.

THE ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN (Powell).—One of the most complete works we have seen on this subject for a considerable period. It is divided into three parts, the orchard, the fruit garden and cultural directions. The volume is well illustrated and the author is a practical man who knows his subject. The book contains 321 pages. $1.50.

THE GARDEN BEAUTIFUL (Robinson). Written in Mr. Robinson's unique style and a most comprehensive and excellent work; a classic in garden literature in fact. All phases of beautiful outdoor gardening are treated upon by this past master in the art. No one having anything to do with park planting, landscape work or arboriculture generally can afford to be without this fine work. English edition, finely printed and illustrated. $4.

DWARF FRUIT TREES (F. A. Waugh).—Their propagation, pruning and general management, adapted to the United States and Canada. It has 45 illustrations and 123 pages. 50 cents.

BEAN CULTURE (Sevey).—An excellent practical treatise on this important crop containing instructions on all phases of culture from seed sowing to harvesting and marketing. Profusely illustrated, 144 pages. 50 cents.

DAFFODILS, NARCISSUS AND HOW TO GROW THEM (A. M. Kirby).—Contains all that is really worth knowing about these most popular of spring bulbs, written from the standpoint of American conditions. Illustrated, 233 pages; post-paid, $1.21.

GINSENG (Kains).—At the present time, when so much interest is taken in ginseng, it will be interesting to peruse this volume, which tells all about the plant in a way that all may understand. The 144 pages are freely illustrated. 50 cents.

CABBAGES, CAULIFLOWER AND ALLIED VEGETABLES (Allen).—The requirements of the important vegetables of the cabbage tribe are given here very fully. The book also contains interesting chapters on seed raising, insects, pests and fungus diseases common to these plants. 50 cents.

THE CULTURE OF WATER LILIES AND AQUATIC PLANTS (Henderson).—Growers of hardy and tender water lilies and other aquatics will find this an excellent guide in cultural and descriptive matters. The lists of varieties have been very carefully prepared. Handsomely illustrated. 50 cents.

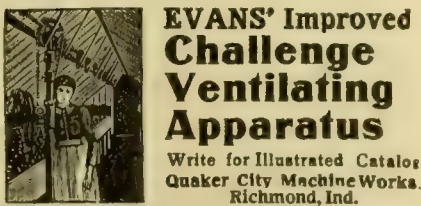

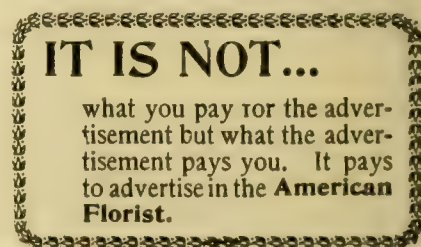

EVERYBODY'S PAINT BOOK (Gardner).—The author has given in this book easily understood instructions for painting anything from a board fence to a fine room and so well is it illustrated that almost every tool a painter needs is shown and described. The perusal of this book will save much money to those who have a bent for this kind of work. It contains 180 pages. $1.

THE GARDEN MONTH BY MONTH (Sedgwick).—A well classified list of hardy herbaceous and other plants arranged for each month in the year. Water plants, vines, ferns, foliage plants and others all have separate chapters devoted to them and a color chart is an unusual and extremely useful addition to a most carefully compiled and excellent book. Finely illustrated. $4.30.

LANDSCAPE GARDENING (Waugh).—This is a very useful little book on the art of landscape gardening. It will be found exceptionally valuable to amateurs, as it covers in detail the numerous problems that come to the owners of small gardens. It is freely illustrated and the pictures have been chosen with a view to informing the reader rather than decorating the book. 50 cents.

Mr. Felthousen of Syracuse Gives his Frank Opinion about Lord & Burnham Houses.

ALTHOUGH your estimate for material was not as low as some I received, the fact that everything comes in such A1 shape, ready for constructing, makes your house worth more, and is a saving in labor in putting it together.

I liked the first house so well that I gave you the contract for material for the second house.

For strength, durability and conditions of growing, am well satisfied with the Lord & Burnham house and would willingly recommend it to anybody who wants a strictly up-to-date house for growing any kind of stock.
